LBSC PLAN APPROVED

$60 Million Campus for 20,000 Students

By ROBERT WILCOX
Education Editor

Long Beach State College is preparing today to don its spectacular new "face of the future."

A master plan to complete the $60-million campus which was approved Friday by the Board of Trustees won quick praise from educational and community leaders.

Its highlights include:

A concrete public plaza topped by a nine-story faculty office building.

A new entrance from Seventh Street centered on the south edge of the campus.

A three-level student union building cut into a 45-foot hillside.

A "campus square" of student facilities, including a 10,000-seat amphitheater.

A quarter-mile-long "fraternity row" stretching along Atherton Street at the north edge of the campus.

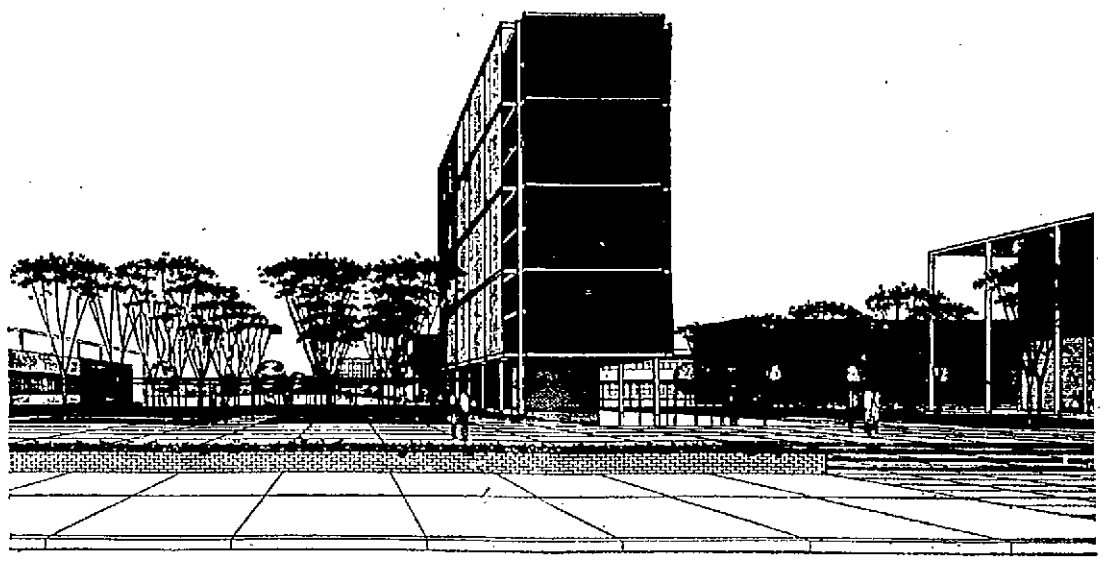

The master plan—the college's first since a 5,000-student version adopted in 1952—is the result of two years of effort by the consulting architects, Killingsworth, Brady, Smith and Associate, "so that the completed college will have the appearance of a total building program rather than one of parts."

* * * *

THE PROPOSAL anticipates a 20,000-student enrollment which college officials estimate is due some time after 1970. Present enrollment is about 9,000.

Handsome masonry pylons will mark the wide new campus entrance which provides direct access

Deny Top Cuba Red Wounded

HAVANA (AP) — Carlos Rafael Rodriguez, one of the top Communists in the Cuban government, has been shot and severely wounded in an assassination attempt, an informed source reported Saturday.

Prime Minister Fidel Castro's regime denied the report. The official Cuban information agency said it had "been authorized to deny the reports of the alleged assassination attempt ... as being without foundation."

Rodriguez, boss of Cuba's powerful National Institute of Agrarian Reform, was said to have been hit by four bullets in the leg and thigh last Wednesday.

* * * *

(THE COLUMBIA Broadcasting System in New York quoted its Havana correspondent as saying Rodriguez was in a hospital and that a specialist had been summoned to treat him.)

An attempt to kill Rodriguez was made on Sept. 12, 1961, as he returned by car from Matanzas Province. He escaped unhurt.

FATAL ERROR

Black Leopard Kills Zookeeper

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—A black leopard escaped into a safety enclosure behind its cage at the San Diego zoo Saturday and fatally mauled a veteran zookeeper as several horrified spectators watched.

Witnesses said the 125-pound cat named Jet took one swipe at James Tuttle, 35, Encinitas, ripping off his left ear and opening an artery in his neck. Tuttle, a senior keeper and 10-year zoo employe, died en route to the Naval Hospital.

After the lightning attack, the big cat started down a path in Cat Canyon toward the public area of the zoo but Augie Campos, a zoo employe, grabbed a bamboo pole and forced the animal back into his cage.

* * * *

"I KEPT hitting at his eyes," Campos said. "Finally the leopard backed into his own cage and I slammed the door."

Dr. George Pournelle, curator of mammals at the zoo, theorized that Tuttle apparently threw the wrong lever among the several regulating the movement of animals from cage to cage. He said Jet would not be destroyed.

Frank Bonnet, a chief zoo security officer, said Tuttle was feeding animals when the attack ocurred.

"I don't think he saw it coming," Bonnet said.

* * * *

A CORONER'S deputy said Tuttle suffered a severed carotid artery and a possible broken neck.

Other zoo officials carrying drawn revolvers ran to the aid of Campos. Some of the many visitors at the zoo heard the leopard's savage growls but only a few were aware of the fatal attack.

The leopard is a nine-year-old male born in Griffith Park Zoo in Los Angeles. It was brought here in 1954.

Corruption Probed in 22 States

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Justice Department is investigating alleged corruption of public officials in 22 states and has dug into reports of attempts to fix professional and amateur sports events, the White House announced Saturday.

The disclosures came with the release of Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy's report to the President on the 1962 activities of the criminal division of the Justice Department.

The report said the division, headed by Asst. Atty. Gen. Herbert J. Miller, increased racketeering prosecutions last year by about 300 per cent over 1961 and 700 per cent over 1960. Convictions were up by more than 350 per cent over 1961 and almost 400 per cent over 1960, it said.

THE enactment of legislation in 1961 to curb interstate gambling operations proved very effective last year, the attorney general said, but he added:

"Nevertheless, betting on sports events particularly

Tshombe, Bank's Currency Missing

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Between $10 and $20 million is missing from the National Bank of Katanga in the Congo, authoritative sources said Saturday. They said the multimillion loss—in Congolese and Katanga francs from the bank in Elisabethville — has jeopardized the country's monetary system. One source called it "the great Katanga bank robbery."

However, U.S. sources were careful not to accuse Katanga President Moise Tshombe of theft. But it was noted that when Tshombe left Elisabethville earlier last week, he had "an unusually large amount of baggage."

There was speculation, but no authoritative confirmation, that the money might be in Kolwezi, where Tshombe might be heading.

Discovery that the cash was missing from the bank vault prompted a search in both Africa and Europe, an attempt to locate the European-based printing facilities for the Katanga francs, and a speed-up in previously scheduled efforts to integrate currency of secessionist Katanga and the central Congolease government.

Officials were known to be concerned about the possibility of inflation if the money is not located.

Although the sources referred to it as a "robbery," they said it was conceivable there might be another explanation.

"The money is supposed to be in the vault according to books of the bank," one source said. "The money may turn up some other place but it certainly is not in the bank where it is supposed to be."

* * * *

THE SOURCES, authoritative and highly reliable, asked that they not be identified. But U.S. officials confirmed, in response to questioning, that the U.S. government and the United Nations in New York had been informed of the situation and were concerned. But these and other monetary officials declined to discuss the situation.

The reason for the concern was that the bulk of the money had not been in circulation. An infusion of a large amount of currency into the monetary system would raise the threat of inflation by reducing the value of the francs.

One question raised in official circles was the possibility that Tshombe had financed his well-paid mercenary force and airplane purchases by printing extra money.

Freeze Predicted Here Tonight

MORE WIND FORECAST TODAY

By RALPH HINMAN JR.

Today's weather in Long Beach is expected to duplicate Saturday's—sunny but cold and very, very windy.

The same storm now deep-freezing many Middlewestern and Eastern states should do its worst here tonight, however, with a low of 30 forecast.

Winds of up to 40 m.p.h. were recorded Saturday afternoon at Long Beach Municipal Airport and today's breezes probably will be no slower.

Trees throughout many parts of the city were broken or felled by arctic blasts. One of these downed giants, at the home of Beryl Hall, 3502 Magnolia Ave., posed a question for the woman:

"What'll I do now to get rid of it?" she asked sorrowfully.

Many homes near Santa Ana and in the San Fernando Valley were briefly without electric power as 60-m.p.h. winds blew down power lines.

Citrus growers were warned that temperatures of 20 could be expected during the night in some wind-sheltered areas.

A lighter note in Long Beach: late in the afternoon many residents, seeing heavy black smoke clouds hanging over St. Mary's Hospital, feared the worst.

But fire hadn't broken out.

The hospital was shifting from natural gas to oil in case gas supplies were curtailed and this caused the fearsome cloud.

Fishing fleets and individual vessels bore much of the brunt as gale warnings went up from Port Hueneme to Pt. Dume, small-craft danger signals

Icy Wave Kills 33 in Nation

By United Press International

Winter's fangs slashed the nation from coast to coast and border to border Saturday, delivering deep snow, high winds, sleet, freezing rain, thunderstorms and death-dealing cold.

The storm death toll rose to 33.

The icy air knifed through to the Mexican Border and the Gulf, threatening a hard freeze for the Rio Grande Valley's $50 million citrus and vegetable crops and bringing cold wave warnings to southern Arizona, further jeopardizing produce supplies already curtailed by last month's Florida freeze.

* * * *

IT WAS so cold in Texas it was "like breathing razor blades," the Dalhart police dispatcher said. Salt Lake City, Utah, had a high of 4 degrees, coldest daytime temperature in the history of the city.

The temperature hit 60 below zero in a section of Montana and the U.S. Weather Bureau said, "It cannot get much colder than this."

Up to a foot of snow covered the Midwest and drifts closed highways in Wisconsin. Sleet and freezing rain glazed highways from West Virginia to Massachusetts. Highway travel was a bad dream from the Rockies to the Atlantic.

Below Zero readings were reported in every Western state. The temperature dipped into the 30s in Los Angeles' suburbs.

A hard freeze followed Dixie thunderstorms which spawned tornadoes in Mis-

Rumor Knowland May Run in 1964

By JAMES McCAULEY
I. P-T Sacramento Bureau

SACRAMENTO — Some Republican lawmakers are hinting that former Sen. William Knowland may try to win back his old Senate seat in 1964.

Sen. Clair Engle captured that seat in 1958 after the disastrous Republican musical-chair game in which Knowland ran for governor, forcing ex-Gov. Goodwin Knight to try for the Senate. Both Republicans lost — Knowland by one million votes.

Asked for comment, Knowland said: "I have no plans at this time to reenter public life." Pressed for clarification as to whether he had discussed the possibility with anyone, Knowland said: "I've given it no consideration at this time."

* * * *

KNOWLAND did not slam the door completely shut on the possibility of running for the Senate in 1964, however. He qualified each of his answers by saying: "Not at this time."

Knowland said he wasn't trying to be coy. But he made it plain he wasn't going to make a "Sherman-like statement" about anything. (It was William Tecumseh Sherman who said: "If nominated, I will not run. If elected, I will not serve.")

Several factors triggered the speculation about Knowland.

Prior to 1959, Knowland occupied the Senate seat Engle now occupies. In 13 years in the Senate, Knowland was both majority and minority leader.

And of the GOP's fallen giants since the 1958 Democratic blitz, Knowland was the only one who showed up at a meeting in Fresno last month of the State GOP Executive Committee. That is where the rumor started.

* * * *

IN FRESNO, Knowland spoke for a few minutes about rebuilding the party. And despite the 1958 fiasco, Knowland got standing applause. Another factor that could point in Knowland's direction is that one U.S. Senate seat traditionally goes to the north, one to the south. Sen. Thomas Kuchel of Anaheim just was reelected — nailing down the southern seat for another six years.

The north-south tradition could rule out a bid by Joseph C. Shell, former GOP minority leader in the Assembly, as Shell lives in Los Angeles. Some Southland legislators are speculating Shell may bid for the nomination anyway.

Mayor George Christopher of San Francisco also has been mentioned as a possible GOP contender for Engle's seat.

Progress in News Walkout

NEW YORK (AP)—Both sides in the city's longest and costliest newspaper strike Saturday night relaxed the stands they had held since before the newspaper blackout began on Dec. 8.

But at the close of several hours of joint negotiations, neither side would accept the compromises made by the other as a solution to the labor dispute.

However, Federal Mediator Stephen I. Schlossberg, said "we think this was an important day. We think real progress was made here today."

* * * *

JOINT TALKS brought about at the urging of a fact-finding panel which blamed the International Typographical Union for the strike were recessed until further notice.

Bertram Powers, head of the printers union, said that although the publishers had made some "slight changes" in their offer, his membership still felt the terms were "wholly inadequate."

L.A.C. Says:

The Way Your Property Taxes Grow

The explosion over the suggestion that the Metropolitan Transit Authority could assess county property to build a rapid transit system can be useful. There is little doubt about the need for such facilities. They would relieve traffic on freeways and are essential to the growth predicted for this area in the next 10 years. But, how the over $600 million is to be collected, raises many problems.

First, is the question of permitting any appointive body to levy property taxes. Second, is the question as to how high these taxes can be raised without discouraging home owners and location of new industries in the areas so taxed. Third, is the question of any large capital expenditures—by local and county governments without a vote of the people.

Property taxes on the home of one of our friends have increased just about 100 per cent since 1955 when it was purchased. It is doubtful he could sell the property for any more today than he paid for it. Thus, it costs him twice as much in taxes as it did eight years ago. Tax rates have not increased materially for this period—but assessed valuation has, which accounts for the increased taxes.

It may be that all property values in this area should increase if we had a rapid transit system over the county. It would mean many Los Angeles city workers and executives would make this their home and commute to other parts of the county. But, should property owners pay for this service—or should it be collected from sales or some other consumer tax system? It is hard to justify using gasoline road taxes for a mass transit system. It would be supposed to reduce, rather than increase, the sale of gasoline and furthermore, gasoline taxes are already 25 to 30 per cent of costs.

It may be retailers might be opposed to an increased sales tax. But if it applied to all sales in the county it would not affect any particular area. They might well compare this system with that of the ever-increasing tax on the property they occupy—which is a cost of doing business for them—whereas the sales tax is paid by the consuming public—of which about 65 per cent are also property owners in this county.

The county supervisors are vigorously opposing the governor and MTA in their plan to permit the MTA to arbitrarily assess a property tax. It is doubtful such a program will have a chance of passing the Legislature this year. The supervisors' opposition is based on permitting such a bond issue or taxation without a vote of the people.

This does not solve the problem of rapid transportation. That must be provided if our freeways are not to experience continuous overcrowding. That problem cannot be solved by ignoring the immediate need for such planning. This will call for some form of government subsidy, because it cannot be financed out of revenues alone. The question, therefore, is, How will this subsidy be provided—by property or some other taxation means?

The MTA issue is only one of many increases in state, county and local expenditures that are facing us in the near future. The easy way out is to place the added taxes on property. But that is also a sure way to discourage the development and ownership of property. It is essential that a new approach be made to financing large capital expenditures. But the only way to hold down unnecessary expenditures is to continue the people's right to vote on them.

The MTA-suggested system is a challenge. It is essential to the future growth and welfare of this county. It should not be considered an unnecessary obligation but rather one that must be undertaken. The only question is, what form of taxation will be used? Elimination of the property tax factor might gain support for it that otherwise would defeat the entire project.—L.A.C.

McCormack Hit by Labor Revolt

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Speaker John W. McCormack struggled desperately Saturday to quell a labor-backed revolt by a group of rank-and-file Democrats against the party leadership's first big decision of the 88th Congress.

The revolt was aimed at upsetting efforts of the leadership to assign a conservative Georgia Democrat—Rep. Phil M. Landrum—to a vacancy on the powerful House Ways & Means Committee.

The fight will be settled, probably by secret ballot, at a caucus of House Democrats Monday morning.

* * * *

BOTH SIDES believe the outcome could have a significant effect on the future course of legislation. But they differed in their appraisals.

Pro-labor liberals opposing Landrum contended that it was wrong to assign a conservative to a committee which was life-and-death powers over such vital New Frontier issues as taxes, medicare for the aged and unemployment compensation.

Landrum, who incurred labor displeasure for his co-authorship of the Landrum-Griffin Labor Reform Act of 1949, already has given assurances in private talks with some pro-labor Democrats that he would not use his vote on the committee to help keep Kennedy's medicare program bottled up.

* * * *

INFORMANTS said that Landrum would make further concessions shortly before the showdown vote. These concessions, they said, would be announced at the caucus.

Democratic House leaders argued privately that if Landrum were defeated, it would be a serious blow to President Kennedy's program. They said the net result would be to make it difficult, if not impossible, for them to gain broad support needed from Southern Democratic moderates and conservatives to win approval of closely-contested Kennedy bills.

They warned that Kennedy's program would be hit with a backlash of resentment by Landrum's supporters.

* * * *

McCORMACK was trying to put Landrum on the committee as a reward for the vote supplied by Georgia Democrats in the administration's victory over conservatives who had sought to capture control of the legislative machinery of the House.

Landrum is one of three contenders for two vacant Democratic seats on the Ways and Means Committee. The other two, who have labor and liberal backing as well as support from some conservatives, are Reps. Ross Bass, Tenn., and W. Pat Jennings, Va. McCormack was backing a slate of Landrum and Bass.

Meredith Denies Shift to College for Negroes

OXFORD, Miss. (UPI)—Negro student James H. Meredith termed "inaccurate" a report in Saturday's Memphis Commercial Appeal that he might transfer back to Jackson State College, a Negro institution, after he completes the present semester at the University of Mississippi.

The Commercial Appeal said sources indicated Meredith had already applied for a telephone in an apartment near Jackson State, which he left to enter Ole Miss last fall.

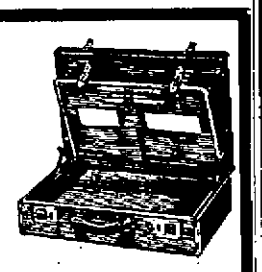

The paper said this might be a prelude to his re-entering Jackson State.

Meredith said last Monday he would not register for the second semester at Ole Miss unless the atmosphere became "more conducive to learning."

But he declined to disclose any other plans. Examinations start here Jan. 17 and run until Jan. 25. Registration for the next term is Jan. 31.

Meanwhile, Meredith remained on campus, apparently studying for examinations.

JFK Lists Education Aid Tops

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy Saturday described aid education as a top domestic issue and said that although his administration has not been as successful on this matter in Congress as it might have been "we're going to stay at it."

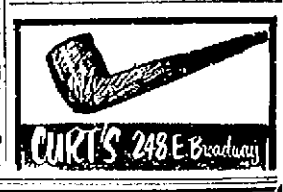

Kennedy, addressing 50th anniversary ceremonies of Delta Sigma Theta, a Negro sorority, said "we want our citizens to be the best educated in the world, and it can be done. . ."

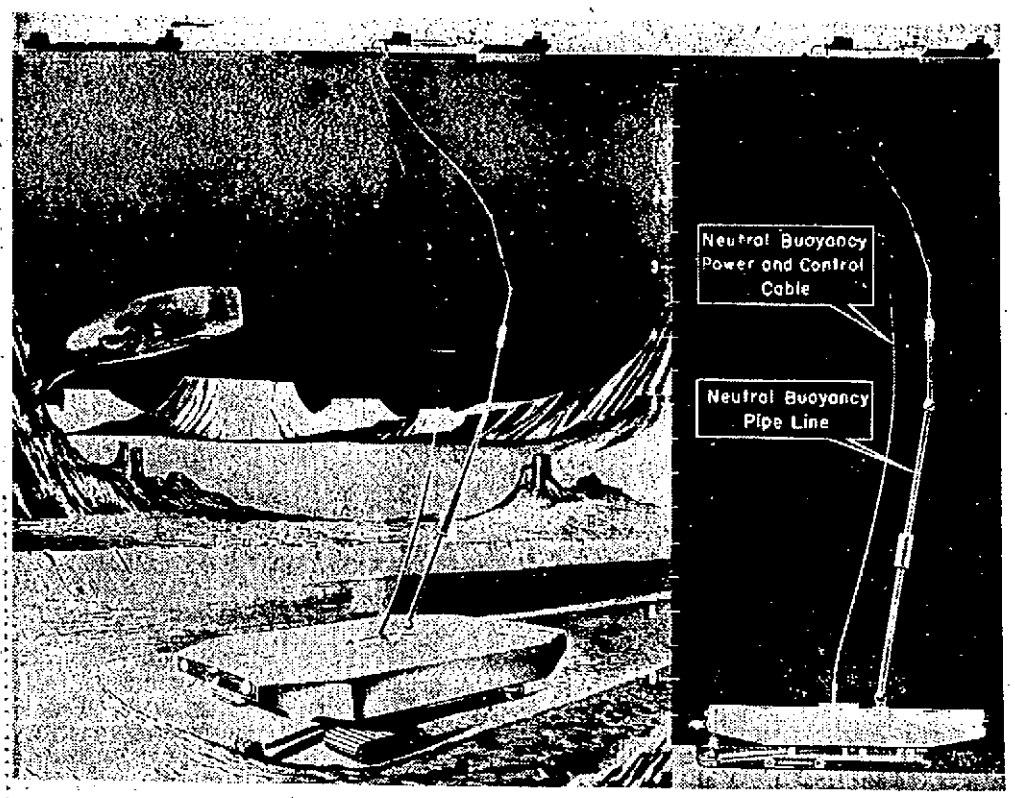

He said that during the present decade more than 8 million young men and women will be pouring into the labor market without adequate preparation.

The President made an impromptu appearance at the sorority's anniversary luncheon at a hotel and was greeted by with applause by sorority members.

The group was founded at Howard University here in Washington in 1913. The White House said it undertook a great deal of public service work and now has 25,000 members. It is headed by Mrs. Jeanne I. Noble of New York City.

In addition to his talk to the sorority, Kennedy spent part of the morning working on the State of the Union message he will deliver to Congress in person Monday.

HERE ARE DRAWINGS of the USEAD-M-90-D, an unmanned, tractor-driven dredge for mining the ocean floor at depths down to 15,000 feet. The device was designed by Fenelong A. Brock of Long Beach.

DESIGNED BY L.B. EX-NAVY OFFICER

Machine to Mine Sea Floor

By LOU JOBST
Marine Editor

A Long Beach man has designed an undersea machine he believes can recover vast riches from the ocean floor.

The device, known as USEAD-M-90-D, is an unmanned, tractor-driven dredge which will be able to operate on the sea bottom at 15,000 feet.

It is the brainchild of Fenelon A. Brock, a retired anti-submarine warfare expert aand professional engineering graduate of Annapolis.

* * * *

BROCK believes the M-90 can be built for $750,000.

The M-90 is the result of 2½ yeears of work and is one of two revolutionary undersea craft designed by Brock for his firm, Fenbro Associates. The other is a deep exploration ship similar to the bathyscaphe Trieste.

Brock, who lives at 43 Bonito Ave., says the underwater mining machine is merely the consolidation of several proven components into a single new system.

* * * *

THE 90-foot dredge operates like the bathyscaphe, a craft which took two men seven miles down to the deepest ocean floor. It uses kerosene-filled tanks for buoyancy and 20 tons of pellets as ballast.

The M-90 is controlled and supplied with electrical power through a neutral buoyancy line and dredged material is to be carried through a buoyant, 12-inch pipeline which employes an ingenious arrangement of artificial air pressure and natural ocean pressures to force the materials to the surface.

* * * *

BROCK believes the M-90 can pump material to ships and barges on the surface at the rate of 500 to 700 tons an hour. He admits, however, that the system can only be proven by actual sea trials. The M-90 will employ such proven systems as underwater television, automatic pilots, water immersed engines and water lubricated bearings. It can be adapted for exploration work, underwater research and construction as well as mining, said Brock. It could even be manned if necessary.

Brock says there are vast mineral riches to be got from undersea mining by men with the vision to take the gamble. Scientists say the ocean floor is covered with a layer of magnesium nodules, some of which weigh up to 1,700 pounds each. The University of California estimates that there are 17 trillion tons of these nodules in the Pacific alone.

RESEARCHES of the International Geophysical Year—who found the nodules—also believe there are vast deposits of cobalt, nickel, coal, iron and about 16 billion tons of copper under the sea.

Underwater mining already is a reality, says Brock. The Yawata Iron and Steel Co., of Tokyo is taking 30,000 tons of iron ore out of the sea each month, the Collier Carbon and Chemical Corp., has taken a federal lease on 30,000 acres of ocean bottom off Southern California to mine phosphorite, a mineral used in fertilizer, and Shell Oil Co., is mining submerged gold in Alaska, while the Marine Diamond Corp., is taking diamonds from the sea off South Africa.

"It is almost impossible to demonstrate the M-90 in a laboratory," said Brock. "The efficiency of the ore lift, for instance, remains to be proven, but I will stake my reputation on it."

This reputation includes 22 years of sea command, ship construction and antisubmarine work in the Navy and five years experience as an industrial specialist for the International Telephone and Telegraph Co., and his own firm.

Rising Losses of Copters, Crews in Viet Nam War Stir Criticism

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—A rising toll of U. S. helicopter crewmen and aircraft in the war against Viet Cong guerrillas has brought American helicopter tactics under review. Bodies of the seven latest victims were recovered from an island in the Mekong delta Saturday.

Of 53 Americans killed so far in a year of supporting South Viet Nam's armed forces 23 were killed in helicopters. Many others have been wounded.

Sixteen helicopters have been destroyed, either as a result of Communist action or in accidents. Nearly all the 144 or so operating in South Viet Nam have been hit at last once by ground fire and many have been forced down temporarily.

* * * *

THE MEKONG delta crash that killed seven American crewmen Friday night was attributed to mechanical difficulty. Three other helicopters had been forced down by mechanical difficulty in the same 24-hour period.

U. S. Army service crews are having increasing maintenance problems. American military leaders believe more helicopters are sorely needed. But nearly all the trained and equipped helicopter units the United States can spare are already in South Viet Nam.

"Remember, this kind of warfare is brand new," a high-ranking military spokesman said. "We have to do some experimenting and we're bound to make some mistakes. But let's not forget how much helicopters have accomplished here."

Five of the helicopter companies in South Viet Nam are equipped with the obsolescent Vertol H21. Nearly all of these aircraft are nearing the end of their recommended flying lives.

* * * *

THE SIKORSKY H34 also is used for troop-carrying missions. The H34 is more powerful than the H21 and is considered a better aircraft. But only the one Marine Corps helicopter company in Viet Nam is equipped with the H34.

The Vetrol company has ended production of the H21, so presumably no more of these will be sent. Sikorsky is turning out the H34 again, and another company of choppers is slated to come to Viet Nam when it is trained and fitted out.

The U. S. Army flies turbine-powered HU1A and HU1B escort helicopters in Viet Nam to protect the troop carriers, knocking out ground fire with rockets and machine guns. Pilots call the escort craft "the Cadillacs of combat helicopters." But some of these also have been destroyed.

RUSSIAN VICE

Underground Disc Factory Closed Down

MOSCOW (UPI)—A Russian vice squad uncovered a clandestine record company recording Western-style music in a vast underground studio in Leningrad, Radio Moscow reported.

The report said officials shut down the operation, which had pressed records on the "Golden Dog" label for "big profits."

Monsoon Downpours Ravage Indonesia

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—Monsoon downpours have caused floods through wide areas of West Java, driving more than 20,000 persons from homes and destroying nearly 10,000 homes, Antara News Agency reported Saturday. There was no report of casualties.

150 Fishermen Taken off Floe

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—About 150 ice fishermen were rescued Saturday from a floe in Lake Erie after spending at least 3½ hours on the floating ice about 50 yards from shore, the Coast Guard reported.

Four other fishermen were taken off a concrete water intake in the lake by the Cutter Tupelo. They were marooned after a large chunk of ice parted from the shore. There were no injuries.

Lt. Gov. Anderson Speaks on Civil Rights

California's lieutenant governor Saturday in Compton called for a four-point program to end all forms of racial and religious discrimination in California.

Speaking before the Compton Council on Human Relations, Glen M. Anderson gave his full support to Gov. Brown's antidiscrimination program, listing the following steps:

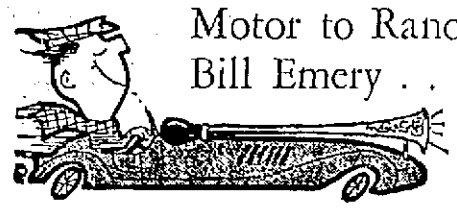

Ratification by California of the federal antipoll-tax amendment.

Expansion of the State Fair Employment Practices Commission into a human-rights commission, with authority to move against discriminatory practices in housing.

More instruction in the public schools on the American heritage of equality and the Bill of Rights.

Implementation of the State Board of Education's recent position against de facto segregation in California schools.

Anderson asked all citizens to join the state in achieving harmony and social justice for all elements of the population.

'WHAT'LL I DO NOW?'
Miss Beryl Hall of Long Beach had problem on hand Saturday when tree was blown down by wind in front of her car on the 3600 block of Denver Avenue. High winds Saturday upset trash barrels, blocked traffic on highways in addition to uprooting trees.

between Pt. Concepcion and the Mexican border.

In Long Beach and Los Angeles harbors alone, at least eight fishing vessels were bobbing helplessly as crewmen cut themselves adrift to keep from being smashed against piers.

"This has created a major headache for us all up and down the coast," a Coast Guard spokesman said.

Meanwhile, a Coast Guard cutter rendezvoused off Pyramid Cove on San Clemente Island with a disabled fishing vessel. Earlier another boat crashed and sank at that spot.

* * * *

OFFICERS at Long Beach said the skipper of the sunken craft managed to scramble onto the rocks and later was picked up by a rescue boat from a naval station on the island.

The second craft, a 24-footer, was shipping water after its steering mechanism broke and propeller was cut away.

The island, 50 miles south of Newport Beach, has been battered by high waves and strong winds since early Friday.

At Cabrillo Beach, the 100-foot motor schooner Crusader dragged her anchor and was drifting toward shore when a tug passed her a line and towed her off. Owner of the ship, Calvary Church of the Full Gospel, is outfitting her for a missionary voyage.

WITH blowing sand completely obscuring visibility in many areas, the California Highway Patrol late in the day closed four highway routes to campers and house trailers: These were:

U.S. 101-alternate from Los Angeles city limit to Ventura County line; U.S. 66 in the Cucamonga-Fontana area; U.S. 60 near Ontario-Redlands; U.S. 70-99, Ontario-Colton area.

An indirect fatality of the storm was three-year-old James W. Downey, of 1721 S. Evergreen St., Santa Ana.

Police said the son of James and Judy Downey was playing at a neighboring apartment house when strong wind blew open a door to a swimming pool. Mouth-to-mouth resuscitation failed to revive the lad after he fell into the pool.

FOREST officials reported fire hazards in mountain and foothill areas will be "very high to extreme" for the next three days. Zero humidity was reported in some areas.

At the highest elevations, ski conditions were described as all but nonexistent. Patchy snow dotted the ground at such resorts as Big Bear and high winds made downhill trails extremely hazardous. Saturday's low temperature at that 6,750-foot spot was—1.

WORLD NEWS BRIEFS

No Secrets Told, Pentagon Says

WASHINGTON (AP)—A published report that a Soviet study of U.S. military strength had fallen into American hands brought from the Pentagon Saturday the suggestion that the material appeared to be a book sold commercially. Officials said it includes no material considered secret by the United States.

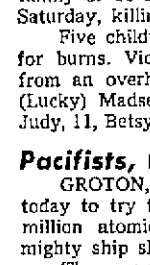

The Omaha World-Herald, in a dispatch from its Washington office, described some of the details in what they said was a "vast and comprehensive study of United States military strength prepared by the Russians." The newspaper said it contains supposedly secret information.

In answer to questions, the Pentagon said it was aware of no official Russian document which fitted that description.

But, a spokesman said, it was possible the reference was to a 600-page book which went on sale in Russia, 1962, called "Military Strategy." It was prepared by a V. D. Solovsky and was translated recently by the U.S. Air Force, the spokesman said.

JFK Thanks Aide in Cuba Talks

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy, in a letter released today by the White House, has voiced his "very greatest appreciation to John J. McCloy for service to the nation during "the difficult negotiations on the Cuban affair."

McCLOY

McCloy headed a special U.S. team which dealt with the Russians at the United Nations and finally came to a settlement.

McCloy worked with Adlai E. Stevenson, U.S. ambassador to the U.N. and the State and Defense Departments. Kennedy said his work had been most valuable.

Comic Newhart Weds Virginia Quinn

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Comedian Bob Newhart, 33, and Virginia Quinn, 22, daughter of actor William Quinn, were married Saturday. The ceremony was performed at St. Victor Roman Catholic Church, West Hollywood, by the assistant pastor, the Rev. Brian Kane.

Seven Rescued From Burning Ship

PROVINCETOWN, Mass. (AP)—Seven fishermen, trapped on the bow of their burning ship, were rescued before dawn Saturday by a Coast Guard helicopter minutes before an explosion wrecked the 96-foot craft. None of the crewmen was injured.

U.S., Russia to Talk Disarmament

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States and Russia will open special talks on a nuclear weapons test ban and perhaps other disarmament issues in New York next Monday afternoon, the State Department disclosed today.

FOSTER

The United States will be represented by William C. Foster, director of the U.S. Disarmament Agency. Russia will be represented by two ambassadors, H. E. Fedorenko, envoy to the United Nations, and Semyon K. Tsarapkin, a top Soviet disarmament expert.

U.S. officials said Britain was advised of the plan for the two-power talks, and will be kept informed of their progress.

Parents, 3 Children Die in Fire

BONANZA, Utah (UPI)—A cabin that was home for a family of 10 burned to the ground in 25 below zero cold Saturday, killing two parents and three children.

Five children, aged 8 to 14, survived and were treated for burns. Victims of the fire, which apparently started from an overheated stove, were Mr. and Mrs. Marion R. (Lucky) Madsen and three children. The youngsters were Judy, 11, Betsy Lou, 4, and Sammy, 3.

Pacifists, Rain, Fail to Halt Launching

GROTON, Conn. (UPI)—Rain and pacifists showed up today to try to hamper the christening of the huge $110-million atomic Polaris submarine Nathan Hale, but the mighty ship slid down the ways to join the Atlantic Fleet.

The new submarine was the sixth of the Lafayette class to join the fleet. The seventh, the John Adams, was also launched Saturday at Portsmouth, N.H.

JFK Crosses Fingers on Fate of Program

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy apparently is keeping his fingers crossed about the fate of his legislative program in Congress, despite his victory in the House Committee fight.

Kennedy has told those who have discussed the political situation with him he believes the chances for passage of controversial proposals he makes may have improved somewhat in the Senate but are about the same in the House as they were in 1962.

Another decision important to the President will come Monday when House Democrats caucus to determine who fills two places on the powerful Ways and Means Committee—which holds the key on presidential tax plans and other administration goals such as medical care for the elderly.

* * * *

THREE MEN are seeking the two places—Reps. Phil M. Landrum of Georgia, W. Pat Jennings of Virginia and Ross Bass of Tennessee. The real contest seems to lie between Landrum and Jennings with the former uncommitted on medicare and the latter favoring the President's Social Security approach, in principle.

Public congressional activity Monday will center on the President's State-of-the-Union Message to both houses. He is to deliver this in person at 12:30 p.m. EST. (9:30 PST). As usual, it is expected this will be couched in general terms with specific recommendations reserved for later, special messages.

In the Senate, preliminaries probably will be carried out for a prolonged fight over the Senate filibuster rule. Motions to change the present rule and make it easier to curb filibusters are expected to be offered.

* * * *

SOUTHERN opponents of any change in the present rule—which requires a two-thirds majority of those voting in order to limit debate—already are organized to filibuster against it. However, the actual debate is not likely to start until Thursday.

But it could run on for days, or even weeks, once it starts.

The President was represented as surprised by his margin in the 235-196 vote by which the House decided to continue its rules committee at the 15-man level. Nominally, this is expected to produce 8-7 votes in the traffic-directing group to send major administration proposals to the House floor.

There is some thought in Congress that Democratic leaders may have done too good a job in rounding up support for a move Kennedy said would determine whether his program was to get a hearing or would be shunted aside by a 12-member committe controlled by Republicans and conservative Southern Democrats.

There may be a tendency by Democrats who back the administration only when they are put under heavy pressure to point to the 39-vote margin as indicating their help isn't needed on individual measures they want to oppose.

Five Bids Made on Superplane Study

WASHINGTON (AP) — Five companies or combinations of companies submitted bids to the space agency this week for advance research on a 2,000-mile-an-hour commercial airliner.

The offers were for studies based on four tentative configurations, or general shapes, of supersonic transports, as developed by the Langley Research Center, Langley Air Force Base, Va., and the Ames Laboratory, Moffett Field Calif. Both are agencies of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Proposals were received at Langley from the Boeing Airplane Co., Seattle; North American Aviation, Los Angeles; Lockheed, Burbank, Calif.; General Dynamics Corp., Fort Worth, Tex.; and a team composed of Douglas Aircraft, Santa Monica, Calif., Republic Aviation, Farmingdale, N.Y., and McDonnell Aircraft, St. Louis, Mo.

Langley conducted wind-tunnel studies of the various shapes at simulated speeds of two to three times the speed of sound or 1,200 to 2,000 miles an hour.

NASA will select, later this month, the winner of the contract to study the various kinds of engines, fuels and subsidiary systems the different aircraft designs might best employ.

U.S. Watches Reds' Huddle in E. Berlin

By WALTER T. RIDDER
Chief I, P-T Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — With particular intensity those here who deal with Russian affairs are watching the East German Communist Party convention which will be held this week in East Berlin.

Star of the show will be Nikita S. Khrushchev who is arriving at the conference with a vast horde of advisers. Khrushchev is technically only head of a "fraternal delegation" to the conference, the chairman of which is East Germany's Communist leader, Walter Ulbricht. However, it is obvious the Russian will dominate the proceedings.

* * * *

THE UNANNOUNCED but main topic for discussion at the conference will be the latest cold war—that between Russia and Red China. American experts are anticipating that an open break between the two countries may be in the offing. Khrushchev is therefore doing his best to line up his satellites and to make sure they stay on his side of the ideological fence when, and if, the break comes.

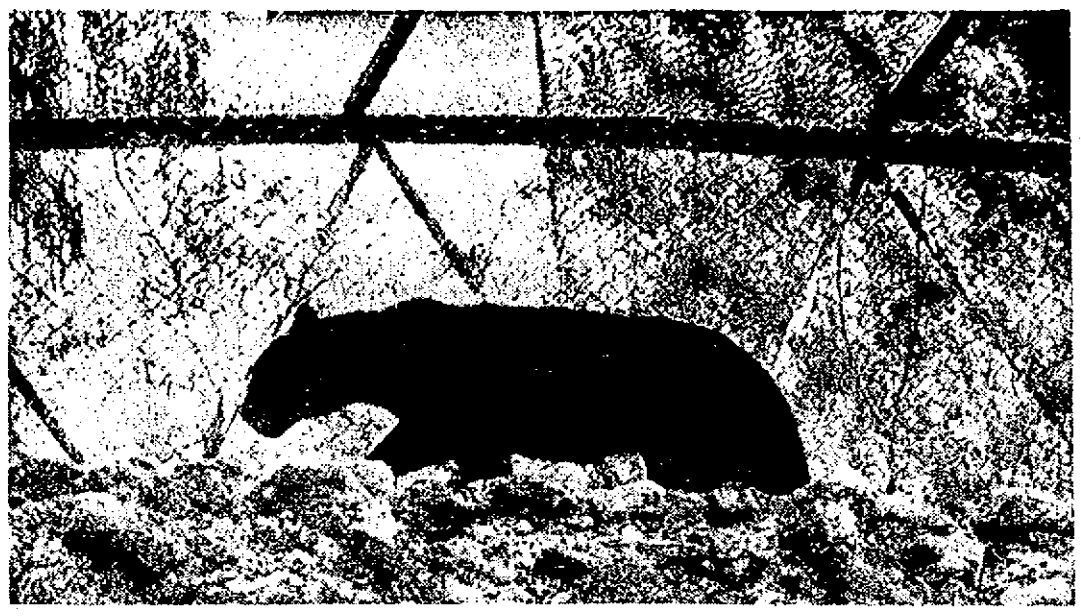

Khrushchev had not originally intended to be at the East Berlin show. He put the trip on rather hurriedly and equally hurriedly made up a train schedule which had him stopping off for a couple of day in Poland to hold talks last Thursday and Friday with Poland's Communist boss, Wladyslaw Gomulka. The suspicion in Washington is that Khrushchev is busy arranging for purges in the satellite Communist parties, ridding them of those who follow the old Stalinist and the current Red Chinese line.

* * * *

IF THERE IS a momentary slackening in the U.S.-Russian cold war, as there now appears to be, this is because Khrushchev probably is more concerned now with Red China than he is with the capitalist world. The heavy verbal shelling between the Soviets and the Chinese have put the Communist world into a ferment and the parties everywhere are seething and writhing in the vicious internecine strife.

The Red Chinese will be represented at the East Berlin conference. However Khrushchev is taking no chances. He has them woefully outnumbered. He is bringing with him his ideological experts, his theorists, and his propagandists. Among those accompanying him are the editors of the two Russian news services and the editors of the two leading Russian newspapers. Khrushchev intends to make sure that his story is told and told fast and that his men will be present everywhere to combat whatever argument and propaganda may be spread by the Red Chinese.

It should be quite a show, but no matter what happens the great and unresolved question will still remain: is the fight between the Russians and the Red Chinese good or bad for the free world? To that one, no one yet knows the answer.

Nikita, Gomulka Talk in Pole's Camp David

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Premier Khrushchev and Polish Communist chief Wladyslaw Gomulka prepared to break camp Saturday. They have been relaxing for two days in the Polish north woods and presumably discussing the Peking-Moscow dispute.

The Soviet leader is en route to East Berlin, where he will be the star of the East German Communist Party Congress next week.

Official information on Khrushchev's activities was withheld. But there was lively speculation that Gomulka was undertaking to mediate in the Soviet - Chinese Communist ideological quarrel that is expected to be aired at the Berlin Congress.

* * * *

THE TWO leaders donned fur hats, coats and boots to walk and hunt in the snow-covered woods of their "Polish Camp David."

The name was applied to the Gomulka - Khrushchev meeting place north of Warsaw by a Pole who recalled the Soviet premier's 1959 meeting with President Eisenhower at a secluded lodge at Camp David, Md.

Khrushchev and the Polish Communist leader were said to have bagged three lynxes and several wild boars. They were reported at a two-story lakeside villa at Lansk, south of Olsztyn (former Allenstein, East Prussia).

Atomspheric Test

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Air Force said it will drop a 9-foot inflatable sphere from an altitude of 160 miles in mid-February to test atmospheric density. The experiment will be conducted at Elgin Air Force Base, Valparaiso, Fla.

grunt. There were no screams," was the description of a 14-year-old boy gave of an attack that cost the life of a San Diego zoo attendant.

The boy, Rich Adams of Arcadia, said he watched the silent struggle for a moment, then got up courage to climb a fence and run up a hill to the rear of the cage where James Tuttle, 35, was being mauled by the animal.

"The cat had the man down and was chewing on his face," Rick said. "I thought, 'oh, God, he's dead.'"

ANOTHER attendant, Augie Campos, 32, heard the boy's scream for help.

"The panther had Tuttle down and was shaking him by the back of the neck," Campos said.

Italian Doctors Halt Strike on Red Tape

ROME (UPI)—Italy's 83,000 striking doctors called off their 48-hour strike at midnight Saturday but threatened to walk out again in the near future in protests against low fees and government red tape.

The doctors maintained emergency service with skeleton staffs but said the strike was effective.

It was called to emphasize demands for a slash in paper work connected with the treatment of patients under health insurance and medical assistance organization programs. About 90 per cent of patients treated fall into these categories.

'Quit Berlin,' Izvestia Tells West

MOSCOW (UPI)—The government newspaper Izvestia said Saturday night that Western troops should leave West Berlin and a peace treaty be concluded with East Germany. It said West Berlin must become a city of peace instead of danger.

No threats were made and no deadlines set.

Western observers here cited the newspaper comments as still further evidence of a Soviet diplomatic drive for a Berlin settlement. They predicted the issue will share the spotlight with the expected airing of the Sino-Soviet dispute at the East German party congress opening in East Berlin Tuesday.

EX-CONVENTION CHIEF

Jones Joins Staff of The Breakers

HOWARD JONES
On Hotel's Board

Appointment of Howard Jones, former manager of the Long Beach Convention Bureau, as vice president and director of the Breakers International Hotel was announced Saturday by Fred A. Miller, president and owner.

Jones, who will direct the hotel's sales, public relations and community-relations activities in the executive post, has become a stockholder in the hotel.

* * * *

"SELECTION of Jones for this new key position gives the Breakers International a top-level team to serve our Long Beach and Southern California residents," said Miller. "With our current remodeling program nearly completed and additional improvements contemplated in the near future, we are now able to offer the finest in rooms, food and service and look forward to a bright and successful future serving the Long Beach area."

In accepting the new post, Jones stressed his confidence in the future of Long Beach. "Our city is entering its brightest era. Such events as the coming World's Fair, growth of our great harbor, new recreation attractions, commercial and industrial activity and other factors will do much for Long Beach. It will be a challenge and pleasure to continue to participate in its growth."

* * * *

JONES SERVED nine years as manager of the Convention Bureau. He previously held key positions with the Chamber of Commerce and Community Chest.

He is a member of Rotary Club, Advertising and Sales Club, past president of the California Association of Convention Bureaus, former president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce and a director of the Children's Home Society. He has lived here since 1932 and resides with his wife and family at 651 Ultimo Ave.

Rescue of Skybolt by De Gaulle Hinted

By ELIE MAISSI

PARIS (UPI) — The air-launched Skybolt missile, abandoned by the United States and Britain, may find a new champion in President Charles de Gaulle, reliable reports said Saturday.

Qualified military sources said that, from a purely military view, France prefers a Skybolt-type nuclear deterrent system to the Polaris which is fired from a submerged submarine.

The French military believes that a fast plane equipped with a medium-range missile carrying a small nuclear warhead might be more adaptable to French needs. De Gaulle is expected to touch on the Polaris question at his Monday press conference.

* * * *

THE 1,500-mile-range Skybolt, meant as Britain's chief independent nuclear deterrent, was scrapped as too costly by the United States after several test failures. The Polaris will be given instead to Britain and it has been offered to De Gaulle.

(In London, Sir Arthur Harvey, chairman of the ruling Conservative Party's Parliamentary Defense Committee, said upon return from the United States, Skybolt was scrubbed "largely on political grounds. It was certainly not for technical reasons. The missile behaved as planned and was only 42 days behind schedule after two years of planning.")

A high-ranking French expert told UPI that while U.S. defense requires a long-range nuclear submarine to reach West European shores before firing the Polaris, European countries such as France do not have the same problem. Their needs are for faster, shorter-range means of delivering a nuclear punch.

French experts believe the position of submarines at the beginning of any conflict probably would be known to the enemy through radar and radio monitoring. Thus, they could easily be tracked and destroyed.

* * * *

THE IDEA of a plane traveling at twice the speed of sound with a nuclear warhead in a missile would allow aircraft to be in the air and beyond the range of detection at zero hour.

Objections raised in Washington and elsewhere against the Skybolt system have been taken into very serious consideration by French experts, the sources said.

One thing the experts admit is against the system is the question of controlling and guiding missiles after they are launched from a fast plane.

The experts said this was probably the reason why the French have not yet taken any firm decision either way.

Air Fleet Moves Men for NATO

FT. RILEY, Kan. (UPI)—A four-day switch of some 3,000 crack infantrymen between here and NATO forces in Germany is slated to begin today, using a 13-plane fleet of Air Force C135 transports.

The movement, called Operation Long Thrust VI, is a continuation of air mobility reinforcement of NATO forces. A 1,500-man battle group will be sent to Germany and a similar unit returned.

The Military Air Transport Service planes are to pick up the troops at Forbes Air Force Base near Topeka, Kan., and fly non-stop to Rhein-Main AFB, Frankfort, Germany. It will require 20 roundtrips, nine hours going and 11 hours returning, to complete the mission.

* * * *

BESIDES switching the two reinforced infantry battle groups, the exercise will transport some 24 tons of gear and equipment to Germany. The unit moving to Germany, Task Force 28, is commanded by Col. Joffre H. Boston of Bowling Green, Ky. The unit returning is Task Force 12, commanded by Col. Thomas J. Clary of Philadelphia.

Task Force 12 moved to Germany last summer in a similar exercise. Part of the time was spent in intensive field training in West Germany and part as the NATO garrison in West Berlin. Another unit from here, Task Force 13, replaced 12 in Berlin.

Both units are moving without their heavy equipment, which remained in Germany.

Japanese Catch 500 Antarctic Blue Whales

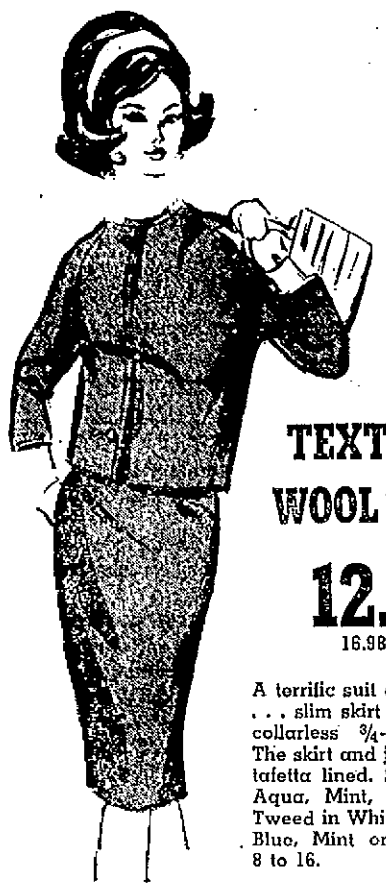

TOKYO (AP)—Japan's seven whaling fleets—the world's largest—got off to a favorable start in the Antarctic this season.

Informed sources said Nihon Fisheries Co. hauled in more than 500 blue whales in the first four week, in addition to other kinds of whales. The season began Dec. 12.

The firm harvested a little less than 350 blue whales in the corresponding period of the previous season.

Japan is allowed to catch 41 per cent of the total ceiling of 15,000 under an agreement signed by the five nations that operate in the Antarctic —Britain, Norway, the Netherlands, the Soviet Union and Japan.

PROPOSED CENTRAL ENTRANCE to Long Beach State will be located on Seventh Street immediately east of the administration building instead of on west side as at present. So-called Loop Road terminates at college plaza and swings back. Nine-story faculty office building is in background.

to the administration buildings on its west.

The entrance connects with a new "loop drive" which swings to and from the plaza and the nine-story Language Arts office building, described as the "theme structure" of the campus. The present entrances will be reduced to single lanes—one for entrance and the other for exit.

* * * *

STATE COLLEGE Drive, which separates the upper and lower campuses, will be closed, excluding automobiles from the central academic area.

Situated east of the present library, the plaza is described as "the heart of the public portion of the campus." The theme building hovers over a large reflecting pool with sculpture and fountains. The plaza's east face is enclosed by a 2,500-seat auditorium, and a colonnade connects the theme building with the library and auditorium.

* * * *

TO THE immediate northeast is a large quadrangle, criss-crossed with walks and designed to be one of the most important pedestrian areas. Sculpture, pools, fountains and art works are planned.

The campus square, student heart of the college, would encompass the existing bookstore and cafeteria, plus the student union, amphitheater and a promenade.

The tree-lined, 60-foot-wide promenade extends from the present physical education building on the north to the existing library on the south. It will provide the main campus entrance route from parking lots for 9,000 student cars in the south section. Parking for 1,000 cars of faculty and administrators is provided in the north and central portions.

* * * *

"THE PROMENADE interlaces the campus square and quadrangle and is developed to give heart and personality to the campus," said architect Edward Killingsworth. The wide hillside features planting areas as well as large terraces for conversational groups.

Further trustee approval is necessary for the Atherton Street "fraternity row," which also would be open to sororities and other cooperative housing groups. The question of constructing fraternity and sorority buildings on campuses has not yet been resolved.

ADDITION OF dormitories in the area of the present two will bring the housing capacity to 5,000 students.

The master plan provides for other new construction in many areas of the college, including a general services building at the administration center.

In the music section, a 34,000-square-foot radio-television building and a practice-rooms building are projected. An 80,000-square-foot addition is planned in the science complex.

* * * *

EXPANSIONS also are provided in the engineering industrial arts, language arts, home economics, psychology and physical education centers. Working drawings have been approved for a $550,000 health building, and the corporation yard will be enlarged by 100,000 square feet.

First additions to the campus, besides the health center, will be an addition to the physical education department and a speech-arts classroom building and faculty office. Construction of the entrance and plaza have high priority in the future, Killingsworth said.

Tshombe, Currency Missing

THE UNITED NATIONS earlier took over the bank. An audit found that one billion Congolese francs and a large amount of Katanga francs were missing. One source said "hundreds of thousands" of the latter were unaccounted for.

NDOLA, Northern Rhodesia (UPI)—Katanga President Moise Tshombe left here by plane today and it was believed he was heading for his stronghold of Kolwezi.

Tshombe fled from his capital of Elisabethville to this Northern Rhodesian town early this morning because he said he still feared arrest despite United Nations guarantees of his safety.

He told a news conference he planned to go to Kolwezi Monday and would return to his capital "shortly," without specifying when.

Then, later in the day, he slipped out a back entrance of his Ndola hotel, drove to the airport in a small private car, boarded a chartered plane and took off in the direction of Lusaka, capital of Northern Rhodesia.

* * * *

BUT IT WAS believed Tshombe's actual destination was Solwezi, a town in northern Rhodesia not far from the Katanga border. From there he was expected to board a Katanga plane to return to his secessionist province and his key stronghold at Kolwezi.

His sudden flight from Elisabethville during the night followed the arrival there of 60 Congolese national army men and the presidents of the upper and lower houses of the Congolese parliament, both his bitter enemies.

(British sources in London said the flight was a "complete surprise." And a U.N. spokesman in New York said Tshombe had not forfeited his position as provincial president by his latest flight.

(Furthermore, the spokesman said Tshombe had been given no firm deadline by the U.N. to take his secessionist province back into the Congo, an indication he still had time to make his peace with the U.N. if he can work things out with his Congolese foes.)

25 U.N. Delegates Make Harbor Tour

By JIM HYNES

United Nations representatives from four continents toured Long Beach Harbor Saturday on a private yacht and the consensus could be summed up in one word: magnificent.

"Long Beach," said delegate Anis Hassan from Iraq, "must be one of the richest cities in America to boast such a beautiful harbor as this."

Adding to the harbor's beauty was a multitude of whitecaps whipped up by a strong wind which swept through the city all day.

* * * *

MORE THAN 25 ambassadors and delegates with their hosts from the United Nations Association chapters from the Los Angeles area enjoyed the two-hour tour sponsored by the Long Beach Harbor Dept.

Dr. Andre Akakpo, ambassador from the African nation of Togo, which gained independence from France in 1960, was one of the more lavish in his praise of Long Beach and the harbor area.

"In two days," he said, "I have seen things that my people will have a hard time believing even though they will see it on the film I have taken."

* * * *

TOGO, A NATION of more than one million persons situated on the west coast of Africa adjacent to Ghana, has no major harbor facilities.

Only two representatives of Iron Curtain countries made the tour. Both Ladislav Smid, Czechoslovakia, and Miso Pavicevic, from Yugoslavia, were reserved in their comments.

Delegates from the USSR, the Ukraine and Hungary spent the day touring Los Angeles with their hosts, a spokesman for the harbor department said.

Algerian Group Visits in Cuba

HAVANA (AP)—An Algerian delegation Saturday began an official visit to Cuba.

A spokesman told its Cuban hosts Algeria hopes "to profit from your experiences and theory so that the Algerian people may . . . start the scientific construction of socialism." The Algerians are guests of Cuba's Institute of Friendship With People.

remains a major problem.

"In both 1962 and 1961 we investigated reported attempts by gamblers to fix professional and amateur athletic events.

"Federal responsibility in this area is limited and further legislation might well be necessary.

"We will continue, however to take action under present authority should it be required."

* * * *

QUESTIONED about this portion of the report, a department spokesman declined to say what sports were involved, whether the investigations still are under way, or what legislation might be proposed.

The attorney general said the corruption of public officials is "probably the most damaging of all uses to which racketeers put their illicit profits."

"We have exerted particular effort to expose and prosecute such official corruption — in Newport, Ky., Lake County, Indiana, New York City and elsewhere," he said.

Revamped Army to Be Heavily Gunned, Fast

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army will start within a few weeks to reshape its regular divisions into the most heavily-gunned and most maneuverable in U.S. history.

The changeover, first in seven years, will be gradual and may take the better part of two years to complete.

Fourteen infantry, armor and airborne divisions in the United States, Germany, Korea and the Pacific will be revamped. Only one division at a time will be reorganized in each area to minimize disruption.

The Army's two newest divisions—the 1st Armored at Ft. Hood, Tex., and the 5th Infantry at Ft. Carson, Colo.—were organized under the new concept from the ground up. Their performance in field testing "demonstrated convincingly the soundness of the new division structure," the Army said.

BLARNEY SO GOOD IT'S CANNED

EMMETSBURG, Iowa (AP) — They've started manufacturing Blarney again and you can buy a can today.

The Chamber of Commerce of this northern Iowa community is getting ready for its annual St. Patrick's Day parade and celebration.

The Blarney is packed in orange juice cans wrapped in green and white bunting.

Included in the first shipment was a case for President Kennedy, O'Kennedy for the occasion.

Or maybe the Chamber announcement is just so much Blarney.

The Blarney they're manufacturing is air.

Reno Brothers Help Pay for Church in Italy

GENOA, Italy (AP) — Two Nevada brothers whose money made every resident of their father's Italian village relatively rich two years ago were reported Saturday to have donated $10,000 for a new church.

Residents of San Marco D'Urri, a mountain hamlet 25 miles northeast of here, said they had word that Joseph and Victor Saturno of Reno have deposited the money in an American bank to help pay for a church that San Marco D'Urri plans to build.

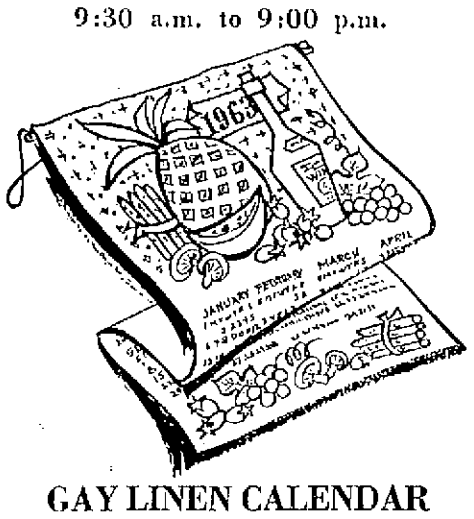

Victor, 64, and Joseph, 72, gave about $40,000 worth of Bank of America stock to the 284 residents of the impoverished village in 1959. That worked out to about $1,200 a villager.

The Saturnos' father, Leopoldo, had been an orphan raised by a San Marco family.

L.B. Freeway Billboards Prevent Beautification

By DON KIRLKLAND

The weed-lined, paper-littered Long Beach Freeway won't be "prettified."

Not soon, anyway. Maybe never.

That's the word from the State Division of Highways, which regularly raps the knuckles of cities refusing to ban freeway billboards by similarly refusing to make any esthetic improvements along the monotonous expressways.

Long Beach, apparently, is getting the knuckle treatment.

"We simply won't beautify the freeway unless the cities show us they want beautification," said one state official. And "beautification," it seems, doesn't include billboards.

Long Beach councilmen three years ago defeated a proposal which would have barred billboard advertising from freeway routes. Renewed study by the Chamber of Commerce and the Planning Commission prompted a redrawn ordinance, however, and councilmen will be asked to pass on it next month.

Even with approval, though, there's not much chance you'll see blossoming shrubs and flowering eucalyptus on the slopes of yonder freeway.

Here's why:

The state blends its freeway landscaping with adjacent property, at the same time hoping to curb erosion, inhibit fire, discourage weeds and perform a variety of functions necessary to proper maintenance.

If the adjacent land contains attractive homes, the state may be inclined to install shrubs, grass and trees to complement the surroundings. But when it is fronted by junkyards, industrial property and farmland—as is much of the Long Beach Freeway—then the state installs minimum landscaping and calls it quits.

Therefore, passage of a city ordinance banning billboards might arouse little hope in a community-wide campaign to stamp out ugly freeways.

Richard Folkins, billboard section supervisor for the maintenance department of the state highway division, says he sees little change of Long Beach Freeway beautification in the near future. "There's just nothing proposed," he says.

Landscaping a freeway can cost as much as $100,000 a mile, Folkins says, and it seems unlikely the state has a large enough budget to undertake such an expenditure here.

So here's the best answer yet:

Stick to the streets in Long Beach. If you're obsessed to drive the freeway, do it in Pasadena. They've got freeway bridal bushes, acacia trees, flowering shrubs and oleanders.

And no billboards.

Williams to Challenge Romney in 1964 if JFK Wants Him to

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Democractic Gov. G. Mennen Williams said Saturday he is willing to run against Michigan's Republican Gov. George Romney in 1964 if President Kennedy considers the governorship more important than his present State Department assignment.

Williams, assistant secretary of state for African affairs, made his comment on the 1964 Michigan governorship possibility in an interview for the Detroit News.

* * * *

WILLIAMS indicated he is willing to take on Romney in the 1964 governorship race "if the occasion would arise where I would be most able to carry the Democratic banners in Michigan and it was more important to work there than in Africa."

Williams, who served as Michigan's governor for six terms before being named to the State Department post in 1960 by Kennedy, added: "This would be something maybe the President would decide."

Political observers said a governorship race between Williams and Romney would vie for national attention with the presidential election in 1964.

SUCH A campaign probably would make or break whatever political ambitions the two men might have for 1968.

Williams gained the Michigan governorship in 1948 and proved invincible in winning five additional terms.

When he stepped out for the State Department post, Williams gave up the governor's chair to Democrat John B. Swainson. Romney defeated Swainson in last November's election.

Judge Opens Hospital to Ousted M.D.

PECOS, Tex. (UPI) — Dr. John Dunn, controversial physician fired from the staff of the Reeves County Memorial Hospital, was ordered restored to the hospital staff Saturday in an order filed in district court.

Judge W. E. Ward of El Paso said in a court hearing Saturday that he would issue a temporary injunction insuring Dunn full use of the facilities in the Pecos hospital.

But Ward's order as filed with the court clerk said Dunn's "termination of hospital privileges ... is hereby set aside and held for naught as being void."

Dunn, a member of the John Birch Society, insisted the reason he was fired was politics. The president of the hospital's board of managers said it was for malpractice and harassing nurses and politicians.

Dunn turned Billie Sol Estes in to the FBI in February, 1961, suggesting the government look into Estes' anhydrous ammonia (fertilizer) tank dealings.

3 Terrorists Fire U.S. Plant in Venezuela

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—Three terrorists held employes of a U.S. Rubber Co. tire warehouse at gunpoint Saturday while they fused incendiary bombs. Then they fled, authorities said, while the building went up in flames.

Warehouse manager Graham Rainbow said losses were substantial. No casualties were reported.

Terrorists have struck frequently at U.S.-owned installations, as well as public and private buildings. The Venezuelan government blames the campaign mainly on leftists.

Ex-Rep. Saund Sent to UCLA Hospital

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Former Rep. Dalip S. Saund, who represented Riverside and Imperial counties, has been moved from San Diego Naval Hospital to UCLA Medical Center in West Los Angeles, it was disclosed Saturday.

Saund, 62, has been hospitalized since he suffered a stroke May 1 while flying to Washington, D. C.

WATER INJECTION BRINGS $15.3 MILLION OIL RETURN

LBOD Production Increased 20 Per Cent in '62

By GEORGE WEEKS

Water injection in the harbor section of the Wilmington Oil Field paid big dividends last year in oil and money.

Production by Long Beach Oil Development Co., the city's contractor, increased 20 per cent in 1962—to 11,132,000 barrels from the 1961 figure of 9,265,000 barrels.

The net return to the city—to be devided equally with the state—rose by an even greater margin, 76.3 per cent. It was $8,688,000 in 1961 and $15,325,000 in '62.

City Auditor Murray T. Courson compiled the figures on the basis of actual results in 1961 and the first nine months of 1962, plus estimates for the final quarter of last year.

* * * *

COURSON, former chief accounting officer for the Harbor Department, said the production increase could be traced to nothing but the injection program. Oil output in the harbor district had been declining before the city and private companies initiated the repressuring.

The disproportionate increase in city profits was attributed to two other factors—a slight rise in crude oil prices and a decrease in production expenses as injection costs declined.

The latter was more important, Courson said. He estimated total expense last year at $7,278,000, against $9,905,000 in 1961, a difference of 26.5 per cent.

* * * *

LBOD'S overhead allowance—its share of the profits—amounted to $3,819,000 in '62 and $3,140,000 in the previous year.

The city's other tideland oil contractor, Richfield Oil Corp., did not show comparable results, although there were slight gains last year both in production and net profits.

Courson pointed out that production in the Richfield parcel east of the Los Angeles River started some 10 years after the start of the LBOD operation. The effects of secondary recovery were thus less dramatic.

Comparative figures from the Richfield contract were:
Production, 1962—3,788,000 barrels; 1961—3,767,000.
Net to city, 1962—$5,099,000; 1961—$5,052,000.
Total expenses, 1962—$3,293,000; 1961—$3,106,000.
Overhead allowance, 1962—$527,000; 1961—$512,000.

Beach Combing
With Malcolm Epley

WHAT next from the resourceful and imaginative young music students among the readers of this dept?

Inspired by the exchange with one jr. high girl the other day about the pitch of the foghorns here, now comes another who wants the telephone company to adjust its dial tone so it can be used for instrument tuning.

Writes Ann Gardner, a student at Hamilton Jr. High:

"Many instrumentalists have in their homes no practical means to tune their instruments before practice. This is vital to string players, especially if they don't have perfect pitch.

"I should like to make this plea to the telephone company: The dial tone in this area is slightly off b natural. I see no logical reason why this tone could not be lowered one whole step to an a. The high-pitched sound you receive when you dial 1 and certain other numbers is also a b natural a few octaves higher (slightly off.) This tone should be lowered one half step to a b flat.

Ann says she explained her proposal to a telephone company man. "He didn't know a thing about music and thought I was completely out of my mind," she reports.

Shame on him! What a tremendous public relations idea—a phone company that fixes its dial tones so its musician customers can use it to tune their instruments!

THIS is, as some may already know, the 75th anniversary of Long Beach's incorporation.

A Chamber of Commerce committee is pondering a celebration, possibly something pretty big, for along in the fall. A decision will be made soon.

Meanwhile, it seems to me, individuals, firms and organizations might initiate some ways of recognizing the diamond anniversary of the city. Not all recognition must be organized or follow some official pattern.

Letterhead printings, school programs, club programs, class work ideas, etc., could reflect the significance of the year to our city.

It's early in the year, but if we don't get busy, it'll be over before we get the proper recognition under way.

THE other night six young people of the area, some students and some employed, were riding on Ocean Blvd. when they saw six lieutenants from the French Navy — a Navy training cruiser was in port.

The Long Beachers all live in the same apartment house. They responded to a whim, stopped and invited the Frenchmen to their place. The girls whipped up a scrumptuous chicken dinner. The boys dragged down furniture from their apartments.

Everybody had a wonderful time — especially because the Frenchmen couldn't speak much English. On the following day the local folk took the visitors for an auto trip to see the sights of the area and Hollywood.

There was no special reason for all this—just a spontaneous people-to-people good-will program. The Frenchmen were astounded at the American friendliness. They had never been here and had only seen some of our miserable movies.

Local participants included Joseph and Howard Atkinson, Dennis Albert, Pamela Meyers, and Gloria Meyers. In one evening they did more for international good will than the U.N. has done in many a month.

OUR paper is represented by one of our circulation dept. alumni in the Assembly delegation from this area now in Sacramento.

He's William A. Dannemeyer, new Democratic Assemblyman from Fullerton. He worked for our circ. dept. some years ago, both in the L.B. office and in the Orange Co. Area. With pride.

$15-Million Harbor General Hospital Dedication Slated

Ceremony Scheduled on Monday

By BEN ZINSER
Medical-Science Editor

The new Harbor General Hospital, a 607-bed county-operated facility built and equipped at a cost of $15,400,000, will be dedicated at 10:30 a.m. Monday.

More than 500 civic officials and dignitaries have been invited to attend dedication ceremonies.

The new eight-story hospital, located just east of the existing facility quartered in 100 wooden buildings, is on Vermont Avenue between Carson and 220th streets in Torrance.

* * * *

FULLY air-conditioned, the complex features a two-story outpatient clinic equipped to handle 9,000 patients a month. Another two-story wing contains one of the largest hospital laboratories in the nation.

The building is elevated on columns at the first floor to form a colonnade, enabling patients and visitors to enter both the public and admitting lobbies from their automobiles.

* * * *

TRAVERTINE walls and terrazzo flooring are featured in the main lobby. Basic interior colors alternate from floor to floor—green, yellow, two shades of beige—and contrast with bright accent tones.

Electronic controls, some of the most advanced ever installed, are another feature. Warning lights on the engineer's electronic control panel and the telephone switchboard will blink in case of fire anywhere in the building. They also will blink in case of failure of the ventilating system in operating or delivery rooms, or if pressure should drop in the building's extensive pipeline system for oxygen.

The 450,000-square-foot structure was planned and designed by architects Welton Becket, Adrian Wilson, Paul R. Williams and Francis J. Heusel.

NEW HOSPITAL TO OPEN
Mrs. George C. Billips, member of volunteers auxiliary at Harbor General Hospital, tries out mirror on specially designed overbed table in the new Harbor General Hospital, Torrance. Increase in County Fees for Golf, Parks Requested

L.P-T Los Angeles Bureau

Increases in fees for a variety of county park and recreation facilities, including greens fees on county golf courses, will be recommended Tuesday to the Board of Supervisors.

As proposed by N. S. Johnson, director of parks and recreation, green fees at all county golf courses will go up Feb. 1.

Weekday play on the 18-hole courses would be raised from $2 to $2.50 and weekend and holiday rounds would go up from $2.50 to $3. The monthly ticket would be raised from $12 to $15.

* * * *

AFTERNOON fees on weekdays would go up from $1 to $1.25 and for weekends and holidays, from $1.25 to $1.50.

On the nine-hole course, the weekday fee would go from $1 to $1.25 and the weekend-holiday fee, from $1.25 to $1.50. Student rates would go from 50 to 75 cents, while the monthly ticket would rise from $10 to $12.50.

No change in the 60-cent weekday and 75-cent weekend fees at the "pitch and putt' course recently opened is proposed.

* * * *

JOHNSON said the increases are an attempt to make the golf courses self-supporting.

Also proposed are increases in fees, effective Feb. 1, for use of facilities such as clubhouses, swimming pools and park areas. Existing fees were set in 1957, Johnson said.

Swimming pool charges for children under 12 would be raised from 15 to 25 cents, making the cost 25 cents to all persons under 18. Adult rates would go from 30 to 50 cents.

* * * *

A NEW FEE of $3 an hour will be established for park use by dog obedience classes.

Use of community buildings or auditoriums, which for the first four hours, is $3 an hour for less than 100 persons and $3.75 for 100 persons or more would be increased to $3.75 and $4.75. Beyond four hours, the fee would go up from $4 an hour to $5 an hour.

Similar increases also are proposed for use of kitchens, equipment, bleachers and patios.

Sheldon Picnic

The Sheldon, Iowa Picnic Club will hold its annual indoor picnic from noon to 5 p.m. today in Silverado Park Clubhouse.

City Asks Report on Transit Tax

The City Council's Legislative Committee will meet at 3 p.m. Monday in City Hall to study proposed state legislation to aid the construction of a rapid transit system by the Metropolitan Transit Authority.

Chairman Emmet Sullivan called the meeting in response to a council request for a prompt report on the legislation, including power for MTA to levy a property tax of not more than 15 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

One result of the legislation, according to MTA officials, would be to enable the agency to complete a Long Beach-Los Angeles line in time for the 1967 World's Fair.

The City Bureau of Franchises, which was asked to study technical details of the transit system, will meet at 9:30 a.m. Monday.

Longshoreman Gravely Burned in Hotel Room

A 68-year-old Long Beach longshoreman, badly burned when his cigarette set fire to his hotel room, was in serious condition at Kaiser Hospital in Torrance Saturday.

Police said Nels J. Johnson was discovered unconscious Saturday on the floor of his room in the Marleton Hotel, 144½ Long Beach Blvd., after hotel manager Robert E. Goux and a passer-by, Michael Snelling, 19, of the USS Kearsarge, kicked in his locked door. Snelling had seen the flames in Johnson's room from the street.

Johnson was given emergency treatment at St. Mary's Hospital for second- and third-degree burns on his face, chest and both arms. Firemen who extinguished the blaze said Johnson apparently fell asleep while smoking.

The fire damaged the rug, curtain and blinds in the room.

RELIEF IN SIGHT FOR HUNTINGTON BEACH

They Have Classes in Street

By BOB GEIVET

HUNTINGTON BEACH—They've got school in the street here — and everywhere else there's any room.

The elementary school system, unable to build classrooms fast enough, is using anything it can to house the youngsters, and is fast running out of space.

By early next month, however, there will be some relief—it will be king-size relief for harried teachers and administrators.

By then, John R. Peterson School at 20661 Farnsworth Lane will be ready for occupancy, and it will have a first-day enrollment of at least 629.

That many pupils already are in classes—everywhere.

* * * *

THERE ARE seven classrooms set up in First Baptist Church at Sixth Street and Orange Avenue, opposite City Hall. They roped off the street—and that's the children's playground.

There are three classrooms in Recreation Center, 17th Street and Orange Avenue—where there's a built-in playground.

And the Huntington Beach Elementary School plant set up 12 classrooms in the teachers' lounge, in the health offices, on the stage and everywhere else there's room for some desks.

Administering a school with that many pupils scattered in so many places isn't easy. Superintendent Peterson, for whom the new school was named, assigned Miss Betty Funkhouser to the task.

She figures that by the time the John R. Peterson School is ready, it will have a lot more kids than the 629 already enrolled. But there will be room for them—something there isn't enough of now.

Prestige Is More Than Being Loved

WHAT IS THE ESSENCE OF national prestige?

Does prestige depend on hurting nobody's feelings, obtaining everybody's approval, and compromising every issue?

Or does a nation gain prestige by ignoring opinion polls and acting as principle and good sense dictate?

THE ISSUE OF PRESTIGE was much debated in the 1962 presidential election campaign, with candidate John Kennedy contending that American prestige had declined under the administration of Dwight Eisenhower. There was even an elaborate and detailed survey kicking around which purported to show which countries liked us and which did not and why. Before the campaign ended, many Americans had reduced Mr. Kennedy's charge to an unfortunate oversimplification — that it is bad national policy to do anything which will displease other nations.

PRESIDENT KENNEDY NOW makes it quite clear that he did not mean any such thing or, if he did, has changed his mind.

In a discussion with newsmen recently in Palm Beach, Mr. Kennedy indicated that the United States will follow a vigorous, determined, and independent foreign policy which may at times step on other people's toes. He said he thought that "too often in the past we have defined our leadership as an attempt to be rather well regarded." But, he added, "The fact is you can't possibly carry out any policy without causing major frictions." The United States, he said, "ought to be more aware" of the fact that "we are going to incur at intervals people's displeasure."

SOMETHING HAS MADE a very strong impression on the President's mind, and no doubt that something was the obviously profound impact which his actions in the Cuban crisis exerted on friends and foes alike. Some nations complained that they had not been consulted, some complained that the action was precipitate, but the result was general admiration and respect. America found out again what prestige really is.

IT IS AMAZING THAT after the many lessons furnished by American history, Americans had to learn all over again that national prestige comes from having strong policies of principle and acting upon them with vigor. But brainwashing can erase reason. We had been led to believe that it is immoral to be independent, that the object of foreign policy is to radiate a sweet personality, and that principle does not matter as long as we are loved. Let's hope the President's statements mean that the period of delusion is at an end.

Old Guard Got Its Lumps in GOP Tilt

By Our Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — ALMOST EVERYONE is putting this interpretation or that onto the apparent rebellion which occurred in Republican ranks last Tuesday. The "Old Guard" definitely got its lumps, but those who pulled it off put forth two disclaimers:

First, they say, it definitely was not an attack on the leadership of Charles Halleck. Here is the gentle way one of them put it:

"We just gave him notice that he'd have to do a better job — or else."

Second, they wish to avoid the designation "Young Turks," which is the way they are being described, and with some sarcasm. The bulk of the rebel forces was composed of House veterans. The man they chose to head the Republican conference — Gerald Ford, Michigan — is 49. The instigators are mainly of the mid-forties and fifties.

The effort was made to give the articulate majority of the Republican House delegation — both conservatives and liberals — a voice in policy decisions, to force its leadership to take stands on issues in the House even when defeat is certain.

An example of the failure to stand, or to present alternative positions to Democratic legislation, occurred last year during the scrap over medicare. A group of Republicans put together a bill which recognized the problem, but which presented a different approach. But it came to the floor without Halleck's blessings and, in fact, after he had pulled the rug out from under them.

THE ANONYMITY of American Vice-Presidents has long been a standard joke. There was the old one on the vaudeville circuit which told of the mother who was lamenting the fates of her two sons. "One went to sea," she said, "the other became Vice-President of the United States — and NEITHER has been heard of since." The latest version of this runs that Lyndon B. Johnson is about to make an appearance on "What's My Line?"

FRANCIS BIDDLE, FORMER Attorney-General of the United States, has been engaged in writing a rather lengthy autobiography. The first volume, "A Casual Past," appeared a couple of years ago. The second volume, "In Brief Authority," was just recently published. The other day Biddle made a speech before a women's group here in Washington in order to plug his new book. The chairlady in introducing him was generous in her praise of his book, but she kept talking only about the first volume. Obviously she hadn't realized that Biddle was present to boost his book which is for sale, not the one which is out-of-print.

1963 Session of Legislature Off to a Partisan Beginning

I. P-T Sacramento Bureau

SACRAMENTO—The 1963 Legislature is off to a highly partisan start, and veteran observers say the Democratic-Republican scrapping is more furious than usual this early in a session.

For one thing, Republicans ripped into Gov. Edmund G. Brown's inaugural message even before he finished making his speech. GOP legislators obviously had obtained an advance copy of Brown's text.

M'CAULEY

For another, State Sen. Donald L. Grunsky (R-Watsonville) says "the word is out that if you want to get a bill through this year, you'd better get a Democratic author."

Democrats outnumber Republicans 52 to 28 in the Assembly and 27 to 13 in the Senate.

Grunsky says Democrats passed the word to lobbyists that bills will fare better if Democrats carry them. In recent years, Grunsky says, lobbyists have asked him to carry 20 to 30 bills. This year the Republican senator hasn't had a single request from the Third House—the lobbyists.

* * * *

GRUNSKY presumes his lobbyist friends are taking their business exclusively to Democrats.

Democratic leaders say there is no boycott on bills introduced by Republicans. Ways and Means Chairman Bob Crown of Alameda maintains the Democratic leadership wants bills considered on their merits no matter who sponsors them.

And not all Republicans appear as convinced as Grunsky that such a scheme is under way by Democrats. However, most lobbyists admit privately that Democrats will author most of their 1963 bills.

You can't blame the lobbyists, however. It's good political insurance. There has been a marked trend toward more partisan politics in the legislature since cross-filing was abolished.

And there is no question in Sacramento but what the Democrats have taken firm command of the capitol.

But regardless which way the political chips fly, Long Beach area is well represented.

Assemblyman Joseph M. Kennick (D-Long Beach) has been close to the Brown administration, and some capitol insiders are betting he will wind up with the chairmanship of the Assembly Transportation and Commerce Committee. That committee would play a key role this year on any bill to give taxing authority to Metropolitan Transit Authority.

Assemblyman Carley V. Porter (D-Compton) is chairman of the powerful 31-man Los Angeles County delegation in the Assembly. Assemblyman Vincent Thomas (D-San Pedro) is dean of the Assembly, holding more seniority than any other assemblyman.

State Sen. Thomas Rees of Los Angeles County, a former assemblyman, is a power among the Democratic majority due to the influence of the state's largest county.

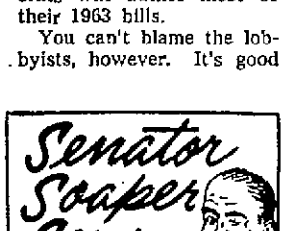

On the Republican side, State Sen. John A. Murdy of Orange County swings a lot of weight as a 10-year veteran. GOP leaders also are jubilant over the quality of their 1963 crop of freshmen.

Hailed as among the most promising are George Deukmejian of Long Beach and James E. Whetmore of Los Alamitos.

* * * *

DEMOCRATS are equally proud of their first-year legislators, including John Monroe of Santa Fe Springs and William E. Dannemeyer of Fullerton.

Several of the non-Long Beach lawmakers are well acquainted with Long Beach problems. Dannemeyer of Fullerton attended high school at Long Beach's Poly. Porter of Compton has taught classes at Long Beach City College.

Justice Frankfurter Gone, High Court Speeds Up Work

WASHINGTON—Dean Acheson, brilliant former Secretary of State, was in the Virgin Islands on a cruise with his wife, the John Cowleses of the Minneapolis newspapers, and the Archibald MacLeishes. MacLeish is former Librarian of Congress and the famed poet-playwright who wrote "J.B."

The cruise was a happy one despite one discordant fact—namely, that the MacLeishes are among Adlai Stevenson's most ardent admirers while Acheson is one of his consistent unadmirers. Acheson is credited with being one of "the high officials" who leaked the Saturday Evening Post piece on the Cuban crisis to Kennedy's press pals.

PEARSON

During the cruise, Dean got a call from his law firm to come back and argue a case before the Supreme Court. He remonstrated, asked his partners to see if he couldn't finish his cruise.

But the word from Washington was that Dean's old friend, retired Justice Felix Frankfurter, not being on the bench to pepper witnesses with questions, the work of the court was proceeding much faster than previously. So he would have to return to argue the case.

* * * *

THERE WAS an important backstage hassle over the Congo, and now that the crisis is about over, the inside story can be told.

The initiative in settling the Congo dispute came from United Nations Secretary-General U Thant and Undersecretary Ralph Bunche. They knew that if the U.N. financial drain of $10,000,000 a month continued, the United Nations would be bankrupt. They also knew that Britain and France were fed up with the U.N. in the Congo, that Russia was 100 per cent opposed, and that American Congressional support was getting wobbly.

Therefore, they decided to have an all-out showdown with President Tshombe of Katanga.

This, however, required complete support from the United States, and when the issue came up before State Department White House advisers, there was vigorous disagreement. Critics of the U. N. inside the State Department were skeptical. McGeorge Bundy, sometimes called Kennedy's "personal secretary of state," was quite negative.

But the U.N. position was strongly supported by four ex-governors, now turned diplomat. They are: Assistant Secretary of State G. Mennen Williams, former governor of Michigan; Assistant Secretary of State Averill Harriman, former governor of New York; special ambassador Chester Bowles, former governor of Connecticut, and Ambassador Adlai Stevenson, former governor of Illinois.

All four were accustomed to making tough decisions. Assistant Secretary Williams argued that President Tshombe was a paper tiger, that he didn't represent any real sentiment in the Congo, that he would collapse once the U.N. bared its teeth.

* * * *

PRESIDENT KENNEDY, who had to make the final decision, lined up with his ex-gubernatorial advisers. He decreed that the United States should give the U. N. 100 per cent support. It did.

And Tshombe, despite a lot of headlines and bombast, folded. The U.N. took over Katanga with casualties of fewer than 10 dead.

Preposterous Is Fair Word for 10 Per Cent Board Vote

APATHY HAS taken the Fifth—a fifth of our registered voters, that is. About 21 per cent of those registered to vote last Nov. 6 didn't do it. If those people are still at their same addresses they may have registration reinstated easily by returning postcard notifications sent them by the county registrar.

HOUSER

The ghost of elections past is pertinent now because of things coming up. We elect three to the Long Beach Unified School District board of education April 5 We elect nine Long Beach city councilmen in a May 14 primary and a June 4 final.

Registration deadline for the school board election is Feb. 10. Deadline for city council registration is March 21.

Preposterous is a fair word to use for the turnout at our school board elections. It was slightly over 10 per cent at the last election in 1961—18,980 out of 185,829 registered. At the same time, citizen nonvoting has a vague plus about it, in that voter silence on board elections might be construed as satisfaction with the job being done. However, this kind of silence can lead to a sometime election of an undesirable who calculates to beat the known poor turnout.

CONSIDER the school board job. The five trustees elected for four-year terms, two elected at one two-year interval, three at the next two-year interval, govern an establishment of more than 80,000 full-time students and 20,000 part-time students plus 4,728 employes.

Trustees control a current budget of $42,813,960 which is more than $10 million greater than the City of Long Beach budget.

The Long Beach Unified School District covers virtually all of Long Beach, all of Signal Hill and Avalon, about two-thirds of Lakewood and some county territory outside the city limits.

Board members get $25 a meeting. The big work, the low pay, the big responsibility show clearly the need for top-caliber servants. The kind to whom a vote of confidence is the least tribute we can give.

The three members whose seats are at stake April 5 are Dr. Dwight C. Sigworth, president, Jerald S. Jacobs and Ted Sullivan. All three are expected to seek reelection. Jacobs was appointed to the unexpired term of Laban H. Brewer, who resigned, and Sullivan was named after the death of board president Dr. Walter H. Boyd. Terms of Mrs. Elizabeth Hudson, vice president, and M. A. (Bud) Duncan, run to 1965.

CANDIDATES may file, without fee, until the deadline, Feb. 18. Forms for declaration of candidacy may be obtained at Room 302, Board of Education Building, 701 Locust Ave., or from the county superintendent of schools, 155 W. Washington Blvd., Los Angeles 15. Declarations must be filed with the county superintendent.

Citizens may register to vote in Room 101, City Hall, 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. Mondays through Fridays. Absentee voting provisions also apply. Absentee ballots must be applied for at Room 302, Board of Education Building, March 7 through March 29. Such ballots must be returned April 2, three days before election day.

Last biggest turnout for the board election was in 1953 when it was consolidated with a city election and drew 26.74 per cent. Since then the biennial elections have drawn 12.5 per cent in 1955; 13.5 in 1957; 13.5 in 1959 and 10.2 in 1961.

PRECINCTS have been consolidated into 251 polling places for the board election. Their numbers and locations have been published in classified legal advertising Jan. 11 and will be repeated Jan. 18 and Jan. 25. Voters also will be advised of their precinct polling place in their sample ballots which will be mailed March 15 through 24.

U.S. Freedom's Last Bastion

EDITOR:

Recently our papers reported a sad little episode in Russia wherein a small band of Christian peasants approached our embassy and asked for asylum. For obvious reasons they had to be turned away. As they went they spoke these words, "There is no place for us here—no place to go."

Those words haunted me for I thought what if one day I were faced with the same situation. Would I have an embassy to go to, a wall to tunnel under or a border to cross? Where could I go? At the risk of being called a scare-monger I must conclude that the answer would be—no place at all! America is fast becoming the last bastion of freedom, and because too many of us prefer to bury our heads in the sand we are fast losing that freedom.

You think I am crying wolf without reason? Well my fellow citizens listen to these statements from a little paperback put out by the Communist Party U.S.A.:

"The defeat of Sens. Capehart and Wiley, Congressman Judd and Richard Nixon are defeats for all those most closely associated with out-right opposition to peaceful co-existence. It is a vote against those demanding a tougher policy or invasion of Cuba. It represents a serious setback to all those who would make anti-communism the yardstick of patriotism, loyalty and devotion to country."

Where Does He Go From Here?

EDITOR:

A recent column referred to Willard Wirtz juggling unemployment figures a few days prior to the last election, and his covering up a few days after the event. Also brought out was the seemingly deliberate lies released by the Department of Defense, and Assistant Secretary Sylvester's justification of lies.

A man who holds such convictions should never be given a public office. No wonder our nation's morals have begun to crumble. Even the government is telling us it is all right to lie.

I've tried to teach my children and my Sunday School the laws of God which condemn liars, and how truth can set men free, but, now where do I go from here?

CTF Platform 'Shocking Thing'

EDITOR:

I have noted that the California Teachers Federation (AFL-CIO affiliate) has made at least three very significant resolutions in its recent convention.

First, they have told their teachers to teach the "abolition of war," and praise for the so called "peace" groups. Second, they have called for abolition of the House Committee on Un-American Activities. Third, they have called for an end to all religious influence and Christmas observances in California schools.

There is a most interesting platform. Coming from a group which represents 10 per cent of our teachers, it is a very shocking thing.

Questions from readers:

"Is 'chop suey' derived from American or Chinese words?" — Anne Lubarsky, Quincy, Mass.

It is reputed to be derived from the Cantonese phrases for "odds and ends" (char hsueh.) Chop suey is unknown in China, although its ingredients are Chinese. Chow mein, however, is Chinese, as mein designates the thin noodles which are so important in Chinese cooking and which were adopted in Italy to make the many forms of spaghetti.

"What do the names of the money in the U.S.S.R. mean?" — Larry Crain, Poplar Bluff, Mo.

The ruble (rubl, in Russian comes from rubit, "block of wood;" and kopeck, the hundreth part of a ruble, is derived from Greek koptein, "to smite" or "to cut." It has been suggested that the idea of smitting may have arisen because the old kopecks showed a Russian hero brandishing a lance.

88th Congress Begins With Two Surprises

By HARRY WILSON SHARPE
United Press International

The Democratic-controlled 88th Congress opened for business last week on two surprise notes.

President Kennedy's House lieutenants gave him an unexpectedly big victory on expansion and control of the Rules Committee which has life or death power over New Frontier legislation. It was a sharp setback for conservative Southern Democrats and Northern Republicans who have dominated the committee.

* * * * *

ALSO IN THE House, younger Republicans anxious to improve their party's post-election public image, rebelled against House GOP leader Charles A. Halleck, Ind., and other Old Guarders to oust 67-year-old Charles B. Hoeven of Iowa as chairman of the Republican conference.

Named to replace Hoeven by an 86 to 78 vote was Rep. Gerald Ford of Michigan who thus got on the leadership ladder and some day may succeed Halleck. There also was "considerable sentiment" against the performance of House GOP Whip Leslie C. Arends of Illinois. But the rebels agreed to abandon that objective for at least two years.

The coup gave Ford and younger GOP members a strong voice in leadership decisions. It was engineered quietly by 65 members who wanted "a more aggressive leadership" devoted to carving out a record rather than harassing a Democratic president.

* * * * *

HOUSE AND Senate Democrats re-elected their holdover leaders as did Senate Republicans.

Starting Monday, after the President delivers his State of the Union message in person, the new Congress will plunge into a long and hard battle over such New Frontier proposals as an early tax cut, medical care for the aged, foreign aid, record defense spending, and federal aid to education.

The White House—after some of the contests were published in British newspapers—finally released for publication excerpts from a New Year's Eve interview the President gave 35 newsmen at Palm Beach.

* * * * *

SUBSTANCE of the interview was that whether or not our Allies like it, Kennedy is determined to build the NATO defense alliance into a powerful war deterrent, including a British-American-French nuclear striking force.

He was critical of French President Charles de Gaulle's independent nuclear course. He called this a "fragmentation" of the alliance which could cost great sums and "cause political and strategic imbalance."

He gave Europe much-wanted assurances that no matter what happens, the United States has no intention of abandoning her—"we are too much bound together."

After voicing this hardened policy, Kennedy said: "I think we are more aware, probably, that we are going to incur at intervals people's displeasure. This is a sort of revolving cycle. . . I think that too often in the past we have defined our leadership as an attempt to be rather well regarded in all these countries. The fact is, you can't possibly carry out any policy without causing major friction. . . . I don't expect the United States will be more beloved, but I would hope that we could get more done."

* * * * *

PRIVATE dispatches from Havana said Communist Dictator Fidel Castro was trying to organize an Army loyal only to himself because of growing alarm over Russian control of his armed forces.

Richard Cardinal Cushing, Catholic archbishop of Boston, revealed that he was the "mysterious donor" who put up $1 million cash to help ransom 1,113 invansion prisoners from Cuba after a pre-Christmas telephone call from Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy.

The President also was keeping a sharp eye on the troubled Congo, firm in his determination to unify the country against Communist inroads.

The President will hand Congress his fiscal 1964 budget next Thursday and will send up his annual economic message Jan. 21. The budget will call for record defense spending and envisions another deficit.

* * * * *

THE DEFENSE Department issued a call for 9,000 draftees in March — its highest quota in nearly a year. This will build up the Army to offset demobilization of troops after last year's Berlin crisis.

The department vehemently denied London newspaper reports that British jet bombers penetrated the U. S. air defense network a few weeks ago in a simulated H-bomb attack that caught the American early warning system napping. "A lot of nonsense," a spokesman said.

The United States increased diplomatic and military pressure to prevent Yemen's war from spreading to oil-rich Saudi Arabia. The President publicly expressed support of Prince Faisal, Prime Minister of Saudi Arabia, while the State Department hinted that U. S. warships may soon visit that Middle East country.

A space agency official said that astronaut Gordon Cooper's celestial flight this spring may be extended from 17 orbits in 25 hours to 22 orbits in 34 hours. The purpose would be to get the maximum amount of experience possible with weightlessness in the Mercury space capsule. Maj. Cooper's flight, if successful, will be the last before the two-man Gemini flights next year.

In Southeast Asia, U. S. military advisers complained bitterly about the lack of fight in South Vietnamese troops in a battle against Communist Viet Cong guerrillas. They said some battalions defied their officers' orders to advance.

"It was a damn miserable performance," said one American. Kennedy is trying to save South Viet Nam from a Red takeover.

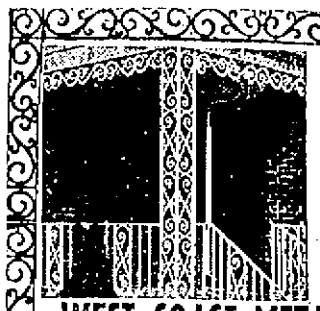

The Soviet Union and Communist China, split ideologically, continued denouncing each other. Moscow accused Peking of "trying to provoke war in the Cuban crisis with a philosophy of suicide." Peking continued accusing Russia of cowardice in pulling out its Cuban missiles.

The Labor Department reported that unemployment dropped slightly in December but said the 5.6 jobless rate was still disappointing. Nearly 4 million men were out of work — a situation Kennedy hopes to correct with an across-the-boards, pump-priming tax cut.

In New York City, J. Truman Bidwell, former chairman of the New York Stock Exchange, was found innocent of income tax evasion.

Mayor of Long Beach Looks at City's Future

What's ahead for Long Beach?

Personal opinions on this were expressed by Mayor Edwin W. Wade the past week in an address at a Chamber of Commerce breakfast forum.

"To me," the mayor said," the answer to that question is very simple after examining the experience of the past. The future of Long Beach can be described only with such words as growth, development and progress.

"They say that one day soon Southern California will be fully developed from Santat Barbara to San Diego. Because of its location by the sea and its extra mild climate, Long Beach is destined to grow both in size and importance in the years immediately ahead.

* * * *

"AS WE START this new year, I compare Long Beach to a man who is reaching maturity and who is taking steps to provide for his future. And if you or I had a crystal ball, here are some of the developments we might foresee:

"Construction in Long Beach, which hit an all-time high of $76 million in 1962, will continue at the same record pace. Look for an acceleration of high rise construction, especially along the shoreline area of the city.

"Sales tax revenue, an index of business activity in a community, also was a record high in 1962, and from all advance indications 1963 should be even better.

OIL, for 30 years an important factor in the economy of Long Beach, will attain a new peak in '63 as the city awards a contract for development of the huge offshore oil field, the largest undeveloped reserve in the state, and advances with development of the Recreation Park oil pool.

"If the Recreation Park pool is as good as expected, many millions of dollars will go into the city's bond redemption fund and will be available for financing various needed public improvements.

"For Long Beach, commencement of the offshore oil development program will immediately make available $25 million for use in financing a variety of projects of broad public benefit in tidelands areas of the city. It will produce funds to complete the $42 million shoreline development program for the downtown area, approved by voters in 1962 and by the state in September of last year.

* * * *

"THIS PROGRAM involves complete development of the shoreline between Alamitos Avenue and the Los Angeles River Flood Control Channel, and it includes development of a Maritime Museum and a large swimming lagoon and related parking facilities, landscaping and the building of access roads.

"With the completion of the Long Beach Arena and Improvement and expansion of hotel and motel facilities, watch for Long Beach to take on new importance as a convention and tourist center.

"Long Beach Promotion Inc., in cooperation with the Chamber, the city and some 20 other local organizations and agencies, already has started an extensive campaign to promote Long Beach as a convention-tourist mecca. We are faced with an opportunity to build convention and tourist trade into a major contributor to the local economy.

"MUCH WORK also is being done by these same organizations to attract new business and industry to the city. Preliminary advertising and promotional campaigns already are bringing in good, interested responses. I also urge you to be alert for increased business activity in the area of Municipal Airport during this year. Aircraft sales and service operations will be expanded substantially, and even high rise office buildings will be going up in the vicinity of the airport.

"As for Douglas Aircraft, future opportunities appear to be unlimited. This plant is regarded as the finest aircraft manufacturing complex in the world, and is preparing to bid on a sizeable portion of a potential $90 billion worth of business during the next 10 years.

"Also, don't be surprised if Douglas branches out into other than aircraft production activities at its local plant.

"WITH subsidence in check and with good prospects for successful settlement of the federal government's subsidence damage suit against Long Beach, the state and private oil companies in the offing, look forward to expanded Navy activity in the Long Beach area in the years immediately ahead.

"As for our harbor, you can expect to continue to see the Port of Long Beach gain greater and greater prominence throughout the world. More than any other factor, development of our harbor, together with advancement of plans for the California World's Fair on Pier J, will establish Long Beach as a truly outstanding international city.

"Because of our growing importance as a port city, a convention center, a key business and industrial area, and because of the proposed World's Fair, I am confident that we will see great gains in rapid transit in the months and years just ahead."

U.S. Aims to Foil Customs Cheaters

BALTIMORE (AP)—The government has announced plans almed at frustrating customs cheaters who send gift packages into the United States without paying a duty.

Commissioner of Customs Philip Nichols Jr. proposed cutting the exempted value of gift parcels from overseas from the present $10 to $1.

The Treasury has lost considerable revenue because of widespread abuse of the exemption, Nichols said in a speech prepared for the Federal Business Association of Maryland. He contended the reduction, all but wiped out the exemption, would for all practical purposes stop the flow of such duty-free parcels.

Nichols said many U.S. tourists have shipped packages marked as gifts to persons in this country and picked them up on returning home. Tourists traveling together have been sending "gifts" to each other, he said, and shipments have been split to hold each under $10.

Many cases of undervaluing or placing false invoices on parcels have been discovered, Nichols added, and mail-order parcels have been labeled gifts.

The Bureau of Customs in Washington said Congress feared trouble when it enacted the exemption and, in an unusual provision, authorized the Secretary of the Treasury to reduce the value if the privilege were abused. The exemption was meant to apply to gifts from persons in foreign countries if the value of such parcels received by an individual in the United States did not exceed $10 in a single day.

The bureau put off issuing its order for 30 days, during which it will consider protests.

Rhode Island Newsman Heads Brotherhood Panel

NEW YORK (UPI)—Sevellon Brown, associate editor of the Providence (R. I.) Journal and Evening Bulletin, has been named national chairman of the Newspaper Committee for Brotherhood Week.

Dr. Lewis Webster Jones, president of the National Conference of Christians and Jews, sponsor of Brotherhood Week, announced the appointment.

Praising the cooperation of the American press in promoting the objectives of the national observance, which this year marks its 30th anniversary, Dr. Jones said, "The press is one of America's greatest weapons in combatting bigotry and prejudice."

"THOSE OF us whose daily job it is to record the world's woes, from Berlin to Cuba, from Mississippi to the slums in our own home towns, know how desperately the spirit of brotherhood is needed today. This is our chance to do something about it," Jones said.

Brown, who writes a daily column for the editorial page called "Topic for Today," began his newspaper career as the Washington correspondent for the Prividence Evening Journal in 1939.

Brown became chief of the Washington bureau for the Providence Journal-Bulletin in 1942. He was made assistant to the editor in 1946 and associate editor in 1949.

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The State Department of Employment has announced federal approval of 12 additional vocational training courses for workers who are jobless because of automation or similar factors.

The department said the approval brings the total number of such classes in California to 68, with 3,139 trainees enrolled under the Manpower Development and Training Act.

The classes include eight nurses aid courses which begin this week with 120 trainees in Hayward; two licensed vocational nurse courses to begin Jan. 14 in Hayward; and two licensed vocational nurse courses to begin Jan. 21 in San Luis Obispo.

Attorney Arthur Miller will be moderator.

NEW PROGRAM of year-around liberal arts education will be inaugurated at Pepperdine College at the beginning of the next fall term, President M. Norvel Young announced.

Pioneering the trimester plan on the West Coast, Pepperdine's new program will enable students who wish to accelerate their formal education to complete requirement for the bachelor's degree in two years and nine months instead of four years.

"We feel this is a real step forward—one which we will see followed by more and more colleges and universities that must make better use of their facilities in today's growing demands on higher education," Dr. Young said.

"Trimester," he went on, "is a part of the answer, we believe, in meeting the challenge of producing capable leadership in a shorter span of time. Many of our outstanding young people are not being challenged to move ahead as rapidly as they should."

LOCAL NEWS BRIEFS

Accidents Kill Two Workmen

A Wilmington machinist and a Compton man were crushed Saturday in separate industrial accidents.

Carmen Prinzo, 30, of 1271 Wilmington Ave., was working at a deburring machine at Brad Machine Co., 8441 Monroe Ave., Stanton, when his jacket caught on a gear, pulling him into the rotary action.

He was freed by fellow workers, but died 45 minutes later at Katella Emergency Hospital.

A 1,000-pound refrigeration unit fell on Keith M. Ramsey, 33, of 1740 E. Compton Blvd., as he placed blocks under the unit while it was being lifted by a fork-lift truck. He was dead when he reached Physicians and Surgeons Hospital.

Police said the accident occurred at the Owl Trucking Co., 500 S. Alameda St., Compton.

Public Defender System Rapped

The president of the Orange County Bar Association has criticized the county's public defender system for "carrying the burden normally borne by private lawyers."

In an interview, Robert Frazer called on the bar to examine the validity of claims of indigence and to set up a lawyer reference panel for criminal matters.

He suggested the panel members should list themselves as willing to accept criminal cases on an installment-fee basis to reverse the trend of naming public defenders when attorneys demand all or part of their fee in advance.

"Because many clients claimed they could not pay the fee in advance, the court started to appoint a public defender to represent them," Frazer said. "Now the trend is the appointment of a public defender by the court without investigating completely the client's financial standing."

Asks Harbor Freeway Call Boxes

I.-P-T Los Angeles Bureau

Installation of emergency call boxes along the entire length of the Harbor Freeway has been urged Friday by Supervisor Kenneth Hahn as the first step in erecting the boxes on the entire freeway system.

Hahn said he had written to Robert Bradford, director of Public Works for the State of California, asking extension of the call-box system, which now is confined to the downtown Los Angeles area.

KENNETH HAHN
Pushes Call Boxes

Eighty of the boxes are installed on the downtown freeways to provide quick assistance to motorists involved in accidents or stranded by mechanical difficulty.

They connect with a centrall station in Los Angeles police headquarters, which dispatches emergency aid as needed.

Hahn long has proposed that the call-box system be extended to cover all freeways in Los Angeles County along their entire length. Friday, he spoke out to start this program with the Harbor Freeway.

He noted that Harbor Freeway now carries more than 212,000 cars every 24 hours and commented "the freeway carrying the heaviest traffic should have priority in installation of the call-box system."

Board to Discuss L.B. Oil Plan

I. P-T Sacramento Bureau

SACRAMENTO—The State Lands Commission is expected to discuss Long Beach's projected $3.5-billion tidelands oil development program when it meets in the capital Jan. 24.

The commission must approve unitization agreements and contract forms before the 890-million-barrel oil project gets a final go-ahead.

City and state attorneys have been drafting agreements for several weeks. City Atty. Gerald Desmond returned to Long Beach late this week after a final round of capital conferences.

VOLUNTEERS to "fill the shoes" of campaign workers in the Red Cross drive to open in March are being sought by Campaign Chairman William S. Grant and his volunteer assistants (from left) Mrs. Francis Heusel, Red Cross Fashion Show chairman; Mrs. Geza J. Krempels, residential division chairman and Mrs. David Gean, vice chairman, residential division.

VOLUNTEERS NEEDED

Red Cross Issues Call

A call to residents of this area to serve as volunteer Red Cross campaign workers during the annual appeal for members and funds, starting March 1, was made Saturday by Mrs. Geza J. Krempels, residential chairman for the drive.

The women's division needs at least 3,000 volunteers to make house-to-house calls on behalf of the Red Cross, said Mrs. Krempels.

* * * *

THE RED CROSS office at 319 W. Broadway, which serves the areas of Long Beach, Lakewood, Signal Hill, Paramount, Bellflower, Artesia, Dairy Valley, Hawaiian Gardens, Dominguez and Avalon, now is accepting volunteers for the campaign. Mrs. Krempels said volunteers may "sign up" by calling the office, HE 7-2921.

"Many people have the idea that the Red Cross volunteer is active only during wartime. Actually, volunteers daily serve the community through numerous Red Cross services," she said. "One of the activities is in the annual campaign when volunteers are asked to make a few calls on neighbors and friends to sign up members and help raise the funds for the activities of the Red Cross.

* * * *

FIRST AID, water safety, blood program, home service activities are a few of the programs presented for resident use each year, said Mrs. Krempels. "We in the community take advantage of the many Red Cross services all year long. This is the opportunity for residents to participate in the drive for funds that make these programs possible."

Theme of the 1963 local campaign is "Red Cross—Always There . . . With Your Help."

INSURANCE LEADER OPTIMISTIC

Growth Here Hailed

By GEORGE ROBESON

The economy of the Long Beach-Orange County area is keeping pace with the booming Southland population, and will rise to record heights in the next few years.

That's the opinion of Horace R. Smith, a vice president of the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Co., in Long Beach this weekend for an annual meeting with the staff of the local office.

"Our company wrote nearly $7 million in new insurance in the past year in this area," Smith said, "and our total insurance in force here is now more than $50 million."

* * * *

THE FIGURES, setting a record for Connecticut Mutual in this area, bode good for the economic outlook here, Smith contends, because the insurance business is a fair measuring-stick for the economy.

He said Orange and Santa Clara Counties are the fastest-growing in the nation. The Orange County population has increased by about 500 per cent since World War II, Smith said.

"And I wouldn't be a bit surprised if the Long Beach area population doubled in the next ten years," he added.

"I can't see anything but UP for this area. Unless somebody wants a depression, I can't imagine how we could have one."

* * * *

HE SAID Long Beach's healthy industrial growth provides easy absorption for laid-off workers.

"We estimate that if 4,000 workers are laid off here, about 1,000 will go into business for themselves and the remainder will be absorbed by other industries," he said.

"With 1,500 people a day entering California, there is a built-in pressure for more industry that can't be stopped."

POLITICS

21 Pct. of Voters off Rolls

By BOB HOUSER
Political Editor

Long Beach-area voters whose registration has been canceled for failure to vote in the Nov. 6 general election represented about 21 per cent of the eligibles, paralleling the countywide 21-per-cent purge.

As usual, more Democrats lost registration through failure to vote than did Republicans. In the East Long Beach-Signal Hill 39th Assembly District, Democrats dropped 11,526 to 40,783 for a 22.03-per-cent loss. Republicans lost 8,522 to 39,890 for 17.6 per cent.

In the West Long Beach-Lakewood-Dominguez 44th A. D., Democrats lost 15,494 to drop to a current registration of 54,709, a 22.07-per-cent reduction. The GOP lost 7,788 to 33,492 for 18.86 per cent.

Total registration for the 32nd Congressional District is now 173,337, down 45,312 from the November figure. Voters purged for not voting may reinstate their registration by returning post-card notifications sent them by the registrar of voters.

Move with Times, Says OCAW Head

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President O. A. Knight of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union (OCAW) has given his 200,000 rank-and-file workers and their leaders some strong advice for 1963.

It adds up to this: they must forget archaic ideas and move ahead with the times. This means they must face up to the challenge of automation and join management in adapting to new technology and must be more objective and flexible in other areas.

Knight's views were set forth editorially in the "Union News," the OCAW's monthly publication. They should be of more than passing interest to oil industry leaders who currently are negotiating new contracts with the union and aren't accustomed to such candor.

* * * *

THEY ALSO could be recommended reading for some other union leaders who refuse to be so forthright in approaching the modern-day collective bargaining table.

At the outset the editorial—which presumably had the endorsement of other OAW officers—notes a rising crescendo of criticism of unions, much of it from people friendly to the labor movement.

It said that top labor leaders were charged with being out of touch with the membership and with making flowery resolutions unsupported by action; that staff peoples are becoming fat and lazy and more concerned with keeping their jobs than crusading; that local officers are more concerned with good times at conventions than in being effective plant spokesmen, and that the rank-and-file is too prosperous and selfish to care about supporting any program that does not provide them immediate benefit.

* * * *

THE EDITORIAL conceded that people at all levels have done stupid or short-sighted things at one time or another. But it added that this was no time for recrimination but rather a time to "take a clear objective look at our circumstances."

"First," it continued, "working people do not hunger for the same things they did 25 years ago. We need to determine and evaluate present desires. Second, industry is changing so rapidly that collective bargaining for the contract provisions of past years doesn't make much sense.

* * * *

"MANAGEMENT has been more flexible than labor in adapting to new technology. Isn't it possible that our contracts need new kinds of clauses not even devised yet more than they need preservation of old clauses which are no longer practical?"

It went on to say that certain changes in work methods are inevitable and that "the unions had better roll with them, negotiating to get the best deal for our people within the new technology."

"Trying to hold back the clock never has worked," it added bluntly.

MERCHANT'S IDEA

Children's Day Proposal Made

NEW YORK (UPI)—A New York merchant suggests that Children's Day be added to the holidays on the calendar.

He said it would complement Mother's Day and Father's Day.

The proposal was made by Joseph Love, president of Joseph Love, Inc., at the National Retail Merchants Association convention, which took no action.

Love said a Children's Day not only would increase retail sales but would provide a festive family occasion.

WAR FARE DELUXE

No Beef on GI Future Chow

By JOSEPH L. MYLER

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Hardly a veteran now alive will believe it.

Nevertheless, scientists say the combat soldier of tomorrow will not only eat his chow but like it too.

There is no readily accessible record hereabouts of foot soldiers, who since the beginning of human warfare, ever had anything civil to say about their rations.

BUT LISTEN to these words from a recent report of The National Academy of Sciences:

The foods for tomorrow's combat soldier, sailor, and airman will look better, taste better, smell better, and be better preserved; will be more acceptable, more edible, more digestible, more nutritious, more easily delivered and issued, and more easily prepared for consumption; and may even cost less than military foods of the past.

"Equally important, they will also generate and maintain a high level of well-being and combat effectiveness in the fighting man."

THE REPORT published by the Academy was written by Frank R. Fisher, executive secretary of The Advisory Board on Quartermaster Research and Development. He said a tremendous amount of work has been done to make better and more appetizing eatables available for the soldier in the field.

Meals for the fighting man of tomorrow will come in three categories: Ready-to-eat; heat-and-eat; and ready-to-cook. Which a soldier gets will depend on how closely engaged he is with the enemy.

THANKS TO IMPROVED drying and heat or radiation preserving methods, some 44 foods have been developed for eating in the field without fuss or preparation. From this group along you could make a menu, say, of tomato juice, cream of onion soup, chicken with mushrooms, spinach, cabbage slaw and strawberries.

About 67 food items also have been developed for use in a family of 21 quick-serve meals of the heat-and-eat variety. In the ready-to-cook department, prefabricated meals have been invented to serve 25 men at a time.

In all cases the soldier gets beef, pork, ham, turkey and other meats plus a large variety of vegetables and fruits in forms he can recognize by sight as well as taste or aroma.

GONE ARE the "unidentifiable bars or hashes" of yore. Gone also, to judge by Fisher's report, are the tin plates in which bobs of mashed (powdered) potato and ice cream floated together in a sea of gravy.

Fisher, a writer of considerable restraint, noted that the rations of these past world wars are "often recalled by the respective veterans . . . in a derogatory manner."

By contrast, he said, the tasty rations being prepared for the army of tomorrow will be "very acceptable." He said they will bring about "the maximization of food consumption, or morale, and of operational effectiveness of the fighting man."

Head of State P-T.A. Backs Federal Aid to Schools

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The president of the California Congress of Parents and Teachers has given qualified support to federal aid to education.

Mrs. W. W. Wood of Marysville said that the California congress will take its position at its May convention when 5,000 delegates meet and vote.

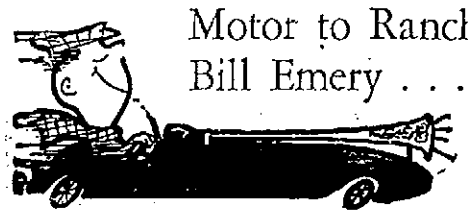

The legislation program proposed by the national board needs the approval of congresses in 31 states for final adoption. At present the national P-T.A. only urges federal aid for schools on Indian reservations and in areas deluged by heavy influxes of military and other government personnel.

Mrs. Wood said that she could still change her mind but added that she feels that the clause prepared by the national board was "very well written."

CLEAR WAY FOR BIG LEAGUE HOCKEY ON COAST

By JEROME HALL
I, P-T Staff Writer

SAN FRANCISCO—A hush-hush meeting was held here over the weekend to clear the way for the expansion of major league ice hockey to the West Coast as early as next autumn.

"Now is the time" for the National Hockey League to spread from coast to coast, said one leading figure in the NHL while on a quick inspection trip here.

I, P-T EXCLUSIVE!

So the plan for inclusion of Los Angeles and San Francisco in the major league, which The Independent, Press-Telegram recently revealed, apparently has been moved up into the immediate future.

The attitude of the majority of franchise owners in the NHL has changed drastically, the I, P-T has learned. The common conception that they were opposed to expansion because of sellout crowds was rejected by several of those owners themselves.

"Our costs are increasing every year and our income is not," said one. "We can't raise ticket prices (the NHL already charges a $7 top price) so we have to look to other sources."

That other source is television. It is considered certain that network broadcasts will begin as soon as the league spans the continent.

This is the breakdown of NHL owner opinion:

Toronto is strongly in favor of bringing in Los Angeles and San Francisco. "It is as certain as tomorrow," club president Stafford Smythe has told intimates.

Detroit is perhaps the leader of the westward movement. The Red Wings have been in a financial decline, are eager for a pep pill for the league. It was club president emeritus Jack Adams, a strong influence in the NHL, who said "now is the time." He met with officials of the San Francisco team here last week and urged them to make formal application for entry.

Chicago and Boston moguls are believed to be in favor. New York's attitude is unknown. Only Montreal is actively opposed.

San Francisco and Los Angeles, currently members of the Western League, are reportedly in close accord on negotiations. San Francisco Seals owners plan to attend the unofficial NHL meeting in Florida next month and will submit an official bid in May at the league meeting. The L.A. Blades' owner is Dan Reeves, Rams chief.

There remains the possibility that the entire Western League would be taken into the NHL as its western division, but this appears less likely now. At least two owners in the Western League reportedly have taken a stand against advancement to major league status.

Two more significant quotes uncovered here were:

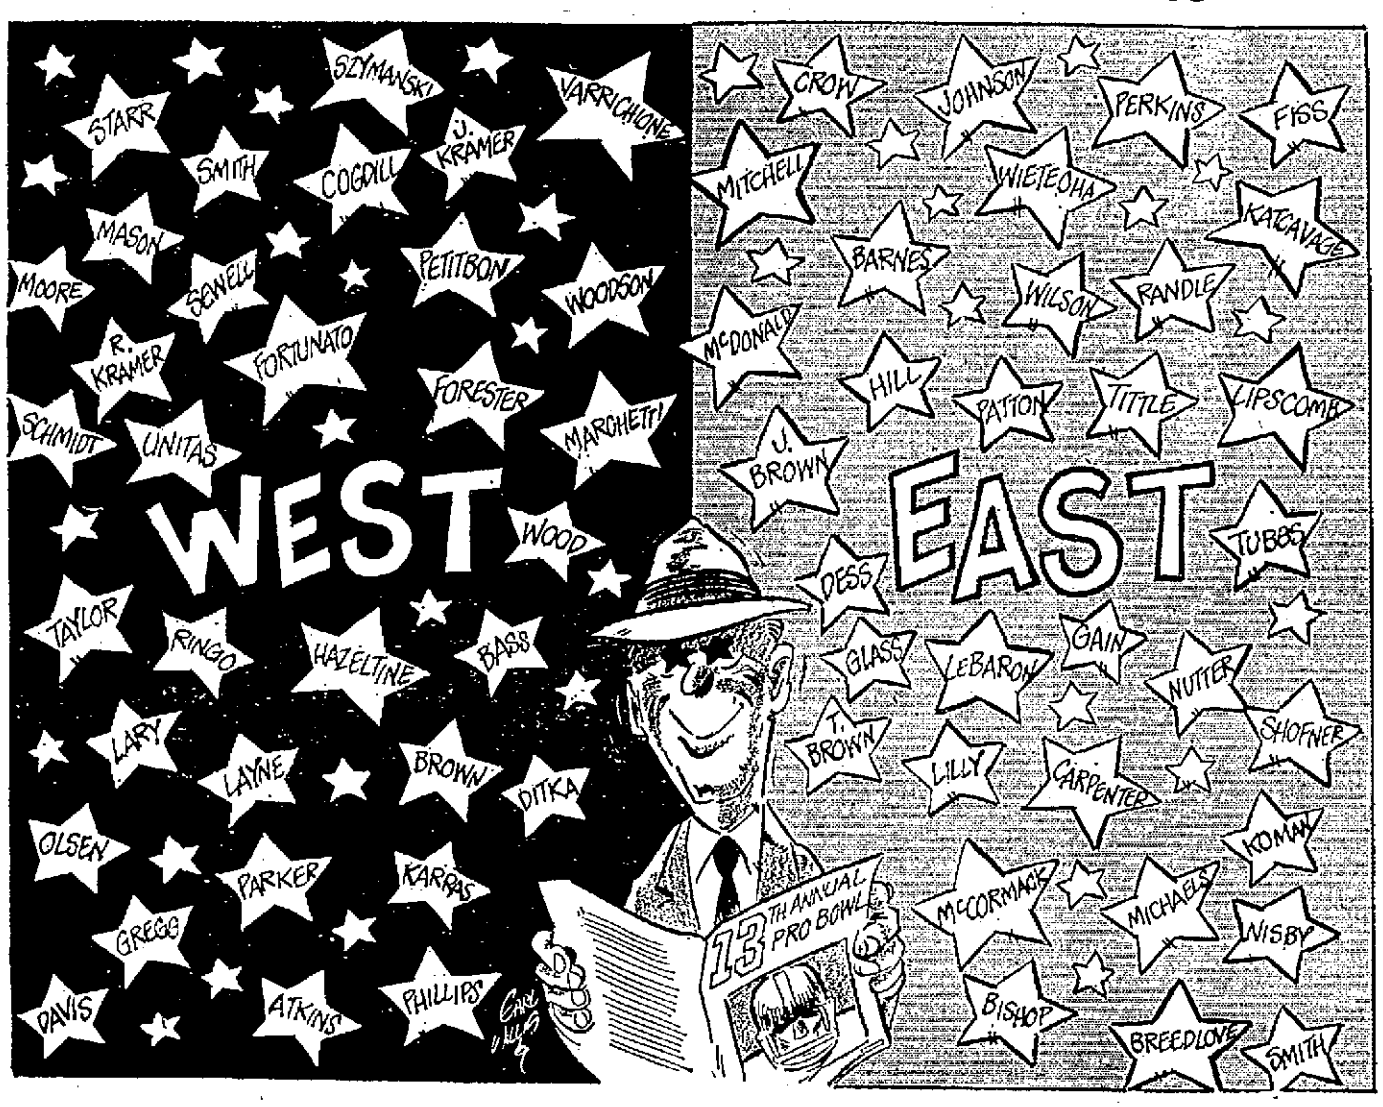

Clarence Campbell, NHL president: "Expansion now appears to be inevitable."

Walter Brown, president of the Boston Bruins: "We're not above playing in the Cow Palace for a couple of years."

(Architectural drawings for a privately-financed arena in downtown San Francisco have been completed.)

From all indications here, major league hockey is headed West. Soon.

THE 'EYES' HAVE IT: ALL STARS

LAST GRID GAME . . . HONEST!

West Pick in Pro Bowl Today

By JERRY WYNN

Honest, folks, this is the LAST football game of the season . . . and it could be the best one.

For only the elite of the Eastern and Western divisions of the National League will assemble for combat on the Coliseum turf today in the 13th annual Pro Bowl Game.

A crowd of more than 60,000 is expected for the 1 p.m. kickoff in brisk, windy weather that should make East quarterback Y. A. Tittle wince from Championship Game nostalgia.

Despite the loss of star fullback Jim Taylor, hospitalized Saturday because of a recurrence of stomach pains, the West team is a slight favorite to score its fourth successive victory and ninth of the series.

The feeling (there are no more fix-ations) is that with

WYNN'S WINNER

eight members of his champion Green Bay Packers and seven from the ferocious Detroit Lions, West coach Vince Lombardi can hide his four Rams—Dick Bass, Jim Phillips, Frank Varrichione and Merlin Olsen.

Not that they aren't outstanding players. It's just that they haven't won a game at the Coliseum since Fort Ord disbanded its squad.

Bass has made his own plans to hide.

"I don't want any part of that Big Daddy Lipscomb," says the scintillating scooter. "He might fall on me and kill me."

Bass will start at left half with J. D. Smith replacing Taylor at fullback, Lenny Moore at flanker and the great Johnny Unitas at quarterback.

PLAYER OF the game in 1960 and 1961, Unitas was cheated out of honor last year when balloting was held before he masterfully marshalled his charges for a downfield drive climaxed by his unforgettable 12-yard touchdown pass to Jon Arnett on the last play of the game. Jim Martin kicked the extra point for a 31-30 victory.

To back up Unitas, Lombardi will call on his own astute leader, Bart Starr, just as he sent an SOS Saturday for Packer halfback Tom Moore to take Taylor's spot on the roster. Moore will wear the No. 31 of Taylor.

The East, coached by the Giants' Allie Sherman, boasts an even more formidable aerial threat with Tittle and Eddie LeBaron tossing to such oustanding receivers as Bobby Mitchell, Del Shofner, Tommy McDonald and Sonny Randle.

* * * *

TITTLE AND McDonald will start along with Jim Brown at fullback and John David Crow at left half.

There will be a pre-game show at 12:30. The game, nationally televised, will be blacked out in Southern California. It will be broadcast by KMPC. Probable starters:

Lakers Notch Ninth in Row

By DON HARDIN

The Lakers continue to dazzle their opposition — the Warriors in particular — and huge crowds.

With Elgin Baylor, Dick Barnett and Jerry West coming through in the clutch, the NBA's winningest team raced to its ninth consecutive victory, 119-114, over San Francisco at the L.A. Sports Arena Saturday night.

A crowd of 11,801, exceeding everyone's expectations, waited for more than 40 minutes for the Lakers to take charge, which they eventually did, after playing catch-up most of the contest.

The Warriors, who must be completely frustrated when facing the southerners, held leads of nine points over the Western Division leaders, but as in the six previous meetings this year, found the well-rounded Laker aggregation just too tough toward the end. They haven't won in seven games this season against coach Fred Schaus' crew.

The nine-game winning streak equals the Lakers' longest since they came west from Minneapolis. San Francisco, languishing 16 games off the pace at the season's midway point, might be lucky to make the playoffs. St. Louis continues to trail in second place by six and one half games.

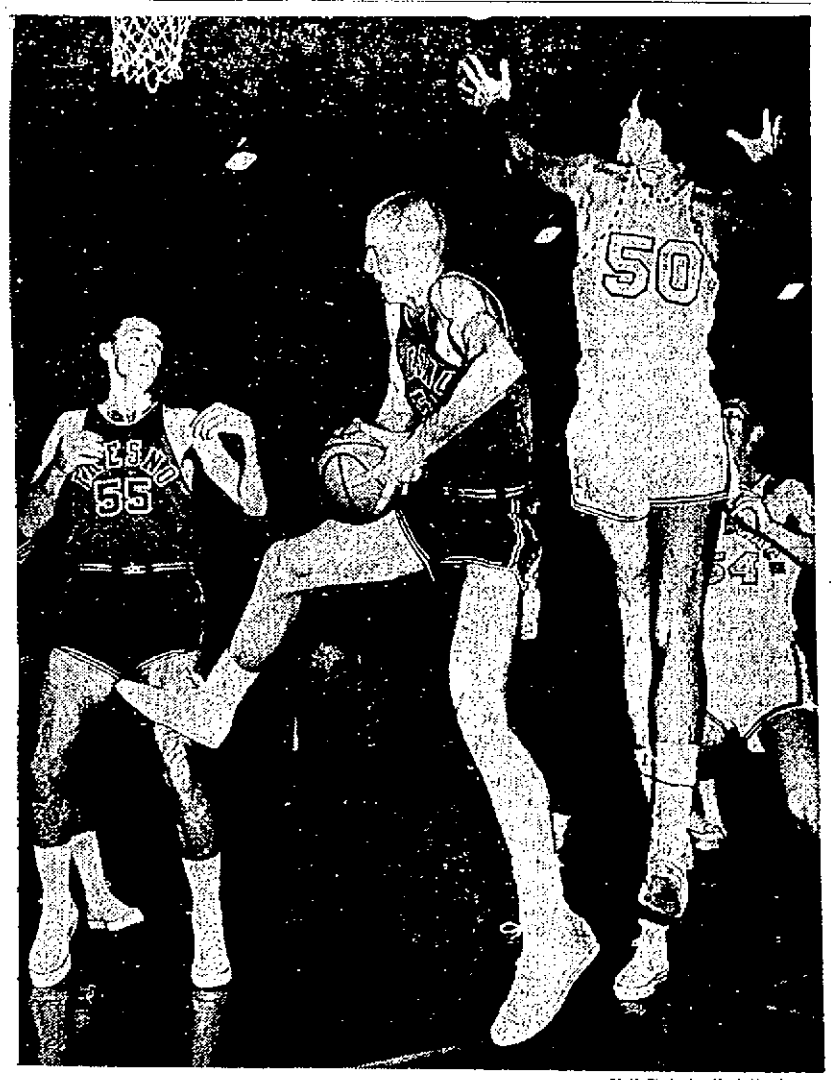

Wilt Chamberlain scored 40 points to lead both teams. He played a better team game than usual and led in rebounds, as usual, but in the tough going, when that clock was ticking away, it was "Tick Tock" Baylor who got the key rebounds and points.

* * * *

THE LAKERS didn't take the lead for good until 7:06 remained. It was Elgin's 20-footer which made it that way. Barnett, the Lakers' agile bench guard, started the drive with some beautiful out-

UCLA TUMBLES BEARS, HUSKIES NIP TROJANS

By JEROME HALL

UCLA defeated California Saturday night in a Big Six basketball game that was without turning point, devoid of outstanding play and a bit difficult to describe.

But somewhere between the time the scoreboard broke and the time someone threw open the exit to let in the gale wind, the Bruins polished off the Golden Bears by a 63-58 count.

Before a raucous crowd of 2,400 that hung from the walls of tiny Santa Monica City College gymnasium, the Bruins broke free from some stuttering play that had kept them chained to the Golden Bears through three-quarters of the contest and grabbed a 10-point lead that was good enough to coast on through the final 10 minutes.

In an afternoon contest in the L.A. Sports Arena before an audience of 811 (yes, 811) in the 15,000 seat L.A. Arena, the USC Trojans made it three losses in four conference tries. Washington won, 62-61.

* * * *

THE SURPRISING Huskies got some surprising assistance from the central character in that astounding story of purported bribery attempt.

Guard Larry Sharp, who according to police reports was offered $1,000 to "miss three or four baskets" against the Trojans Friday night, turned in the finest game of his four-year college career on Saturday.

He ignited the rally that erased a 10-point deficit. Sharp scored 10 points in all, which is exactly 10 times his game average of last year, which is what makes any fix attempt involving him so absurd.

The Bruins almost tossed away the victory. After getting a 10-point lead with six minutes left, the Uclans went back to the pattern of play that had led to a one-point shortage at halftime. So the Bears shaved the lead to five points. Then, with less than three minutes remaining, Walt Hazzard began his Globetrotter dribbling act and it led to some easy points.

* * * *

THE BRUINS and Bears went through three-quarters of the contest one point apart but Hazzard and Fred Slaughter combined for three field goals (two by Slaughter, some fancy passing by Hazzard) at the 10:00 mark of the second half.

That started a rally that moved the Bruins 10 points ahead, which was enough to coast on — and the Uclans did just that.

It was not an impressive performance by the Bruins, but it was a winning one, and that's something they hadn't had since last year.

After two upset losses at Seattle against the Huskies last weekend, the Bruins now are 1 and 2 in league play and they probably will hold onto their No. 10 national ranking in the UPI poll.

Cal's performance was described by a Berkeley reporter as "the worst I've seen." He didn't say in how long.

Slaughter led the Bruins' scoring with 17 points, the same as the Bears' high man, Camden Wall, their 6-10 center.

Back to the Trojans:

USC got off to an early lead, led 29-21 at the half, and later by 10 points.

Midway through the final 20-minute session, the Trojans went cold. They began missing close-in shots and fell seven points behind as they connected on just four field goals over an 11-minute span.

With three minutes to go, the Seattle kids carved out a nine-point lead. It looked as safe as money in the credit

S. MONICA JC ALL-AMERICA GOES TO UCLA

Steve Sindell, all-American junior college quarterback from Santa Monica City College, announced Saturday he will enroll at UCLA for the coming spring semester which starts next month.

Sindell, 20, will have two years of eligibility for the Bruins.

Last season at Santa Monica, the 6-foot, 170-pound star set national JC records for passing in number of attempts, completions and yardage.

FREE SUB RULE BACK—WITH STRINGS

CORONADO (AP) — The National Collegiate Athletic Association Saturday brought back free substitution, after a 10-year hiatus, to college football.

There are a few strings attached.

The 15-man NCAA Rules Committee voted for the forthcoming season to allow completely free substitution by either team during all time outs and on all plays of a series except the fourth down and when the ball changes hands.

On the fourth down, each team will be allowed to substitute two players on the current "wild card" basis. When the ball changes hands, two more men may be sent in.

Under the old free substitution rule, last in effect in 1952, a coach could substitute any number of men at any time.

The Rules Committee also voted to reduce the number of time outs from five to four for each half.

Cold-Shooting L.B. State Routed by Fresno, 76-59

By AL LARSON

Long Beach State's cagers were like the weather—frigid—Saturday night.

Coach Dick Perry's 49ers, who turned in their finest effort of the season Friday night in blitzing Cal Poly, came back with their poorest of the year as Fresno State's defending CCAA champions waltzed to a 76-59 triumph before a crowd of 1,375 in the loser's gym.

Fresno combined red-hot shooting and backboard control to hand LBSC its first conference loss in three starts. The victory evened the Bulldogs' league record at 2-2. They suffered back-to-back losses to Santa Barbara and San Diego State.

Long Beach sank only 9 of 34 field goal attempts the first half for a chilly 26 per cent effort, while the Bulldogs connected on 12 of 29 (41 per cent) and added 17 of 22 charity tosses to roll up an insurmountable 41-27 lead at halftime.

* * * *

THE SECOND half was no different as Fresno's big three of Maurice Talbot, Tom Jacobsen and Tony Burr continued to pepper away. Talbot was the most outstanding, scoring 28 points, 14 in each half, and pulling down 20 rebounds. Jacobsen had 24 points and Burr 19, 11 of which were made at the foul line.

Long Beach, blowing layins while turning in its sloppiest floor game, again committed too many fouls. Its over-aggressiveness resulted in 28 personals and the eviction of Al Windfeldt, Lyn Hodge and Stan Andersen.

The Bulldogs had only 16 fouls. For the weekend series, the 49ers were guilty of 58 personals.

With Dick Montgomery leading the charge, the 49ers jumped off to a 4-0 lead and expanded it to 7-1 with 3:25 elapsed, but Fresno finally caught fire and pulled ahead, 12-11, on Burr's two free throws with the game eight

Sports Merry-Go-Round

By HANK HOLLINGWORTH
Executive Sports Editor

The Sunday Sermon

Pearls from the Sunday pulpit:

. . . One of the West Pro-Bowl stars, asked his opinion of head coach Vince Lombardi, commented: "He's a nut on watching films. He has 16-millimeter eyeballs, I think."

. . . Apparently Lombardi is another Sid Gillman in the matter of studying football films. Sports Editor Chuck Johnson in The Tidings authored this little item: "Lombardi has been so single-mindedly preparing for the Pro Bowl game that he failed to show up for supper at the local Notre Dame Club's annual sports soiree. In fact, generally obliging Vince didn't even take time away from his boys and the movie projector to decline the telegram extending the invitation." Popcorn, anyone?

VINCE LOMBARDI
16-Millimeter Eyeballs?

. . . Harland Svare's official appointment as Ram head coach was met with extreme enthusiasm by most of the Ram players. However, one Svare supporter tempered his joy with this reminder: "I've seen great guys turned into howling demons after just one year as a head pro coach. We won't really know about Harland's ability until next December."

. . . I don't quite agree. No coach is going to enter a situation such as exists in present Ram ranks and produce a winner the first season. If Svare can improve morale (and this appears a certainty) and win one-third of his '63 games, he'll have been a success in this department's eyes.

. . . From outward indications, Svare isn't too upset over the Rams' miserable performance in the pen-and-ink department with draft choices. "He's not purposely trying to play it cool," whispered one of Svare's closer friends. "He just thinks he has some pretty good kids on the club right now. He may be right, because the Ram roster includes a lot of one and two-year kids who may be ripe for graduation into real pros next season." (Well, one thing the Rams don't need is MORE youngsters cluttering up the scene. I privately thought the 1962 Ram personnel was far superior to their 1-12-1 record. The fact that a lot of the boys "dogged-it" was a major factor in the horrible decline of the once great empire.)

IS IT TRUE that Belmont Shore's Jim Marshall, the much-traveled major leaguer, signed a $35,000 contract with the Chunichi Dragons of Japan . . . and received fringe benefits such as a home and car and all the other little things that help to make life worthwhile? Beats playing with the Giants, White Sox and Pirates, I'd say.

. . . Is Les Richter upset over a supposed ultimatum from new boss Svare that he either help coach the Rams OR take his chances trying to make the linebacking corps as a player? Apparently he won't be allowed to do both. Les enjoyed his player-coach status when Svare took over for Bob Waterfield, but he still thinks he has some good playing days ahead.

. . . Touch-of-class department: When he received his trophy at the Pro Bowl luncheon as 1962 player-of-the game, Cleveland's Jim Brown remarked: "The master of ceremonies forgot to mention that I made the most timely fumble of the game (the West team recovered Jim's bobble and drove to its winning touchdown). If there had not been a quick count on the votes, I might not have won this award."

IN ADDRESSING the Temple Sinai Men's Club a few nights ago, Ben Agajanian declared:

. . . "I have no intentions of retiring as long as I can help some club . . . even though other people think differently, I am convinced a quarterback is 80 per cent of a football team . . . some of the better American Football League teams could play on a par with the Cardinals, Vikings and Rams (1962 version) in another year."

. . . The 28-year veteran of all types of football also related an intriguing tale of his roommate with the old L.A. Dons, a fellow named Cementhead Clay. (Now, isn't THAT a name?)

. . . The Downtown Lions Club informed Art Kim, via letter from prexy Ed Alford, that it was "relinquishing all claim to any refund we might be entitled to on the unused portion of our season tickets. We thoroughly enjoyed your Chiefs' games and we now consider the account closed." (An excellent gesture to a man who in full faith intended to keep his ABL team in Long Beach for the full season, even though early attendances didn't justify such action.)

. . . Have the Dodgers got a big deal pending whereby they will wind up with a recognized STARTING pitcher? That's what the little bird whispers . . . and I hope so. Thus far, they seem satisfied that Larry Sherry will fill the fourth starter's role. (Ah, but what if Larry can't AND Sandy Koufax relapses again? Drysdale, Podres and two days of smog is no solution?)

Bearcats Run Unbeaten Streak to 31

Compiled From Wire Services

Cincinnati's Bearcats ran their unbeaten basketball string to 31 games — 13 this year—but it wasn't without some anxious moments Saturday night.

Trailing most of the first half, Cincinnati managed a 32-32 tie at intermission and then let Ron Bonham fire away in the final period.

Bonham scored 20 points in those final 24 minutes and had 30 for the game.

The score was 67-57.

* * * *

OTHER RANKED teams in the United Press International poll kept their high rating intact, too. Second-rated Loyola of Illinois was idle but all the others won.

Illinois (No. 3) went on a spree, whipping Purdue, 106-82, as six players hit in double figures, while Arizona State (No. 4) was downing Utah, 80-65.

Fifth-ranked Ohio State won its second two-point game, nipping Michigan, 68-66 as Gary Bradds scored 33. Sixth-rated Duke got 28 points out of Art Heyman and topped Clemson, 78-67.

* * * *

GEORGIA Tech (No. 7) and Mississippi State (No. 8) were hard-pressed, but the Yellow-jackets remained unbeaten by edging Mississippi, 73-71, while State topped Vanderbilt, 58-55.

Ninth-ranked Wichita ended Bradley's dreams of gaining a higher rating by crushing the Braves, 79-60.

UCLA (No. 10) rallied in the second half to whip California, 63-58.

Records Fall as Indoor 'Cinder' Season Opens

BOSTON (UPI) — Canadian schoolboy Bruce Kidd set new Boston Garden and meet two-mile records in the Knights of Columbus indoor track meet Saturday night, winning in 8:43.2, about nine seconds off the indoor record.

Veteran New York steeplechaser Pete McArdle was second by half a lap as Kidd produced a 60.7 final quarter.

Previously, bespectacled Canadian Bill Crothers raced to a meet record of 2:08.2 in the 1,000-yard run in the college-abandoned meet.

Crothers, whose sprints on the final two laps gave him a 15-yard victory over Air Force Lt. Ernie Cunliffe of Oxnard AFB, Calif., trailed until late in the race.

Veteran sprinter Ira Murchison of Chicago captured the 50-yard dash crown, a triumph he first scored here five years ago, in 5.5.

* * * *

ONE-TIME high jump king John Thomas of Boston won his specialty at an even 7 feet, failing in three tries at 7-feet-2-inches. His competition, headed by Guatamalian Theodore Palacious, fouled out at 6-6.

In the mile, Kansan Bill Dotson staged an upset by winning in the slow time of 4:09.9. Dotson edged Canadian Jim Irish at the tape and both whipped Finnish favorite Olavi Salonen.

Unchallenged hurdle king Hayes Jones won his 30th successive indoor event with a three-yard victory in 5.5 for 45 yards.

Dave Tork, Henry Wadsworth and John Belitza pole vaulted 15 feet, 6 inches, but all failed at 16-2.

The trio, who finished in that order on the basis of early misses, were shooting at Don Meyers' indoor mark of 16 feet, 1¼ inches.

Three ineligible athletes from the U. of Maryland defied the NCAA's edict and competed in the AAU-sponsored meet.

Rabbits Bow to Compton

By NORM WILKY

Compton High put an end to Poly's dreams of an unbeaten season, halting the Rabbits' win streak at 15 with a 59-50 victory in the Tarbabes' gym Saturday night.

It was the amazing performance of forward Mike Jacobs and Poly's poor outside shooting and lack of rebounding which made the difference.

Jacobs scored 29 points, 15 in the last half. Poly hit only 34 per cent of its shots and its 50 points marked a season low. Also, the Hares grabbed only seven offensive rebounds.

* * * *

POLY LED after the first period, but Compton took command until late in the third stanza when the Rabbits gained a one-point lead. It was their last, however.

The game remained close until the final four minutes when the Tarbabes (13-2) pulled away.

AFL 'TOO YOUNG TO BE ACCUSED'

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—The American Football League, prompted by "rumors of gambling" in the National Football League, plans to tighten security regulations before next season, commissioner Joe Foss said Saturday at the conclusion of the AFL meetings.

Discussing possible violations in the AFL, Foss explained:

"We're too young a league to be accused of anything yet."

union, but it wasn't. The Huskies almost lost it as Gordy Martin and Wells Sloniger played splendidly in the closing minutes.

* * * *

MARTIN AND Sloniger each hit a pair of free throws to pull to within four points with two minutes remaining. Martin drove for a field goal that made it a two-point difference.

Martin, Troy's high scorer with 18, added two more free throws, but didn't regain the lead because Charley Hart sneaked in three free throws for the Northerners. Hart didn't score many, but he got three of them when they were the difference between winning and losing.

side shooting, winding up with 25 points, five less than Baylor. However, 13 of Baylor's came in the final period and he dominated the boards in the last few minutes. West, playing well throughout, was tops with 33.

The Lakers take on the New York Knicks tonight at 7:05 at the L.A. Arena.

Invariably the Lakers have had trouble with the Warriors in the first two quarters. After knotting the score several times and leading once by six points, the Lakers could not hold their advantage. Wilt hit his first two attempts in the opening moments, tailed off somewhat afterwards, but passing and rebounding well paced San Francisco to a 61-53 halftime lead.

That Warrior lead at intermission was exactly what it was in San Francisco Friday night although Bob Ferrick's club on that occasion once held an 18-point advantage.

Chamberlain had high scoring marks of 72, 67, 62 against the Lakers in earlier games. . . . Also he has scored 50 or more points in 20 games but the Warriors have won only 15 all season. . . . The Lakers came to the Arena with a 14-7 road mark, best in the NBA, although getting off to a poor 1-4 start. . . . They are fabulous at home, 18-2. . . . President Bob Short of the Lakers was among the huge throng enjoying the game. . . . Short is beaming these days over the showing of his transplanted team. . . . He is here primarily to help set up the big all-star game Wednesday night at the Arena. . . . An oddity in the second quarter—the Lakers did not make a free throw. . . . Wilt, in more than 300 NBA games, had never fouled out. . . . Baylor has fouled out only 13 times.

THE 59-POINT output was Long Beach's low of the year, a sharp contrast to Friday's season high of 90. For the night, LBSC hit 22 of 71 shots for a miserable 31 per cent. Fresno connected on 24 of 51 for 47 per cent. The Bulldogs also cashed in 28 of 40 free throws, nearly double LBSC's 15 of 20.

Andersen, who had trouble evading Jacobsen's guarding, led the losers with 16 points, 12 of which came in the second half. Montgomery again had to settle for a first-half scoring binge of 12 points. This duplicated his Friday performance when he also failed to score after intermission.

The 49ers now are idle until Jan. 25 when they travel to Santa Barbara to resume league play.

The host Spartans had three men in double scoring figures — Eddie Sims with 15, Harry Edwards with 13 and Bill Yonge with 12. Sims pulled down 12 rebounds.

Daniels Registers TKO Win Over Alongi

NEW YORK (UPI)—Heavyweight Billy Daniels of Ozone Park, N. Y., scored a technical knockout over tall Tony Alongi of Hollywood, Fla., Saturday night in the fifth round after Alongi had been officially floored twice but was on the deck three times in their nationally televised fight at Sunnyside Garden.

Midway in the fifth Daniels suddenly nailed Alongi with a right to the chin that dropped him. Another right and he was down for another mandatory eight count, and a combination right and shove floored him again.

Stanford Routs OSU as Dose Scores 29

STANFORD (AP)—Stanford, jumping off to 27-point lead in the first half, coasted to a 96-69 win over Oregon State Saturday night in a non-conference basketball game to avenge its 65-58 defeat by the Beavers Friday night.

Stanford center Tom Dose led the Indians with 29 points.

Hitting over 50 per cent of their shots, the Indians piled up an early 16-4 lead and built it up to 41-14 with seven minutes left.

Then the Beavers cut away at the margin, mostly on long jump shots by their 7-foot center Mel Counts, and Stanford led by 14 at the half, 53-39.

The ball-hugging Beavers cut the Stanford margin to 11 in the second half at 65-54, but then Counts fouled out with 11 minutes and 44 seconds left. Stanford breezed from there.

It was the worst defeat ever suffered by Oregon State at the hands of the Indians.

Counts was high for the Beavers with 20 points. OSU star Terry Baker was held to 11 points.

WYNN

Man to Man

TITTLE

By JERRY WYNN

His real name is Yelberton Abraham, but he goes by Y. A., the players call him Yat, the sportswriters peg him as the Bald Eagle and at the Pro Bowl luncheon the other day, he was introduced as "the stone-age Terry Baker."

Call him what you like, Y. A. Tittle is enjoying a second childhood — pro football variety — at the age of 36. Cast off as a "has-been" from the San Francisco 49ers, he has been and still is the star quarterback of the Eastern Division champion New York Giants.

Tittle, in 1962, set a new NFL record with 33 touchdown passes, tied another mark with seven TD passes in one game, and was named "player of the year" in several polls. Today he leads the East team against the West in the annual Pro Bowl classic at the Coliseum.

Is the East team going to win, Y. A.?

"I think we have a real good chance. We have a great team, but so do they. That's what makes the game so good."

With such great receivers as Del Shofner, Bobby Mitchell, Sonny Randle and Tommy McDonald, will Jim Brown get a chance to run with the ball?

"Sure. I'm happy to have so many good receivers, but we will play the usual game. It won't be 60 passes and two runs. You've got to be able to run with the ball to make the passing go."

At San Francisco, you had such fine receivers as Billy Wilson and Gordy Soltau. How does Shofner compare to them?

"Del is the finest deep receiver I've ever thrown to. In fact, he's the finest in the game. Wilson was a good short pass receiver and had the knack of getting open."

Did you enjoy your playing days with the 49ers as much as you do with the Giants?

"I enjoyed playing in San Francisco. That's my home. The fans and press treated me well. The only thing we missed was having a champion. We have that in New York, and of course, the fans love it. The Giants this year were the best team I've ever played for."

Is Green Bay the best team you've ever played against?

"It's a very fine team, no question about it. Probably the best-balanced team. But every year, the team that's champion is a great team. I don't know if the Packers are better than some of the other champions."

Do you think the Giants would have beaten the Packers in the championship game if the weather had been better?

"We would like to think we could. That's not to minimize their success. They're a great team, and the weather affected them, too. It was the worst I've ever played in . . . not so much the cold but the wind. We had a gale of about 35 miles blowing."

After 22 years as a player and 15 of them in pro ball, how long do you plan to continue to play?

"Just one more season. Physically, I still feel fine and probably could keep going longer. You know, a quarterback doesn't take the punishment some other players do. But I've got an insurance business in Palo Alto that requires more and more of my time and three children to think about. A guy can't play forever."

What has been your greatest thrill in football?

"It was at the end of the last game of the 1961 season against Cleveland at Yankee Stadium when the fans started a 10-second countdown. You know, how they count off the final seconds. I had that great feeling of being a champion for the first time in my life."

BALLOTING BEGINS TODAY

Who's L.B.'s 'Most Popular?'

Who was Long Beach's most popular athlete in 1962?

The Long Beach Century Club intends to find the answer before its seventh annual Sports Night awards banquet Jan. 24 in the Lafayette Hotel.

VICKI VAN HOOK
Popular Water Skier

For the fourth consecutive year, the Independent-Press Telegram will work in conjunction with the Century Club to determine the most popular Long Beach athlete — whether the person's sport be volleyball, badminton, football or kendo.

Beginning today, and continuing throughout the week, this newspaper will print a "Most Popular Athlete" ballot. The athlete who receives the most votes through the newspaper ballots will be presented a special trophy at the banquet.

Any Long Beach athlete is eligible for a vote. Only stipulation in voting is that the candidate be engaged currently in athletics. No retired athletes are eligible.

Winners the previous three years have been Bob Soth (1960 Olympic Games distance runner), Vicki Van Hook (national water ski champion) and Ron Fairly (Dodger first baseman).

BOB SOTH
Popular Distance Star

Meanwhile, guest acceptances for this year's annual banquet—honoring football star Johnny Olszewski and Long Beach athletes who have distinguished themselves during 1962 — have been pouring into the Century Club office at a fast clip. Not only former college and professional colleagues of Johnny-O will be on hand to honor the 17-year gridiron veteran, but also luminaries from baseball, auto racing, track-and-field, basketball, hockey, tennis, swimming and every other recognized sport.

Announcement of some of the nationally-known figures will be made beginning Monday.

Tickets (at $10 per seat) can be secured at Apple Valley Steak House, Kenny's Sporting Goods Store and through a special ticket box printed on this page of today's sports section.

TOP PLAYER AT SAN DIEGO
Gary Player belts one down the middle during third round of San Diego Open. The South African flash slipped to 70 Saturday after pair of 65s, but still holds one-shot lead.

Player Slips to 70, Still Leads by 1 Shot

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Gary Player's birdie production dropped off Saturday but he still fired a one under par 70 to retain his lead at the end of 54 holes in the San Diego Open golf tournament.

Player posted a score of 200, one shot ahead of Billy Casper and the fast-closing longshot, Miller Barber of Rye, N.Y.

The little South African star had checked in with identical 65s on the first two rounds but had a bit of trouble Saturday as the course played longer and tougher. And he had to settle for a 36-34, getting two birdies on the back nine to hold the lead he had established at the halfway mark Friday.

Casper, recovering from an illness that nearly sidelined him Friday, checked in with a 69 to gain a stroke. He had nines of 36-33 for a 201 total. Barber, a 31-year-old part-time touring pro, had a fine 66 on nines of 35-31.

The husky professional, who never had finished better than third in any PGA tourney, spanked his irons so close to the pin that he was shooting for birdies all day long. He had five of these on the back nine, with the longest from 10 feet and one from three inches.

* * * *

TIED FOR fourth place were Negro champion Charley Sifford, who had a 67, and Fred Hawkins of El Paso, who blew to a par 71 after two straight 66s.

The course played much longer Saturday due to a light breeze, and practically all the par four holes required long iron or wood approaches.

"I had to use a wood or a three or four iron on nearly every par-4 hole on the whole round," said Art Wall, who finished with a 68 for a total of 205.

* * * *

BIG GEORGE Bayer, the former football player, was disqualified for the illegal lifting of his ball. He had shot a 73 and was far back at 215.

Player said that he still thinks the tourney record of 269 will be broken.

"The wind came up today and hurt my chances for a good score," he said.

Gulls, Stars Collide on TV

By DOUG IVES

Long Beach and Burbank, as evenly matched as the Bobbsy Twins, resume their California Hockey League feud today at Pickwick Arena in Burbank at 2:30 p.m.

KTLA, channel 5, will televise the contest, which could develop into a real donnybrook after the ruckus raised in Burbank Thursday night.

The Stars are still grumbling about that game, which ended in a 5-5 tie. They were called on three misconduct penalties and their top scorer, Ron Bahr, was kicked out of the game.

* * * *

LONG BEACH still is trying to take over the CHL lead, despite the fact it has the only unbeaten (7-0-4) record in the league. Burbank (8-1-3) leads by one point.

Coach Doug Bentley, who didn't suit up Thursday, will be back in uniform today, thus setting up a brother act with Stars' coach Max Bentley.

Ernie Rucks will shift to center, replacing Ken Watson, who left to become player-coach of the Los Angeles Canadians Friday.

Don Makow, with two assists Thursday, has taken over the Gulls' scoring lead with 26 points. Vern Wildeman and Rucks each have 24. Week's schedule:

Today — L.B. at Burbank, Pickwick Arena, 2:30 p.m.; Los Angeles at Bakersfield, 7:30 p.m.
Tuesday—L.B. at Los Angeles, Culver City Ice Rink, 8:15 p.m.
Thursday—Los Angeles at Burbank, 8:15 p.m.
Sunday (20th)—Burbank at Los Angeles, 2:30 p.m.; L.B. at Bakersfield, 7:30 p.m.

Gulls Tickets

Tickets for Long Beach Gulls hockey games are on sale at the Gulls office, 209 E. Ocean Blvd., and at the Arena. Box offices open daily at 10 a.m.

The Gulls' next home game will be played against the Burbank Stars Jan. 22. For information call 437-7027 or 437-3405.

L.A. Opens Drive for Olympics

NEW YORK (UPI)—A two-man delegation which is heading the drive to get the 1968 Olympic Games for Los Angeles conferred informally Saturday with Gen. Douglas MacArthur, who has been named as arbitrator in the current dispute between the Amateur Athletic Union and the National Collegiate Athletic Assn.

Joe Quinn, special assistant to Mayor Sam Yorty of Los Angeles, said he and Mel Pierson, president of the Los Angeles Reservation and Parks Commission, invited MacArthur to come out to light the torch for the 1968 Games "if we get them. He said he would be glad to do so."

Quinn said the he and Pierson will confer with Douglas F. Roby, vice president of the U. S. Olympic Committee.

Quinn said it was his understanding that the Detroit group was convinced that it would not win the approval of the International Olympic Committee as the site for the 1968 Games.

The U. S. Olympic Committee selected Detroit as the U. S. city to bid for the Games.

Jack Tobin, former sports writer for the Long Beach Press-Telegram, was appointed by the Coliseum Commission to the new post as director of Olympic Games promotion.

Giants Entitled to Amalfitano in Toto

By HARRY GRAYSON
(NEA Sports Writer)

An unusual baseball transaction sent Joe Amalfitano back to San Francisco from Houston.

This time the Giants gave up Dick LeMay, a left-handed pitcher, and outfielder-infielder Manny Mota.

This being the Giants' third deal for Amalfitano, it might safely be said that they now have permanent possession. Horace Stoneham and Co. most certainly are entitled to the versatile San Pedro athlete in toto.

* * * *

SOMEBODY at Candlestick Park sees something in Amalfitano, who will be 29 when the season rolls around.

The Giants were still in New York when Amalfitano, then 20, was plucked out of Loyola University in February, 1954, by scout Dutch Reuther. The kid was given a $30,000 bonus and that fall picked up an $11,000 World Series check for little more than keeping out of the regular Giants' way as they swept the set with Cleveland.

In those days, a bonus baby had to be carried by the parent club for two years, so young Amalfitano sat around doing little more than errand boy duties throughout 1955.

After three years in the American Assn., Eastern League and PCL, the Giants peddled Amalfitano to Toronto in 1959.

When he settled down at second base and batted .308 for the Maple Leafs, however, Amalfitano was drafted by the Giants for $25,000.

Joey was useful to the Giants in 1960 and '61 and they reluctantly put him on the expansion draft list when they had no alternative. When Houston took him as a premium pick at $125,000, the Giants tried to buy him back at the same price.

Now he's back with the Giants for the third time. He batted no more than .237 for Houston the past season, but, you see, somebody up there likes him—meaning in Horace Stoneham's office.

BETTING ON SPORTS MAJOR PROBLEM

'Need New Laws to Halt Fixes'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Attorney general Robert F. Kennedy reported to the President Saturday that new legislation may be necessary to give the government greater powers to crack down on gamblers who attempt to fix professional and amateur sports events.

In a report to the White House on the 1962 Justice Department fight against organized crime, the attorney general said betting on sports events remained a major problem in combatting racketeering.

He said his department had investigated reported "fix" attempts but that federal responsibility in this area was limited.

"Further legislation might well be necessary," he said, "We will continue, however, to take action under present authority, and local agencies . . . energy and integrity on the part of all law enforcement offices . . . the interest and involvement of every citizen."

The report said Internal Revenue Service figures showed a sharp decline in illegal gambling across the country, but that organized crime still continued "to tap the pocketbooks and sap the morality of our citizens."

One notable improvement in 1962, he said, was the enforcement of new anti-racketeering laws to help shut down national race results services, the distribution of telephone gambling information, and bookmaking.

According to Internal Revenue, gamblers across the country in fiscal 1962 reported accepting bets of $53,490,000 — the lowest figure since 1952 when the federal law first required a license stamp for anyone accepting bets.

Troy-Husky Basketball Fix Try Not a 'Joke,' Say Police

Los Angeles authorities declined Saturday to accept a 29-year-old truck driver's explanation that he was only kidding when he assertedly tried to bribe a University of Washington basketball player.

Officers grabbed David Donahue outside the L. A. Sports Arena Friday night just before the Huskies played the University of Southern California.

Donahue, booked on suspicion of attempting to bribe a sports participant, told detectives he "was just fooling around" when he made the cash-in-hand gesture to Washington's Larry Sharp.

Sharp scored one point during his 20 minutes of play. Southern California won 64-61.

* * * *

SHARP TOLD police Donahue approached him as he entered the Arena and asked him if he was with the team.

He said Donahue then asked:

"How about missing a few buckets tonight and I'll give you $500."

Donahue then pulled out a handful of money, Sharp said, and called to another man standing nearby.

"We'll each give you $500."

Sharp said Donahue told him.

Sharp said he replied he wasn't interested and walked away.

He told his coach, John Grayson, who alerted Southern California athletic director Jess Hill.

Officers found Donahue outside the Arena.

The second man also was questioned but was released after he insisted he knew nothing about Donahue's acts.

Police said Donahue told them he had been trying to buy tickets for re-sale and that the incident was a "big joke."

"I didn't mean anything by it," he told officers.

Trainer Dave Parker of the Los Angeles Blades, injured in a freak accident during a Western Hockey League match Thursday night, is expected to leave the hospital today.

The accident occurred when two skaters slammed in to the door leading to the players' box. The door flipped open and struck Parker in the lower abdomen, causing painful internal injuries.

Another Runaway for Wills: 'Athlete of Year'

By Associated Press

Maurice Morning Maury Wills, the base stealing son of a Washington minister, was named "athlete of the year" for 1962 Saturday.

The Dodger shortstop, who smashed one of the "unbreakable" marks in sports as he flashed to 104 stolen bases last season, won the honors by a wide margin in the annual Associated Press poll.

Wills captured 72 first place votes and 338 points on a 3-2-1 basis from a national panel of 302 sportswriters and sportcasters who participated in the poll.

* * * *

GOLFER Jack Nicklaus, whose first tournament victory as a pro was the U. S. Open, was runnerup, with 38 first place votes and 208 points. Y. A. Tittle, the old Bald Eagle quarterback of the New York Football Giants, was third in the voting with 38 first place votes and 180 points.

Golf's Arnold Palmer was fourth and the crushing fullback of the NFL champion Green Bay Packers, Jim Taylor, was fifth.

Wills was the 12th baseball winner of the award since the poll was started in 1931. Pepper Martin captured the honors the first year.

* * * *

ROGER MARIS of the New York Yankees, who wrestled with another of baseball's mighty marks when he hit 61 home runs for an asterisk decision over Babe Ruth's 60, won the award last year. However, surly Roger who had only an ordinary year in 1962, did not receive a single vote for first, second or third place in this year's balloting.

The runaway victory for Wills was fitting. He captured the national fancy as he closed in on Ty Cobb's mark of 96 stolen bases set in 1915, then passed it and finally emerged with 104 steals in the 165 games the Dodgers played, including three playoff games with the San Francisco Giants.

Wills on first was a fearful sight to the opposition because very often the next sight they saw was the slender shortstop standing safely on second, brushing off his uniform while the dust settled. He was caught stealing only 13 times in 117 attempts.

The Dodger shortstop soared to the sports peak at the age of 30. He was born one of 13 children of a Washington minister, and now has five children of his own.

He batted over .300 most of last season and sagged to his final .299 only on his last at bat. His 208 hits was the best total for a National League shortstop since Dave Bancroft of the New York Giants in 1922, and completely silenced any comments about not being able to steal first base.

He also sparkled in the field and displayed one of the strongest arms in the majors.

The voting points on a 3-2-1 basis, first place votes in parentheses:

1. Maury Wills, baseball (72)..... 338
2. Jack Nicklaus, golf (38)..... 209
3. Y. A. Tittle, football (38)..... 169
4. Arnold Palmer, golf (20)..... 111
5. Jim Taylor, football (22)..... 102
6. Terry Baker, football (16)..... 93
7. Mickey Mantle, baseball (14)..... 78
8. Sonny Liston, boxing (12)..... 72
9. Jim Beatty, track (9)..... 59
10. Warren Spahn, baseball (9)..... 56

Others receiving first place votes: Don Carter, bowling; Willie Mays, baseball; Peter Snell, track; Jerry Lucas, basketball; Bill Russell, basketball; Bus Mosbacher, sailing; Valery Brumel, track; Rod Laver, tennis; Lee Roy Jordan, football; Don Drysdale, baseball; Chet Jastremski, swimming; Pete Rademacher, baseball; Robin Roberts, baseball.

'FOR THE GOOD OF THE ATHLETES'

10 Colleges Reject NCAA Policy, Enter Invitational

Long Beach State and nine other colleges or universities are planning to defy a recommendation of the National Collegiate Athletic Assn. and enter athletes in the AAU-sanctioned L.A. Invitational track meet on Jan. 19, it was learned Saturday.

In each instance, school spokesmen declared that their athletes' welfare was the sole consideration in bypassing a policy adopted by the NCAA convention in Los Angeles last week.

* * * *

THE RESOLUTION urges all colleges to support only meets sanctioned by the new U.S. Track and Field Federation. The Invitational has been sanctioned only by the AAU.

Athletes of the 10 schools planning to compete Saturday are entered unattached, not as representatives of their schools.

USC, California and Stanford, members of the Big Six which has spearheaded the Federation's drive against the venerable AAU, are awaiting a conference ruling, which is expected Monday.

Entries from Oregon State, Long Beach State, Los Angeles State, Redlands, Pepperdine, Claremont-Mudd and Cal Poly of Pomona apparently are firm.

Long Beach State also has accepted invitations to compete in the February Los Angeles Indoor Championships and Golden State Invitational in San Francisco.

Jack Rose, L.B. State coach, said Saturday night, "We don't want controversy, just a chance to run. Our boys have worked very hard. They're enthusiastic and eager and we expect them to do a good job. It would be a shame if they weren't permitted to compete after all that practice."

Robert Pestolesi, assistant 49er athletic director, stated, "We don't believe in hurting good meets by staying out or hurting our athletes by keeping them out."

L.B. State's entries were determined by time trials.

* * * *

THE 49ers will oppose Redlands, Pepperdine and Claremont-Mudd in the college mile relay with a team of Jim Richardson (49.9) Jeff Clements (49.9), Norm Johannes (51.3) and Dave Shirley (51.3).

Long Beach's college division two-mile relay team will be composed of Lee Ralph (1:53.9), Bill Crowley (1:55.9), Steve Tilney (1:55.9) and Darryl Taylor (1:55.9). Opponents will be Pepperdine, Cal Poly of Pomona and Claremont-Mudd.

The 49ers also entered Dee Andrews (24-11 last year) in the broad jump.

Joe Schmidt: 890 Chances, 7 Errors

An observer remarked recently that "watching the Detroit Lions play without Joe Schmidt would be like watching a burlesque show that doesn't have a stripper."

Schmidt, who will lend his tremendous defensive talents to the West squad in today's Pro Bowl game at the Coliseum, is regarded as the greatest middle linebacker the game has yet known.

In fact, when the word got around last year that the movie people were considering the life story of the widely-publicized Sam Huff, middle linebacker of the New York Giants, one pro football observed: "If they do, they'll have to get Schmidt to play the part if they want an Academy Award performance.

JOE SCHMIDT
Highest-Paid Lion

Schmidt personifies the new era of pro football in which defense has become so dominant. In fact, it is feared that the strong defenses are threatening to choke off the pro sport's lifeblood of popularity — wide-open offense.

Joe doesn't agree with this. "Sure, it's evident that defense has gotten a lot better in the last five years or so. But it also is a lot more popular with the fans. They now watch and appreciate defensive play as much as they do the running and passing," he says.

Will the pro strategists do something soon to bring offense back into the spotlight?

"I think defense is going to stay this way a long, long time," he points out. "The personnel is getting better all the time and the emphasis on strong defense is greater. To win in the NFL, you must have a strong defense and every team knows it.

"I'm not sure what the next trend will be in offense, maybe multiple formations, like the Dallas Cowboys used the past season. They really mix 'em up. It takes variations like that to keep the defense loose and off balance."

SCHMIDT HAS BEEN IN PRO BALL 10 years after having been persuaded by his brother to try out with the Lions. "I didn't think I had a chance to make the club," he reveals. "They had just won the championship and I didn't think they'd be looking for a new linebacker, especially a rookie who was only their No. 7 draft choice."

Buddy Parker, who was coach of the Lions then, pointed out at the recent NFL draft meeting that "you just don't find men like Schmidt any more after the first couple of rounds in the draft — if then.

"He was a real bargain. We only had to pay him $7,500 that first year. Kids coming into the league now will get more than twice that much . . . and they're not in the same class as Schmidt was even as a rookie."

Joe's salary is now $27,000 a year, making him the highest-paid man on the Lion squad and one of the highest in the entire NFL, which now has a peak salary figure of $35,000 for an offensive star.

Schmidt also is the most popular man on the Detroit team and highly-respected and liked throughout pro ball.

WHO WAS THE MIDDLE LINEBACKER with the Lions before Schmidt?

The answer is — nobody. In fact, Joe didn't play that position until his third season (1955).

"They used a five-man line on defense when I came into the league," he recalls. "Les Bingaman was the Lions' middle guard. I played left corner linebacker. Laverne Torgeson was on the right side. We had nobody in the middle.

"The middle linebacker was born of necessity. Offenses started going into more spreads and using slot backs and it got so the middle of the defense was left open to passing. The middle guard was dropped off and the middle linebacker took his place."

The 5-11, 215-pound Schmidt has been an all-league selection in eight of his 10 seasons in the NFL and a participant in the Pro Bowl since '55.

Although he's one of the three oldest men in the league from the standpoint of service, he says "I still feel I want to play a couple of more years . . . maybe even longer. It all depends on how I feel. When I don't enjoy it any longer, then I will know it is time to get out."

THE RESPONSIBILITIES of a middle linebacker and defensive leader like Schmidt are awesome, indeed, in today's intricate game. He must have total recall of as many as 50 variations of basic defense formations as well as the play patterns and play trends used by opposing teams. It requires an alert mind as well as brawn to handle his job.

Statistics prove his effectiveness. Game charts of the 1961 season show that Schmidt was guilty of only SEVEN mistakes in judgment of execution out of 890 plays run off by the opposition.

That's a fantastic record. The average man makes that many mistakes in a single afternoon. The 1962 charts are not complete, but the Lion coaching staff is betting that they'll show Joe made even fewer mistakes than the year before.

What a man!

West Slim Choice in AFL All-Star Contest

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — The American football league presents its second annual glamour show today, featuring a 61 per cent-completions passer, three 1,000-yard ground gainers, possibly the best rookie ball carrier in professional football and a 321-pound defensive lineman.

The passer is Len Dawson of Dallas, who was named by the players as the league's premier performer this season. The runners are Cookie Gilchrist of Buffalo, who set a league rushing record of 1,096 yards; Abner Haynes of Dallas, who gained 1,049 yards; and Charlie Tolar of Houston who picked up 1,012 yards.

* * * *

THE ROOKIE is Curtis McClinton of Dallas, who came off the bench after an injury to Jack Spikes early in the season to spark the Texans to the league title. He was named rookie of the year.

The lineman is Ernie Ladd of San Diego who threatens to cut down Gilchrist's and Tolar's rushing statistics.

Dallas overcame Houston, 20-17, in overtime in the title game, and a dozen members of each team resume the rivalry today.

The East was favored last year and lost, 47-27. The West is a 3½ point favorite.

NBA STAR GAME WEDNESDAY

By DON HARDIN

The most sparkling array of basketball players in the world will grace the L.A. Sports Arena floor Wednesday night when the National Basketball Assn. holds its annual all-star game.

For the first time since its inception this game, featuring the cream of the crop from the Western and Eastern Divisions, will be played on the West Coast. A capacity crowd of 15,000 is expected.

Three-fifths of the Lakers' starting team will be on the court. Jerry West and Elgin Baylor are definite starters for the West and Rudy LaRusso will see plenty of action at a forward post.

* * * *

BOB PETTIT, the St. Louis Hawks' star, will be a starting forward. Wilt Chamberlain and Walt Bellamy will alternate at center.

Fred Schaus of the division-leading Lakers will coach the West. Red Auerbach of the champion Boston Celtics will coach the East.

Auerbach's squad is headed by his all-pro center, Bill Russell, and teammates Tommy Heinsohn and Bob Cousy. Oscar Robertson of Cincinnati and Richie Guerin of New York are guard stars.

The West is a slight favorite in the battle of 12-man squads.

The skyscraping duel between scoring-machine Chamberlain and defensive ace Russell figures to top the other individual battles.

The Chamberlain-Russell rivalry began when Wilt came into the NBA four years ago. But this is the first time the two have opposed each other in the all-star competition.

Chamberlain and Russell always played on the same team, the East — and the West won two of the three — since Philadelphia and the Celtics were in that division. However, since the Warriors moved to San Francisco Wilt's a Westerner now.

Chamberlain leads the NBA in scoring with a 47.5 average, while Baylor is next with a 34.5 mark. Robertson is tops in field goal accuracy at 52 per cent, while Chamberlain is first in rebounds with 25 and Russell is second with 23 a game.

The game will not be televised in Southern California.

Graham Not in Line for Browns' Job

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Cleveland Brown's president Arthur Modell said Saturday he has not contacted Otto Graham, former Brown star quarterback, about succeeding Paul Brown as head coach of the team.

"I have not approached Graham about the job," Modell said. "I have four men in mind — three assistant coaches in pro football and one college coach."

"I should have an announcement within a few days," he said.

* * * *

MODELL SAID his list includes "at least one of the Browns' assistant coaches." He declined to comment further.

Mentioned most prominently since Brown was fired Wednesday have been Blanton Collier, Browns' backfield coach; Ara Parseghian, head coach at Northwestern and a former Browns' player; Bill Austin, assistant Green Bay Packers' coach and Tom Landry, head coach of the Dallas Cowboys.

Modell's statement would appear to eliminate Landry.

Bolero Makes Fine Debut After Gear Troubles

CAT CAY, Bahamas (UPI) — Bolero, a speedy competitor from the Pacific Coast, made an impressive debut in Southern ocean racing Saturday by showing her stern to the fleet of East Coast yachts in the Miami to Cat Cay season opener.

The white-hulled, 73-foot-6 yawl raced by Sally Langmuir of Beverly Hills, Calif., lost time repairing gear trouble after crossing the rough Gulf Stream but still reached the finish line more than three hours in front of her nearest opponent.

She was a winner in the overall finish, but spotted the others handicaps ranging up to 3 hours 50 minutes and beat them all on corrected time.

Bolero's time for the 92 miles she covered in a windward beat through rough seas was 15 hours 41 minutes 25 seconds.

Good Hope, George Slayton's 63-footer out of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., finished second, a little over three hours behind Bolero.

Haney Sends Out 41 Pacts; Pay Hikes Due

General manager Fred Haney mailed out 1963 Angel baseball contracts to 41 players Saturday and commented that some contain rewards for work well done in 1962.

The club finished a surprising third in the American League last season. The team was formed only two years ago.

"I have talked to a number of the players living in the Los Angeles area about their contracts," Haney said, "and I do not anticipate any great difficulties with any player. I also talked to Lee Thomas when he was in the city earlier this week."

* * * *

"MANY OF our men had fine years in 1962," Haney said, "and it was their performances which enabled the Angels to finish third. In sending out their new contracts, they are being rewarded for their good work."

The Angels open spring training Feb. 12 in Palm Springs.

Bo Belinsky, the left-handed pitcher who stirred up considerable controversy during the 1962 season, was among those on the contract mailing list.

Right-hander Bob Turley, a conditional purchase from the New York Yankees, also was tendered a contract.

* * * *

LONG BEACH'S Brian McCall became the first to sign with the Chicago White Sox Saturday. McCall batted .303 in the Northwest League in 1962 and hit two homers against the Yankees when called up late in the season.

Former Dodger Bob Lillis was named the Houston Colts' most valuable player for 1962. Signings:

Orioles—Hoyl Wilhelm, who won seven games last season and saved 13 . . . Wilhelm will be 40 in July.

Pirates—Pitchers Harvey Haddix and Tom Sturdivant . . . Haddix was 9-6 and Sturdivant 9-5 in 1962.

Braves—Veteran catcher Del Crandall, now in his 10th season with Milwaukee.

Mets—Catcher Clarence Coleman and three newcomers, outfielder Dick Smith, first baseman Ed Kranepool, a high bonus choice from Auburn, and pitcher Larry Bearmarth.

Reds—Pitcher Bob Purkey, baseball's top percentage pitcher last year with a 23-5 record . . . He reportedly received a substantial raise.

Giants—Third baseman Jim Davenport, who hit .292 last season . . . He also reportedly got a raise in pay.

Proctor's Wins, 8-7

Proctor's Sporting Goods used seven pitchers to down the Dodgers Rookies 8-7 Saturday in a wind-swept Saturday Semi-Pro Baseball league game at Blair Field.

LBSC Boosters Plan Breakfast

Long Beach State's 49er booster club will hold its first tip-off breakfast Monday morning in the college cafeteria starting at 7 o'clock.

Coach Dick Perry will discuss the weekend's basketball activity with Cal Poly and Fresno State. The public is invited to attend.

Films of the Idaho-LBSC game will be shown in which local fans will get their first glimpse of the great Gus Johnson. The only two games the Vandals have dropped this year were when the 6-6 junior didn't suit up.

TICKETS ON SALE FOR TROTTERS' L.B. SHOW

Walfachs Music City has been added to the list of locations where tickets are now available for the Harlem Globetrotters' one-night appearance at the Long Beach Arena Feb. 2.

Tickets are also available at Proctor's Sporting Goods, Humphrey's Music Co., and at 130 Pine Ave., room 212. For additional information call HE 6-7271.

Cab Calloway, the celebrated "Hi-De-Ho" man, and famed one-legged dancing star "Peg Leg" Bates co-feature the halftime show. Also in the show are champion baton twirling and table tennis exhibitions.

The Trotters are in their 36th year of operation and this year's club is one of the best, headed by funnyman Meadowlark Lemon.

MAKES UP 8 LENGTHS

By ERNIE MASON

Crimson Satan, with Herb Hinojosa in the saddle, whittled down Native Diver's eight-length lead and won Saturday's $50,000-added San Fernando Stakes in a photo finish at Santa Anita.

Willie Shoemaker kept Native Diver up for a second-place finish. Pirate Cove finished third, six lengths back.

Hinojosa made his move at about the half-mile pole in the 1⅛-mile race, finishing in 1 minute, 47 1/5 seconds to clip two-fifths of a second off the race record set two years ago by Prove It.

Crimson Satan, the second favorite at 2-1, paid $5.40, $3 and $2.40, Native Diver $3 and $2.60, Pirate Cove $3.

Hinojosa flew in from Florida to pilot the distance specialist. Crimson Satan looked impressive in the San Carlos last week, closing fast to finish fourth.

Four of the past five winners of the San Fernando have gone on to win the $100,000 Santa Anita Maturity.

Native Diver was high-weighted at 120 pounds. Crimson Satan carried 117.

* * * *

NATIVE DIVER raced into command going into the first turn and drew into his long lead going down the backstretch.

Crimson Satan, rated well far back of the pace in the first one-half mile, then went to the outside for clear racing room to advance steadily.

Hinojosa kept the Crimson King Farm entry slightly back of Native Diver for a short distance, then got him up under strong handling to win it.

Native Diver was the entry of Mr. and Mrs. L. K. Shapiro. Pirate Cove, an H. B. Keck entry with Olympiarco, stayed close to the pace to the far turn then gave way but held on under strong urging.

Native Diver's stable had thought so little of his distance running ability that the colt was not nominated for the $100,000 Charles H. Strub Stakes for 4-year-olds, Jan. 26. The Strub Stakes, however, was one of the goals of the Crimson King Farm in sending their star west and barring the improvement of some of the other colts, he should be a heavy favorite for that rich stakes.

* * * *

CRIMSON Satan earned $36,300 for his victory. He came west with the record of having been the top juvenile of 1961 and the hard-luck colt of 1962 when he was disqualified out of two big purses but still won several major stakes.

Prior to losing with Native Diver, Shoemaker had scored three wins in a row on his final day of racing before starting a five-day suspension next Tuesday that will cost him several stakes mounts.

Hunting Licenses for Blind Men?

A blind man walked into a Seattle sporting goods store Thursday and bought a state hunting license. Nobody raised any objections. You think that's peculiar or funny? Well, just for the record, the same thing can be done in California.

We have laws that limit the number of shells that may be contained in a gun, laws that prohibit loaded guns in cars, etc., but there is no law which says that a blind man, or a person with impaired sight, can be denied a license.

The Seattle man was Arnold Sadler, an attorney who has been blind since he was eight years old. He said that he had no intention of using the license; he just wanted to point up a fault in the state's hunting regulations.

The stunt set this writer to checking the California Fish and Game Code. The search produced nothing. A further check with Capt. Robert Caneen, chief of the patrol and enforcement section of the Department of Fish and Game at Terminal Island, only caused Bob to shake his head and say, "Well, I'll be . . ."

Today's column is not the start of a campaign for such a law. It's merely intended to show the inequalities in our laws. A blind person can not get a driver's license, but he can get a hunting license.

IN OBSERVING ACTIONS in the field and in the forest, it's certain that some persons should not have licenses to hunt. Any person 16 and older can walk into a sporting goods store and obtain a hunting license.

If he's under 16, he must show a certificate from that year or the prior year showing that he has completed a course in the California Hunter Safety Program.

The licensing section of the Department of Fish and Game is a loosely knit organization. Not more than one license in 1,000 actually is issued by an official of the DFG; others are handled through agents — sporting goods stores, hardware stores, etc.

For that reason, any visual test that might be arranged for hunters could not be enforced unless the DFG hired several hundred workers to do the job.

The American Optometric Association has been contending for a number of years that far too many persons with defective vision are using guns.

In the Seattle stunt last Thursday, Dr. Charles Lamb, president of the Washington Optometric Association and a friend of the blind attorney, said that a study in Minnesota had shown that 77 percent of the hunters who cause accidents have defective vision.

A REPORT ON LAKE ELSINORE — and it's mostly bad news — was released last week by the Department of Parks and Recreation. While the summary didn't call a spade a spade, it was evident that boaters will not be using the lake this spring, perhaps not this year. In fact, one observer said he'd wager a dollar to a ginger snap that the Metropolitan Water District won't be able to release water to Elsinore any time this year.

Boaters are constantly asking that Lake Elsinore be filled with water so that they can use it for skiing. It would be a wonderful thing for the boaters and for outdoor recreation generally, but the Elsinore issue is full of "ifs."

To understand the situation, here is the background: The 1961 Legislature directed the Division of Small Craft Harbors to make a $750,000 loan to the Division of Beaches and Parks, subject to the same conditions as loans to local agencies, which are prescribed by law and which require that the project prove itself to be economically feasible.

Economic feasibility means that revenues must be available to repay the loan, including interest, over a period of 20 years. A management-consultant firm described Elsinore's economic feasibility as a guarantee of water throughout the full repayment period and complete control of lake access through fencing, preventing circumvention of the fee-collecting system.

NO AGREEMENT HAS BEEN REACHED with the Metropolitan Water District and there is little chance that one even will be started. Even if MWD agreed to sell enough water to fill Elsinore this year, it never would make a commitment to give Elsinore water for 19 other years.

Now the Division of Beaches and Parks sadly has to admit that the water isn't feasible and the fencing isn't feasible, although it maintains that it is working on other plans to pump life into the Elsinore project.

MWD has far too many commitments for the water it stores in Lake Mathews. Even if an agreement were reached this spring, it would take weeks, perhaps months, to establish a line that would take water to Elsinore.

Once a line were established, it would take two months to complete delivery of water, and MWD always would have an ace up its sleeve — it could stop delivery momentarily at any time in those two months.

MWD also insists that only at periods of surplus will ANY water be available. Most certainly, there is no surplus now, and if those few surprising clouds don't start dropping a bit of moisture, there won't be enough water to go around, excluding Elsinore.

Time also is running out for Elsinore. Even in a wet year Southern California priorities begin drawing allotted water as early as April. If the year is dry, the draws start earlier.

Rockets in Inglewood Playoff Tilt

By CHUCK MEDICK

The Long Beach Rockets take to the road for the first time this season when they meet Inglewood in a sudden-death Winter League playoff today. Game time at Centenella Field, near Prairie and Florence Blvd., is 1:15 p.m.

Unbeaten Inglewood defeated the L.A. Eagles and the Rockets edged the L.A. Angels, 8-7, in playoff openers last week.

Ex-major league pitchers George Witt and Ed Palmquist top the Inglewood roster, which also includes minor league hurler Bill Francis and second baseman Erv Palica, a former major league pitcher.

Don Rowe and Casey Cox will be pitching for Jack Graham's Rockets. Graham hopes that Centenella's short right field fence will be an inviting target for Brian McCall, who hit home runs in the last two games for the Rockets.

THAILANDER RECAPTURES RING CROWN

Never previously in the 112-pound division's 53-year history had anyone regained the title.

Before 20,000 jammed but jubilant fans — including King Phumipol Adulyadej — Kingpetch gave a boxing lesson to the stocky, muscular Harada to gain 72-67 and 71-67 point margins from the judges. The referee called the fight even, 69-all.

CHUCK FORST

Chuck has been a resident of Lakewood since March, 1953, and like lots of people in the Long Beach area, he is a native of Iowa. Chuck was raised in Indianola, Iowa, where he worked for the Chevrolet Dealer for five years. He has been a service technician at Oscar Gregory Chevrolet since 1953 and, like the rest of our technicians, takes the annual Chevrolet Mechanical Examination to test his product knowledge.

Chuck is always anxious to improve his skill. This is proven by the fact that he voluntarily attends every course offered by the General Motors Training Center where he has received instruction in transmission, engines and general maintenance on Chevrolets, Corvairs and trucks.

Chuck's wife, Nita, joins him several nights a week in square dancing activities. As a matter of fact, he is the Junior Past President of the South Coast Association of Square Dance Clubs. In this capacity, he supervised the activities of clubs having about six thousand members in South Los Angeles, Long Beach and Orange County. Next year, this association is the Host for the State Convention of Square Dance Clubs to be held in Long Beach. Chuck's job at this convention is General Chairman of the Grand Parade, an undertaking of no small stature, for this is the first parade in eleven years since it was founded.

As you can see, Chuck Forst is quite a guy! He tackles every job he does with the same quiet, confident attitude that a job can and should be done right—the first time. Chuck is confident of his ability and proud of his craft and I am proud of the fact that—"He's on my team!"

TONY LIKES THE PRISON WAY OF LIFE

Wife-Slayer, 88, Refuses Parole, Plans to Quit Quentin Feet First

By WEBSTER K. NOLAN

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (UPI)—In the annals of crime and punishment, Tony di Tardo ranks as a maverick.

The aging convict, who will celebrate his 88th birthday Thursday by blowing out the candles on his prison-baked cake and puffing contentedly on a big cigar, flatly refuses to leave San Quentin State Penitentiary.

It's enough to make any other convict weep with disbelief, but that's the way Tony wants it. And that's the way it has to be, because California law says no prisoner can be paroled against his will.

* * * *

TONY WAS sent to prison for murdering his wife. That was in 1920. In 1945, the State Adult Authority offered him his freedom.

But Tony pulled the surprise prison reverse-play of the year with this "thanks-but-no" reply:

"When I leave here, it will be feet first."

To prove that he means what he says, Tony has refused parole on eight other occasions. The Adult Authority doesn't even bother to offer him his liberty any more.

* * * *

TONY TELLS reporters frequently that he won't leave the "Big House" because he is too old and too comfortable. For the past three years he has occupied a private room in the prison hospital and, within that limited area, he does pretty much as he pleases.

"A good pair of boots," he smiles, "and a good heart and a home like this is all that a man can want. I stay here, come hell or high water. This place has everything to give me a good life."

* * * *

TONY DI TARDO'S "good life" began in 1875 in Cappuccio, Italy. He migrated to Buffalo, N.Y., in 1902 and came to San Francisco as an iron foundry worker two years later.

At the age of 45, the proud father of three children, he shot his pregnant wife to death.

During the trial, Tony contended that he had been drinking and that somebody slipped something into his wine. He said he didn't know what he was doing. But the court sentenced him to death by hanging.

The sentence was later commuted to life in prison and Tony began his long, lonely residence at San Quentin, across the bay from San Francisco.

* * * *

THE SHORT, stocky Italian was assigned the tasks of cell tender and supply distributor. He performed his chores—maintaining the cell blocks and assisting the guards on their rounds, for 34 years.

He became a trusted inmate—so much so that he was even allowed to keep the key to his own cell.

Tony's pleasures in life were the occasional visits from his family and the solitary moments in his cell when he listened to Italian operas and waltzes on his antiquated victrola.

* * * *

AFTER A few years passed, the family visits ceased. As Tony remembers it: "Children stop coming long time ago. Brother stop sending me money in 1947. Maybe he's dead now. I don't know why they no come.

"I don't give a damn."

But the white-thatched convict with the crusty manner still enjoys listening to his Caruso records, even though his opera house is a drably-painted prison infirmary and his companions are professional attendants.

"Why for I wanna go out?" he once asked. "I intend to live to 100 and I'll celebrate that birthday here too. I just wanna sit here in my rocking chair. I'll stay here until the Big Boss calls me.

"When St. Peter tells me, 'Come on, Tony,' I go quick."

Albanian Premier Gets 'Order of Hero'

VIENNA (AP) — Premier Mehmet Shehu of Albania has been awarded his country's Order of Hero of Socialist Work for his "unswerving struggle" in the ideological feud of his dissident regime with Moscow, Radio Tirana reported.

The order was bestowed upon Shehu "to honor his unswerving struggle against opportunism and modern revisionism, and for true Marxism-Leninism," the broadcast said.

FM Radio Available in Most Cars

By BEN PHLEGAR

DETROIT (AP) — The automobile, which has been blamed and praised for almost everything, may soon play a major role in the broadcasting pattern of FM radio.

FM (Frequency Modulation) stations are relatively free of both static and commercials, although in the latter case not always by choice.

For many of them advertising has come slow and hard despite a steady growth in FM receiving sets. The 1963 Broadcasting Yearbook says homes with FM sets are being added at the rate of two million annually.

NOW, THIS year for the first time a majority of the domestic cars can be bought with FM radios as original equipment. Chrysler Corp. began taking orders this month. Chevrolet will start within a few weeks. The standard size Ford and Mercury, as well as Thunderbird and Lincoln, opened the model year with AM-FM radios as did Buick, Oldsmobile, Cadillac and Pontiac.

Two major suppliers of the original equipment models are Bendix Radio (Ford) and Delco Radio Division of General Motors (GM and Chrysler). These radios will receive both the standard AM stations, of which there are almost 3,800 in United States

THE BUSINESS WEEK

Auto Production Feats, Sales Hog Spotlight

By ROGER LANE

NEW YORK (AP) — An old line star performer, the automobile industry, hogged the business and finance spotlight this week.

Lustrous new auto sales and production feats, and their influence on a buoyant stock market, oversinadowed the pagentry and alarums and excursions attending the opening of a new Congress in Washington.

The big issue there, prospects for a federal income tax, awaited a sharp focus that may start developing with President Kennedy's State of the Union message on Monday.

Doings in Detroit also cast into the background relatively slight, but growing, damage to the economy by the three-week strike of dock workers at 41 North Atlantic and Gulf Coast ports.

* * * *

IN THE MOTOR CITY, domestic car sales in the October-December quarter of 1962 were revealed as the highest ever for the period. They soared to 1,946,009, a fousing 20 per cent over the previous mark set in the last three months of 1961.

The splurge pushed sales for last year to 6,752,644. Adding in sales of 300,000-plus imported cars, the grand total topped seven million, exceeded only by the industry's peak year of 1955.

Moreover, assembly plants kept roaring at breakneck speed to meet still unsatisfied demand. Plans called for production of an all-time high of 700,000 units in January, a figure unequalled for that month.

Henry Ford II added to the rosy picture, disclosing plans for $400 million in Ford Motor Co. capital outlays for 1963, an increase of 20 per cent. Two thirds of the sum will be spent abroad, he said.

* * * *

AND A SIDELIGHT to it came from George Romney, former chairman of American Motors Corp. and since Jan. 1 governor of Michigan.

It was disclosed that the day before he severed all connections with American Motors last November, Romney exercised an option to buy 13,494 shares of company stock at $9.91 a share, a little over one-half the market price.

The transaction underscored the steep advance in price of American Motors stock, and issues of Chrysler, Ford and General Motors, all at either historic or 1962-63 highs in recent days.

Their strength has contributed greatly to a powerful stock market rally that blossomed in November, paused last month and has surged ahead once more since the start of the new year.

* * * *

THE STEEL industry, too, felt the influence of booming auto output. Production last week spurted upward nearly 100 per cent, the sharpest rise for any week in six months. Output hit its highest plane since late last April.

Obviously, the benefits were rubbing off elsewhere in the industrial world.

Citing consumer optimism and strong auto demand, the University of Michigan survey research center foresaw a prosperous economy through the first half of the year but expressed doubts about the second half.

A so-so report on employment came from the government. It showed the main barometers little changed in December, with the seasonally adjusted rate of unemployment down a whisker from November—to 5.6 per cent.

* * * *

ON THE troubling side, the strike of 60,000 longshoreman gave signs of growing squeeze on commerce in scattered places.

A cutoff in the flow of cars imported from West Germany and other European nations was emptying showrooms of some dealers, especially those offering Volkswagens. The overall economic loss domestically was estimated at over $400 million, and rising $20 million to $25 million daily.

The government said the foreign trade balance of the U.S., $5.3 billion to the good in 1961, slipped to $4.4 billion last year.

The decline was bad news in the fight to overcome the nation's unfavorable balance of international payments, which has drained down the country's gold reserves and led to periodic uneasiness about strength of the dollar.

* * * *

AN OUTFLOW of funds for foreign aid, military spending abroad and other factors have more than offset the favorable trade balance in recent years.

Scattered new reports on corporation profits were mostly good. The Norfolk and Western Railway said it cleared $65.4 million in 1962, or $8.73 a share, both all-time highs. A coal-hauling line, the N&W was third to the Southern Pacific and Union Pacific in the industry in 1961.

Coal output last year climbed to 420 million tons, up nearly 18 million tons from 1961, the Bureau of Mines reported.

BRIEFLY around the business scene:

J. Truman Bidwell, former chairman of the New York Stock Exchange, was acquitted of income tax evasion charges . . . Frank N. Ikard, former Texas congressman, was named president of the American Petroleum Institute, succeeding the late Frank M. Porter . . . Hickman Price Jr. resigned as an assistant secretary of commerce to become chairman of International Products Corp., which has meat, fruit and land interest in Paraguay. . . Robert H. O'Brien moved up to the presidency of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Inc.

Brown Asks Rededication to Take Part in State Life

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Edmund G. Brown has urged Californians to rededicate themselves "to informed participation in the life of our state" in honor of International Printing Week starting today.

"The history of education through the printed word is the history of our democracy's greatest strength: the ability of its people to inform themselves and make their evaluations of events," the governor said.

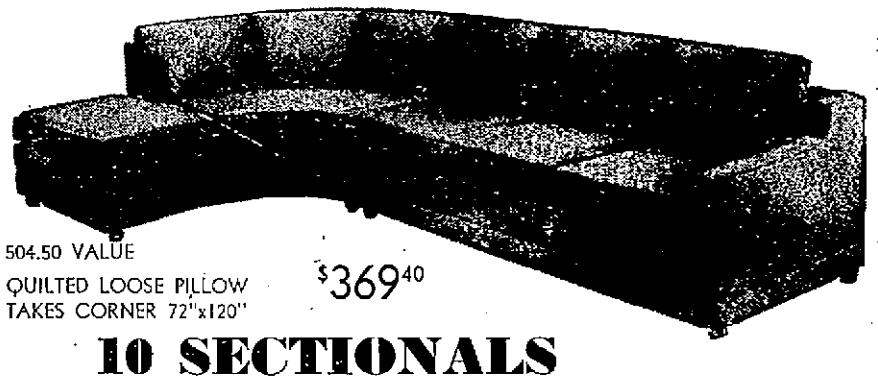

He noted the event, held on the anniversary of the birth of Benjamin Franklin, "emphasizes the great statesman-scholar's connection with the founding of the printing industry in this country."

We're Searching the Long Beach Area for a Man . . .

Frankly, it may take months to find him. But we're willing to wait . . . the opportunity is that important.
Here's a quick "profile" of the person we're looking for. Chances are he's between 28 and 40. Education — college or equivalent. In all likelihood, he's now in a junior-executive position . . . well liked . . . making a good progress. But he has a problem. He knows he's capable of doing better . . . feels "trapped by a salary structure which is good, but not good enough."
If you fit this general description, we'd be happy to talk to you about this most important opening in our organization. It may require several interviews . . . will certainly require exhaustive tests. But should you turn out to be the man we are looking for . . . we can promise it will be well worth your time and trouble.
To pursue the matter further, write us a letter outlining your business experience, age, marital status. (If you prefer, phone GArfield 7-5449 between 10 a.m.-12 noon, Mon. thru Wed.) We'll contact you and arrange a meeting.

We'll Sell for a Few Cents on the Dollar
GOODS LOST IN STORAGE
Sale Starting Tomorrow (Monday A.M.)
Conducted by Long Beach Bargain Cntr.

Thousands of fine articles from many homes were put in storage and were later lost because the storage bill was not paid—therefore the goods were disposed of for storage charges. We now have a warehouse full of such lovely items from many homes to be sold to the public for a few cents on the dollar. New and used things of every kind, such as:

Fine linens, blankets, bedspreads, comforts, sheets, pillow cases, drapes, curtains, towels, small rugs, hundreds of pieces of clothing for men, women, boys and girls — SO CHEAP! Stainless steel utensils, small electric appliances, dishes, tie racks, silverware, pots, pans, glasses, lamps, clocks, tools, new and used. Big new lot of paint. You will be surprised to see the low prices that these fine things will sell for! Don't bring much money — but bring your friend to share with you in these bargains. A few cents will hold your goods on lay-away. We must move this storage lot out quick, as we have another lot coming in. You and your friends hurry down now and stock up while the stock is so heavy and the prices so low!

A small gift for all kiddies and women —

a MASTERPIECE of Planned Living in the CONTINENTAL MANNER...

Le Chateau
APARTMENT COMMUNITY

Your driver's license is all the passport you need to enjoy luxurious "Continental Living" right here in Orange County. When you leave the heavily-traveled tourist routes and turn in to your private parking area on the grounds at elegant Le Chateau you'll find yourself in a wonderfully different world.

Le Chateau is a luxury apartment community, each air-conditioned unit of which has been designed with the tasteful charm of the French Provincial town house, creating the overall effect of a quiet and exclusive residential area in the suburbs.

Located just minutes away from Freeways and Shopping Centers, Le Chateau offers every modern convenience and comfort—including a beautifully landscaped pool and putting green—which Southern Californians have come to associate with the better living afforded in this prosperous section of the county.

In a choice of four different plans, each apartment includes a private patio and planting area. Wall-to-wall carpeting, ceramic tile, balanced power living featuring Caloric built-in ovens and ranges are only a few of the extras that make living at Le Chateau an experience in pleasure and ease as well as a point of justifiable pride.

Rentals as low as $125 per mo.

ACCIDENT INSURANCE

packed with protection!

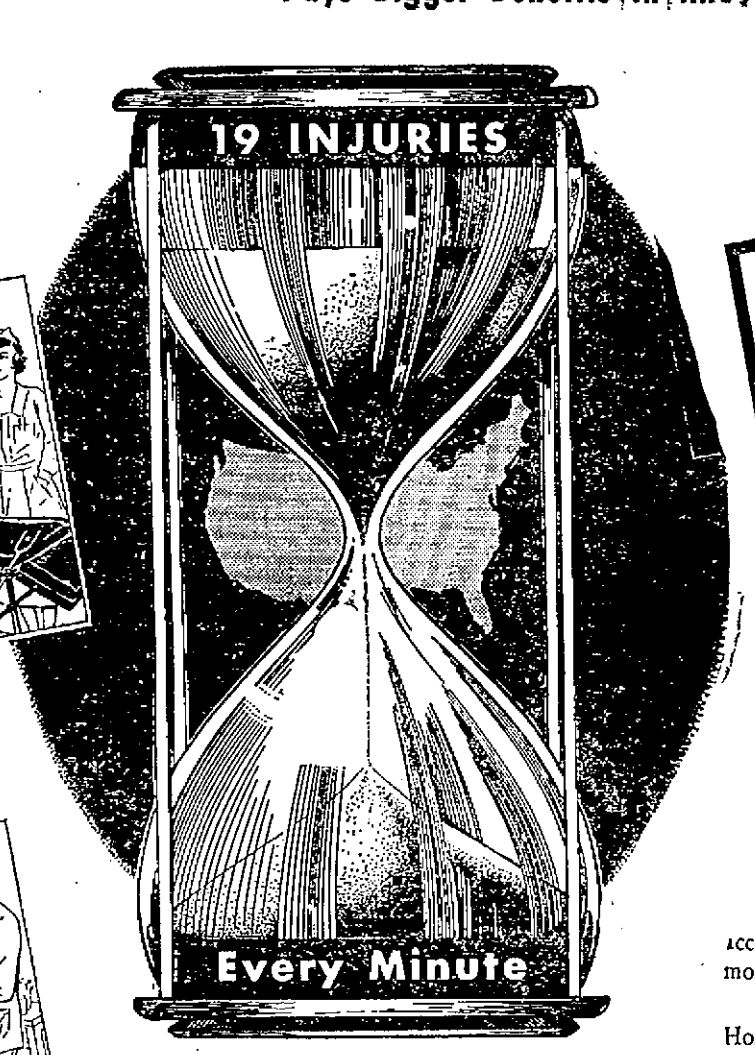

A Wonderful Reader Service offered by

Independent Press-Telegram

A Remarkable Insurance Value for a Little More Than A-Penny-A-Day

Covers Accidents at Home, at Work, at School, while Travelling
Pays Bigger Benefits in line with Today's High Accident Costs

FOR ONLY 50c A MONTH

EVERYONE NEEDS THIS KIND OF ACCIDENT INSURANCE

Accidents are the largest single cause of crippling, dependency and destitution in the United States.

This is especially true today when 19 persons are being injured every minute—and accidents are more expensive than ever before. Doctor bills are higher—hospitals charge more—you lose more if your paycheck stops when you are laid up.

This policy, available to you and the members of your family covers accidents at Home, at Work or School, on the Street, in your Automobile, etc.

A bookkeeper who has only a minor accident, like an injured left wrist, can collect as much as he pays for several years protection—even if he does not lose a day from work.

For more serious accident you collect much higher benefits, as shown in the chart on the left.

ROUND UP ON BELLY DANCER SITUATION

Ohio Girl Who Does Casbah Twist In Movie Complains About Status

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Belly dancing enjoys about as much status in this country as alligator wrestling, snipe hunting, strip teasing and religious cults founded on snake handling.

In polite circles it is a bust.

But Youngstown, Ohio, of all places, has produced a beautiful young belly dancer who will display her talent and charms in a new movie.

* * * *

SHE IS Lulu Porter. You heard right, Lulu Porter. And she is miffed at the low regard in which her dancing is held by people of dubious character and bawdy instincts.

"The Arabs and Turks appreciate belly dancing as an art," said Lulu. "Americans put it down as no better than strip teasing.

"Belly dancing is very modest. When I perform I'm all covered up, except for my belly, of course, and my costume is more decent than the Bikini swim suits you see on the beaches these days."

* * * *

IT IS ALL very well to take Lulu's word for these things, but she accepted the challenge to dance a few steps to prove her point.

Let the record show that her costume is indeed semi-modest. But the gyrations are something else again. Lulu curled, uncurled, wriggled and writhed to an Oriental recording in spectacular manner.

One could almost overlook the music which was composed primarily of doumbeks, ouds and doubukas (stringed instruments and drums) accompanied by small finger cymbals by Lulu.

* * * *

THE OVERALL impression was one of the twist as practiced in the Casbah.

"See," said Lulu. "There are no bumps and grinds. Just nice relaxed dancing."

She may have been relaxed.

* * * *

THE QUESTION arises, how does a Youngstown girl learn to belly dance? Obviously, there are no belly dance schools in Youngstown, Ohio, or even in Cleveland.

"I never heard of a belly dance school," Lulu admitted. "I learned from a dancer out here in California. Her name is Jamila and she is one of the greatest of them all.

"It took me months of study and practice to get all the moves memorized. Now I get called by foreign embassies when Oriental dignitaries come to Hollywood and want to see a belly dance. Sometimes I accept and sometimes I don't."

* * * *

LULU, A well rounded brunette in her early 20s, makes her living primarily as a singer in night clubs. But she is adding the belly dance to her act now that Universal Pictures has signed her to performe her dance in a new picture, "The Brass Bottle."

"American audiences are awful," she complained. "Usually the men yell 'take it off' and things like that. The women are afraid I'll start to undress. But after five minutes they relax and enjoy the dance.

As noted earlier, only Lulu appears relaxed during her act.

Shy Brigette Shuns Publicity in U.S.

PARIS (UPI) — France's other female institution, Brigitte Bardot, will not follow the Mona Lisa to the United States, her friends said Saturday. She is afraid of all that "hellish publicity."

The tousle-haired actress canceled plans for her first trip, although "she is dying to see New York and California." She won't make the trip until she can slip into the country incognito — a tough job for the world's reigning sweater girl.

MARCEL MARCEAU . . . Makes Invisible Visible

PANTOMIMIST SPEAKS

Marceau Vocal About Mime

By RALPH H. COSHAM

NEW YORK (UPI) — French pantomimist Marcel Marceau opened his mouth—and spoke!

It wasn't so much what he said as the fact that he spoke at all. For the image of Marceau's silent eloquence seems to eliminate the need for speech. After all, he has entertained audiences in 40 countries without uttering a single word.

But there is nothing wrong with the Marceau vocal cords. In fact, he speaks extremely well about mime, one of the oldest yet least practiced of the theatrical arts and of which he is the undisputed master.

"THROUGHOUT history," he said, "the mime has used props and sets to assist his actions. I do not. I rely solely on gesture to bring to life the concrete and the abstract at the same time.

"I can make the visible invisible and the invisible visible and create for an audience the illusions of time and space, surrounding them with familiar objects and experiences."

Marceau is a small, spare man and his expressive face is framed by an unruly mop of wiry, dark brown hair. He speaks softly and his English (one of five languages he speaks) is only slightly accepted. Even more unusual—in a Frenchman and pantomimist—is the fact that in conversation his use of hand gestures is minimal.

BORN NEAR Strasbourg, France, Marceau has been interested in mime since childhood, when he would imitate by gesture anything which caught his imagination. He was devoted to such silent screen stars as Charlie Chaplin, Buster Keaton and Laurel and Hardy.

"They were great pantomimists," he said, "and they were my inspiration to make silence my profession."

Mime is Marceau's life. He believes it to be the most eloquent theatrical form.

"Anyone can understand it, no matter how young, how old or what language they speak," he said, "because it's gestures deal with life—not of one man, but of every man."

CITY COLLEGE PLAY

'The Lark' Smooth, Integrated Show

By ROBERT C. WYLDER

No matter who retells it, the story of Joan of Arc seems to be infinitely compelling. Joan, struggling alone against the massed forces of a monolithic church, somehow seeks out and strengthens the will toward individuality in the soul of every man. "A lark in the skies of france," she can set every heart to singing.

* * * *

MARLENE SILVERSTEIN in the taxing part of Joan performed almost as well as the play demands that she must, very high praise indeed considering that she bore the major burden of the show, and that no one, not even the Maid of Orleans herself, could live up to the billing that history has fashioned for the saintly virgin of Domremy.

* * * *

HER SUPPORTING cast contributed much to the high quality of the play. All of the actors delivered their lines both confidently and articulately, a welcome rarity, especially gratifying in a group so large.

Taken altogether, the production was very good, a smooth and skillful blending of all the arts of the theater. It was, in fact, better than the play, which adds little to what Shaw has already shown us and leaves out a lot. In other hands it might have been a case of too little and too late, but in these it succeeded even beyond its deserts. What more can a playwright or audience ask?

Spectacular L. B. Auto Show Opens Tuesday

Cars of 7 Nations Will Be on Display

The Long Beach Arena, Tuesday, Jan. 15th through Sunday, Jan. 20, will be the scene of the Harbor Area's most spectacular automotive display as cars of 7 nations, over 300 automobiles and exhibits will be presented to the public.

This will be the first International Auto Show in the new 8 million dollar Long Beach Arena. Newest automobiles from the smallest compacts to the most luxurious designs in the world will be exhibited from 1 p. m. to midnight daily.

The new automobile "faces for 1963" have been drawing a lot of attention, and this will be the opportunity for the public to view them all under one roof. Domestically, this means the Buick Riviera, Corvette Stingray fast back coupe and Studebaker's high performance Avanti, and hundreds of other displays.

* * * *

THE FOREIGN market is represented too, and it offers some new faces also. The Ford Cortina, the MG-B and Renault are a few for instance. Compact cars which were Detroit's major defense in the battle against imports are showing even greater variety this year as they blossomed out in flashy convertible models. Price tags are plainly visible on every model on the floor, from $1,000 to $25,000. Tilting steering wheels, amber directional lights, retractable headlights, and smashing new designs will all be on display.

But, new cars aren't the entire show. Amid beautiful girls and outstanding floral displays, the Auto Show will present three times daily, a spectacular stage show at 3:15—7:15—and 10:15 p.m.

* * * *

SOME OF THE greatest acts of show business are scheduled to appear. The fabulous Four Aces, outstanding quartet—a group which has consistently had top records and has won the coveted world's No. 1 Group Award for winning the U. S. Triple Crown of Cashbox, Billboard and United Press, plus the Musical Express Poll in England.

On the same bill, are the Jerry Murad's Harmonicats, the Columbia recording artists made famous by their harmonica rendition of "Peg O' My Heart" and their introduction of the new echo chamber sound, which is being used on so many recordings.

* * * *

ALSO APPEARING are the Sons of Morocco, known to be one of the fastest precision tumbling groups in the field of entertaining.

Music for the International Auto Show will be under the direction of Manny Harmon. Harmon's acclaim as a music maker has made him a favorite among the stars of Hollywood who have worked under his direction on the stage.

Master of Ceremonies for the entire stage production will be Mickey Levine. Performance hours are 3:15—7:15—and 10:15 p.m. 9,000 show seats are available to visitors of the Auto Show.

HEAD AUTO SHOW ENTERTAINMENT

Manny Harmon and his band will be featured in the stage shows at the Long Beach International Auto Show, opening Jan. 15, in the Arena. Four shows will be given daily.

Manny Harmon Band to Play for Show

There is a carnation on the lapel of his suit as he mounts the bandstand.

He lifts his baton, and the magic of music—lilting strains for romance or powerful chords to stir the imagination—fill the air.

His name is Manny Harmon, conductor and musical show director, whose 30-year rise in the entertainment business has established him as one of the top artists in his field. His band will entertain at the Long Beach Auto Show.

Harmon's acclaim as a music maker has made him a favorite among the stars of Hollywood who gather at social events or work under his direction on the stage.

His popularity is based on his spectacular ability to adapt the perfect type of musicianship to every audience and every individual performer.

* * * *

AMONG THE memorable events which Harmon's baton has favored over the years have been the annual Academy Awards and television Emmy presentations, the Miss International Beauty Pageant, Arthur Murray TV Presentations, the Photoplay Awards and Pasadena Tournament of Roses.

Such stars as Dinah Shore, Judy Garland, Tony Martin, Ethel Merman, Gordon MacRae and Patrice Munsel have sung under his guidance—and such personalities as Bob Hope, Danny Kaye, Jerry Lewis; Danny Thomas, Jimmy Durante and the Ritz Brothers have voiced praise for his showmanship and ability to conduct for them with outstanding exactness.

Harmon has played for the King and Queen of Greece, Emperor Selassie of Ethiopia, the President of Turkey, President Sukarno of Indonesia and the late President Roosevelt.

* * * *

HE SERVED as dance director at President Eisenhower's Inaugural Ball and provided the music for the American Pavillion Show at the World's Fair in Brussels.

Among Harmon's honors has been the privilege to record a stirring orchestra and choral arrangement of "I Love You, California," the official song of our Golden State which was written in 1913 and adopted in 1951.

Manny Harmon, a native of Philadelphia who possessed a keen interest in music as far back as he can remember, received his early training by playing the violin in the pit of the old Orpheum Theatre in Los Angeles under the direction of A. F. Frankenstein.

He soon moved on to play with the dance bands of Earl Burtnett and Art Hickman, and, after several years, formed his own orchestra.

He was associated for 17 years with RKO Studios during which he concentrated on new ideas for scoring, conducting the directing music for a succession of films.

Harmon, who often lends his voice to his music, has made many recordings, including "Manny Harmon Plays ChaChaCha," "To You, With Love," and "Music the Stars Dance To," a compilation of tunes most requested by Hollywood celebrities, with his own special arrangements.

Producer of Show Lauds L.B. Facility

Few persons have produced more spectacular type shows than Mickey Levine and, certainly, no one in the automotive show business.

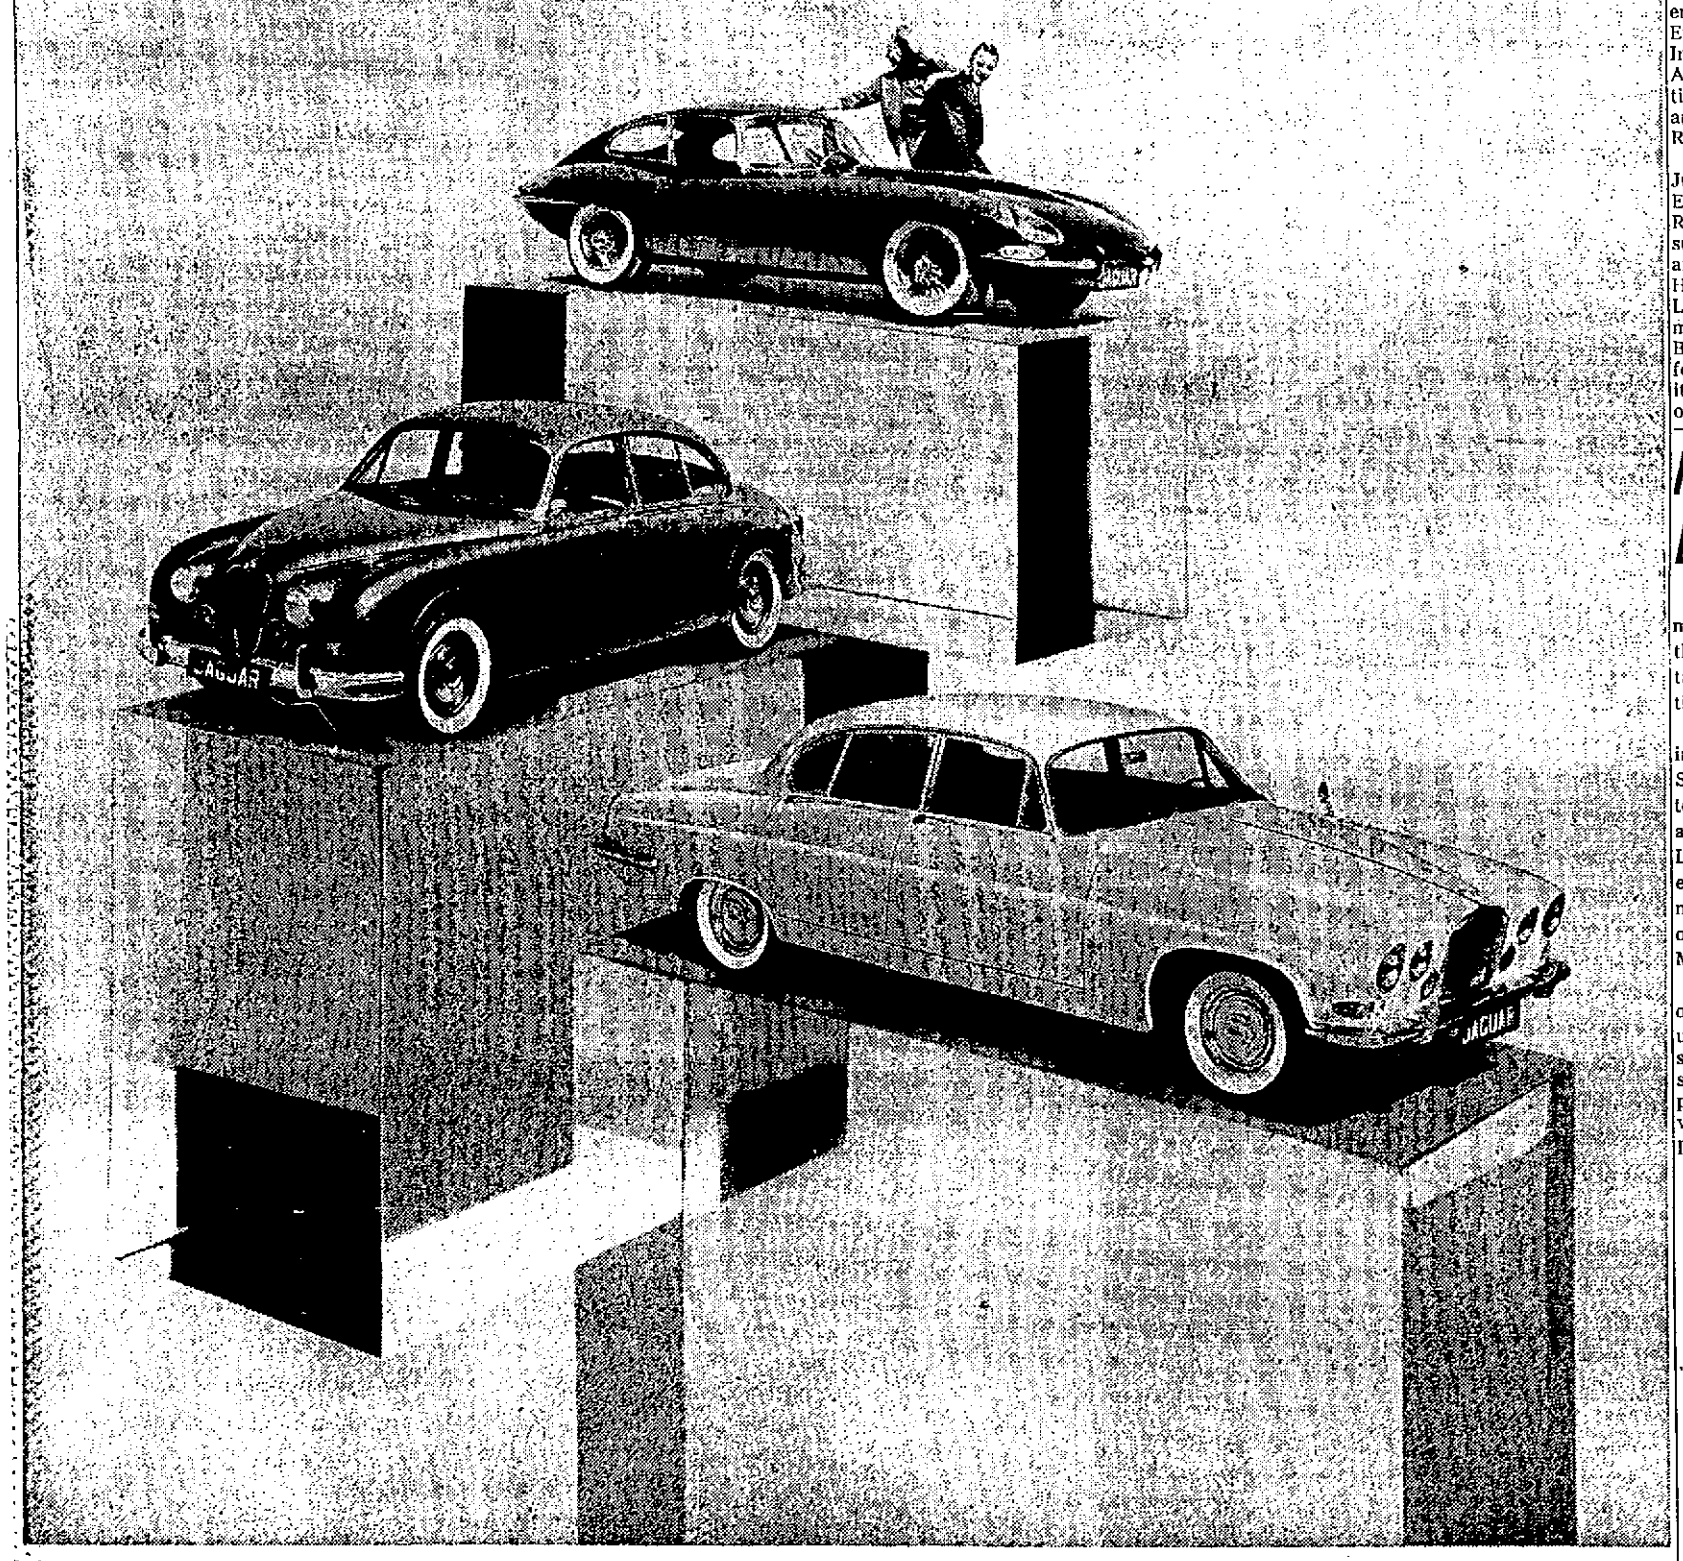

Levine is currently producing the International Auto Show for the Long Beach Automobile Dealers Association and has acclaimed the new Long Beach Arena as the finest facility of its type in the nation. "It has everything any one could ask for," stated Mickey.

"Imagine, floor space for over 200 automobile exhibits under one roof, plus a large staging area for a full blown stage show and 9,000 of the plushiest seats in which show visitors can rest, watch talent perform on stage and, at the same time, look over the large array of exhibits on the floor."

JAGUAR

THE HIGH-PERFORMANCE CAR WITH THREE DISTINCT PERSONALITIES

To many, the name Jaguar means the epitome of a dashing sports car—rakish, low-slung, capable of record speeds. This impression is correct, evidenced by the unique Jaguar XK-E (at top).
But that is only one facet. Jaguar also manifests itself in the 3.8 sedan, a matchless family tourer (middle above) . . . and the new Mark X, a handsome luxury sedan (foreground). All three Jaguars are high-performance automobiles. Each has engineering advances, performance characteristics and luxurious appointments found only in a few of the world's other fine automobiles. Inspect and drive the Jaguar with the personality that matches yours, at your earliest convenience.
Should you be traveling abroad, inquire about Jaguar's Overseas Delivery Plan prior to your departure. Through this plan you may purchase any Jaguar model at substantial savings in this country for delivery in Europe.

Better Interior for Valiants

There are a number of significant quality improvements in 1963 Valiant interiors. Reinforced rubber mats with greater puncture resistanec are being introduced. Loop carpeting of 80 per cent rayon and 20 per cent nylon gives better wear resistance and longer life. Molded carpets are polyethylene-backed for improved fit and durability. Body cloth wear resistance has been improved, improved vinyl headliners are used and front armrests on the Signet are four inches longer.

The 1963 Valiant retains its full-unitized construction in an improved structural design that is stronger and more durable and less susceptible to corrosion.

AMERICA'S BIGGEST CAR

Like all 1963 Chrysler Imperials, the top-of-the-line LeBaron has a new roof structure, new styling treatment in the rear, more interior room for passengers, more luxurious interiors and additional convenience features as standard equipment.

HAS LOOK OF CLASS

Lincoln Continental's classic styling continues into 1963 with minor refinements. Interiors are redesigned to give almost an inch more legroom for front seat passengers and more than an additional inch in the rear. A new engine with four-barrel carburetor gives higher performance for start-up acceleration and for passing at turnpike speeds.

Provide Increased Roominess for '63 Lincoln Continental

The classic styling of the Lincoln Continental has undergone only subtle refinements in 1963. The car offers increased roominess, additional luggage space and higher engine performance.

"The high reputation for reliability and durability earned by the Lincoln Continental is enhanced further by additional improvements in quality throughout all areas of design and manufacture," said Ben D. Mills, Ford Motor Co. vice president and general manager of the Lincoln-Mercury division. Mills pointed out that the Lincoln Continental continues to carry a 24,000-mile, two-year warranty.

Almost an inch more legroom is provided for front seat passengers and more than an inch additional legroom for rear seat passengers. Rear seat headroom also is increased slightly.

* * * *

LINCOLN Continental's elegant styling shows a slight modification resulting from a new and higher rear deck and three-dimensional ornamentation on the lower back panel.

A new grille and upper grille moulding feature the distinctive front-end. Amber lights for front turn signal and parking lights are a new safety feature.

Eighteen exterior solid colors are offered. The Lincoln Continental four-door convertible—the only one made in America — offers a new blue top in addition to a white and a black top.

Interior styling reaches new goals of luxury, with new upholstery fabrics and redesigned instrument panel.

* * * *

THE 430-CUBIC-INCH displacement engine gives higher power output for acceleration at a start-up and for passing at turnpike speeds. A new 4-barrel carburetor replaces the former 2-barrel carburetor and plays a significant part in increasing the car's performance.

Ride and handling of the 1963 Lincoln Continental are improved by important chassis developments. The steering gear is isolated from the underbody with three laminated steel and rubber "pucks" to absorb high-frequency vibrations in the steering system.

New drive shaft universal joints require lubrication only after 30,000 miles, rather than 6,000 miles. Steering and front suspension continue on a 30,000-mile lubrication cycle, and oil filter and oil change continue on a 6,000-mile change cycle. Long-life anti-freeze is good normally for 36,000 miles or two years.

Six-way power seat and power operated radio antenna are made standard equipment in the 1963 Lincoln Continental.

Starfire features a 345-h.p. ultra high-compression engine, leather-appointed bucket seats, full-length console with T-stick Hydra-Matic Drive, power steering, power brakes, tachometer.

Finest Coach Work for 1963 Imperials

Styling continuity and exceptionally fine coach work are distinguishing characteristics of the 1963 Imperial.

Imperial continues to be the biggest of all American luxury cars.

For 1963 it has a new roof structure, new styling treatment in the rear, more interior room for passengers, more luxurious interiors and additional convenience features as standard equipment.

Like its predecessor, the 1963 version of Chrysler Corp.'s top luxury car has its own exclusive construction which it shares with no other car.

* * * *

IMPERIAL RETAINS many of the distinctive styling features of previous Imperials including the free standing head lamps. There is a new grille and a more elegant rear design treatment.

The appearance, quality and durability of interiors have been greatly improved on the 1963 Imperial.

Grain walnut door panel inserts have been added to LeBaron to import a new note of elegance.

Seats provide additional comfort and durability in the new models through use of heavier spring construction over the transmission tunnel.

The 413 cubic inch Imperial engine is basically unchanged. However, closed crankcase ventilation will be standard on all 1963 Imperials.

* * * *

POWER-OPERATED windows, remote control left side view mirrors and integral arm rests with useful storage compartments hidden in front door arm rests have become standard equipment in 1963 Imperials.

Higher braking performance is a significant new characteristic of the Imperial. Servo-contact, self-energizing brakes with 11x3 inch linings are introduced for 1963.

New Imperial parking brakes are on the rear wheels. The previous transmission output shaft brake is replaced by a parking system which operates the rear wheel service brakes through a cable and linkage mechanism.

Rubber Firm Must Carry Huge Stock

Life was reasonably simple for the tire manufacturer when Henry's "Tin Lizzy" was queen of the highways.

One size of tire fit practically every car on the road; there were only three sizes of truck tires and giant road equipment, and tractor tires were still in the future.

Things have changed drastically, however, and today there are more than 4,000 sizes and types of tires on the market. To make matters worse, most of the types are seldom requested.

So, when 20 per cent of the items stocked equal 90 per cent of the sales, it represents a rather unusual warehousing problem.

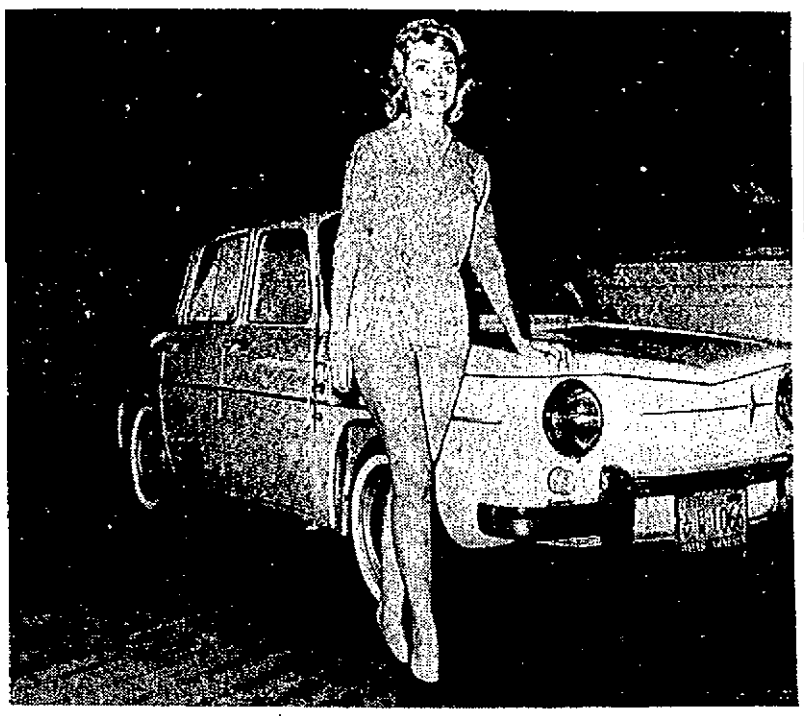

THIS IS ONE of the hurdles the world's largest rubber company had to clear when establishing a chain of warehouses that would serve the nation's tire-buying public.

The vast chain of retail outlets served by The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company numbers more than 65,000 and the inventory of different sizes and types alone is staggering. To this add an ample supply of car and home merchandise — everything from electric blankets to refrigerators—and you have a situation that would make even the heartiest department store manager shy away in disbelief.

To complicate things even more, the tires are produced in plants scattered all over the United States.

TO COMBAT the problem, the company erected five regional distribution centers in key spots across the nation. The centers, which are modern warehouse facilities with floor space ranging from 400,000 to 660,000 square feet, act as the hub for 52 smaller warehouses located in practically every major city in the country. These smaller, or district warehouses distribute tires and car and home merchandise to the scores of retail outlets in their area, making the final link in the factory-to-store cycle that serves Goodyear customers.

One of the first of the regional distribution centers to be constructed was the Los Angeles facility. It is also one of the largest—so big, in fact, it could hold enough tires for every automobile in the states of Wyoming or Vermont.

TWO FRENCH CUTIES AT AUTO SHOW
Sharon Girot, petite French miss, lends her charms to accent lines of new Renault R-8, popular import from France. The compact economy sedan and curvaceous model Girot will be at Import Auto's display at the Long Beach International Auto Show.

Imperial Is Road Tested

There is specially designed proving area reserved for road-testing every 1963 Imperial before it is shipped from the plant.

Hand-picked inspectors and mechanics test every Imperial and make necessary corrections before each car is worked through a 15-station okay line and a 13-station final Quality Assurance Acceptance line.

The test track has:

Two 45-degree ramps to check parking brake and parking sprag on an incline and decline.

A figure-eight area to check steering noise, accuracy of steering components, and operation of directional signal lights.

A section of corrugated pavement adjacent to a sounding wall to spot internal and external squeaks, rattles and noises.

A high-speed straightway to check upshift pattern and kickdown gear and to test brakes in a panic stop. The straightaway also enables inspectors to check for oil leaks immediately after oil pressure has been at its maximum.

List Prices Not Raised

Although Oldsmobile's factory-list prices for 1963 have not been increased, many design and mechanical improvements such as positive crankcase ventilation, the Delcotron generator, self-adjusting brakes and an aluminized exhaust system have been added as standard equipment. Furthermore, the 1963 Oldsmobile warranty has been increased to cover the product for 24 months or 24,000 miles.

Renault Adds Sedan to 1963 Import Line

Renault, largest French auto maker, has unveiled a new compact sedan—the R-8—designed especially for international markets.

The R-8 is a four-door, five-passenger car featuring disc brakes on all wheels and a rear-mounted 48 horsepower engine. It will sell for $1,795 (East Coast Port of Entry).

Renault will continue to sell the Dauphine, the small economy sedan that has kept the company in second place among imported autos, as well as the sporty Caravelle "S."

Dick Scatchard of Import Auto, Long Beach Renault dealership, said Renault hopes to sell 45,000 to 50,000 cars—Dauphines, R-8s and Caravelles—in 1963. This will be about 30 per cent above predicted sales for 1962, R-8s will make up most of this increase.

* * * *

"THE AMERICAN market was very much in their thoughts when they designed the R-8," said Scatchard. "We believe there is a good market for a comfortable four-door sedan selling for around $1,800, particularly now when the American compacts are getting larger and more expensive.

"The R-8 is for those people who now have an economy car, but wish to move up into something that is roomier and more comfortable, yet that still provides economical transportation."

The R-8 boasts several mechanical advances. It is the first production compact car to be sold in the U. S. with disc brakes on all four wheels and the first with a sealed cooling system that eliminates the risk of boiling over in the summer and the need for adding anti-freeze in the winter.

* * * *

THE CAR IS ALSO fitted with an "anti-smog" device which eliminates engine fumes, and a five-bearing crankshaft (instead of the normal three bearings) which greatly increases the life of the engine.

The four-cylinder 956 cc engine gives the R-8 37 miles to the gallon and a top speed of over 80 mph.

The car is equipped with a four-speed gearbox, floor-mounted stick shift and bucket seats in front. It is available in four colors—red, white, blue and black.

Improved Brakes on Cadillacs

The Cadillac braking system is one that receives constant engineering attention. The 1962 model introduced a three-way system for increased safety. The 1963 sintered iron pistons in the wheel cylinders are incorporated for added life through corrosion resistance, an improved power brake master cylinder piston seal is used and a backing plate has been added to improve sealing under wet driving conditions.

Additional safety features on the 1963 Cadillac include relocation of the windshield washer for maximum spray, improved safety door locks, relocation of dome lights to rear quarters in the 62 Series, redesigned attachments for front compartment visors and the relocation of seat belt anchorages eliminating interference with rear compartment passengers' foot room.

Tire Economy

Tests on the 1963 Dodge Dart disclose that two-ply tires can carry as much load, with greater economy, than the old-fashioned four-ply tires, Dodge Chief Engineer George Gibson reports.

Impact of U.S. Auto Industry on Nation's Economy Is Shown

By ART STEPHAN
Automotive Editor

Statistics relating to the automobile industry and its numerous facets forcibly reflect the tremendous impact the industry has on the nation's economy and living habits.

One business of every six in the United States is related to the automobile industry and one of every employed seven persons in the U.S. works in highway transportation.

Approximately 78 per cent of households in the U.S. have automobiles and recent figures show that 11.4 million households have two or more cars. Two out of every three adults in the U.S. have driver licenses.

* * * *

THOUSANDS of smaller industries stem from the automobile industry. One good example is reflected in figures showing that in a recent year 24 million packages of automobile wax, polish and cleanser were produced. Annual sale of anti-freeze exceeds 122 million gallons and brake fluid more than 10.5 million gallons.

Motorists carry a heavy burden of special motor vehicle taxes totaling more than $11 billion in 1962 with trucks responsible for $3.2 billion or 28 per cent. State gasoline taxes total over $3.5 billion annually.

Financial interest in the automobile industry also is shown in the fact that 1.7 million persons own auto company stock.

* * * *

OTHER statistics regarding the automobile industries are: 39 per cent of automobile drivers are women; 90 per cent of inter-city travel is by motor vehicle; 70 per cent of all rural roads are surfaced; about 40 per cent of new cars are sold on a cash basis.

More than 13 billion vehicle miles are traveled annually for hunting and fishing purposes; the average American family receives a total of 78 days of truck service each year; more than 61 billion gallons of gasoline are used annually by motorists; American motorists on the average drive their cars about 10,000 miles a year; automotive horsepower totals almost 11 billion or 95 per cent of all total energy of prime movers in the U.S.

About 64 per cent of all employed persons drive or ride automobiles to work, on the national average, although in some sections the figures exceeds 75 per cent; approximately five million cars and trucks are scrapped annually; the present average age of motor cars is about six years; the auto industry purchases about 20 per cent of all steel; the U.S. leads the nations of the world in automobile registrations with France second, United Kingdom third, West Germany fourth and Canada fifth.

Dodge Process Resists Rusting

A seven-stage, dip-and-spray process helps protect 1963 Dodge cars from rust.

This rust-proofing process, one of the most comprehensive in the auto industry, is composed of 24 separate operations.

In the Dodge process, the entire body of the car is immersed in a special primer to a minimum depth of 22 inches. Because of the entry and exit angles in the dipping stage, the front and rear of the body are coated to an even greater depth.

Nationally Famous Auto Critic designates

DODGE... the "Hottest" car for 1963

WORLD OF WHEELS

Expert Calls Dodge 'Sleeper of Year'

By ART STEPHAN
Auto Editor

Cars, generally, are like girls—you see them on the street and you either like them or you don't.

But, as with girls, when you meet them and get to know them you find there is a big difference.

With this premise in mind, about cars—not girls—Stag Magazine called upon Dale Shaw, nationally known auto critic, to make an examination of the new models and come up with the best car for 1963.

Our specific request to Shaw was: "We don't care if it's a Cadillac or a jeep. Find the best car on the market for 1963 and write us a story."

A hard hitting writer, Shaw calls 'em as he sees 'em and in the January issue of Stag Magazine he calls the "Hottest Car for 1963 — The Dodge."

* * * *

"THAT OLD DODGE was reliable," Shaw observes. "However, through the years, Dodge somehow lost its grip on reliability.

"There was an explosive reaction among Dodge brass, and the emptiest heads were carted off in neat little baskets. A long, hard look was taken at design and, above all, quality control.

"It now appears that the results may rock the industry."

Shaw calls Dodge the "Sleeper of the year . . . this baby puts dependable' back in big 'D' with a sensational offer no other manufacturer can match."

In his Stag party, Shaw pulls no punches. He covers in naked, graphic prose old Dodge grief and new Dodge glory. He dissects the new Dodge models from door posts and roof supports to engine exhaust, and the fine print on the new five-year 50,000-mile warranty in what we think is probably the most revealing and interesting automobile story of recent times.

Dodge Offers Choice of 42 Models

DART SPORTS MODEL

The 1963 Dodge Dart's top-of-the-line GT series has two sports models: a two-door hardtop, shown here, and a convertible, both with bucket seats.

HERE IS DELUXE DODGE POLARA

The 1963 Dodge line-up provides a choice of 24 standard-size, popular-price models. Sedans, hardtops and convertibles have a 119-inch wheelbase and an over-all length of 17 feet, 4 inches. Pictured above is the deluxe Dodge Polara four-door hardtop.

Dodge offers automobile buyers a choice of 42 models for 1963, ranging from low-price compacts to medium-price luxury cars.

There are three separate lines of Dodge passenger cars, each distinctly diffently in styling, size and price. All will be on display at the Long Beach Automobile Show.

The three lines are: The new, family-size compact Dart; the standard-size, popular-price Dodge; and the luxurious, medium-price Dodge 880 and Custom 880.

"Our 1963 line-up gives the American motorist the widest selection of Dodge cars in our company's 49-year history," Dodge General Manager Byron J. Nichols said.

* * * *

THE NEW DART is built on a 111-inch wheelbase and is seven inches longer than the 1962 Dodge compact. It's offered in nine attractive models, including two convertibles.

The newly styled Dodge, which has a wheelbase of 119 inches, is six inches longer than last year's standard-size models. The Dodge line has 24 models, including two special high-performance Polara 500 sports models with bucket seats.

The Dodge line-up also includes nine medium-price 880 and Custom 880 models. These big, new cars have a 122-inch wheelbase and an over-all length of 17 feet, 9 inches.

The nine Dart models are in three series: 170, 270 and GT. The Dodge also has three series: 330, 440 and Polara. The medium-price Dodge is offered in two series: the deluxe Custom 880 and the lower-priced 880 series.

Dart buyers have a choice of two six-cylinder engines, one with a 170-cubic-inch displacement, the other with 225.

* * * *

DODGE OFFERS a selection of six engines: a 225-cubic-inch six, a 318-cubic-inch V-8, two 383-cubic-inch V-8's and two 426-cubic-inch V-8's. The 426 engines are special maximum performance powerplants available to a limited number of car enthusiasts.

Buyers of Dodge 880's have a choice of two engines: the standard 361-cubic-inch V-8 with two-barrel carburetor, and an optional, high-performance, 383-cubic-inch V-8.

Nichols said the 1963 Dodge and Dart have been increased in size to provide substantially more roominess and comfort. The new sytling and engineering give the new cars "greater beauty, convenience and appeal," he said.

The new Dodges feature a host of engineering improvements which "simplify operational controls and provide a longer, trouble-free life expectancy for every model," Nichols said.

* * * *

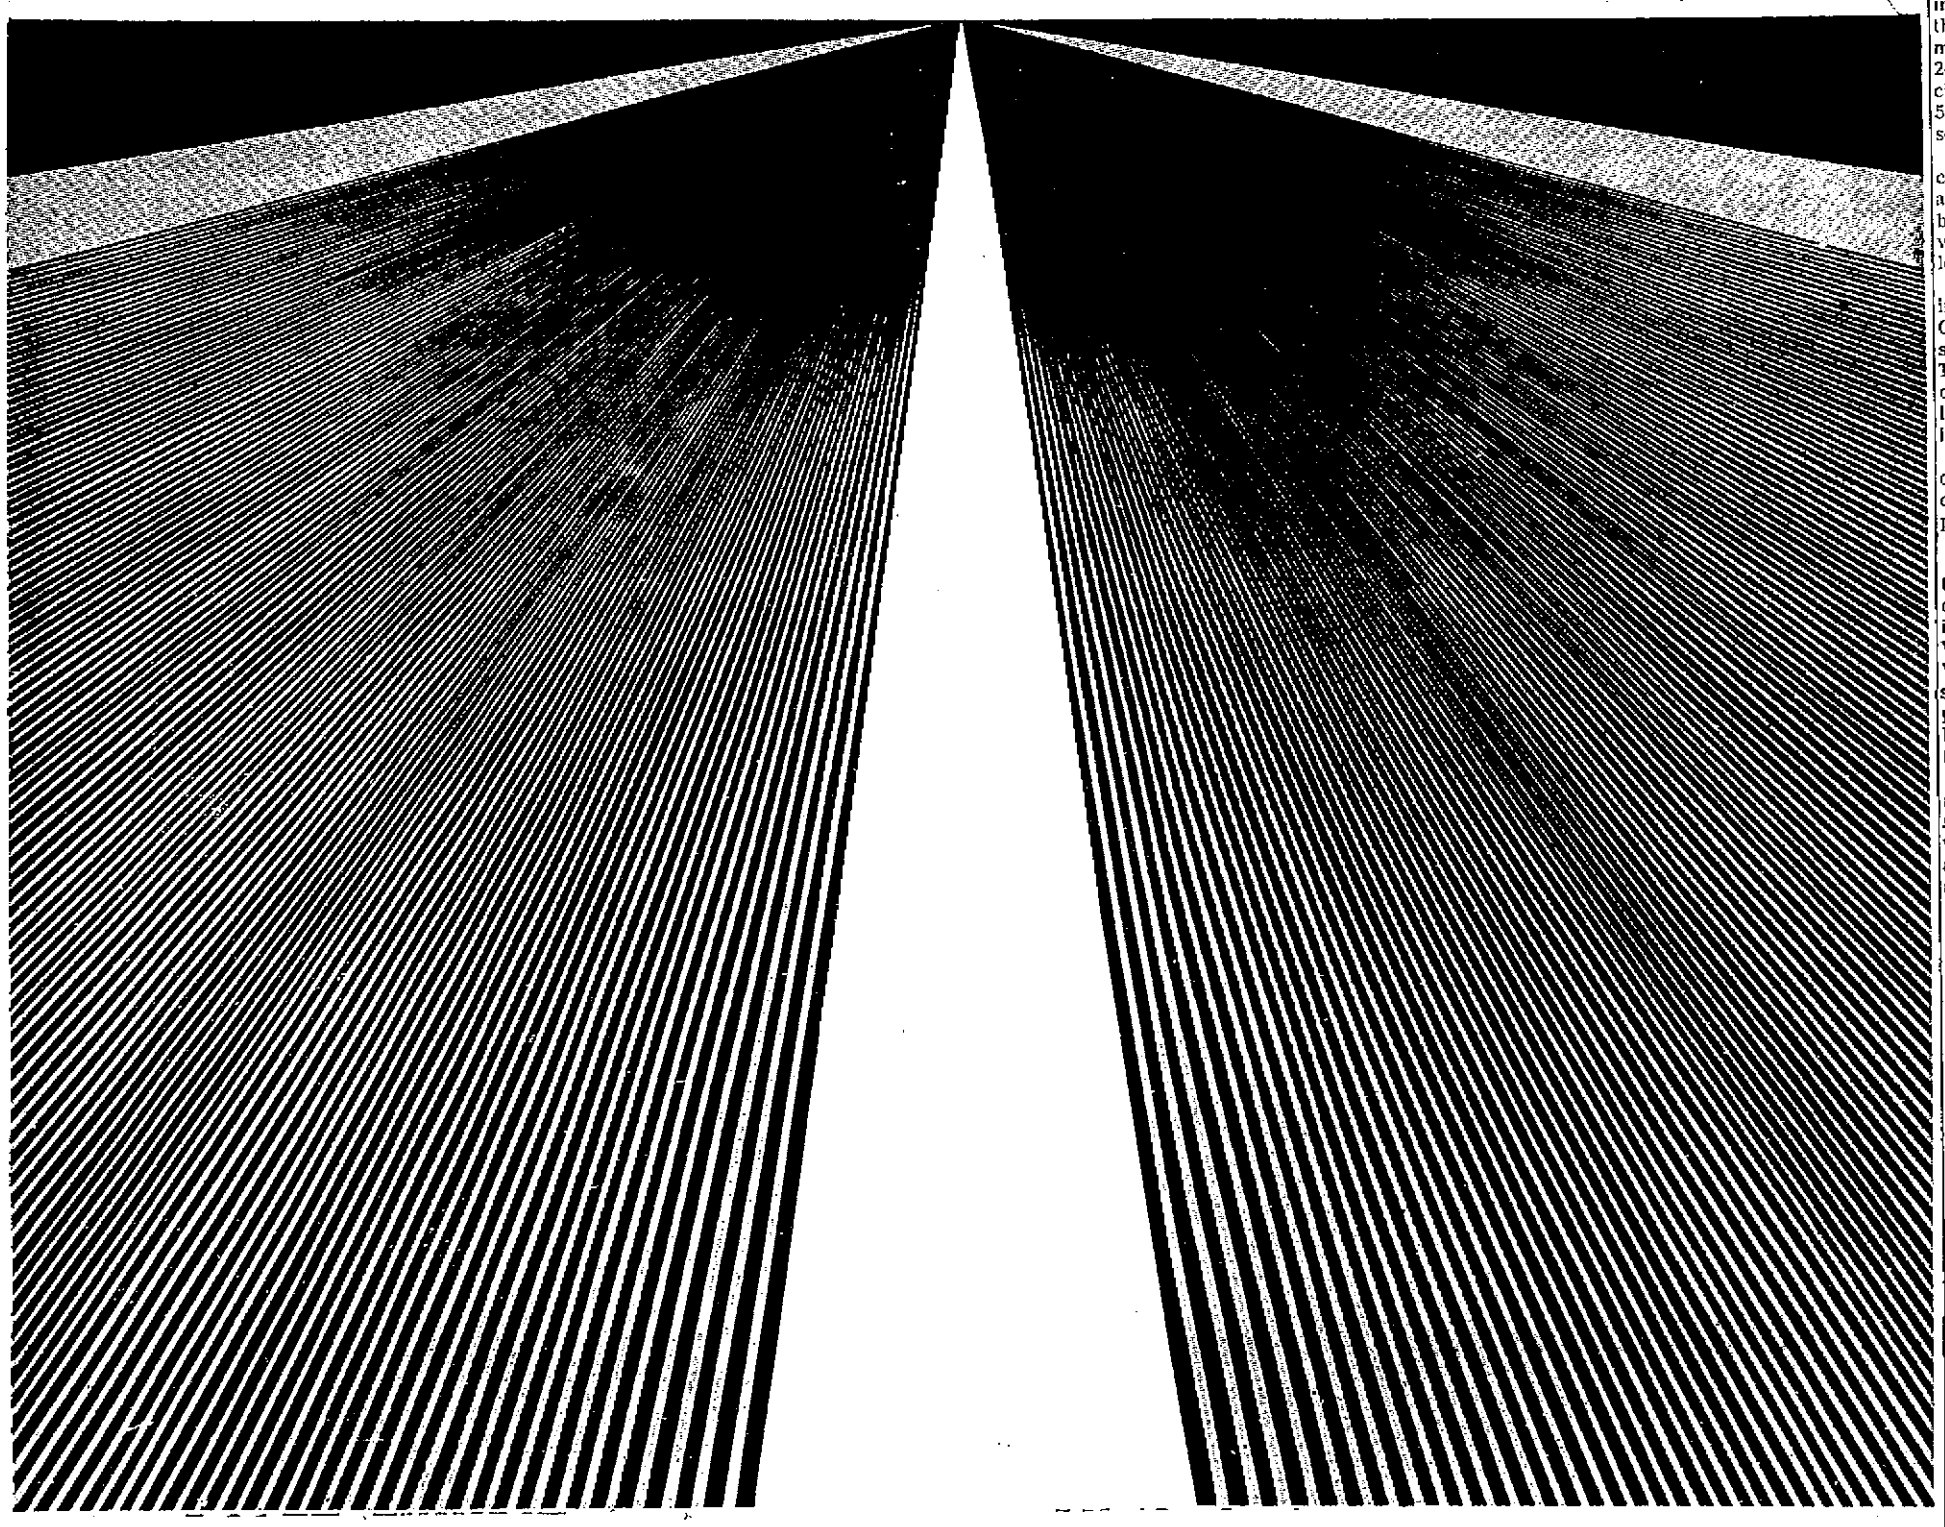

NEW FEATURES include: A five year or 50,000-mile warranty on major power-train components; newly developed aerodynamic windshield wipers that prevent "windlift" at high speeds; increased corrosion protection for body and exhaust systems; all-transistor radios.

Crankcase ventilation (anti-smog) system; increased seat fabric durability; improved starter for six-cylinder engines; amber-colored turn signal lens; more durable and easier operating hood latch.

Studebaker Avanti All-New Automobile

Restless, energetic Sherwood H. Egbert surrounded himself with every automotive publication he could find at Chicago's O'Hare Airport, fastened his seat belt, and began to read and think. Somewhere between Omaha and Denver on the jet taking him to California, he reached for some stationery and began to sketch the kind of car he would like Studebaker Corp. to build.

Egbert had been president of the then Studebaker-Packard Corp. just 37 days when, on March 9, 1961, he returned to South Bend, called in Raymond Loewy and handed the famed designer an assignment. Loewy was astounded at the clarity and advanced look of Egbert's designs. In his words: "I did not know the man, but I read him through the sketches he handed me. I knew then that Egbert had a natural flair for design. I knew I was working for a man whom I could respect for his good taste."

Within another 10 days Loewy had established designers John Ebstein and Robert Andrews in an isolated rented house in the Mojave Desert near his own home at Palm Springs. In one incredible week, the three designers created a 1/8 scale clay model.

* * * *

LOEWY CARRIED the model on his lap on a flight back to Egbert's office in snow-laden South Bend — headquarters of the 110-year-old Studebaker firm.

Thus began the countdown for the Avanti, the wedge-shaped, unmistakably modern, all-new automobile that is being introduced to the American motoring public this spring.

By April 27, a full-size clay model of the Avanti had been approved by the corporation's board of directors.

Loewy had this to say when the design for the Avanti was approved: "After Egbert had expressed his concept and given me the go-ahead signal, I briefed my design team to make certain that everyone visualized the definite design target we had in mind. We had no time to experiment. First, we looked for purity. We looked for something taut and lean, not frail, but with a wedgy look. Avanti's front is avid; its rear end is sudden . . . !" That was Loewy's comment on "fastback" styling — a characteristic of the Avanti.

"Then we considered the driver," Loewy said. "We wished to make sure that he could drive in both comfort and safety. This car is keen but not frantic. We also paid attention to acoustics on brisk acceleration, the exhaust music and the higher the revolutions the sweeter the engine melody. In traffic, the Avanti is docile.

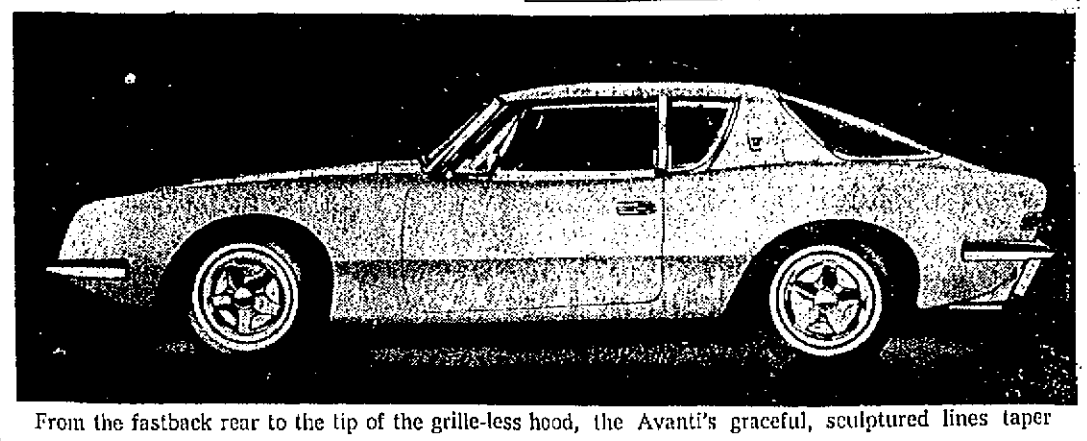

* * * *

"MECHANICALLY, Studebaker engineers also have done a first-class job on the Avanti," Loewy said. "But to appreciate it, you must get into the capsule, sit in the bucket, find yourself some asphalt and flat it out—you're in an automobile."

While designers and engineers were working at an unbelievable pace Egbert continued to breathe new life into the project by advocating special features on the Avanti — an aircraft cockpit design for the interior, caliper disc brakes, roll bar and safety padding protection for passengers, and other "details" which he says mark the difference between similar products of different manufacturers.

Egbert also was busy lining up Paxton Corp. as an acquisition for Studebaker. The new Paxton Division headed by Anthony (Andy) Granatelli, noted race driver and developer of the famous Novi racing engine, gives Studebaker supercharger that will produce more horsepower than the driver of the Avanti will ever need.

The Avanti reached showroom floors last May and is expected to attract considerable attention at the Long Beach Auto Show.

From the fastback rear to the tip of the grille-less hood, the Avanti's graceful, sculptured lines taper forward in a flying wedge.

New Type of Paints for Autos

One of the new developments in the automobile industry for 1963 cars is the use of a buffing-type acrylic enamel paint which increases durability, permits a wider color range and the use of lighter color metallic paints.

The new process makes it possible to oil sand body surfaces after the application of three color coats. The body surfaces are then hand polished at the factory to produce a surface of exceptional brilliance, luster and eye appeal.

In addition to improving new car appearance, buffing permits restoration of the original gloss after long periods in service, assuring maximum resale value.

New Release on Parking Brake

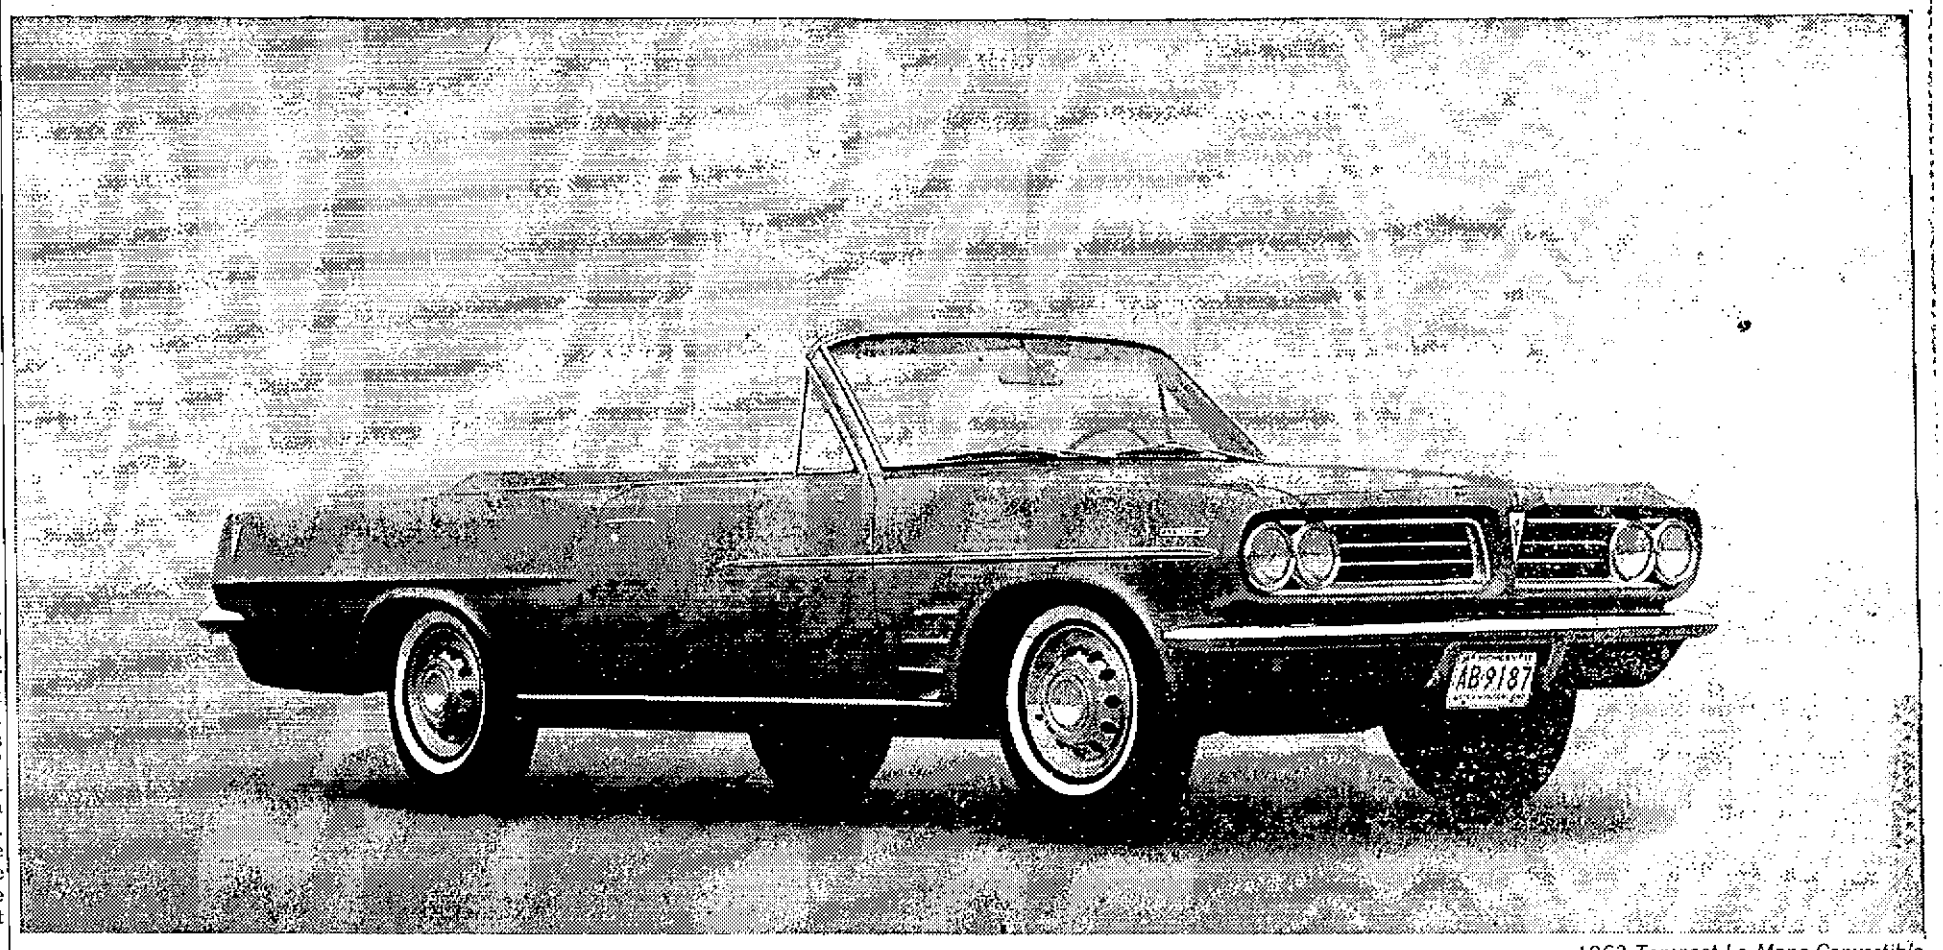

A new, vacuum-actuated parking brake release unit is featured on the Imperial. This device is operated by engine vacuum, and automatically releases the parking brake when the engine is started and the transmission placed in gear. A manual emergency override is also provided.

A parking sprag control is introduced for the Imperial's automatic transmission. The sprag mechanism is incorporated in the transmission extension and is used to lock the output shaft to the extension housing. It provides a positive and convenient method of holding the car immovable when parked. The sprag is actuated by a cable connected to a slide lever mounted on the instrument panel.

Plymouth Seats Are Improved

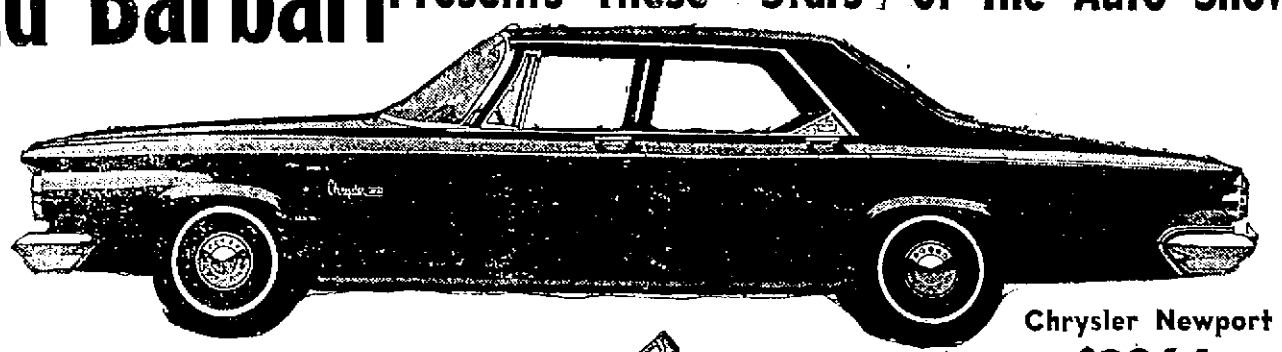

Plymouth seats have improvements which provide additional comfort and durability. Heavier gauge spring wire, coil-type end jacks, and wire-reinforced foam pads help extend seat life, provide firmer support and reduce wrinkling. Thicker (2¼-inch) foam pads are used in front seats of Fury and Belvedere models.

Tachometer on Mercury

A tachometer, to aid in measuring engine performance, and a swing-away steering wheel, which pivots out of the way of the driver, are options on the 1963 Monterey. options and accessories for the Monterey include: a new push button, fully transistorized, combination AM-FM radio; power brakes; power steering; power windows; six-way power seat, and an improved deluxe air conditioner that is separate from the heater.

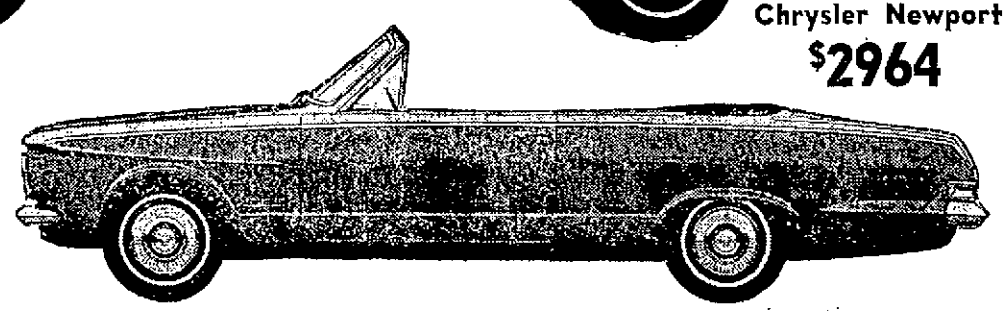

The Mercury Monterey for 1963 is offered in four series: the Monterey series, the Monterey Custom, the S-55 series, featuring bucket seats, and one station wagon—the Monterey Colony Park.

PLYMOUTH FOUR-DOOR HARDTOP

New styling, brisk performance and recognized fuel economy leadership are the qualities of the 1963 Plymouth, which this year offers a five-year or 50,000-mile warranty on major power components. Above, the sleek four-door Plymouth Fury hardtop.

Plymouth to Make Big Bid

New styling, exceptional performance and fuel economy — plus a 50,000-mile or five-year warranty on major power train components—are making the 1963 Plymouth a strong entry in the low-price field this year.

The new Plymouth models have a wider, longer look to go with their widely acclaimed liveliness.

They are three inches longer and an inch wider than in 1962. A stylish new roof line with upright rear window, a longer rear deck with roomier trunk and smart new front-end styling give the 1963 Plymouth a distinctively new appeal.

All 1963 Plymouth automobiles sold in the United States and Canada carry a new warranty for five years or 50,000 miles, whichever comes first, on major power train components. Plymouth is the first of the low-priced standard-sized cars to offer such extended owner protection.

* * * *

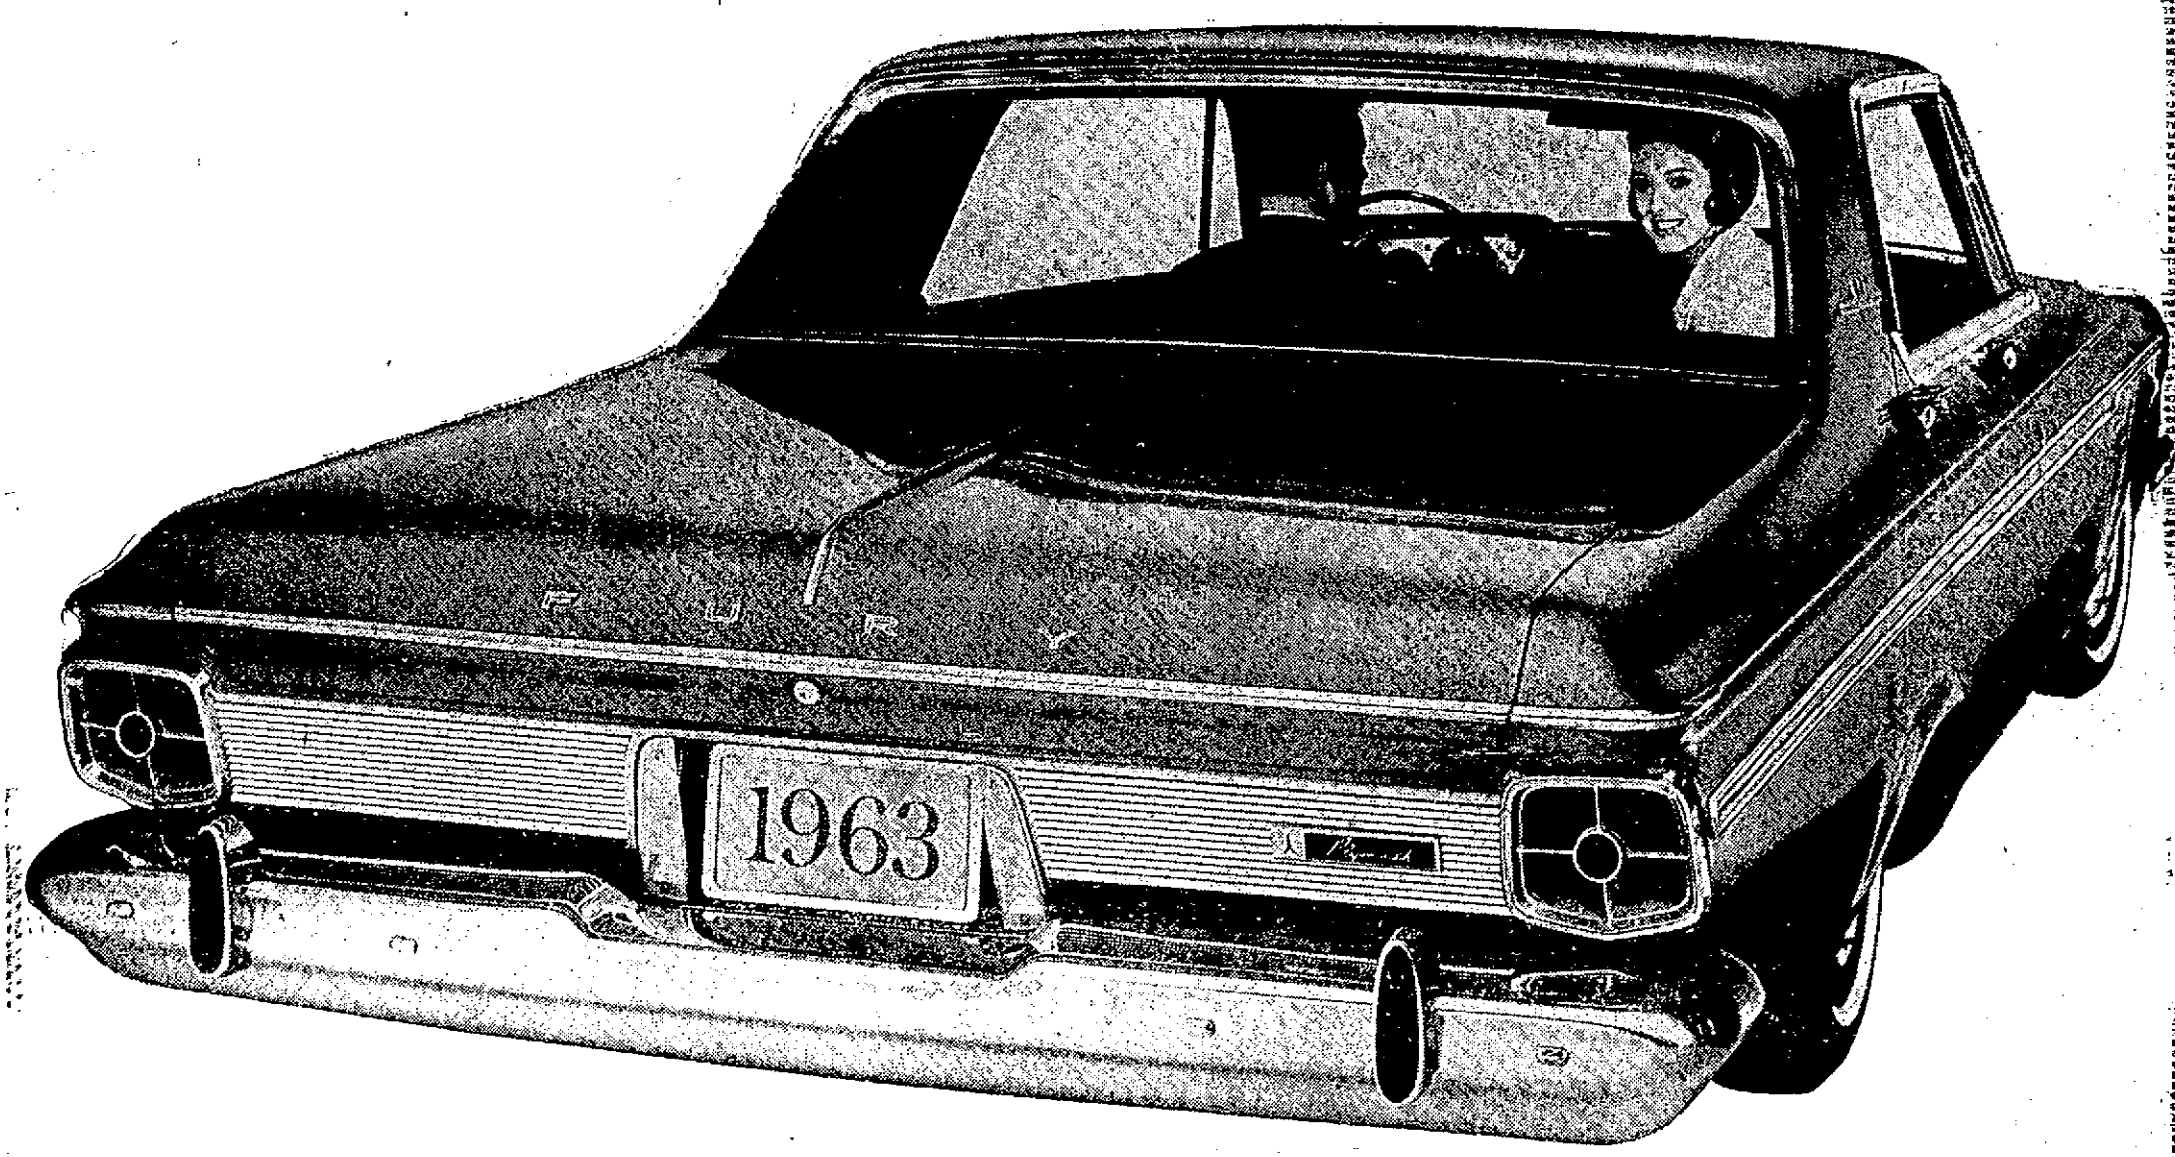

THE LENGTH of all 1963 Plymouth sedans, hardtops and convertibles is the same —205 inches. There are no intermediate, in-between models, short wheelbase or small engine cars in the line.

Standard power plants are the 225-cubic-inch inclined six and the 318-cubic-inch Fury V-8. Both engines retain the economy features which have won for Plymouth victories in its class in the Mobil Economy Run the past six years in a row.

* * * *

PLYMOUTH offers 26 different models for 1963 in four series. In the Savoy series there is a 2 and 4-door sedan and a 6 and 9-passenger station wagon, both 6 and 8-cylinder; Belvedere offers 2 and 4-door sedans and a 2-door hardtop in both 6 and 8-cylinder models, and 6 and 9-passenger wagons with V-8 only; Fury with 4-door sedan and 2-door hardtop in both 6 and 8-cylinder models, and the 4-door hardtop, convertible coupe, 6 and 9-passenger wagons with V-8 only.

In the Plymouth-Ford-Chevrolet league:
One car offers completely new styling.
One car can claim to be the performance champ.
One car has a 5-year/50,000-mile Warranty.*
That same car reports by far the biggest sales rise—45%
That car is Plymouth 63.
Plymouth's on the move.

COMET CONVERTIBLE

Two new convertibles are added to the Mercury Comet line for 1963. The power operated soft tops are available in the Custom series and in the sporty S-22 series with bucket seats. Pictured is the Comet S-22 convertible.

Convertibles Now in Line of Comets

Convertibles become part of the Mercury Comet line for the first time with introduction of two sporty models in the Comet custom and Comet S-22 series for 1963.

Both convertibles have power operated tops as standard equipment. The S-22 model has bucket seats with dividing center console and individually adjustable front seats.

Engineering advances developed originally for the big car field have been incorporated into the 1963 Comet line and substantially reduce the time and cost of auto maintenance.

The 1963 Comet will not require its initial servicing until six months or 6,000 miles have elapsed. A new high detergent engine oil, factory installed oil filter and adjustments to the transmission, engine and electrical system have eliminated the need for the 1,000 mile check-up.

* * * *

"WITH THESE new models, the Comet should attract even greater acceptance among continuing to improve on low cost, dependable transportation," Ben D. Mills, Ford Motor Co. vice president and general manager of the Lincoln-Mercury Division, said "The Comet consistently has ranked among the leaders in the industry in low dollar depreciation. We expect the new models and the engineering refinements on the 1963 line to strengthen this position."

Improvements in the Comet's two six-cylinder engines include hydraulic valve lifters and a newly designed carburetor.

Comet's sporty trend is supported by the addition of an optional new four-speed floor-mounted manual transmission which gives greater performance and fuel economy.

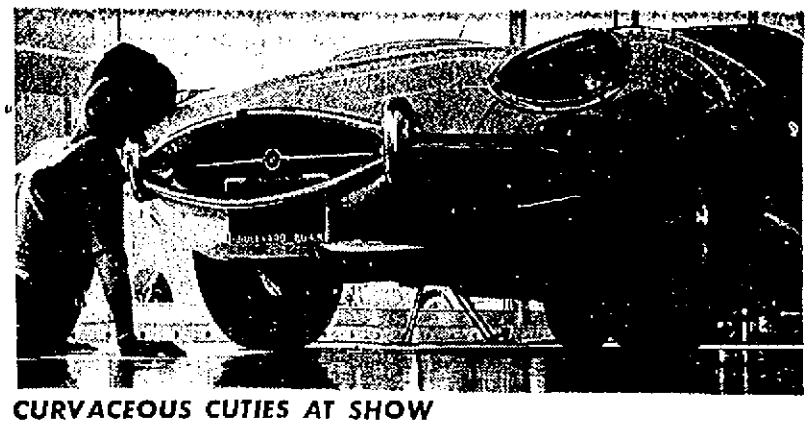

The Comet also comes in two and four-door sedans and station wagons in both standard and custom series, S-22 two-door sedan and the Villager station wagon. The Villager four-door wagon features simulated wood-grain paneling and rails, and bucket seats are optional.

Dodge Improves Wiper Blades

A new kind of windshield wiper on 1963 Dodge cars ensures effective wiping action even when the car is traveling at high speed.

At turnpike speeds, the wind tends to lift the conventional wiper from the glass. But the central bridge of the new Dodge wiper assembly has an airfoil design which prevents such windlift.

Air flowing over its curved surface actually increases the pressure of the blade on the windshield, Dodge Chief Engineer George W. Gibson reports. The result: greater visibility on the highway when traveling in rainy weather.

7.9 Million Homes With Over One Car

More than three and one-half million U.S. families moved into the two-or-more car ranks during the past eight years.

A recent national survey showed that the number of multicar households in the country increased from 4.1 million in 1954 to 7.9 million in 1962—a rise of 90 per cent.

The eight-year period saw a 23 per cent gain in the number of single-car households in the nation.

HOUSEHOLDS WITH THREE or more cars rose from 411,000 in 1954 to 750,000 in 1962.

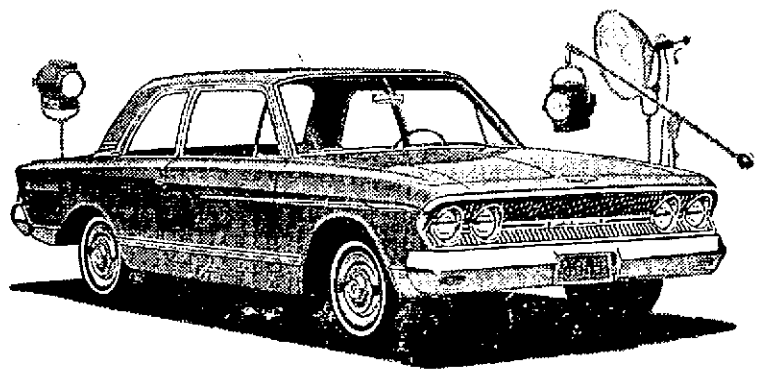

Passenger cars are now owned by 42 million households, or 77 per cent of all families. This is a rise from the 34.3 million households owning cars in 1954 which totaled 72.9 per cent of all households.

Pontiac's Grand Prix Is Most Distinctive

The custom-built 1963 Grand Prix sports coupe, the most distinctive series ever produced by Pontiac, is an idyllic combination of sports car appeal and superior performance.

The Grand Prix is a distinctively-styled luxury car which offers many exclusive extras not found on other models.

E. M. Estes, General Motors vice president and general manager of Pontiac Motor Division, describes the new model's appearance as suggestive of "quiet elegance" with simplicity as the keynote to its overall styling.

This theme is predominant in the sweeping grille with twin vertical head lamps flanked by impressive parking and turn signal lamps; crisply sculptured side panels and a concave rear window—an industry first.

* * * *

THESE FEATURES are accented by the clean-flowing lines of the rear styling that enhances the lower, wider longer look.

An immediate success when it made its debut last year, the new Grand Prix for 1963 follows the same trend of unadorned exterior styling to provide its own special personality. The Pontiac plaque with the letters "GP" is centered between the two deep and narrow air scoops that form the grille. The Grand Prix name appears in block letters on the front fenders and the traditional GP emblem is positioned far back on the rear fenders. Wheel house openings are outlined in bright metal trim and a generous rocker panel molding gives balance to tastefully executed moldings framing all glass areas.

The upper portion of the car is unique and exciting, with attention centered on a large, expansive concave rear window and an exceptionally thin roof profile, both exclusively Grand Prix.

* * * *

THE GRAND PRIX "going away look is just as refreshingly different as the front end view and is in strict keeping with the car's image. The rear end styling is strikingly simple and elegant with chrome trim used sparingly.

Unlike other Pontiac models, tail lamps are integrated into the rear end panel rather than being located in the fender and are not visible except when in use. The Pontiac plaque with the letters GP appears on the rear deck lid at top center near the rear and a GP emblem is placed at the lower right hand corner of the deck lid, both for unmistakable identity.

Fifteen different solid colors are offered in crylic lacquer exterior finishes. Pontiac's "fire leveled" paint assures am ore luxurious and durable finish.

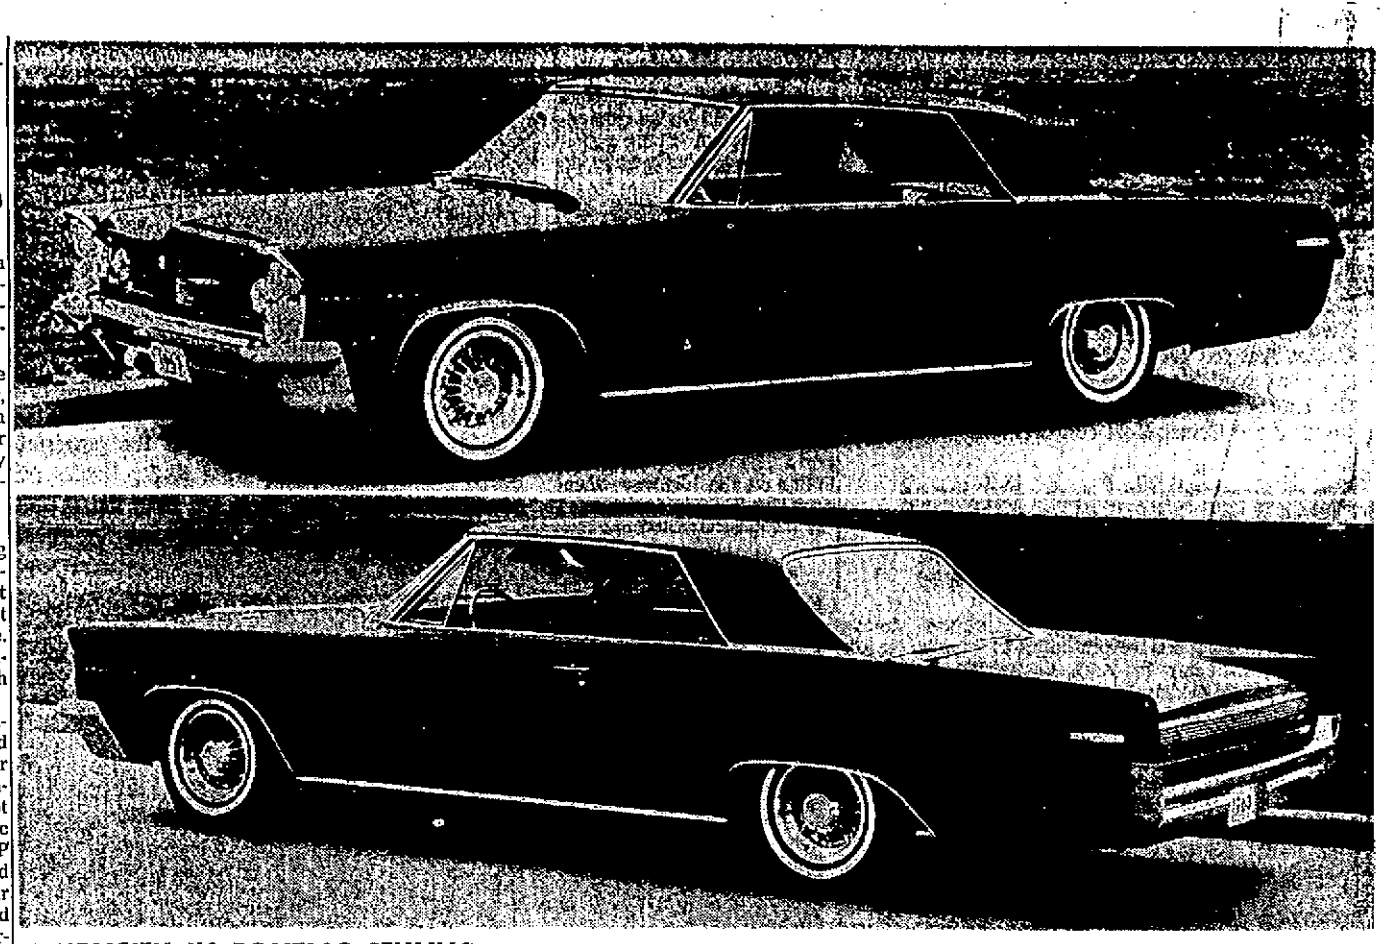

Grand Prix interiors are offered in solid colors and bucket seats are standard. Luxuriant expanded Morrokide is used for the interiors and the color selections have been increased to seven for better coordination with the large exterior color selection. The interior colors are black, red, dark aqua, dark blue and parchment with black, saddle or red components.

* * * *

OTHER FEATURES found in the Grand Prix include door emblems, generous nylon blend carpeting on lower door areas, decorative safety reflectors on door panels, a floor console with shift lever, rear courtesy lamp, tachometer or vacuum gauge and locker compartment; star pattern headlining and carpet covered cowl panels. Silver headlining combined with black interiors is new for 1963.

The Grand Prix's exclusiveness is far from being limited to styling alone. The standard power plant will be a premium fuel engine that mates top performance with sports car design. A wide range of engine options are also available and customers may select either automatic, four-speed synchromesh, or standard three-speed synchromesh transmission.

The Grand Prix offers other bonus items found on all Pontiac cars, including a long list of accessories and the many engineering improvements that have contributed so much to a smoother ride, easier handling and greater dependability.

SIMPLICITY IN PONTIAC STYLING

The custom-built 1963 Grand Prix is regarded as the most distinctive series ever produced by Pontiac. The styling theme of simplicity is predominant in the sweeping grille, with vertically arranged headlamps flanked by impressive parking and turn signal lamps; crisply sculptured side panels and a concave rear window—an industry first. These features are accented by the clean-flowing lines of the rear styling that enhances the lower, wider, longer look.

INTERIOR RESTYLED

The interior of the 1963 Rambler is dramatically restyled to match the new exterior. The instrument panel is designed with legibility, convenience of operation and safety in mind. Plushness extends from seat fabrics to floor coverings. Shown is the optional "Twin-Stick" floor shift model with console and bucket seats. Reclining seats, Lounge-Tilt seats and headrests are available as added comfort features.

New Ventilation System Offered

The 1963 Valiant offers an entirely new heater and fresh air ventilation system for all-weather comfort. For warm weather driving the ventilation system has approximately 40 per cent higher fresh air capacity than the previous system and distributes the air more effectively for passenger cooling.

AMONG NEW CADILLACS OFFERED
This is Cadillac's Eldorado Biarritz Convertible for 1963. Beneath its new look of greater size, the Biarritz includes Cadillac's new V-8 engine and silky smooth drive line.

Cadillac for '63 Has New Engine With Improved Type Drive Line

The Cadillac story for 1963 is one of increased size, significant engineering accomplishment with a new engine and drive line and still greater emphasis on comfort and convenience.

"Designed to leave no question as to its identity, the 1963 models say Cadillac from every angle," says Harold G. Warner, general manager of Cadillac and vice president of General Motors.

The 12 Cadillac models, one less than last year, will be well represented in the Long Beach Auto Show.

"Cadillac's 1963 look of greater size is a blending of clean unbroken side metal with bold and definite individual components such as the hood, front fenders, grille, head lamps and roofs," Warner explains.

Eleven models are one inch longer with nine of these 223 inches in over-all length. One, the single short deck sedan remaining in the line, is 15 inches and the two Series 75 models are 243.3 inches. Wheel base is unchanged on all models.

* * * *

TRADITIONALLY the top of the Cadillac line is the Fleetwood Sixty Special sedan and 1963 is no exception. Its distinguishing characteristics are its stately roof, stainless rocker moldings along the lower edge of the body, the grille treatment above the rear bumper and the specially styled interior.

Sharing the spotlight with the Sixty Special are the two-door models, the Coupe de Ville and the Series Sixty-Two coupe. Their new appearance is accomplished by a shortened roof line. The rear deck becomes seven inches longer, contributing to the long and low silhouette.

In the area of comfort and convenience an elegant new instrument panel is featured on all models, seating comfort is further improved with contoured and raised seat backs. Options such as an adjustable steering wheel, AM-FM radio and combined air conditioning and heater controls appear for the first time on a Cadillac.

The new instrument panel has even more padding and a functional grouping of instruments for greater convenience.

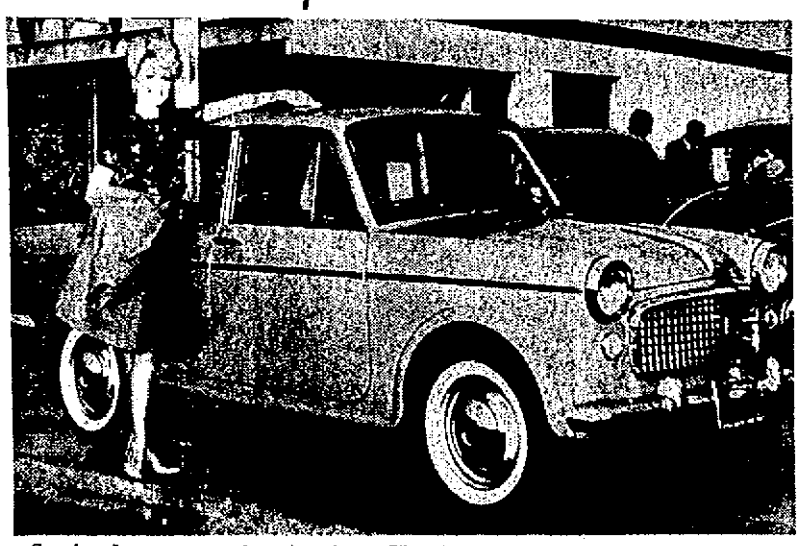

* * * *

COMPETING with exciting new interior and exterior innovations are the mechanical accomplishments in the 1963 Cadillac.

Heading this list in 1963 is a new engine. Lighter, more durable and more efficient, it features the use of the latest in metals for lightness and structure. Also featured is the grouping of accessories in one area for maximum ease of servicing in the field. The water pump, oil pump, distributor and oil filter are mounted in one neat package on the die cast aluminum front cover. Horsepower remains the same at 325, displacement at 390 and compression ration at 10.5 to 1, while the engine weight is reduced.

Another major engineering development for 1963 is the new drive line. A first in the industry, it features a double constant velocity joint assembly at the center, a similar joint at the rear axle and a U-joint at the transmission. This combination of constant velocity joints is insensitive to load or road variations and provides much greater durability.

Fiat's 1100 Special Good Value

Sondra Jones went shopping for a Fiat 1100 Special at Palmer Motors at 3300 Atlantic Ave. in Long Beach just as our photographer was focusing for a picture of the 1963 Italian import. Nice combination, don't you agree?

The new price of $1,498, p.o.e. New York, for the Fiat 1100 Special sets exceptional standards of value in the whole field, according to local dealer Van Palmer.

The Turin body styling of the 1100 Special features sleek lines and an all-round visibility through full windows on all sides.

The four-cylinder 1100 engine has a compression ratio of 7.85. It is notable not only for operating economy, but also for fast acceleration and a top speed of more than 80 miles per hour, says Palmer of Palmer Motors here.

The 1100 was first introduced in Italy by Fiat in 1938 and the current 1100 Special is the result of continuous improvements on a basically excellent economy car.

The Fiat Co., headquartered in Turin, Italy,

"Smart" car buyers vs. Wise car buyers

"Smart" car buyers will bargain long and hard to obtain their so-called "rock bottom" purchase price—then ignore "incidentals" like that interest rate on the balance.

Wise car buyers—with an eye to overall cost as well as "price"—also calculate their interest charges and wind up buying "cheaper"—without a hassle—with a low cost auto loan from F&M.*

Wise car buyers also like our one-stop, same-day service—requires only a purchase agreement from the auto agency giving data on the car of your choice, plus your completed loan application. The entire transaction usually takes about 30 minutes and you walk out with a purchase draft for your new or used car. No hidden charges . . . no red tape . . . insure with the agent of your choice.

Award Winning Rambler Will Be in Show

The 1963 Rambler, to be seen at the Long Beach Auto Show, has been named "Car of the Year" by the editors of Motor Trend, automobile magazine which annually tests and rates all U. S. cars, Rambler dealers were informed in a message from Thomas A. Coupe, American Motors' automotive sales vice president.

Motor Trend's award, recognized throughout the industry as the top honor which can be bestowed on a new car model, cites American Motors for "outstanding design achievement and engineering in the 1963 Rambler."

Charles E. Nerpel, Motor Trend editor, presented the "Car of the Year" trophy to Abernethy, president of American Motors, at a banquet held in Detroit.

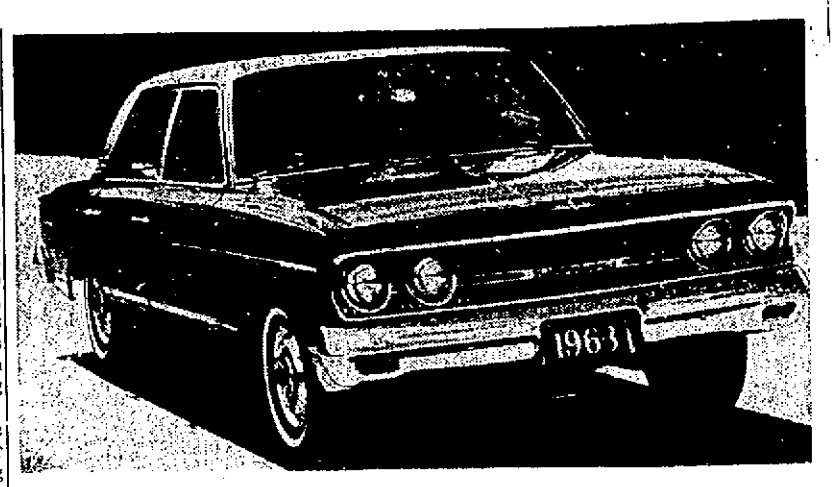

* * * *

IN MAKING the award Nerpel said: "Each year sees more and more engineering and styling adances from more auto makers and through more model lines, and each year it is more difficult to select the product that best shows the most progress in design. However, based on a close scrutiny to all features offered for 1963, American Motors' Ramblers are this year's best examples of outstanding design achievement and engineering leadership."

Abernethy termed the award to Rambler a "singular honor" and "most gratifying because it represents the objective viewpoint of qualified technical experts after comparative evaluation of all 1963 cars."

He pointed out that the selection as "Car of the Year" substantiates the opinion of American Motors executives and Rambler dealers that the 1963 Classic, Ambassador and American are outstanding in the vital consumer areas of performance, dependability, and value. "Motor Trend's recognition of these merits," he concluded, "will make the public more fully aware of the many benefits inherent in Rambler design."

The February issue of Motor Trend devotes 26 pages to the 1963 Rambler lines, with complete results of road tests on which the "Car of the Year" award is based. The report gives special praise to the advanced method of single-unit construction developed for the 1963 Rambler.

HEELS WON'T CATCH

The sharp edges of women's heels will not catch in or damage the floor mats in the 1963 Fords.

GALS ARE BUYERS, TOO

Ford Designs Cars to Please Women

Perfumed notes about broken finger nails, snagged high heels and "being a lady in waiting while my car is serviced every month" have found their way into the blueprints for 1963 cars.

"The ladies are polite, but firm in letting us know their special needs in an automobile," said Robert J. Eggert, manager of Ford Division's market research department, "and their voice gains importance in the car market every year."

"One out of every five car-owning households today is headed by a woman," said Eggert, "and in the millions of two- and three-car families, women are choosing their own personal automobiles. We believe that any automobile not designed with women in mind as well as men will miss more than 25 per cent of its potential customers."

* * * *

WOMEN'S SHOES are one special need cited by Eggert. The ladies pointed out that their high heels caught in the the accelerator pedal and that their spike heels marked the carpeting.

"This year, floor mats in the front of the car have been made in one piece to eliminate heel snagging," said Eggert, "and carpets in all Ford cars are strengthened with 20 per cent nylon to withstand greater wear."

"The problem of delicate fingernails and bouffant sleeves played a major part in the development of new paddle-type door handles," Eggert pointed out, "and the strain on ladies' fingers and nails was taken into consideration when we added cranks to operate vent windows on our 1963 Galaxies."

* * * *

WOMEN have an important voice in actual car models, too. In a Ford survey on convertibles taken 18 months ago, 6,000 women (many of them career girls) revealed a distinct liking for a "personal-sized car with bucket seats, offering good gas mileage" and "easy to drive."

"There is no question," Eggert said, "that this survey influenced our decision to produce a compact convertible which we are offering in the Falcon line for 1963. And we are offering power steering on the entire Falcon line this year to give the ladies a 'car that is easy to drive'."

* * * *

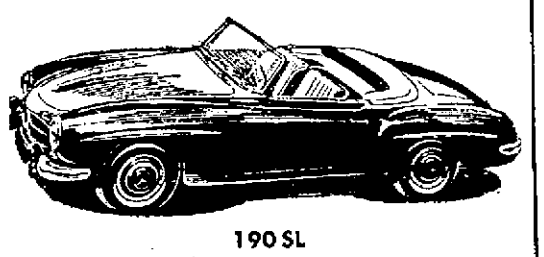

WOMEN might not guess that they have also had an influence on the mechanical side of car design as well.

Crisp, Elegant Look Given Chrysler Cars

The 1963 Chrysler cars at the Long Beach Auto Show will have an entirely new and crisp look of elegance described by design authorities in other fields as embodying the best in contemporary design.

They have a new body structure, new brakes, new engine options, new economy features, new interiors and new improved passenger roominess, safety and comfort.

They retain the traditional size of previous Chryler cars. There are no compact versions in the line.

Also new for 1963 is a warranty for five years or 50,000 miles, whichever comes first, to cover the major power train components on all 1963 Chrysler automobiles.

* * * *

THE PLANNING of the 1963 Chryslers began in 1959. Before starting initial styling work that year, the firm's designers and product planners decided upon a new method of achieving good taste, elegance and comfort in automotive design. They sought the opinions of contemporaries in other fields of design, including fashion, architecture and furniture. Two panels of experts presented their views to Chrysler officials in the summer and fall of 1959.

Three years later the finished product, the 1963 Chrysler, was shown to the same group of design authorities.

"We found a high degree of approval of what we had accomplished," says R. M. Rodger, director of product for the Chrysler line. "The fashion and design people feel that is a clear relationship between our styling and contemporary styling in high fashion and other areas of design."

* * * *

CHRYSLER RETAINS its model line-up which proved so successful in 1962. The Newport, a full-sized, lower priced car, is offered as a 4-door sedan, 2 and 4-door hardtop, convertible coupe and 6 and 9-passenger station wagon. The 300 series, a popular entry in the growing performance sports car market, is available in three body styles: 2 and 4-door hardtops and a convertible coupe.

The New Yorker, built for the motorist who wants the ultimate in medium price car luxury, is available as a 4-door sedan, a 4-door hardtop and 6 and 9-passenger station wagons.

There is also a 300J, an unique combination of top performance and smart styling.

Uncluttered, sharp lines impart a crisp, custom tasteful richness to the 1963 Chrysler. The car has a new distinctive single roof panel for both sedans and hardtop models. Another styling feature of the Chrysler is the wide C-pillars and limousine-type rear window.

* * * *

EACH OF THE THREE Chrysler models has its own individualized grille. The Newport features an aluminum stamping with vertical lattice work; the 300 has an impressive crossed bar design with the "300" medallion in the center, and the New Yorker is a die-cast frame with a vertical centerpiece from which aluminum insert bars extend on either side. Horizontally arranged headlamps replace the canted headlamps of the past three years.

Chrysler interiors are significantly new for 1963. There is a totally new instrument panel, new high-quality, appearance-improved seat materials and designs, and roomier interiors on two-door body models.

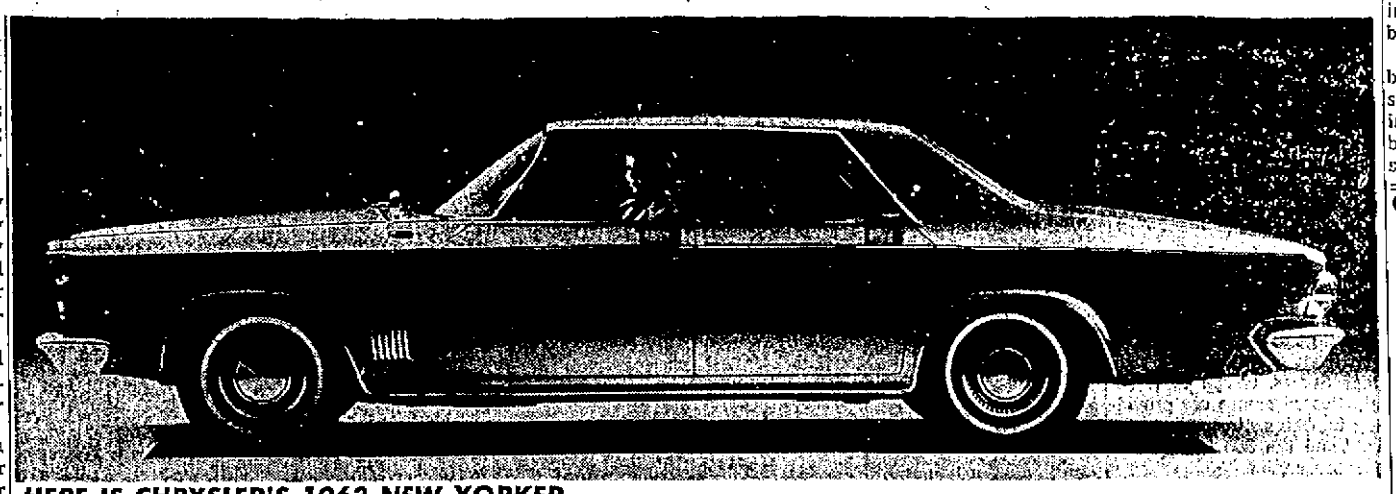

The simplicity of the new instrument panel styling complements the graceful exterior styling. Instruments have been grouped for maximum ease of reading by the driver. Two new features are introduced on the instrument panel for 1963—a trip odometer and passenger assist handle. Both are standard equipment.

Seat and door panel designs are new, and fabric colors and patterns are enhanced for 1963. The luxury of soft garnish is the feature of all door panels this year. Individually adjustable bucket seats with a fixed center section and folding arm rest are standard on 300 convertibles and two-door hardtops and on New Yorker station wagons.

* * * *

THE POWERPLANT FOR the Newport is the 361-cubic-inch V-8 with two-barrel carburetor.

A new optional engine is being offered for the 300 sports series. It is a 413 cubic inch V-8 with a single four-barrel carburetor. It is designed for outstanding performance plus smooth and economical operation. The new powerplant provides more power at high speeds and greater agility at low speeds. It has a high performance camshaft, special valve springs and dampers and large dual exhausts.

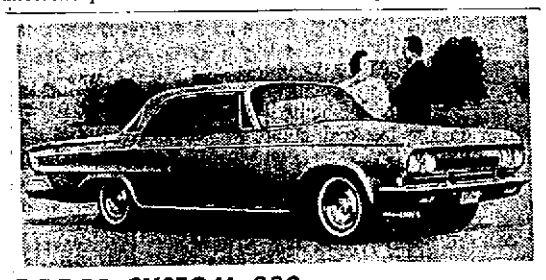

HERE IS CHRYSLER'S 1963 NEW YORKER

Crisp, elegant styling with emphasis on clean, flowing lines gives the 1963 Chrysler a completely new appearance. Along with its fashionable new look, the Chrysler has new body structure, new brakes, new engine options, new economy features, new interiors and new, improved passenger roominess, comfort and safety. Here is the 1963 New Yorker four-door hardtop, one of 14 models in six body styles in four series: the New Yorker, 300, Newport and 300J.

Better Humidity Control in Car

The popularity of the air conditioning option continues to grow and in 1962 reached a record high. For 1963 Cadillac has adopted a combined type of heating and air conditioning system which employs air volume modulation for closer regulation of temperature. It responds faster and does an even better job of humidity control.

Another important Cadillac comfort feature offered for the first time in the 1963 models as an option is a steering wheel adjustable to six different positions.

DODGE CUSTOM 880

Dodge's medium-price Custom 880 for 1963 combines big-car luxury and performance with economical operation and moderate initial cost. The Custom 880, built on a 122-inch wheelbase, offers six hardtop, sedan, convertible and station wagon models. Three lower-priced 880 models are also available.

BUILT-IN LUXURY

The luxurious fabrics and interior appointments in 1963 motor cars this year are outstanding. For example this Oldsmobile 98 luxury sedan has satin-finish fabric, built-in door armrests housing the power window controls, center arm rests and assist grips mounted on the back of the front seat to aid entry and exit.

2 New Models Among 26 Shown by Oldsmobile

Oldsmobile's dazzling display at the Long Beach Auto Show highlights its 1963 line of 26 exciting new models, designed to meet the varied wants and needs of the California family.

Ranging from the longer-looking F-85 to the elegant new 98 Luxury Sedan, the 1963 Oldsmobile introduces a fresh, youthful styling approach, a greater distinctiveness between each series, and many important advances for the safety, comfort and convenience of driver and passengers.

At the top of the line, Olds has added two totally new models to the 98 series, the Luxury Sedan and the Custom Sports Coupe. Designed for the "carriage trade," the richly-appointed Luxury Sedan features a custom interior trim with front and rear seat center arm rests and built-in assist grips on the back of the front seats. The 98 Custom Sports Coupe is a sophisticated sports car providing bucket seats, power console and the 345 horsepower Starfire engine.

* * * *

OLDS ALSO offers a wide selection of other models for the sports car-minded Californian, including the new Starfire Coupe and Convertible, the F-85 Cutlass Coupe and Convertible and the turbo-charged Jetfire.

Powered by the 345 horsepower Starfire engine, the Starfire is a full-size sports car with Hydra-Matic, power brakes, power steering, bucket seats, power console and tachometer as standard equipment. F-85 Cutlass convertibles and Coupes are powered by the 195 hp Cutlass engine and include bucket seats as standard.

* * * *

OLDSMOBILE'S Rocket engine, rated at 280 horsepower with two-barrel carburetor and 10.25 to 1 compression ratio, is standard on the Dynamic 88. The Super 88 and most 98 models are equipped with the Skyrocket engine, developing 330 horsepower with the Rockette aluminum V-8 155 horsepower engine with a compression ratio of 8.75 to 1.

West Coast drivers will be especially interested in two new Oldsmobile features for 1963, an adjustable tilt-type steering wheel and an exclusive positive crankcase ventilation system.

Optional on all full-size Oldsmobiles equipped with power steering, "Tilt-Away" permits the driver to position the steering wheel at whatever angle best suits him. He may select any one of seven positions, while the car is in motion, and also tilt it to its most vertical angle for easier entry and exit.

* * * *

STANDARD on all '63 models, Oldsmobile's exclusive crankcase ventilation system controls crankcase fumes from the engine by a dual-action valve. At idle and at low speeds, the valve remains closed and all the mixture is routed directly into the carburetor throttle body. At higher speeds, the valve opens, and the fumes are divided, part through the throttle body, with the major portion routed directly into the air cleaner intake snorkel, where it is refiltered and mixed with the outside air entering the carburetor.

Among other new features standard on all 1963 Oldsmobiles are self-adjusting brakes a Delcotron generator to increase charging at idle speeds, a door interlock system and a "positive pilot" turn signal system.

Inside, there are many other improvements, including a single control unit for the heating, ventilating and air conditioning systems. All 1963 radios are transistorized and an AM-FM radio is also optional this year.

Contributing further to passenger safety, a new custom deluxe steering wheel has soft padding added to the spokes while control knobs are recessed in the new padded instrument panel.

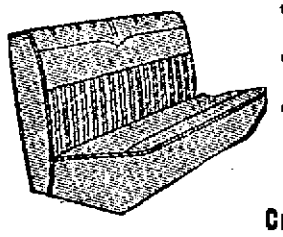

In addition to cornering better, due to improvements in sway control, the 1963 Olds provides greater maneuverability because the turning diameter has been reduced approximately three feet.

OLDSMOBILE'S NEW CUTLASS CONVERTIBLE

One of many sports-type models in Oldsmobile's 1963 line, the F-85 Cutlass convertible is powered by the 195-hp. Cutlass V-8 engine and equipped with bucket seats. A center console is an extra-cost option. Overall length of the F-85 has been increased four inches this year.

VALIANT HAS NEW STYLING

Simplicity in styling of the 1963 Valiant is evident in this rear three-quarter view of the V-200 four-door sedan which reveals smooth and uncluttered lines. The large back window extends down to the beltline to provide superior driver rearward vision. Two new convertibles have been added to line in 1963 to fill out a complete range of nine body styles in three series.

Valiant for 1963 Is Offering Many Advances in Engineering

Valiant, the low priced compact of Chrysler Corp., has completely new styling for 1963.

It is 2.2 inches longer and is sleeker in appearance than previous models. For the first time this year Valiant offers a convertible with either a power or manually operated top.

"The 1963 Valiant re-emphasizes its reputation as the value leader in the low-price compact field," says C. E. Briggs, vice president of Chrysler Motors Corp. and general manager of the Chrysler-Plymouth Division. "We are convinced that the 1963 Valiant is the best all-around compact anybody has come up with yet."

* * * *

VALIANT FOR 1963 has a new warranty for five years or 50,000 miles, whichever comes first, on the major power train components including engine, transmission, propeller shaft and universal joint and rear axle. This makes Valiant first in the compact car class to offer such extended owner protection.

To bring about the many significant engineering advances in the 1963 Valiant, the car was subjected to one of the most comprehensive testing programs in the history of the automobile industry. During its development, the Valiant was put through more than a half million miles of engineering road testing to establish its high degree of durability and reliability.

As in 1962, the new Valiant offers two engines. Its 170-cu. in. inclined six is the biggest standard engine in its field. The peppy Super 225-cu. in. six is optional.

* * * *

OVERALL LENGTH has been increased 2.2 inches, while width at the rear bumper is reduced 1.6 inches.

The new Valiant look is highlighted by a broad front-end treatment featuring, for the first time since 1957 on Chrysler cars, single headlights.

Front bumpers are mounted higher on the car and supported well away from the sheet metal to provide maximum impact protection. Circular parking lights located below the bumper have the new amber lenses.

* * * *

THE SIDE PROFILE of the 1963 Valiant has distinctive, clean lines. The new Valiant has a broad flat hood with an identifying medallion in the center of the hood brow.

From the rear, Valiant has an all-new look characterized by a lower belt line beneath the rear window and a sloping deck, flanked by sharp-ridged quarter panels.

Inside, Valiant introduces a new keystone shaped instrument cluster which affords better visibility.

The inner door panels have a clean look of neatness and are styled to complement the door trim panels which are painted to match the instrument panels.

For maximum wear and appearance quality, exterior gloss enamel is used on all interior painted surfaces.

Variety of British Cars Seen in Show

More than half of all the sports cars sold in the United States bear the British Motor Corp. label. BMC cars are imported into this country by Hambro Automotive Corp. and sold through more than 650 dealers throughout the country.

The leading manufacturer of automobiles in Great Britain, BMC is aiming at an annual production rate of 1,000,000 vehicles. It is one of the largest industrial firms outside the United States and is one of the world's major automobile manufacturers.

It was formed in 1952 by the merger of the Austin Motor Co. and Morris Motors, Ltd., both of whose roots were deep in the pioneering days of the British auto industry.

Hambro, sole U.S. importer for BMC's cars, had its beginnings as Hambro Trading Co. in 1948. It brought in and sold a wide range of British goods—from food products to motorcycles. It also dealt in Morris and MG cars.

Because it was handling such a wide range of unrelated items, Hambro Trading Co. found it was spreading its sales efforts too thin. It was decided to concentrate all its efforts in one area, and, in 1955, Hambro Automotive Corp. was formed. A. E. Birt is the founding president of Hambro Automotive Corp.

BMC has gone from a production of 276,758 cars annually to the current rate of about 750,000. It has 80,000 employes, 15 factories in Britain and 30 assembly plants throughout the world. More than 110,000 shareholders own the company. BMC also produces trucks, buses, tractors, trailers, marine and industrial engines, washing machines and sink units.

The BMC imported into the United States are: MG, MG Midget, MG Sedan, Austin, Austin Healey, Austin 850, Austin Cooper, Sprite, Morris and Austin Princess.

POWERFUL NEW MERCURY

With more power and higher performance and styling changes, here is the Mercury Monterey for 1963. A unique, reverse-slope rear window which goes up and down, virtually eliminates visibility problems caused by ice, snow, rain or frost. The 390 Marauder V-8 engine now becomes standard. The completely restyled Monterey also has a new concave grille, new quarter panels and triple taillights. Pictured is the Monterey Custom.

Increased Power for Mercury's Monterey

Increased power and performance and dramatic new styling highlight the Mercury Monterey for 1963.

Mercury's big car entry, the Monterey, features a unique reverse-sloped rear window and roof line that sets it apart from all other American cars.

The new rear window has important functional advantages as well as styling appeal. It slants inward and virtually eliminates visibility problems caused by rain, snow, frost or ice. The window is power operated, and provides excellent ventilation when opened. The new roof allows more than half an inch of additional rear seat headroom.

In addition to the new roof line, the exterior of the Monterey is completely restyled. All major sheet metal and ornamentation is new. The front features a new bumper and concave grille. Quarter panels, rear bumper and triple tail lights are new. Canted blade-type fenders extend the length of the car, and add crispness to the styling.

* * * *

TO GIVE MORE POWER and performance, the 390-Maurauder V-8 is now the standard engine on the Monterey. Six-clinder and smaller V-8 engines are no longer available on Monterey. The standard 390 cubic-inch engine with two-barrel carburetor is rated at 250 horsepower and uses regular fuel. With fourbarrel option, the enginee is rated at 300 horsepower. Both 390-engines may be equipped with dual range Merc-O-Matic transmission and the fully synchronized four-speed floor-mounted manual transmission. A newly designed fully synchonized three-speed manual transmission is available on the standard 390-engine.

For those desiring even higher performance, a Mercury Marauder 406 V-8 engine is available as an option. The 406-cubic-inch engine is rated at 385 horsepower with a four-barrel carburetor and at 405 horsepower with a six-barrel carburetor. The 406 engines are available only with the four-speed, floor-mounted manual transmission.

THE DECISION to make the 390-Marauder engine standard on the 1963 Monterey was prompted by the large percentage of V-8 engines ordered on the 1962 models, according to Ben D. Mills, Ford Motor Co. vice president and general manager of Lincoln-Mercury Division.

"The desire to more lively performance is not for speed alone," Mr. Mills said. "More and more drivers are seeking an added margin of power for high speed passing, emergencies and more efficient operation under turnpike driving conditions. These engines are designed to give added performance for these driving situations."

An alternator is standard equipment in place of the conventional DC generator.

* * * *

MANY ENGINEERING advances reduce the cost of car maintenance. In addition to the many service-saving features which have been introduced on the Monterey in the past two years, such as 6,000-mile oil change and minor lubrication, 30,000-mile major lubrication, 30,000-mile fuel filter and two-year or 36,000-mile radiator coolant, the 1963 Monterey will offer:

—Elimination of the 1,000-mile inspection.

—Extension of the major chassis lubrication interval from 30,000 miles to 36,000 miles.

—Longer-life battery.

"Cushion-Link suspension, which has earned the Monterey a reputation for a soft, plush ride, is improved for 1963. The suspension permits the wheels to move rearward as well as upward to isolate the passengers from road harshness.

All Montereys are equipped with an anti-smog crankcase emission reduction system.

Dodge Offers Model Variety

The 119-inch-wheelbase Dodge for 1963 is offered in 24 different six- and eight-cylinder models.

Here is the Dodge model lineup: six 4-door sedans, five 2-door hardtops, four 2-door sedans, three 6-passenger station wagons, three 9-passenger wagons, one 4-door hardtop and two convertible models.

Amber Turn Lights on 1963 Model Cars

Amber colored front turn signals will be one of the features on 1963 U.S. motor vehicles.

The change from the white lights in present usage results from an industry-wide project started in 1958 to re-evaluate all motor vehicle lighting and signaling components.

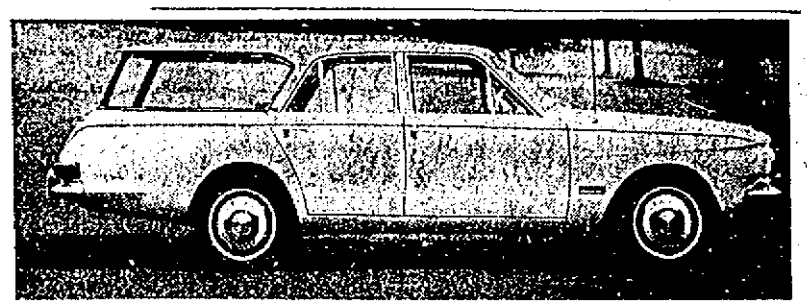

* * * *

ENGINEERS from lamp and vehicle manufacturers taking part in the project found that amber turn signals were more easily seen than white against glaring reflections and provided greater contrast against headlamps at night. Tests were conducted in different parts of the country under a variety of light and weather conditions.

Findings were reported to state motor vehicle officials in 1959 with the suggestion that laws in 25 states restricting the use of amber front turn signals be amended. The necessary action was taken by the state legislature during the past three sessions making the change possible on 1963 models.

V-8 Power Unit in Plymouth

The high performance engine for the 1963 Plymouth is a 383-cubic-inch Golden Commando—V-8 power plant with 4-barrel carburetor, dual exhausts, high-performance camshaft, dual breaker distributor and other special features. Increased displacement provides higher output through the whole speed range than last year's 361-cubic-inch engine with 4-barrel carburetor. Through-gear acceleration from zero to 60 m.p.h. is improved a good 9 per cent.

TWO VALIANT WAGONS

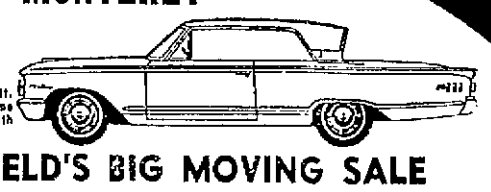

Everything about the 1963 Valiant station wagon seems to say "let's go." The station wagon, offered in both the V-100 and V-200 series, has many new styling features, some of them exclusive to this body style.

Thunderbird Is Big Medicine in Famous Mexican Resort

4,000 B. C. SUN BATHS
Sun-air-water baths in three-inch deep form-fitting depressions are copied from ancient Sumarian civilization 4,000 B. C. Circulation and metabolism are increased by the stimulus.

By BILL EMERY

THUNDERBIRD noun: An enormous bird believed to produce thunder by flapping its wings, lightning by opening and closing its eyes and rain by allowing a huge lake to run off its back: common to the folklore of the North American Indians of the Plains.

Thunderbird — Gallant personal car of many moods.

Names convey images and the T-Bird, or "Bird" as it is affectionately known in all circles, seems to have a universal image of esteem. It is luxury married to campatability.

We found the beautiful new Thunderbird motorlog car most compatable on an interesting week-end trip to Rancho La Puerta, the famous health resort near Tecate, Mexico.

Ralph Brown, general manager for Mel Burns Ford at 2000 Long Beach Blvd., gave us the keys to a cheerful red "Bird" with its tank full and we were off to Rancho La Puerta from our Westminster home by 6 p.m. Friday.

After a delicious seafood dinner at San Diego's famed Harbor House, we crossed the Mexican border at Tijuana and followed Hiway 2 past the race track and on toward Tecate.

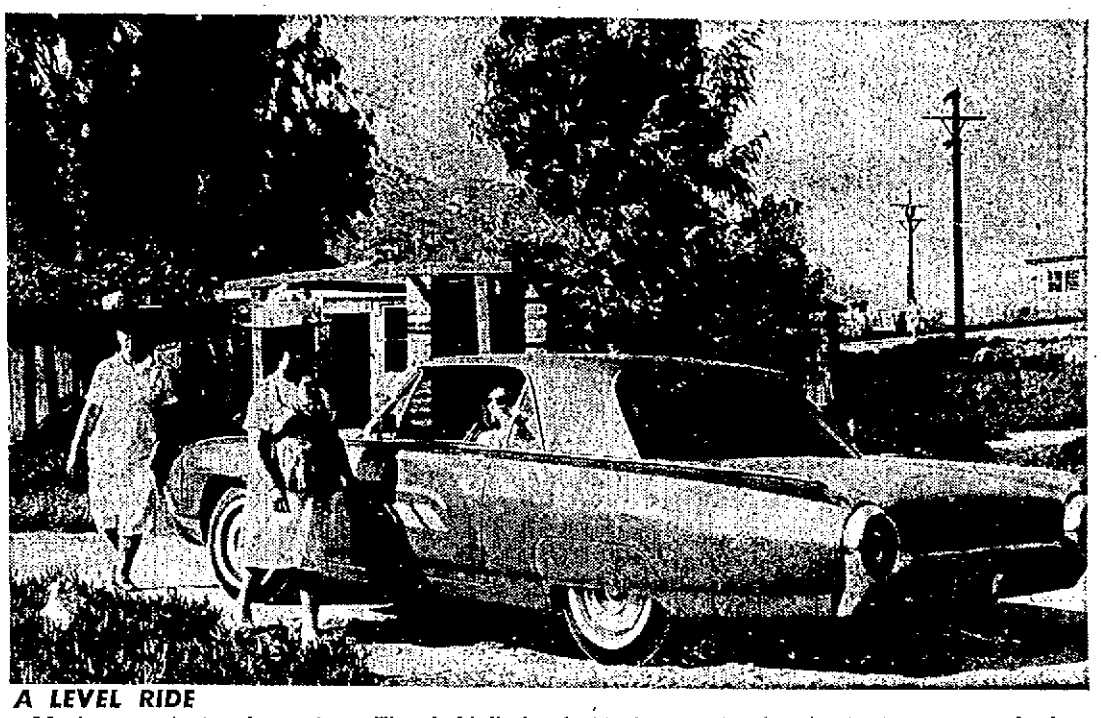

Some thirty miles east of Tijuana and three miles short of Tecate, America's largest health vacation resort sprawls over 50 acres at an altitude of 2,000 feet in a sun-lit clear and beautiful near-perfect climate.

Rancho La Puerta accommodates 180 guests with a staff of over 100 to see that you are well taken care of. The accommodations are delightfully spacious and remote. Our cottage, Casa Mazail, with three walls of picture windows and corner fireplace was as relaxing as an individual ranch home.

Professor Edmond Bordeaux Szekely, a French archeologist, found himself stranded from his publisher's resources in 1940 following the German invasion of France while he was in Mexico writing books on the Toltex and other ancient civilizations.

From the sale of a few mimeographed lectures, the Professor and his wife Deborah parlayed his knowledge of the most beneficial ways of life of the world's ancient civilizations into America's largest health and vacation resort.

Their motto: "It costs so little to feel so good" is the key to the resort's success. Jessica Simmons, personable and pretty recreational director, scheduled our activities for Saturday and Sunday.

A LEVEL RIDE
Mexican servientas demonstrate Thunderbird's level ride by carrying heavily loaded trays perfectly balanced on their heads. They even do the twist with tray in balance.

For the early arisers, there are early morning hikes, yoga breathing and wake-up exercises followed by a vegetarians' breakfast of the most wholesome and healthful foods. Next, there are other exercises in walking, stretching, etc. We had a one hour facial massage.

Following a gourmet vegetarian lunch (which curbed our appetites quite sufficiently until the evening meal) we went horseback riding on highly spirited mounts that made our ensuing massage a blessing to look forward to.

After the evening meal, we were ready to retire by the fireplace and relax, although "fun with dancing" was on the agenda.

Sunday, we had another facial and this timee I also tried the herbal hydrotherapy packs wrapped an hour in linen blankets dipped in oils.

Since most people come and stay four days to several months, the activities planned are endless and varied, and way too numerous to cover in their entirety.

One thing we did notice upon our arrival, the ranch's general manager — Deborah Szekely was also driving a Thunderbird. This was her third Bird, she informed us. She preferred the Landau model hardtop . . . fully equipped.

The Thunderbird was one of the best riding, easiest driving cars we've had the pleasure of driving.

The '63 models incorporates more than 2,500 engineering and design changes readied over the last 18 months according to Mel Burns who also notes that the Thunderbird is the most changed car he has to offer for 1963.

Mel, who just returned from a Thunderbird meeting in Detroit hosted by Ford Motor Co. for the top 100 of the nation's 6,800 dealers, opened his Ford line dealership in 1947 with a total of six personnel. Today, he employs 100 with five times the facilities offering 44 models in the Ford line.

From an annual sales volume of $200,000 in 1947, Mel Burns Ford mushroomed to record $6 million in 1962.

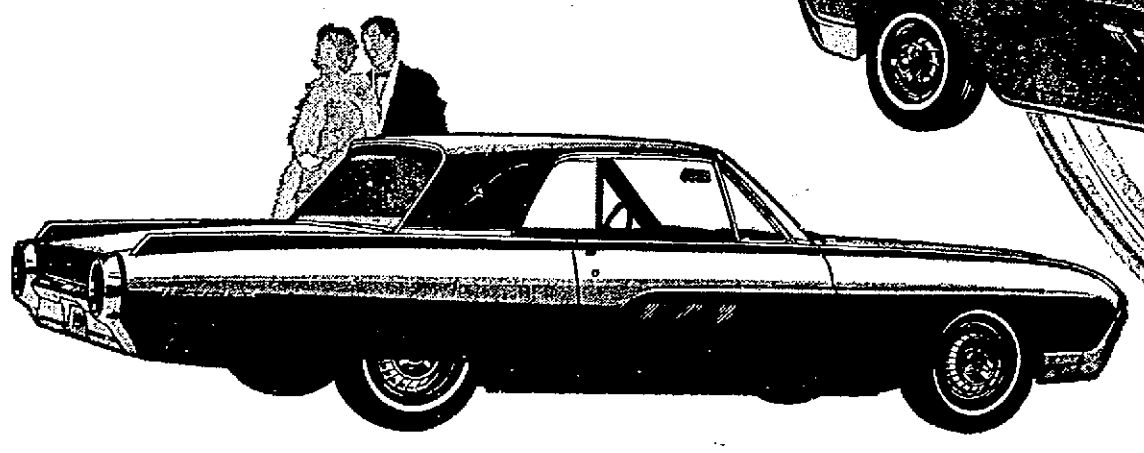

A ten minute test drive of this car in particular would demonstrate the affection that is so contagious among T-Bird owners and admirers. Thunderbird is today's folklore for tomorrow's dictionary.

BUICK SPECIAL FOR 1963

The Buick Special, top selling car in its class, has been completely restyled for 1963 with long, flowing lines and more massive bumpers both front and rear to give it a big-car look. Nearly four inches have been added to the rear fenders to give the car a more tailored appearance. Self-adjusting brakes and the new Delcotron alternator generator are among the engineering refinements in the new Specials.

SKYLARK INCREASED IN SIZE

Luxury and maneuverability are combined in the Buick Skylark for 1963 with its neatly tailored lines and the more massive front end styling. The Skylark, one of the finest cars in the medium-size class, comes in two body styles, a two-door hardtop and a two-door convertible. Powered by an aluminum V-8 engine with a four-barrel carburetor, the Skylark has been increased in size by adding nearly four inches to the rear fenders, giving it a big-car look. Smart interiors come in either all vinyl or a combination of vinyl and cloth. Also optional is a vinyl overlay on the roof which gives it the appearance of a convertible. A three-speed synchromesh transmission is standard on the Skylark and a four-speed floor-mounted transmission or the dual-path automatic are offered as options.

Buick's '63 Models Appeal to Buyers

Buick closed out 1962 with retail deliveries totaling approximately 415,000 cars, it's most successful year since 1956, Edward D. Rollert, general manager of Buick and vice president of General Motors, reported.

Retail sales for the last quarter of the year were the best since 1955, Buick's all-time record year, he stated.

Deliveries for the second 10 days of December amounted to 13,540 cars, an increase of 17 per cent over the same period last year. This pushed Buick's deliveries for the year to 401,518 cars as of Dec. 20, up 41 per cent over 1961.

* * * *

THIS MARKS the first time in six years that Buick sales have exceeded the 400,000 mark.

"Our retail deliveries for the last quarter of 1962 — since our new models were about 128,000 cars, the second most successful fourth quarter Buick has ever recorded," Rollert said.

"This is indicative of the tremendous public acceptance of our new models and provides a sound base upon which to start the new year. Sold orders from our dealers continue to pour in at a rapid rate and as yet we have not been able to build up a normal new car inventory," he continued.

"WITH THE EXCEPTION of downtime for the 1963 model changover, all 18,000 of Buick's employes—a record high employment for the past five years — have worked steadily throughout 1962," Rollert said.

Southern California Buick dealers reported a total of 858 cars sold during the second ten days of December, according to Charles A. Speight, Los Angeles Zone Manager. Of these, 483 were regular-size Buicks and 375 were Specials. This represents an increase of 33.4% over the same period in 1961. Los Angeles zone sales to date represent an increase of 67.3% for 1962 over 1961, Speight added.

Models of the 1963 Buick will be displayed at the Long Beach auto show.

National City Bank Has Unique Service

First National City Bank of Long Beach, a locally-owned and managed bank with main office at Third St. and Locust Ave., downtown Long Beach, maintains a unique service facility for its customers at 235 Locust Ave.

At this location bank customers may complete their banking transactions without leaving their cars. Separate lanes of auto traffic lead to teller windows where, behind bullet-resistive glass, tellers are located to give fast, efficient service. Metal trays extend from the teller units to the customers car window. Individual customers as well as owners and operators of business firms enjoy the time-saving advantages of this system, as well as its safety feature. Users of this service eliminate the potential hazards to be found in parking, then walking some distance to a bank.

ALSO AT 235 Locust Ave., for customers who have business at the main office located nearby, protected-parking is available in the bank's enclosed parking garage. The bank parking attendant parks each car and it is quickly available to the customer upon his return.

Currently, many people are using these parking facilities while they go to the main office to take advantage of exceptionally good new-car auto loans now being made by this bank. First National City Bank of Long Beach is financing purchases of 1963 cars at 4½ per cent (4½ per cent is also referred to as $4.50/$100 year). Auto loans applications receive prompt attention and loans may be received for period up to 36 months. Used cars are financed, too, at attractive rates.

* * * *

ALL THE BANKS customers (Savings, Commercial, Safe Deposit, Escrow, Loan Department, etc.) receive the careful, personal attention of a capable staff of Home Town Bankers.

Directing the affairs of First National City Bank of Long Beach are the following members of its Board of Directors:

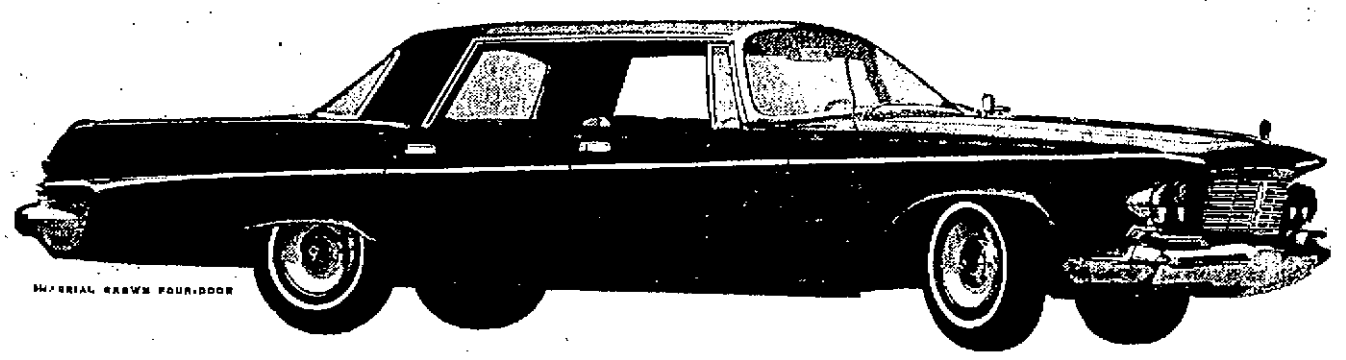

Fonda McCook, president and chairman; Clyde Doyle, attorney, U. S. Congressman and honorary vice president; Glen L. Clark, retired Long Beach businessman; L. Dean Gardner, insurance; Paul D. McClaughry, partner—Windes, McClaughry & Co.; Nelson McCook Jr., vice president.

These men, all long time residents of Long Beach and active in its civic affairs, direct the bank' policy of providing friendly personal service in the finest tradition of a home-town bank.

Rear door lock buttons in the 1963 Dodge Dart must be pulled up before the door can be opened. This feature assures maximum protection for children riding in the back seat.

The Auto Show is an ideal place to compare luxury cars; we invite you to begin with a critical inspection of the new Imperial.

You'll find Imperial differs from other fine cars in many ways. It's designed for luxury, spaciousness and comfort on the grand scale. And, it is the first luxury car so carefully built that its power-train is warranted* for 5 years or 50,000 miles.

Then, after your comparison at the show, visit your Imperial dealer. He's ready to furnish one of his new models so you may continue your comparison in a thoroughgoing drive . . . on your own terms, and without obligation, of course.

Your authorized Imperial Dealer's Warranty against defects in material and workmanship on 1963 cars has been expanded to include parts replacement or repair for 5 years or 50,000 miles, whichever comes first, on the engine block, head and internal parts; transmission case and internal parts; torque converter, drive shaft, universal joints (excluding dust covers), rear axle and differential, and rear wheel bearings, provided the vehicle has been serviced at reasonable intervals according to the Imperial Certified Car Care schedules. Chevrolet Has 33 Models in Four Different Lines

Chevrolet—with an all-time industry sales record for 1962—believes its 1963 models will win a similar customer vote of confidence.

It offers for 1963 a total of 33 new models in four distinctive lines of cars — each aimed at a specific segment of the market. While the new models have a variety of improvements, there is no advance in Chevrolet prices.

A significant advance is the extension of the warranty to 24 months or 24,000 miles. This doubles the time and mileage of the previous warranty.

For 1963, significant styling changes have been made in the regular Chevrolets while the Chevy II and the Corvair have continued their unique automotive personalities. The Corvette sports car has two entirely new bodies and a new chassis.

* * * *

ALL 1963 MODELS have a positive crankcase ventilation system. Taking the four families of Chevrolet passenger cars one at a time, here are their styling and engineering features:

REGULAR CHEVROLETS—The traditional big-car emphasis upon luxurious transportation is continued in the 1963 regular Chevrolets, offered in 13 models in the Impala, Bel Air and Biscayne series.

There is a sleek, longer look with all-new styling. Straight windshield pillars improve access for drivers and passengers.

Smooth, straight-line styling gives the side of the new Chevrolets a flowing look of motion.

The Impala sport sedan has a fleet, new roofline and an optional vinyl top is available for the Impala sport coupe. Fifteen solid colors and 11 two-tone combinations are available in the regular Chevrolets.

* * * *

MECHANICALLY, there are the following new features:

—A new six-cylinder 140-horsepower engine, higher in horsepower and yet 23 per cent lighter than its 1962 counterpart, teams with a revised 283-cubic-inch V-8 and five other V-8 engines to offer engines ranging from 140 to 425 horsepower.

—Brakes are self-adjusting, mufflers will have longer life, and the lightweight Powerglide transmission is extended to all models.

—Delcotron generators are standard on all models.

—All radios are transistorized for 1963.

* * * *

CHEVY II—In its second year on the market, continues the basic styling of the previous model with new exterior and interior appointments. There are 10 models in three series.

There is a new grille and wide hood and deck lid emblems to give a more massive look to the car. There are new body side moldings for the 300 and Nova 400 series.

For 1963, Chevy II offers Super Sport options on its Nova 400 sport coupe and convertible, featuring bucket seats and all-vinyl interiors.

Mechanically, the Chevy II has self-adjusting brakes and Delcotron generators. Four and six-cylinder engines again are offered, with minor improvements.

* * * *

CORVAIR—Chevrolt's distinctive small car enters its fourth year on the market with an ever-growing following among those who want a sports car feel in a less expensive car.

Styling changes are confined to ornamentation and molding details. Otherwise, America's first rear-engine car continues its unique personality.

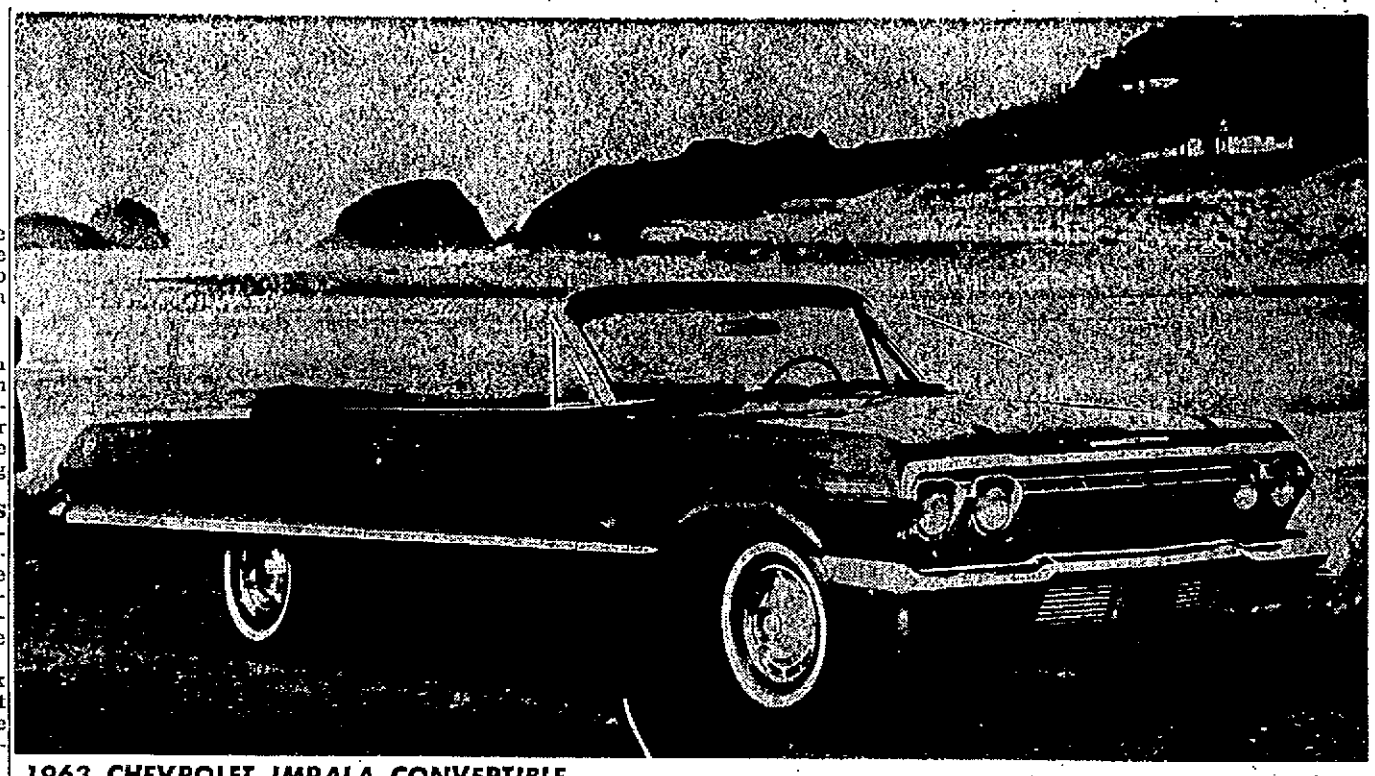

There are eight models of Corvair, ranging in variety from the Monza Spider convertible to two models of the popular Corvair Greenbrier sports wagon.

CORVETTE — In its 10th year on the market, America's only production sports car is redesigned and re-engineered for the first time. In addition to the convertible (with optional hardtop) model offered in the past, there is a new "fast-back" sport coupe.

For the first time, Corvette offers optional power steering, power brakes and air-conditioning for the custom-er who wants a sports car but also wishes to retain the driving conveniences to which he has become accustomed.

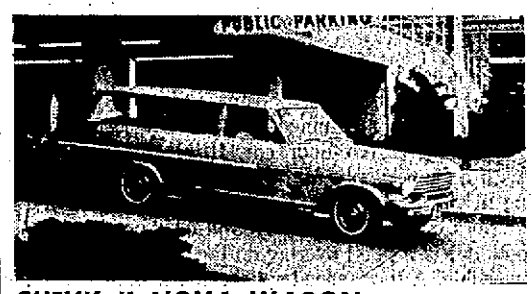

Mechanically, there are a host of improvements, including a completely new chassis, four-wheel independent suspension, self-adjusting brakes, improved steering and Delcotron generators.

Corvettes for 1963 are two inches lower and four inches shorter in wheelbase than 1962 models.

1963 CHEVROLET IMPALA CONVERTIBLE

Traditional big-car emphasis on luxurious transportation is displayed in the Impala convertible, one of 13 models in the lineup of regular 1963 Chevrolets. Fresh, straight-line styling and significant engineering advances to enhance performance and convenience are introduced in the regular Chevrolets.

CHEVY II NOVA WAGON

Refinements and new appointments to the basic styling introduced last year mark the lineup of Chevy IIs for 1963. The Nova station wagon is one of 10 models in three series offered in the line. Complementing styling advances in the Chevy II, mechanical improvements include self-adjusting brakes, Delcotron generators and longer-life mufflers.

'Road' in Lab Tests Dodges

A machine used to test the 1963 Dodge Dart duplicates road testing in the laboratory but does it faster than on the road.

Forces applied through the rear axle of the car reproduce the effects of actual driving. In 90 hours, this equipment subjects the structure of the car to the same stress and fatigue it would receive in 50,000 miles of road testing.

L.B. Firm's Car Wax Used Widely

A Long Beach auto wax and polish manufacturer, Surluster Sales, 651 W. 14th St., now ships its products all over the nation. The firm has been in operation 10 years and now produces over 40 items, for which they use the slogan, "Everything to Clean Up Any Car Outside and Inside."

Surluster is marketed only through distributors who are in contact with all new car dealers from coast to coast. From Maine to Hawaii auto dealers are constantly using the complete line of Surluster products.

Oscar Maier, president of Surluster, heads up 14 distributors in California alone.

Cuts Reflection

The "brow" over the instrument cluster on the 1963 Dodge Dart keeps the instrument lights from reflecting in the windshield at night.

Full Line of Mercury Meteor Is Offered

The Mercury Meteor is expanded to a full car line for 1963. Five new models—two hardtops and three station wagons—were added.

"The Meteor's sales success in its first year proved there is a solid place in the market for a quality car of the Meteor size," said Ben D. Mills, Ford Motor Co. vice president and Division general manager.

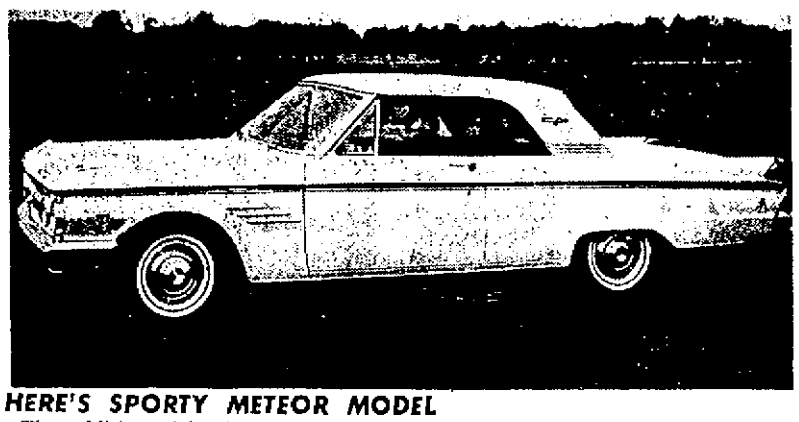

Refined styling with more luxurious interior appointments, reduced maintenance, new or improved options and accessories, and better engine-transmission characteristics are featured by the 1963 Meteor.

• • • •

THE NEW HARDTOPS are two-door models with a fleet-appearing low silhouette and a long rear deck. Both hardtops provide even more trunk space than the Meteor sedans. They are in the Meteor Custom series and in the S-33 series with bucket seats and center console.

The three new station wagons are four-door six passenger models. They are in the Meteor and Meteor Custom series, plus a top-of-the-line Meteor Custom Cruiser which features simulated mahogany side paneling.

Styling refinements of the 1963 Meteor include: a new grille which gives a wider, lower appearance; double side moulding sweeping the full length of the body; swept back taillamps contributing to the over-all fleet appearance; and luxurious new styling, colors and materials for the interiors.

HERE'S SPORTY METEOR MODEL

The addition of hardtop and station wagon models extends the Mercury Meteor line for 1963 to nine models. Pictured is the sporty S-33 two-door hardtop with bucket seats and a full length console. The two-door hardtop is offered also in the Meteor Custom series.

Big Fuel Tank on New Valiant

A new, spring-staged choke and an improved starter give Valiant surer starting at low temperatures. The fuel tank on the 1963 Valiant has been increased in size from 14 to 18 gallons, increasing nonstop cruising by more than 25 per cent.

Closed crankcase ventilation is standard on all Valiants. This system reduces the amount of unburned hydrocarbons released to the atmosphere. It also ensures a cleaner engine.

Nine Models

The compact Dodge Dart for 1963 has nine models, including two convertible styles.

Complete New MG Displayed

The first completely new MG in seven years will share the spotlight at the auto show. Representing the first major all-out change since the MGA was introduced some 100,000 cars ago, the 1963 MG—known as the MGB—has a brand new look and boasts more power and comfort.

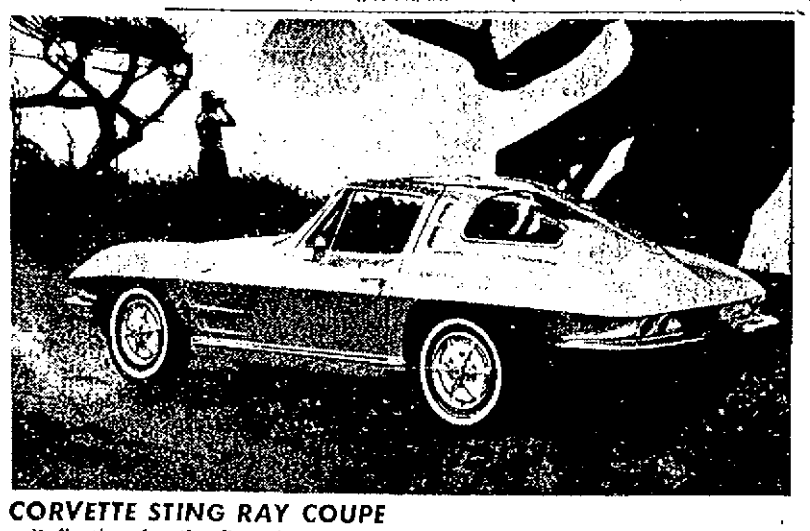

The most striking change in the latest model of the world's most popular sports car manufactured by the British Motor Corp. is a new silhouette with a sleek body. It has, for the first time, roll-up windows, hinged side vents and a wrap-around windshield.

• • • •

THERE IS ADDED power. The MGB has upped its engine capacity to 1798 c.c. from 1622 c.c. in the MGA and develops 94 brake horsepower at 5,500 r.p.m. The MGB is fitted with 11-inch disc brakes on the front wheels to give the car as much stop as it has go. A tachometer is standard equipment on all models.

Roadability and ease of handling are assured in the new MGB due to the independent front wheel suspension, lower center of gravity, wide track and long wheelbase. Direct rack and pinion steering insures instant response and finger-tip control. Oil cooler is standard.

The first MG was made in 1923 by Sir William Morris. The letters MG are the initials of Sir William's original company, Morris Garages.

CORVETTE STING RAY COUPE

Reflecting for the first time major styling and enginering changes, the 1963 Corvette's dramatic "fast back" coupe design is one of two models introduced this year. The 1963 Corvette features new frame, new fiberglass body and a new suspension system to improve handling, ride and performance. Retractable headlamps and doors which wrap into the roof (on the sport coupe model) are other refinements.

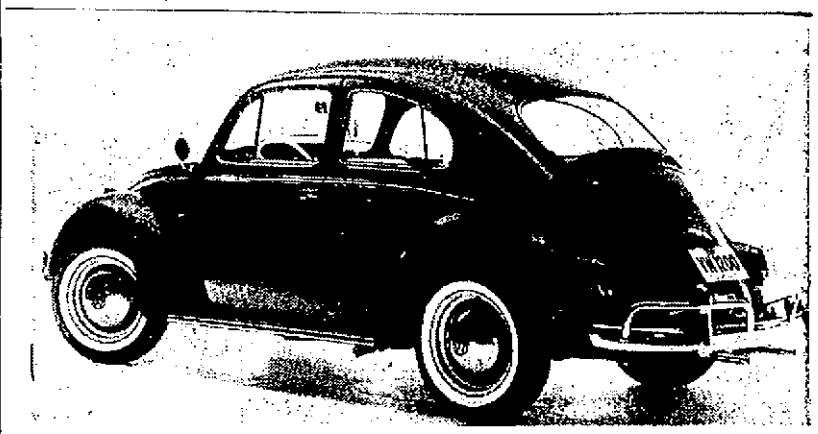

NEW MG-B AT JAMESTOWN

Deflector Aids Driver Visibility

A combination wind deflector and assist handle helps keep the back window clean on 1963 Dodge station wagons.

The handle acts like a scoop, deflecting the air which flows along the sides of the body. It creates a wash of air across the rear window which helps keep the window free of dust and mud.

1963 VOLKSWAGEN

This year's VW sedan incorporates a new heating system which not only warms up faster but also increases the amount of warm air entering the passenger compartment. Other improvements include additional insulation and a washable plastic headliner which makes the car's interior fully washable. Usually only a damp sponge is needed to clean up inside.

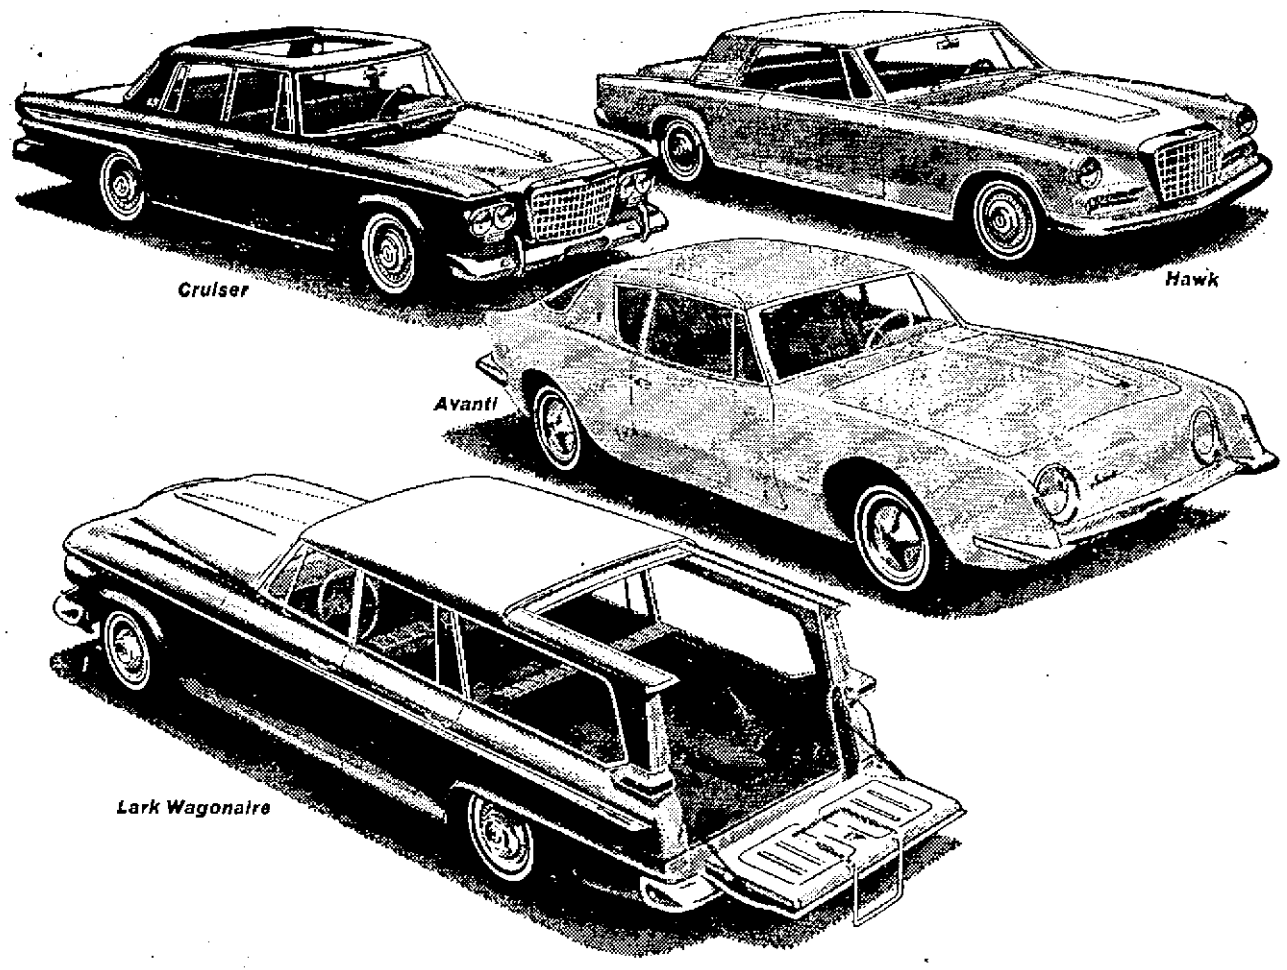

Heater Blends Air in '63 Dart

The heating system on the compact 1963 Dodge Dart provides custom-blending of hot and cold air.

The system achieves the desired temperatures by varying the percentage of air flowing through the heating core.

This mixing of hot and cold air allows more precise control of temperatures and provides instant response to adjustments of the control lever.

OPERATION AT SEA

Rising from 47 feet of water, this platform arrangement is being built by the Signal Oil Co. for pumping operations more than a mile off Huntington Beach. Thirty wells are to be drilled from this tower. Daily production will be about 3,000 barrels, to be piped ashore. Heliport platform is at upper left. Photo was taken from helicopter used to move men, materials.

Oil Drilling Platforms Nearing Completion Off Huntington Beach

By KEN KNIGHT

HUNTINGTON BEACH—Oil drilling operations, following the completion of huge tower supported platforms, will mark the birth here of a new oil field located more than a mile offshore.

Costing $3 million, the tower is expected to be finished within a month and oil well drilling will begin immediately, according to Signal Oil Co. officials.

It will be the first tower constructed off of the California coast by Signal Oil.

KNOWN AS "Platform Emmy," the project takes its name from initials used by the U. S. Coast Guard to designate the water zone in which it is located.

The platform, exceeding a quarter of an acre in area, will have two decks where both oil well drilling and oil production activities will be carried on simultaneously.

Present plans by the oil company call for the drilling of 30 wells, with a new well to be brought in about every three weeks.

"THE WELLS will be from 2,000 to 3,000 feet deep, and each will produce about 100 barrels a day," according to Harold Nissen, district superintendent for Signal at Huntington Beach.

Construction of the platform 7,200 feet offshore was necessary because of the shallowness of the oil deposit, explained Nissen.

Drilling on-shore out to the undersea deposits created such a low angle recovery line that the pressure was inadequate to bring the oil to the surface.

"THIS IS about the only way that we can get the oil out of the ground and unless we do it this way, the oil never will be recovered," Nissen said.

Building of the 55,000-square-foot platform was began in March when two towers, each weighing 200 tons, were constructed in San Diego, floated up to the spot and then sunk by filling them with water.

The tower section, rising 83 feet above water, was built on subsequently constructed legs driven in the ocean floor and is located in 47 feet of water.

DRILLING CREWS will operate from the upper deck, 62 feet above the water line. Heavy loads will be handled by a 30-ton pedestal-mounted revolving crane.

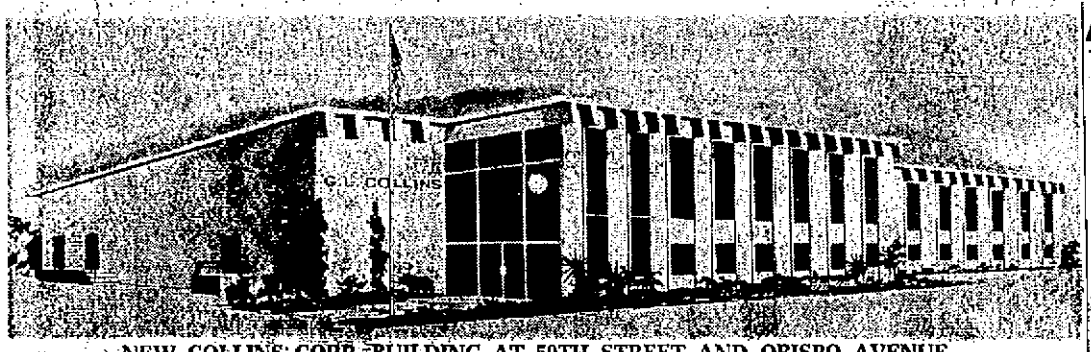

An office-change room and kitchen, cantilevered off the upper deck level, serves as a heliport for helicopters carrying personnel and light cargo.

Thirty-five feet above the water will be the production deck, with separate areas for wells, equipment and pumps.

FIRE WELLS will separate the well area from other sections. A power house, chemical and warehouse areas are located on a mezzanine floor.

Fresh water, oil and gas are carried to the platform by three submarine pipelines. Oil that is pumped will be piped to a storage terminal north of Pacific Coast Highway so as not to interfere with beach recreational activities.

NEW COLLINS CORP. BUILDING AT 59TH STREET AND OBISPO AVENUE

Collins Corporation Expands With New Building Finished

The G. L. Collins Corporation has announced completion of a quarter-million-dollar facility at Obispo Avenue and 59th Street in Long Beach.

The new structure is three times as large as the present business location at 2820 E. Hullett St., according to Gary L. Collins, corporation president. It contains 27,000 square feet of operational space.

* * * *

THE PRESENT LOCATION will house the engineering, sales department and publications department; the research department, and the environmental laboratories.

The new facility will house product operations, and will triple the engineering research area while adding such highly desirable features as a "clean room," a concrete security vault and all service utilities placed underground.

* * * *

THE NEW BUILDING was constructed by Millie and Severson, Inc., Long Beach, and features the longest precast free span concrete beams in the world. The beams weigh 43 tons and were precast off-site.

The company, founded in 1954, is prominent in the development and manufacturing of precision linear position transducers and electronic components for "space age" vehicles.

3 Fanjets Bought

Western Air Lines has purchased three additional Boeing 720B fanjet aircraft for delivery next spring.

AREA REALTORS ACTIVE AT FRESNO SESSIONS

New State Head Stresses Freedom

"Spike" Wilson of Fresno, president of the 58-year-old California Real Estate Association, said Saturday at inauguration ceremonies during a luncheon meeting of the CREA officers and directors at the Rainbow Ballroom here.

Wilson succeeded Charles H. Brown of Pasadena in the top office of the association.

Other officers for 1963 installed were Carl W. Newport of Sherman Oaks, treasurer, and H. Jackson Pontius of Arcadia, executive vice president.

Wilson is the fourth CREA president from Fresno but the first to be elected from that city since 1933.

* * * *

TAKING OFFICE at the same time were 31 regional vice presidents of the state association and several hundred state directors representing the 170 real estate boards of CREA.

F. Carl Mock of Santa Ana was installed as honorary president of the California Real Estate Association, an honor that has been given to only 19 members since the association was founded in 1905.

Installed as honorary directors-for-life of the association were Justin T. Smith of Chico and C. Larry Hoag of Downey.

Regional vice presidents installed included: Russell Dymock Smith, Palos Verdes Estates; Robert C. Allred, South Gate; and Jack Mullan, Newport Beach.

* * * *

INSTALLING OFFICER at the ceremonies was James B. Clayton, Jr. of San Jose, who served as president of the association in 1959.

The new association president said that realtors want to maintain their reputation for integrity and hope to live a year in 1963 in which, "Others will deal with us as we would ex-

Orange County Labor Force Grows Rapidly

COSTA MESA—Burgeoning business in Orange County means that business problems also are increasing. There's a bigger problem of management, because employment in the county's manufacturing industries has jumped 17,000 in one year.

Major part of the Orange County labor force, manufacturing now gives employment to 75,301 persons in Orange County. A year ago, the payrolls for manufacturing totaled 58,341 persons. The 1961 total was in turn 12,000 higher than the year before.

* * * *

THE LABOR force in Orange County stands at 187,000 employed in fields covered by Social Security.

That's up 30,000 in one year, and the gain in employment has been so spectacular that it increased 10,000 in two summer months this year.

All these facets of the county's broadening industrial life will be considered at the upcoming Orange County Management Conference, scheduled to open at 8:15 a.m. Saturday at Orange Coast College, Costa Mesa.

Rajay Company is the developer and producer of the Turbo 200 and the Turbo 300 airplane superchargers.

Riley acquired controlling interest from James Roseling, founder of Rajay. However, the purchase price of the stock sale was not revealed.

At a press conference, Riley stated that there would be no change in personnel, except that he would assume the position of chairman of the board for the company.

Joseph Leach will remain president of the corporation and Peter Finley will act as vice president.

There are to be no changes in the nationwide distributor organization of the Rajay Company. However, Riley stated that there would be four company regional sales managers added to the existing sales staff.

Autonetics Move One of Industry's Biggest

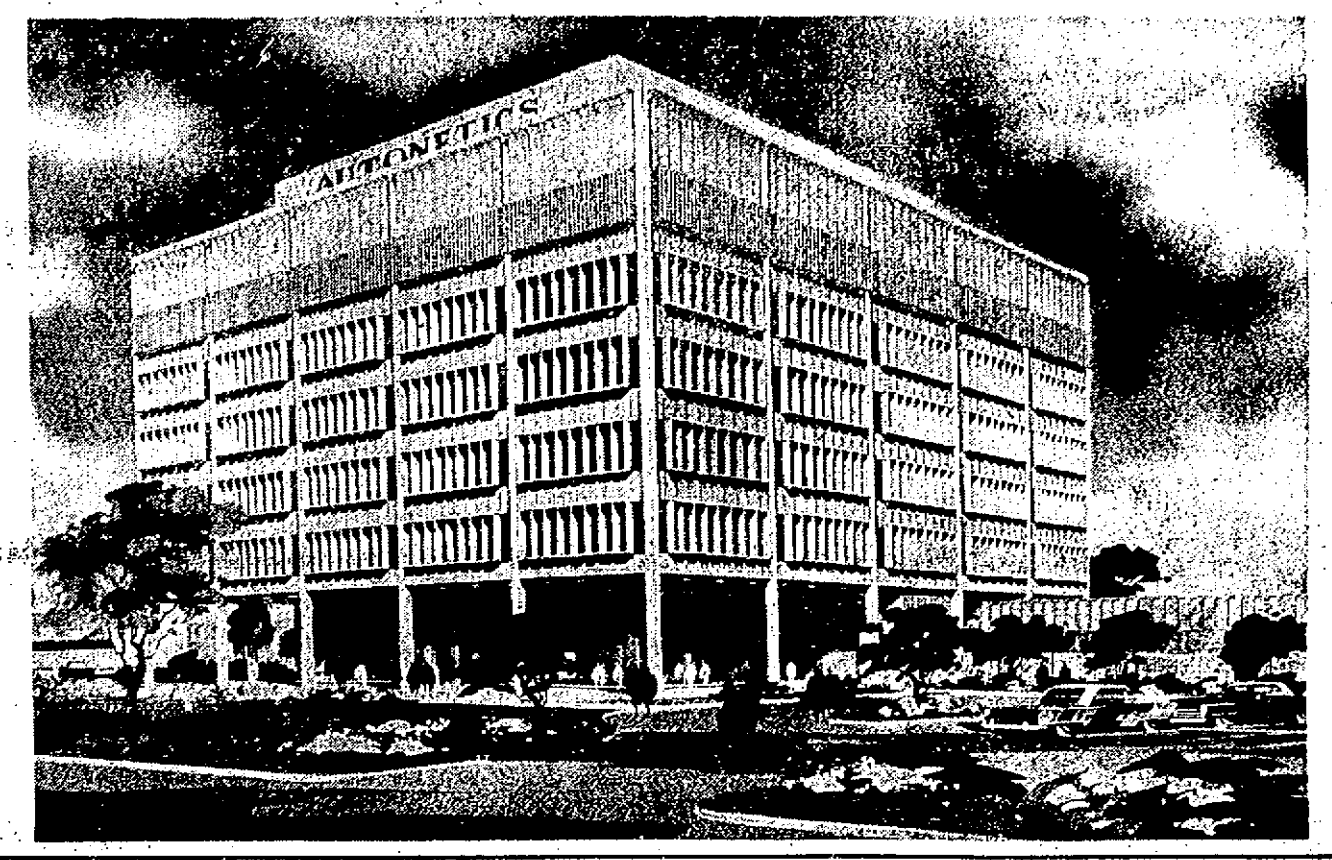

By VERN ANTHONY
Southland Progress Editor

One of the largest mass industrial moves in history—and the largest ever undertaken by North American Aviation — will be completed later this year for the new Autonetics complex at Anaheim.

By midsummer, about 25,000 of Autonetics' total of 34,000 employes will be working in Anaheim and Fullerton. This will make Autonetics the biggest employer in Orange County.

A six-story administration headquarters now under construction will be the centerpiece for the Anaheim plant layout on a 12 acre site at Anaheim Avenue and Miller Street. When finished, it will bring to 3,060,000 the total square footage in use by Autonetics in Orange County.

Mortgage Funds Seen as Plentiful

Ample mortgage funds for acceptable business property, little problems of financing for good credit risks, and stable interest rates are expected to continue into the foreseeable future, according to the Department of Research of the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

The report, based on a survey of 109 realtors throughout the country, was issued by Donald T. Pomeroy, Syracuse, N.Y., chairman of the Committee on Real Estate Economics and Research.

The report said insurance company money is plentiful and is "aggressively seeking prime commercial loans while some lenders are paying finders' fees."

"There have been reports that savings and loan associations are now entering the commercial property market in larger numbers, a fact that should be beneficial to everyone concerned," the NAREB report said.

Hughes Helicopters to Sell on Credit

By KEN CHILCOTE

Now you can buy a helicopter on terms, similar to the purchasing of an automobile. And, under this new financing program a big increase in sales of the helicopters is expected.

Hughes Tool Co. Aircraft Division, Culver City, manufacturer of the 269A helicopter, announced the first comprehensive helicopter financing program, especially developed for Hughes' expanding dealer network and their customers.

An agreement providing for a five-part financing program by Commercial Credit of Maryland, Inc. (a subsidiary of Commercial Credit Co.) was detailed by A. W. Bayer, vice president of the Hughes Tool Co.

The Hughes 269A, a two-place helicopter which sells for $22,500 (one-half of previous helicopter costs), is now available to retail customers on time purchase or lease basis through Hughes' dealers, Bayer said.

* * * *

CARL J. ZINK, industrial financing and leasing director of Commercial Credit, said the program is the first comprehensive financing arrangement ever created for marketing of helicopters. Previously, dealers and customers have had to seek local bank financing on an individual basis, he said.

Zink compared the Hughes program to the first installment buying arrangements that permitted the mass production and mass marketing of the automobile.

Sea Air, Inc. of Long Beach is the local Hughes 269A dealer.

William H. McGinnis of Long Beach has been promoted by Bank of America to manager of its soon-to-open Chapman-Valley View branch in Garden Grove.

W. H. McGINNIS

Before his promotion, McGinnis was operations officer of the Paramount branch. Most of his 27-year career with the bank has been spent in the Long Beach area, where he moved from his native Illinois as a youngster. Joining the bank in 1935 as a messenger at the First and Pine branch, he moved up to officer rank 12 years later at the Cherry-Anaheim branch. He later held an officer post at Westchester.

McGinnis, a graduate of Woodrow Wilson High School in Long Beach, also has studied at the American Institute of Banking, educational wing of the American Bankers Association.

His many civic activities have included service as a director and secretary of the Paramount Chamber of Commerce and as president of the Paramount Kiwanis Club. He also has been a Cub Scout leader in Long Beach.

McGinnis and his wife and two sons live at 3722 Gardenia Ave.

New Industrial Park Plan Reduces Delays

Carson Estate Co., one of the three owners in the Rancho San Pedro industrial area, paralleling the Long Beach Harbor Freeway immediately south of Artesia Street, has instituted a policy of constructing on a controlled basis industrial facilities for long-term lease to qualified tenants, it has been announced by Thomas Caldwell Cooper, president.

The company has just started construction of the first of these facilities on Santa Fe Avenue. It will be a 30,000-square-foot concrete tilt-up structure located on a two-acre site, which will provide adequate parking as well as space for future expansion. The interior is to be designed to the lessee's requirements following signing of a lease agreement.

The new policy provides that as quickly as one building is leased a new facility will be put into construction.

* * * *

THE POLICY was evolved to take the delay out of the "build-to-suit" method, which is providing a good proportion of new facilities for industrials firms moving into or expanding in the Los Angeles area, Cooper stated.

Instead of going on long tours of site selection and then undergoing the long delays required for arrangement of financing and building of the basic structure, a tenant will need only to indicate his requirements in partitioning and for power, lighting and air-conditioning, and in 30 days he can be installed in his new facility.

As an investment firm, the Carson Estate Co. finances all improvements on its property.

Company Shows Gain in Net Income

For the year ended Dec. 31, 1962, The Morris Plan Company of California reported net income of $952,885 or $3.07 per share, compared to $782,054 or $2.68 per share on a lesser number of shares for 1961, according to an announcement by Ralph N. Larson, president.

Location of Sun Ray Estates in Harbor Area Is Appealing

Recent surveys of home buying habits have shown that one of the major determing factors in selecting a new home is its location and its proximity to jobs and recreational activities.

These facts are being proven every day with the tremendous buyer response being exhibited at the new Sun Ray Harbor Estates in Wilmington, according to Sales Director Reed Clark.

"Centrally located in the 'heartland' of the Southern Los Angeles County area, these prestige three bedroom-two bath homes are fast becoming the last of the 'GI terms' homes available in the entire County," Clark says.

* * * *

REASONABLY priced from $18,900, Harbor Estates boasts of an unsurpassed location only two miles to the beaches, 20 freeway miles from downtown Los Angeles and just minutes from schools, shopping and churches.

Ready for immediate occupancy, these Ray Watt constructed residences feature all of the famous Sun Ray attractions including complete carpeting, choice of Hotpoint Electric or O'Keefe & Merritt built-ins, fully planted and landscaped front yards and separate family room with oak parquet floor.

Furnished models, easily reached from either the Long Beach, Harbor or San Diego Freeways, are located at Q St. and Eubank in Wilmington.

Historic Acreage in Capistrano Is Sold

Two hundred sixty-five acres of land in San Juan Capistrano, having a history dating back to 1776, were sold recently by Everett Davis & Sons and Associates, Corona Del Mar, according to Everett Davis, Jr. The price was in excess of one million dollars.

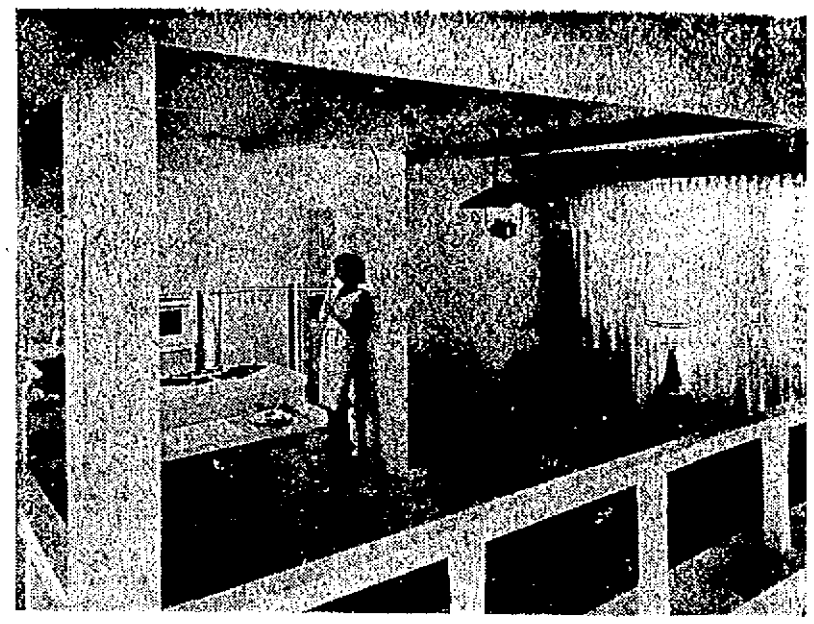

The property is situated on the north side of Ortega Highway, less than a mile east of the old mission and three-quarters of a mile from the San Diego Freeway, making it accessible to all Southern California metropolitan areas.

* * * *

FORMER OWNERS of the land represent names linked with the early history of California. Juan Forester purchased the land where the old mission stands for $710 and in 1853 presented it to Archbishop Joseph Sodar Alemany. San Juan Capistrano Mission was the seventh of the 21 missions established by the Franciscan Fathers.

The acreage just sold was part of the Juan Forester holdings. Everett Davis & Sons and Associates acquired the 265 acres as an investment several years ago from Juan Forester's great-great granddaughter, Mrs. Alice Leck, a native of San Juan Capistrano.

Wally Freeman of Anaheim, and Russ Ford, Newport Beach, represented the purchasers in the transaction. The future disposition of the acreage has not been disclosed.

Five-Bedroom Home in Low Price Range

A few five-bedroom homes are still available as La Linda Estates begins to close out its second successful unit. The big five-bedroom homes for active families sold so fast in the first unit of La Linda Estates that all were gone just three weeks after opening. More of these homes have enjoyed the same reception from homebuyers as the second unit of the development has shown consistant sales weekly.

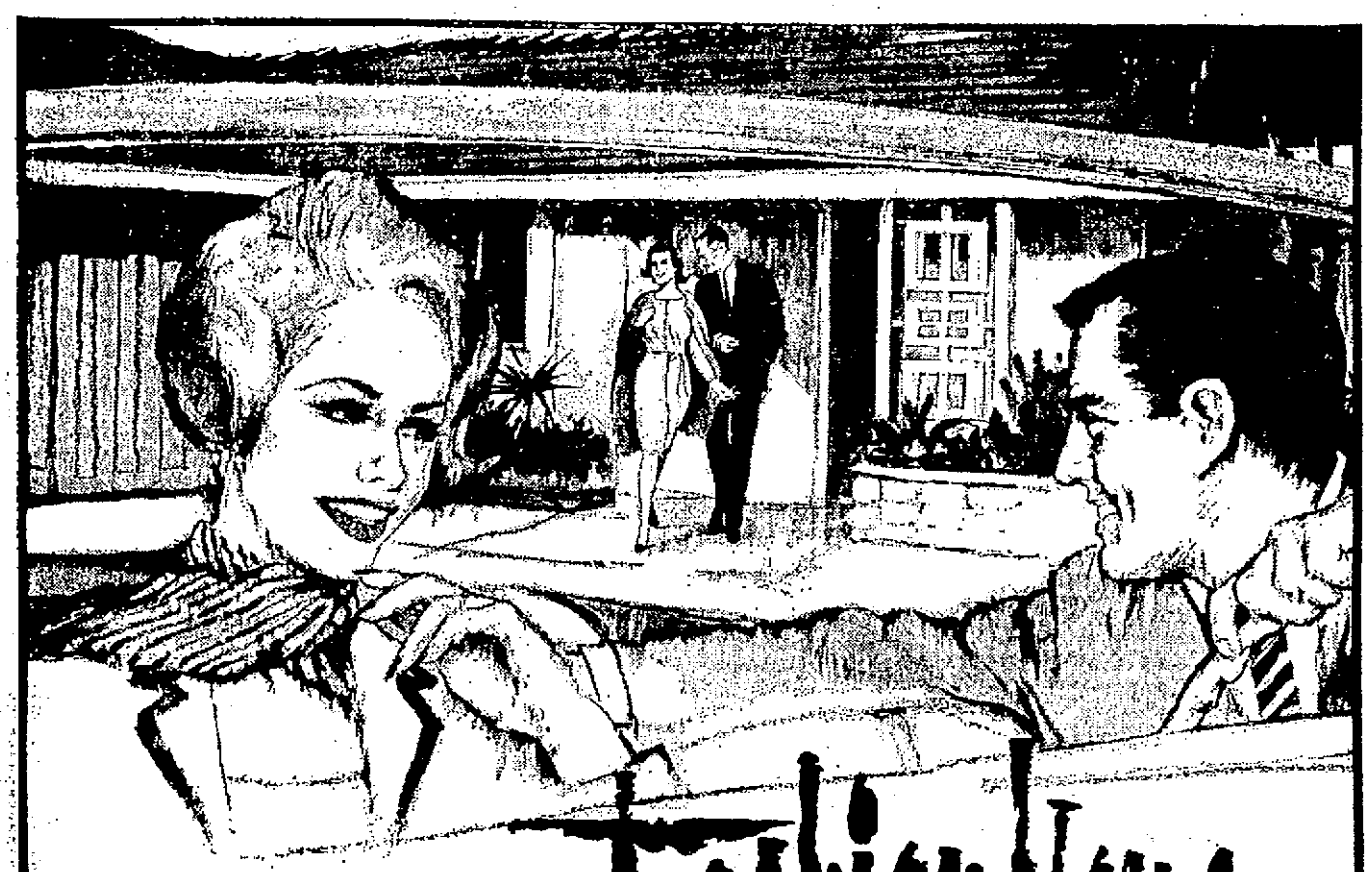

Located on Sugar Ave. between Verano and Brookhurst in Santa Ana, La Linda Estates has three, four and five-bedroom homes all with two baths, priced from $18,150.

For $595 down, a non-veteran can live in one of the most convenient luxury areas in Orange County. Veterans can move in with no down payment. There are no second trust deeds and no balloon payments.

"Big homes in our price range, near shopping areas, schools, beaches are a big factor in our consistant sales record," said Dick Murray of Farrow Realty.

* * * *

LA LINDA ESTATES has a wealth of extra living enjoyment usually found only in much more expensive homes; kitchens with electric built-in ranges, ovens, dishwashers and disposals, massive fireplaces of rock or brick, ceramic tile double and single pullman tops in baths, lifetime copper plumbing,

this is a Fashion Home in HUNTINGTON BEACH

Raised Fireplaces, forced air heat with thermostat, two Pullman baths with full mirrors, service porches... the list of fashionable features is almost without end. Come and see them all for yourself... this weekend!

SPECIAL FEATURE:
BLOCK WALL FENCES
INCLUDED IN SALES PRICE

From the first time you drive up to one of Fashion Homes' superb model homes, you know that these homes have been built with the home owner in mind. Fashion Homes' three and four bedroom, two bath homes are oversized because builder Mervin Johnson was, at one time, a custom-home builder and can't refrain from incorporating into smaller homes those features that make large homes. For instance; the bathrooms are oversized, and you can see yourself in a full length mirror to prove it... the garages are big enough for two cars and an honest-to-goodness workshop area... the bedrooms are 12' x 12' or more. And... construction-wise... Mr. Johnson oversees every facet of building and is more demanding than even the building inspectors.

FASHIONABLE, FUN-FILLED, CONVENIENT LIVING IN YOUR FASHION HOME.

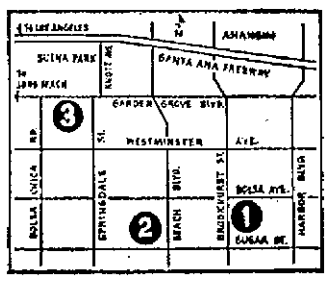

Access to and from the San Diego Freeway is no more than two blocks away... saving time and money every working day. Schools are springing up, figuratively, every other block. And just five minutes away is the fabulous coastline of Orange County: 7 miles of the finest beaches in Southern California; several small boat harbors; golf courses no more than ten minutes distant. pect to deal with them, if our positions were reversed."

The inaugural luncheon followed three days of meetings of the association's 30 committees and board of directors. More than 1,200 realtors from every area in the state attended the meetings.

* * * *

PRINCIPAL SUBJECT of discussion was proposed legislation affecting real estate and property ownership now before the State Legislature.

Reg F. Dupuy of Long Beach, chairman of the association's Legislative Committee, said that CREA again will represent the home owners of the state in opposing legislation that would take away from many property owners their valued ownership rights which they have enjoyed ever since this country was founded.

* * * *

HE NOTED that new attempts are being made to replace many property owners under the jurisdiction of a powerful new state police power, the Fair Employment Practices Commission, taking away their right to freely rent or sell their properties as they see fit.

A greatly expanded real estate education program for 1963 was announced by Burt E. Smith of Bellflower, chairman of the CREA Education Committee. He reports that the association will conduct educational and sales conferences in 19 locations throughout the state.

* * * *

THESE CONFERENCES will take place in March and April under the direction of E. Tennyson Moore of Long Beach.

Another conference on the subject of real estate office administration will be held in July on the campuses of the University of California, Berkeley, and at the University of Southern California. This program is being planned by a committee headed by Robert C. Westmyer of Long Beach.

MILLION DOLLAR PROJECT

(Accompanying photographs show Administration Building under construction and how it will look when completed.)

* * * *

WHEN THIS STRUCTURE is completed, probably in July, Autonetics Division of North American will move its administrative headquarters from Downey as final chapter to one of industry's major relocation efforts.

And it's not a case of good news for Anaheim and bad news for Downey. For as Autonetics leaves facilities it has used at Downey, other phases of North American are occupying the buildings at Downey. So it is not an industrial loss for Downey, plant officials have emphasized.

No pronounced housing move by Autonetics employes has been reported; but it is noted that newcomers among workers are finding homes in the Anaheim area.

* * * *

PRESIDENT JOHN R. Moore of Autonetics says the big move is being made without interruption of production.

The switch from Downey started some three years ago and has continued as facilities were readied. The Orange County locations provide for a consolidation of all but one of Autonetics' divisions in Anaheim and Fullerton sites.

The Industrial Products Division in Long Beach and the Compton manufacturing facilities are not involved in the move.

* * * *

THE LA PALMA (Anaheim) site has 21 buildings completed or under construction, including the administration building.

Other facilities are centered at Ball Road in Anaheim, and at two sites in Fullerton.

Besides the major product division facilities of the La Palma complex, the area includes the Advanced Research Center, where more than 200 scientists and engineers are working in 47 specialized laboratories.

Next "door" to the Research Center is the 20-acre Recreation Park for Autonetics employes and their families. This facility includes an Olympic-type swimming pool, complete gymnasium facilities, steam baths, nine-hole golf course, picnic and playground areas, and rooms equipped for the company's various hobby clubs.

* * * *

CURRENT MAJOR programs at Autonetics include:

Minuteman and Improved Minuteman — guidance, flight control and ground support equipment in production and under development.

NASARR — compact system for all-weather radar search and range, terrain avoidance, ground and contour mapping, and control for a versatile choice of armament: In production for NATO countries F-104 Super Starfighters and USAF F-105 Thunderchiefs.

Ships Inertial Navigation Systems (SINS) — In production for Polaris and attack submarines, and for missile range tracking ships. New improved versions (Mk-II, Mod-2) in production for larger Lafayette class of Polaris submarines.

* * * *

AUTOMATIC CHECKOUT Equipment — In production for Minuteman, Hound Dog, Atlas missiles; also for A5 Vigilante, W2F and A2F aircraft.

ABLE and MABLE (Autonetics Base Line Equipment and Miniaturized ABLE) — Portable gyroscopic orientors for rapid direction finding; alining Army artillery missiles, missile launchers. ABLE is in volume production for the U.S. Army.

Digital Computers — More than 75 per cent of all airborne digital computers in use today were developed and produced by Autonetics.

Value Conscious Buyers Spur Sales

Homebuyers are becoming increasingly value-conscious, a marketing condition best exemplified by the phenomenal home sales now being experienced at Dutch Haven's new Huntington Beach communities, Unit 21 on Beach Boulevard and Unit 22 on Edinger Avenue near Bolsa Chica.

Dutch Haven communities—constructed and developed by Luxury Homes, Inc., builders of thousands of Southern California homes—have always rated among the swiftest selling homes in the west. But the overwhelming success of units 21 and 22 has amazed even William Lyon, president of Luxury Homes and imaginative young builder who has erned national recognition for his dramatic record of continued successes and development of quality communities for better family living.

* * * *

A SPOKESMAN for Luxury Homes, Inc., said that a large measure of Dutch Haven's swift success at Huntington Beach is attributable to the fact that the new developments fulfill a popular demand for near-the-beach property, offer homes that include extra features seldom available at comparable costs and are priced and financed to accomodate average family budgets.

The spokesman added that another appealing advantage of the new communities is that purchase of a Dutch Haven home includes title to land, with property rights fully protected by the Title Insurance and Trust Co. In contrast, many new homes in the beach area are being constructed upon leased land.

Huntington Beach, long renowned as a popular resort city, has now become the Southland's fastest-growing community. Climate is ideal, beaches are but a few minutes away from the new Dutch Haven units and there are excellent facilities for boating, surfing and picnicking.

"American Home Series" residences are being shown exclusively at Units 21 and 22. There are 16 exterior elevations available.

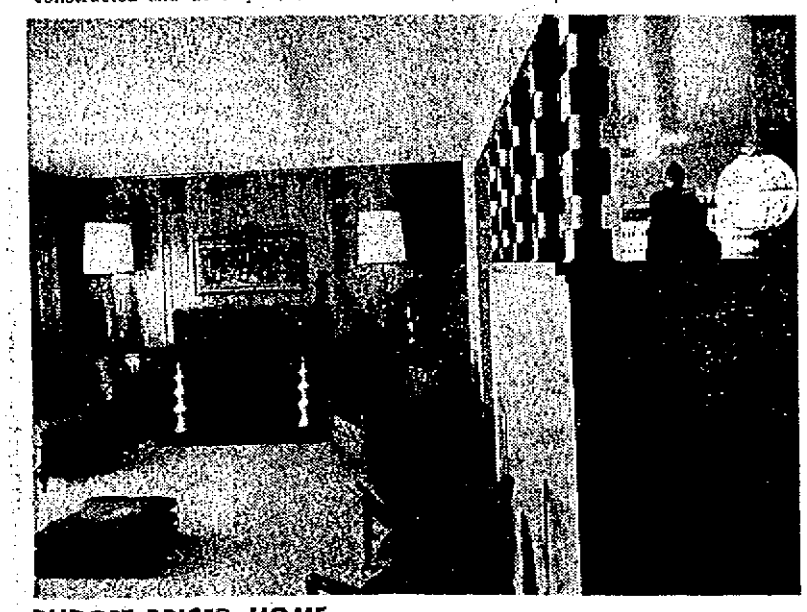

* * * *

DUTCH HAVEN homes are three to four bedrooms with family room and up to two full baths. Prices start at $14,950, with $95 move-in cost to veterans on VA terms. Cal-Vet terms and FHA loans at a 5¼% interest rate are also available. Monthly payments, which are among the lowest in the beach area, begin at $79.63, including principal and interest.

Custom features include complete front yard landscaping, built-in oven and counter-top gas range, colored range hood with fan and light, custom ash cabinets, decorator wallpaper, acoustical ceilings, custom-styled fireplaces, copper plumbing service and marble pullmans in bathrooms.

To visit the furnished model homes at Unit 21 from Long Beach go east on Seventh St. to Beach Blvd., right on Beach Blvd. to models.

To visit the furnished model homes at Unit 22 from Long Beach go east on Seventh St. to Bolsa Chica, right on Bolsa Chica to models.

BUDGET-PRICED HOME

Here is an interior view of one of Dutch Haven's Huntington Beach homes. Two developments are under way, featuring homes priced from 14,950 on terms as low as $79.63 per month.

HB to Get New Bank

HUNTINGTON BEACH — Citizens National Bank has completed lease arrangements for a branch office in the North Huntington Beach area, it has been disclosed by Roy A. Britt, Citizens president.

The new office will be in a shopping center at the intersection of Edinger Avenue and Sher Lane, just west of Beach Boulevard.

Owner and developer of the shopping center is the Rutherford Company, Sydney Sher, president; and construction work will be done by Jackson Bros.

Remodeling of the existing building will begin immediately, with opening of the Citizens office planned in April.

LARGE LIVING ROOM

Almost 1,000 families already enjoy living rooms like this in Huntington Village. The three and four-bedroom, two-bath, family room homes are priced from $17,925.

Huntington Village Now Virtual City of Its Own

During 1962, almost 400 families began enjoying life in a Huntington Village home, according to Dan Mytinger, sales manager for the Village's builder and developer, Doyle & Shields Development Co.

The 400 families who purchased homes in Huntington Village in 1962 joined approximately 600 other families, bringing the estimated population of the Village to 3,800.

* * * *

THE DISTINCTIVE features of Huntington Village's three and four-bedroom, two-bath, family-room homes have found widespread acceptance upon the part of the home-buying public. Some of the more popular include: Built-in RCA Whirlpool range and oven, RCA Whirlpool dishwasher.

The current series of Sea Breeze homes, unit 10, are priced from $17,925. Terms for non-vets are as low as $495 down, plus costs, including deed and title insurance for home and land. There are no due dates and no balloon payments. Cal-Vet financing is also available.

Model homes are open daily. From the Long Beach area, drive east on Seventh Street (Garden Grove Blvd.) to Golden West St. Right on Golden West to Edinger, the right on Edinger to Springdale, left a short distance to the big parking lot and the model homes of Huntington Village.

* * * *

OFFERING A FULL measure of value, Sol Vista homes in Santa Ana sell for $16,950 to $18,100. Most of the homes may be bought on generous FHA terms with up to 35 years to pay. In some veterans may move in for nothing down except costs and impounds.

Each of these homes has two bathrooms, Frigidaire oven and range, color coordinated range hood, light and exhaust fan unit. Ideal for families, the homes have family rooms and brick fireplaces. The bathroom suite in the master bedroom suite has a stall shower with safety glass door.

HOME WITH BREEZEWAY
New breezeway plan with large family room, front living room, stone fireplace, and other luxuries is among new homes being introduced in the newest unit of Westmont this week. Prices start at $19,995 with the "Bonus Room" one of the features. Models are on Hwy. 39 about three miles south of the Westminster Boulevard signal.

Westmont Offering Flexible Terms on 'Bonus Room' Homes

A preview showing of the newest unit of George M. Holstein and Sons' Westmont community in the Huntington Beach area offers a wide selection of plans and the most flexible terms, the developers reported.

Although a limited number of homes are now available for quick occupancy in the current unit, the offering of the new group means buyers may select lots, color, plan and exterior and move in in late spring, the pioneer builders explained. All plans are available once again with the popular "Bonus Room," the big 440 square foot room that is just right for play room rumpus area, or extra bedroom, the Westmont builders assured.

* * * *

ALONG WITH the Bonus Room, the homes offer wood roofs, fireplaces, extra large deeded lots, and many other features. Prices start at $19,995 with no down payments for veterans and low down payments for FHA buyers.

In stressing early selection the builders pointed out that the new unit and its time schedule made an ideal opportunity for buyers who were selling their current home. Buyers in the new unit will be protected as to price and plan choice and still have almost three months to make arrangements to move, the Holstein firm declared.

To reach the Westmont "bonus room" homes, from the Long Beach area, stay east on Garden Grove Boulevard to Hwy. 39 and turn right. Drive south three miles past the Westminster Blvd. signal. The models are on the left of the highway behind the new discount department store and are open daily.

World of Make-Believe

By MARY NETH

Whenever dark haired Dorkey came to visit, trouble brewed.

Doors were slammed, shoes misplaced, ink bottles and milk glasses overturned and mama's best dishes, like as not, ended in the sand pile.

Everyone in the family knew Dorkey was terribly naughty — the direct opposite of blonde 3-year-old Martha, her friend — but no one could do a thing about it.

When she was on a rampage the cat hid under the sofa and daddy got out the hairbrush.

But, Dorkey never got a spanking — she was too hard to find. In fact, she was invisible.

Like a multitude of other little people who inhabit children's homes, Dorkey was purely pretend; the fantasy playmate of her little creator, Martha.

ACCORDING TO some estimates, about one third of all children between 3 and 9 years of age have make-believe playmates.

A few, like Dorkey, take the blame for their small originator's misdeeds, but most make themselves known only as fun companions — phantom children and, less frequently, animals to talk to and play with.

Their names range from commonplace (Mary, Tommy, Jane) to such wonders as Mr. Mergatroid, Mrs. Frim Fran and Johnny June Bug. Sometimes they come from "just around the block." Sometimes from far off places: Charlecoe City (near Seal Beach), Sandy Ego, Paris.

NO TWO ARE alike, but all have one thing in common: though invisible, you know when they're around.

Take the word of one mom. "We went through a Henry period — it was horrid," she says.

"Everytime I sat down my three-year-old would shriek, 'Oh, Mama! You're sitting on Henry, again.' Everytime I closed a door Henry had been left on the other side. Everytime I brought up a subject I heard Henry's views.

"He was a wonder. He lived in a tree house, ate only candy and ice cream, never went to bed until midnight, and had 5 dogs and 18 cats."

CONFRONTED WITH such tales, many a startled mother has wondered if she was rearing

Fantasy Friends Attend School

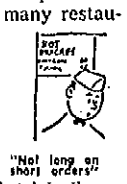

Making believe they had make-believe friends was no chore for these children at Huntington School, 2935 Spaulding Ave. They quickly entered into fun of fantasy giving photographer Joe Risinger the most cooperative models he could wish for. Above, Roben Johnson, kindergartener, gives imaginary pup a pat, while, at right, Freddy Jon Schutz, first grader, poses as little boy who kept imaginary canary, Chirper, perched on finger.

The Wild Waves Say . . .

By Iola Masterson • I, P-T Women's Editor

AS THE Junior League gals go into high gear preparing for their gigantic annual rummage sale (to be Feb. 2—but more on that later) their volunteer work is frequently an all-day affair.

To keep up the schedule, still not ask their providers to provide too many restaurant dinners during the holocaust, the smart young wives keep each other supplied with quick trick dinner ideas.

This one from Nancy Latimer, trucking chairman for the sale, was printed in the league's current High Tidings . . . sounds good enough for even stay at homes to try. Sprinkle a package of dry onion soup over a chuck roast then wrap securely in aluminum foil and bake at 250 degrees from whenever you have to leave the house in the morning until dinner time. In other words, let it simmer along all day. Would work fine with swiss steak, too.

HOW TO STAY happy though commuting. Rex Welch has the answer. He commutes to Tahiti, literally. He and Ginny bought a hotel and restaurant on the isle of romance, the Bel Air. With daughter, Jane, they spent the entire summer over there and since then Rex has been back on three separate trips. If that isn't commuting, what is?

Latest trek ended last weekend. It was occasioned by the fact that 115 fellow (and sister) members of their exclusive Beverly Hills gourmet club, Cave des Roys, went on a tour to Tahiti and as many as could be accomodated stayed at the Welch's hotel.

CONVINCED THAT she had flown much faster than even the airlines claimed, Mrs. William Shropshire, Lee McFarland's mother, arrived on her first jet flight Sunday from Tenafly, N. Y.; figured she had gained on the calendar clear back into July, it was so warm. She's here to enjoy a three week visit with Lee, Don and the baby, Susan, and to soak up as much sun, poolside, as the weatherman produces.

MORE ON the clan McFarland. Alma, Doug and son, Bruce, cruised down to Cape San Lucas on their boat for a three week vacation, which included eight days (glorious, she said) at Palmilla. Alma flew home, declining the rougher uphill-most-of-the-way cruise back. Doug and Bruce brought the boat safely into harbor Tuesday night.

SOMEONE'S going to have to tell him the facts, that bit about it's a dog's life. Only, so far, no one has. As a result Elva Lawson's birthday gift from Dick and the girls, a toy poodle, thinks he's a very important people and demands all the attention pursuant thereof. Which leaves Elva something less than leisurely.

FRIENDS OF the Museum decided to adopt a new name, "Buddies of Ourselves," and treated themselves to a gay night on the Los Angeles town. Dinner at the Bantam Cock preceded attendance at the opening of Claire Falkenstein's sculpture and art exhibit up there on La Cienega. In addition, they wandered in and out of various other galleries on the boulevard.

About 40 went up Monday by charter bus; another 10 drove up in their cars. Bus-mates included Peg and Ray Webb, Estelle Mooney, Pat and "Van" Van de Water, Kitty and Maurie Rosenbaum, Carolyn and Don Raney and Emily Cottrell. Dallas Conklin major domo-ed the night.

Incidentally, a number of our Friends tell me that a trip to Art Gallery Row, even if you don't know a collage from a bent fender, is worth the trip just to see the beatnik fringe characters who dote on being seen rubbing elbows with the hoi polloi in Cinega's caves of culture.

DOWNTOWN Kiwanians and their wives were treated to a snappily run and entertaining installation dinner at Elks Club Tuesday and that, dear readers, is an accomplishment that deserves a 21 gun salute.

"Hail Kiwanis!"

It had double significance for outgoing president, "Mac" Epley because he and Jane were celebrating their 36th anniversary. With tongue in cheek "Mac" noted that the last year was the longest and Jane agreed. It was a good night to have her husband returned to "civilian" status after the 12 months she loaned him to Kiwanis. Phyllis Miller is now the donor of a president as Harlan begins his term.

Spotted in the big and stylish crowd were such Epley and Miller fans as Burton and Polly Chace, Irene and Jess Holton, Bud and Joyce Holton, Hortense and John Wyatt, Clare and Helen Hamman, Barbara and Bud Ivey, Irene and "Sig" Sigworth, Bill and Marie Todd, "Win" and Leah Hanssen, Crystal and Nile Bunch, Ken and Dorris Martinson, Maude and "Scotty" Scott and Ted and Cleo Bowman; he was achievement award winner of the year for a tremendous job done as inter-club chairman.

AH, 'TIS a fine, fair, wee colleen they'll be christening next Sunday, on her first month's birthday, at St. Hedwig's in Rossmoor and the first to be glad to tell you so is, himself, Jim Kelly. Ebullient first-time grandfather, Jim glows with pride like the sun's rays glinting off the River Shannon. Equally, if more quietly, proud are grandma, Sophie, and Michelle Eileen's parents, Neena and Dermott McHenry.

Auxiliary Gives Time, Funds

IF TIME IS MONEY, THE SCALES ARE BALANCED! Mrs. Lyle Gunn, associate member of Community Hospital Auxiliary, holds clock which measures hours members have volunteered, while the money raised at the annual Benefit Horse Show is weighed in by Mrs. Russell Davison, provisional. Hospital administrator Walter M. Oliver, who accepted the donation for new X-ray equipment, checks the balance.

The newly enlarged and redecorated section of Community Hospital now has fully equipped X-ray and darkroom facilities.

Injuries which must be checked by X-ray can be photographed and the film developed on the spot, a convenience to both doctors and patients.

The new equipment is the gift of the Hospital Auxiliary, which had donated more than $13,600 for the new rooms.

* * * *

THE CHECK was presented to Walter M. Oliver, hospital administrator, by Mrs. B. Wallace Newaier, a past president of the auxiliary.

The money was raised at the auxiliary's one large fund-raising event, the annual Benefit Horse Show at Los Alamitos Race Course, and from the hospital gift shop and baby photo services, both staffed by auxiliary members.

Since its inception in 1957, the auxiliary has donated more than $60,000 to Community Hospital for equipment. Last year more than 200 members volunteered nearly 50,000 hours, working in the hospital and in their homes on many projects.

FOASBERG'S FABRIC CARE COUNSELOR

HOW TO DRY

As fabrics become more and more complicated what with synthetics, blends, special finishes and all, even such a simple matter as drying them may become a question. For example, the new Orlon Sayelle should be machine dried. If it is washed in a machine and dried on the line or on a towel, special care should be taken to shape it back to its original size or it will be larger than desired. However, when Sayelle is dried in a tumble dryer, it returns to its normal size automatically. Any questions? Phone me.

He Should Read the Handwriting on the Wall—in Fact, the Smudge Would Do Him Good

Dear Molly Mayfield

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

Why, after two years of marriage, could this happen? I married the most wonderful man in the world. My children and family just love him. Their father is dead and he seemed to love us all, couldn't do enough for us. So he bought us a new home.

I don't enjoy the new home because he comes home every night and goes around to see if the children have put their hands on the wall. He doesn't allow the kids in their own bedroom except to go to bed. They can't come in the house with their shoes on.

Now people won't come to see us because they said they weren't taking their shoes off! I try to explain to him his fault, but he says there's nothing wrong with him.

I'd rather be back in the old house, with its cracks and laughs. — PHONEY HOME.

DEAR PHONEY HOME:

Honey, it's your home, too, you know. Set him down and set him straight. If he lets the children live normally — and others who come, we hope—you'll do the normal amount of cleaning and caring so the house will not deteriorate.

He wants to keep it like new, but he'll have to understand he can't do it his way and keep you, too.—M.M.

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

My parents know I'm 16 and still they say I'm too young to date. They won't let me date until I graduate, and I am only a junior.

I'm going steady with a boy who is 17 and my parents know I like him. I can't talk to them because they just get angry and tell me everything is settled and that's final. I don't like to lie, but I meet my boy friend secretly, saying I'm going with my girl friend. So far it works fine.

I want to please them, but I think sometimes I hate them.—PARENT TRAPPED

DEAR PARENT TRAPPED:

Keep on tripping that trap and you'll chance being trapped by something more confining than that. I think you know what "being in confinement" means to a girl—it's worse than you can imagine and happens to lots of girls who sneak around like you do.

Try to please your parents, really please them, and you can't possibly hate them.—M.M.

* * * *

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

Several of us here in the office have an argument we'd like you to settle. The belle around here is a divorcee that doesn't intend to be. She's intended for a long time to fetch herself a new mate. And several of us have been willing.

The catch is that she expects her date to pay the baby sitter when he takes her out. And taking her out is no small matter.

She expects dinner in style, the theater after, and nightcaps all the way home. By the time you reach her door and reach for your change to pay off the sitter, you're a sitting duck.

Tell us, please. Is it proper for her to expect this, too?—DIVORCEE.

DEAR DIVORCEE:

May heaven protect the picked pocket. Of course not!—M.M.

* * * *

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

My husband goes out at least once a month and stays out all night. I can't sleep for wondering and worrying all through the night. I believe he loves me. Do you?—FOREVER WORRIED

DEAR FOREVER:

No.—M.M.

* * * *

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

Every time I read a letter from a 14-year-old girl on "the verge of marriage" I want to swear. Kids determined to get married at that age need some profanity to startle them into sanity.

When I was that young, Mother told me I didn't know what love was all about. I got mad because I knew I did. And by the time I was 15 I was sure I did. Know what? I didn't know what love was then, either. Young loves die quickly because there isn't enough maturity to stand the strain. These girls say they can pass for 18. Lots of people pass for 59, but don't have the sense to admit they're 60.

Love lasts a long time, sometimes 70 years or more. Young people can't see past next week. Where are they getting this distorted, incomplete concept of love?

Writing the blame on the blackboard and calling it parents or movies or magazines won't help. They're all to blame, but the individual is finally at fault.

I'm still searching for the complete conception of love. —NINETEEN AND SINGLE

DEAR NINETEEN:

For those like you that wait, love is great. I'm terribly afraid that for those who can't, it only grates.—M.M.

Deceptive Play Wins

Bobby Jordan is ten years older than his partner, Arthur Robinson, but the maturity of age 36 does not seem to have made him the steadier member of the partnership.

Instead it is Arthur who plays straight man while Bobby creates the situations in bidding and play that are most likely to force mistakes from the opponents.

In a recent duplicate match, Bobby found himself in a very comfortable three no-trump contract. Overtricks are important in duplicate and at trick one Bobby was able to make a deceptive play that netted him all thirteen tricks and a top score.

* * * *

THERE wasn't anything too complicated about the play. West had opened the five of spades and after East produced the ten spot Bobby won the trick with the king, not the jack.

Then he ran off his six club tricks and West had to find five discards. The first three were easy. There was no pain about letting a low heart and two low spades go. The fourth discard was the queen of spades. On the last club, West could not afford to chuck a diamond and he did not want to unguard the king of hearts so out came the ace of spades. It looked safe enough. East surely held the jack since Bobby had won the first trick with the king.

Now Bobby's jack and four of spades were good and he had thirteen tricks. His false card at trick one had really paid off!

Phantom Playmates for Fun

a pint-sized pathological liar or miniature Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde.

Psychiatrists don't take such a gloomy view.

Many, in fact, feel that in a well-balanced child, adoption of a make-believe pal is a good sign: that it can even lead to a better integrated personality.

They acknowledge such fantasy as an attempt to solve problems with the child often using the pretend friend to compensate for something he feels lacking in his real world.

Little Johnny's case is an example of this. An only child in a nearly childless neighborhood, he was a lonely little boy indeed until he made-up Mike. Then he and Mike kept busy every day: playing cowboys and indians, climbing fences and trees, sharing secrets.

"Mike was a life saver," says his mother. "He kept Johnny from moping underfoot — I was almost sorry to see him go when Johnny found real friends."

MOST PHANTOM playmates occur during the child's third and fourth year when, according to child psychologists, the tendency to dramatize is the strongest.

They usually disappear when the child enters school at about 5 or 6 years of age.

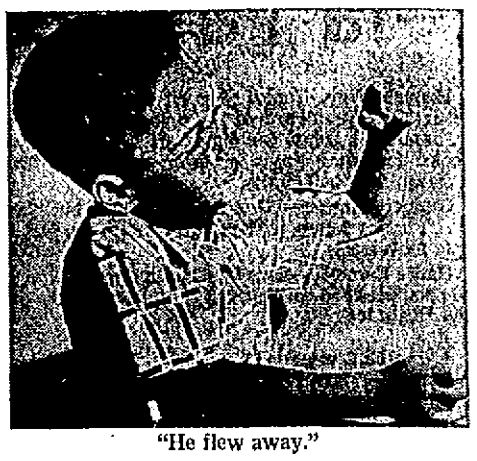

"We missed Chirper Bird when David went into kindergarten," says the mother of a child who had an imaginary canary.

"When David stopped walking around with his finger held out in front of him as a bird perch, I asked him where Chirper was."

His answer was voiced in a tone of disgust, she recalls. Seems, naturally enough, Chirper had flown away.

WHEN A PRETEND playmate lingers on long after the child has entered school, some psychiatrists such as Dr. Merle Page, 1777 Bellflower Blvd., feel parents might be wise to seek advice

He also believes that while its going on, mom and dad should take the whole phase as matter-of-factly as possible—neither ridiculing the child or entering into the make-believe to the point that it's dwelled upon to an unhealthy degree.

"He flew away."

Here, it's interesting to note, most children make no pretense about the whole matter being just pretend. They freely admit that they made-up the make-believe companion—often change his appearance or character on whim.

WHAT CAUSES this form of imagination to delight some children and have no appeal for others?

Psychiatrists offer many different theories. Most feel, however, that the temperament of the child is the deciding factor. Children who create their own playmates are most often found to be average to unusually bright, chatterboxes with a big capacity for pretending. The matter-of-fact little realist who sneers at fairy tales is not about to create any of his own.

All child experts agree that parents can profit from observing any fantasy that their off-spring might dream up. It's a good clue to basic personality.

One mother, observing her son's reactions to his invisible friend, decided she was being too strict.

"He kept ordering his little brain child around in the meanest tone of voice he could muster," she says. "It came as a shock that he was imitating me."

She let up on the discipline awhile and her son stopped making-up friends to bawl-out.

IN MOST YOUNGSTERS the desire to please more than equals the adventuring spirit. When little Martha blamed Dorkey for every disaster that came up, she wasn't really attempting to get away with something but just to maintain the picture she had of herself as a perfectly behaved little girl.

Coping with the conflicting and confusing attitudes of the adult world is no easy task for one little person. Who can blame him for adding a few extensions of himself to make the job easier?

A SMALL invisible addition to the family can be rewarding to all concerned. After all, there's no problem of space, no increase in the budget.

And, in later years, what fun to look back on the adventures of the little boy who wasn't there.

You'll also find him in favorite books of childhood. Like for example in this poem by A. A. Milne (author of Winnie-the-Pooh)

"Blinker—what I call him is a secret of my own,
And Blinker is the reason why I never feel alone.
Playing in the nursery, sitting on the stair,
Whatever I am busy at, Blinker will be there."

SOMETHING FOR EVERYONE

Viva la Spring—la Fashion

By MARY ELLIS

NEW YORK—Spring fashions; like New York City, have something for everybody. Viva la Spring!

If there's one word to describe the look for spring, 1963, it's individuality—with a capital "I."

There's one consistency; daytime skirt lengths still hug the knee cap.

Most designers, unveiling their collections the past week for the nation's press, elected to provide a little of everything for fashion-conscious femmes.

You can go sleeved or sleeveless, collared or uncollared, slim-skirted or full-skirted. Whether the jacket is long, short, or in-between, it's up to you.

PROBABLY the quickest way to charm your wardrobe into a this-minute frame of mind is to step up your overblouse supply. They appear in almost every collection—on suits, and over dresses. For daytime and for evening.

Ditto tunics. Ditto shifts. Ditto sheaths.

It's a season of clothes designed to change your mind. Consider some of these notes gleaned at collections the past week:

VICTORIAN PINK, silk chiffon ballgown from Harvey Berin's Spring collection designed by Karen Stark. Drifting skirt has a soft-slim look with front and back panel. Draped strapless under-bodice is topped by an overblouse, lavishly embroidered in bugle beads.

Hannah Troy—Tunics play an important role in all lengths and in all groups . . . dresses are cut on the bias, assuring a subtle and simple fit . . . liquid layers of color fashion a group of down-to-the-floor floaty silk marquisette ball gowns.

Samuel Winston—Many dresses slender but waistless . . . tunics galore, most of them cut on the bias for supple movement.

Hattie Carnegie—Suits with set-in sleeves, straightened shoulders and "disappearing" hiplines . . . she calls it the "little look."

AND STILL more looks.

Branell—Prints, prints and more prints . . . billowy silk print scarves and scarf blouses that almost make the dress or costume . . . concise, reversible print coats nearly as slender as the dresses that go underneath . . . evening dresses all "in short."

Maurice Rentner—Travel companion costumes in featherweight wools or silk . . . jackets in several lengths, some curving to a crescent front . . . newest look a hip-length, camel-colored whipcord jacket with stitched fly front, topping a grey flannel skirt and white blouse.

Harvey Berin—the "figurine silhouette," as carefully executed as modern sculpture via elongated shaping of giant diamond-cut bias sections which meet in a point at center front and back. The result: A willowy sort of revealment.

Pattullo-Jo Copeland—Jackets as smartly tailored as an officer's, with wide shoulders, slim hips . . . little black dresses with tunics, low flounces, low necks, some seductively fitted, others easily unfitted but revealing nonetheless.

Herbert Sondheim—Costumes with vestees of French linen and blouses of silk . . . man-tailored, long jacket suits with dashing vestees . . . the schoolgirl look in white-collared dresses, the John Held flapper look in others.

Paul Parnes—A little schoolboy feeling about jackets . . . new "stringbean skirts" with neatly-turned unpressed pleats . . . "lampshade" sleeves, a flared out shape that gives importance to elbow-length sleeves.

The silhouette? A neckline for every neck, a hemline for every leg, but predominately an individual look for everybody.

YEP, reporting spring fashions is like trying to write one story that captures the excitement of New York. There's no way. Because every direction you look there's another story. . . .

Caught up in the workaday world of rushing from one appointment to another, neither visitors nor New Yorkers can soak up all the things that make the city great.

We've hit some of the high spots, to be sure . . . like Plaza 9 Theater, where, in satirical revue, a sextette of talented entertainers poke fun at everything from peace marchers and city bigwigs to Tennessee Williams and JFK . . . the New Americana Hotel where Janet Blair holds forth in the hotel's swank night spot, The Royal Box . . . and the Copacana, where Sammy Davis Jr. is wowing capacity crowds nightly with songs and wisecracks.

Judge's Janet Best Chef

Chef of the Week

By MILDRED K. FLANARY
I.-P-T Food Editor

The "J's" have it in the Raycraft family! There's Joe, Juanita, Joan, Jane and Janet.

The head of the house is today's Chef of the Week Judge Joe Raycraft, who is just starting his fourth year as presiding judge of the Superior Court. A judge since 1947, Raycraft was first appointed by former Gov. Earl Warren to the Los Angeles Municipal Court. He was assigned to Long Beach in '52.

Actually, Judge Raycraft started "practicing" law while still a student at Poly High. The recipient of a traffic ticket, he pleaded his own case and won.

* * * *

DETERMINATION to become a lawyer was prompted by his father's admonition that he "study law and learn to understand 'the fine print.'" The "fine print" on the back of contracts had been responsible for his dad's loss of two fortunes.

A general contractor and architect, he had established the Long Beach Construction Co. in 1913. The old Silver Spray Pier, and the roller coaster on the Pike, which still stands, were products of his handiwork.

Though Wisconsin born, Raycraft's boyhood was spent in Long Beach. His baseball field was the middle of Pine Avenue; Pine being paved only south of Fourth. The largest market in town was a Japanese one at the southwest corner of the street.

Raycraft attended the American Avenue Grammar School — that is, until the fourth grade, when it burned down. He then transferred to the Pine Avenue School on the southwest corner of Sixth. After the American Avenue School was rebuilt, renamed and made a junior high, he returned. Four years at Poly High preceded his graduation from USC with a B.A. and then a law degree.

* * * *

HE HUNG out his first shingle in San Pedro in 1932, where he remained until 1947, when he was appointed judge.

A member of the American Bar Association, and the American Judicature Society, Raycraft also belongs to the Conference of California Judges. A Mason, he's active in the Knight Templar, the Shrine and the Royal Arch of Masons.

Bridge, reading and sports vie for outside interest honors, but his real forte is as a handyman. His family call him "Mr. Fix-it."

Our "chef" thoroughly enjoys cooking, but the REAL cook in the family is 11-year-old Janet. Today we're sharing with you her recipe for Sour Cream Coffee Cake, for which she won the grand sweepstakes prize in the Gas Company's Baking Contest when she was only 10.

Not to be outdone, however, "Pop" has a couple of cooking tips—"How to Bake Bacon," and a Marinade for Shish-ka-bobs."

SOUR CREAM COFFEE CAKE

½ cup butter
½ cup shortening
1¼ cup sugar
2 eggs, beaten
1 cup sour cream
1 tsp. vanilla
2 cups sifted cake flour
1 tsp. baking powder
½ tsp. baking soda

Cream butter, sugar, shortening and eggs, which have been beaten before adding. Then add sour cream and vanilla. Beat well and gradually add sifted flour, baking powder and soda. When mixture is too thick to beat, stir with a spoon until well mixed. Place half the mixture in buttered 9-inch tube spring-form pan and sprinkle with half of the topping mixture. Place rest of dough on top and sprinkle with remaining topping. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) 1 hour or until knife comes out clean. Sprinkle confectioners sugar on top while still hot and let cool 15 to 20 minutes before cutting. Serves to 12.

TOPPING

½ cup finely chopped mixed nuts
2 tblsp. sugar
1 tsp. cinnamon

Mix ingredients and sprinkle evenly between layers and over top.

RAYCRAFT'S BAKED BACON

Bake without turning! Place separated slices wafer thin, lean bacon on wire rack in shallow pan.

Place oven rack in top position in oven and bake at 400 degrees (10-20 minutes) or until done.

MARINADE FOR SHISH-KA-BOBS

Combine:
⅓ cup salad oil
2 cloves garlic
3 tblsp. soy sauce
2 tblsp. catsup
1 tblsp. vinegar
⅓ tsp. pepper

'Loud Red Patrick' to Debut

Formal opening of "The Loud Red Patrick" will be held Friday at Community Playhouse, 5021 E. Anaheim St. It will be followed by an informal Saturday showing and productions on Thursdays, Fridays and Saturdays through March 2.

The comedy, written by John Boruff from a novel of the same name by Ruth McKenney, is based on the lives of an Irish-American family living in Cleveland, Ohio, in 1912. It is presented as a wholesome family play, with sparkle and fun.

Juvenile leading roles are played by Claudia Danielson, who played in "The Lady Chooses" at Community, and Jeff Angell, a newcomer to local theaters who has played in Ventura and Oxnard little theaters.

Frank Keith is Patrick, the father, a big and hearty Irishman, and Walter Crockett is his friend, a twinkling Irishman with cocky charm.

Linda Weech, playing a 16-year-old daughter, and her mother, Virginia, as a housekeeper and substitute mother of the family, were charter members of the Quivera Playhouse in San Pedro.

Signe Merrifield, as a 10-year-old, Kristina Kennan, as the baby of the family, and Steve Arena, as a boy friend, complete the cast.

COLLECTOR AND PHOTOGRAPHER

Oscar Meyer (left) and photographer Harold Van Pelt, shown with a Coptic Bone sculpture of the early 4th century A.D. and an Iberic Bronze figure from the 9th to the 5th century B.C. In background is Van Pelt's photographic interpretation of the Coptic piece. The two men combine talents for an art exhibit at County Museum of History, Science and Art, Exposition Park, Los Angeles.

Photographs Interpret Art

By ELISE EMERY
Arts Page Editor

An antique art exhibit and a photographic show opened Thursday for a four-week run at California Museum of Science and Industry in Exposition Park, Los Angeles.

The 50 rare and ancient pieces include Iberic bronzes of the 9th to the 5th centuries B.C., High Renaissance works, Greco-Byzantine icons, Greek clay figures, Greco-Roman figures, rare Eskimo and early American Indian art. They are from the collection of Oscar Meyer.

Harold Van Pelt's photographic enlargements of these individual works are up to 30 times the size of the actual subjects, creating monumental works from objects only inches in height.

* * * *

THE CURRENT show at Atelier 7, 3316 E. Seventh St., emphasizes contrasting approaches to the art of photography.

On display is the work of Victor Haveman, artist-photographer for 40 years, and Charles Baltz, a young man many years Haveman's junior.

Both agree that photography is an art of visual selection.

But Haveman's subjects explore a vital present because, he says, "life and joy are in the present." His portraits are sensual, exotic and intense.

Baltz, on the other hand, is primarily involved with past history and development. He believes that "man is condemned to an eternal search for completeness. The past is not only a prologue to the present, but all past is contained in the present."

MAJOR & MINOR NOTES

Artist Constantly Seeks Perfection

By RACHEL MORTON
L. P-T Music Critic

What does it take to become a great artist? So many times I am asked this question. Of course, I can only answer by my own experience in knowing personally and working with many great artists.

This one thing I know. Without a doubt, one of the great qualities in greatness is humility — not timidity, not servility, not cowardice —but a humbleness that is never satisfied, never puffed up, always seeking, always striving. This humbleness of spirit comes from acute sensitivity and suffering.

The climb to the top is a hazardous one and fraught with discouragement most of the way. This is because a great artist has a fixed goal far beyond attainment. Rarely does an artist exclaim in glib satisfaction: "That was perfection." Rather does he seek his pillow in an anguish of "why didn't I do better?"

* * * *

THE MUSIC profession is such a highly specialized one that often actual privations are known along the way. Many of the great composers were frequently hungry. Many performing artists are lonely at heart and all live in a world not well understood by their fellow men.

So many beautiful voices have come to my notice, but what have they to say? Unless one has really suffered, how can one interpret sorrow? True, singers are only story tellers in song, but how reach the heart of an audience unless one's own heart has been reached?

* * * *

AN ARTIST'S LIFE is a strange mixture of high exaltation which comes from the music itself, and a low despair which comes from an inability to faithfully convey the message of that music.

To be musical and to love music is one thing; but to be an artist is to be great of heart and great in talent. That's why artists are so rare—but once before you, their inspiration of love and exaltation lifts you high above yourself. To the receptive one, it is a direct communication that is divinely noble.

'Grand Ole Opry' in L.B. Thursday

Grand Ole Opry, direct from Nashville, Tenn., will play a one-night stand at Municipal Auditorium Thursday.

The favorite country-Western music show, making its first appearance in this area in six years, will feature folk-singer Webb Pierce; Ray Price, whose hits include "Heartaches by the Number," "One More Time" and many others; George Jones, Western favorite; Minnie Pearl, country-style comedienne; Carl Smith, top recording artist; Claude King, Stonewall Jackson, Red Sovine, Billy Deaton and many others.

Grand Ole Opry will be presented at 7 and 9:30 p.m.

Advance tickets, at reduced prices, may be purchased at any Liberty Ticket Agency, Wallich's Music Center stores or at the box office.

Tickets also will be sold at the door on the evening of performance.

New Space Concepts in Falkenstein Work

By VIRGINIA LADDEY

The "point as a set" is the original point of departure for sculptor Claire Falkenstein, whose one man show at the Esther Robles Gallery, 665 N. La Cienaga Blvd., Los Angeles, continues through Feb. 2. An atmosphere of undisguised excitement filled the crowded rooms at Monday night's opening. Many prominent Long Beach people attended, for the internationally-acclaimed sculptor has executed two commissions in Long Beach.

* * * *

WHILE MANY of us have only faint glimmerings of understanding that the dimensions of the universe are far beyond earth, man, and heaven, Falkenstein has developed a poetic conception and expression for the terms used by advanced mathematicians and physicists. The 3-foot spherical sculpture entitled "The Point As a Set" is constructed of a hairpin curce of copper tubing woven in an infinity of relationships to describe mass, pace, and energy.

Falkenstein's "suns" and "moons," endless intricacies of soldered wire, sheet metal, and mysterious spaces, are begemmed with festoons of fused glass chunks. The "coronas," a more delicate use of the same materials, could grace the brows of yet-unknown goddesses.

* * * *

THE ENTIRE approach is organic; Falkenstein's works seem to breathe, move, grow. They are unlike anything else you've seen; yet, if you were to happen on one of them, unexpectedly, in a garden, on the beach or desert, you wouldn't be surprised to find it there at all. For this month, the Esther Robles Gallery is transformed into an arboretum-planetarium. Go wander through it; you will be delighted.

Anne Barrows to Sing on Idaho Civic Music Series

Anne Barrows, Long Beach contralto, will leave Tuesday by plane for Couer d'Alene, Idaho, where she will sing a concert Wednesday for the Idaho Civic Music Series.

Concert arrangements have been made by the Alexander F. Haas Artist Management Bureau of Los Angeles.

Her program will include songs by Torelli, Haydn, Monro, Schubert, Brahms, Schumann, Medinkoff, Bantok, Rachmaninoff and Dvorak.

She will be accompanied by Donald K. Smith of Spokane.

Miss Barrow's regular accompanist, Vernon Overmeyer, is to go on a tour of the United States and Canada with the Roger Wagner Chorale.

Orchestra to Perform

Members of the Long Beach City College Chamber Orchestra will present their first concert of the season at 8 p.m. Friday in Studio D of the college music building, Clark Avenue and Harvey Way. There is no admission charge.

Under the direction of Akiro Endo, the 35-piece orchestra will perform Haydn's "London Symphony," Wagner's "Siegfried Idyll," Weber's "Bassoon Concerto in F Major" and "Rumanian Folk Dances" by Bartok.

With Dr. Gerald Daniel as guest conductor, Endo will be the violin soloist in the performance of Bach's "Brandenburg Concerto No. 104."

Steinhaus in Recital

First Congregational Church will present Phillip Steinhaus in an organ recital Tuesday at 8:15 p.m.

The public is invited; an offering will be received.

Organist, choirmaster and carillonneur to the Kirk-in-the-Hills at Bloomfield Hills, Mich., Steinhaus has appeared in concerts throughout the United States. He has performed as soloist with symphony orchestra, including the Detroit Symphony, as recitalist at national and regional conventions of the American Guild of Organists and has been featured on radio programs.

OUR COVER

On today's cover, lovely Marilyn Crooker of Long Beach chats with Bud Parr, operator of the Hotel Cabo San Lucas, which — despite its remoteness on the tip of Baja California—has become a favorite vacation spot for Southlanders. Marilyn and her husband, Jim, Long Beach auto dealer, are among many Southern California aviation enthusiasts who make the scenic flight down the Mexican peninsula's rugged coastline to the new resort. There, waters of the Pacific and the Gulf of California combine to produce the finest marlin, sailfish and dolphin fishing in the world. More about this Mexican playground on Page 9.

The Visit of the Merry Monarch

By Anna Lemley

Photos Courtesy Archives of Hawaii

WHEN THE SHIP Benicia sailed into San Francisco Harbor in 1874 another first was charted up for California—the honor of greeting the first reigning monarch of another country ever to visit the United States. The visitor was King Kalakaua, ruler of the island kingdom of Hawaii, then known as the Sandwich Islands.

David Kalakaua, who was sometimes called the Merry Monarch, was an expert at combining pleasure with business. Pleasure began with band music and cheering crowds of California. The king's journey across the continent was a social triumph, for everyone who met him liked him. In Washington, President Grant took Kalakaua and his companions, Gov. Dominis of Oahu and Gov. Kapeua of Maui on a tour of America's historical spots. Gala dinners and entertainment made the royal visitor welcome. But when Kalakaua addressed a joint session of Congress (another first) offering a trade treaty, the jovial guest was all business man and responsible ruler.

The king told our lawmakers that Russia, England and several other world powers had approached him, seeking the use of the Pearl River lagoon, one of the world's finest natural harbors. He pointed out the value to us of a naval and coaling station on the shipping lanes between the Orient and America, and offered what he had refused to others, a trade treaty encompassing the use of Pearl Harbor in return for a tariff-free market for Hawaiian sugar.

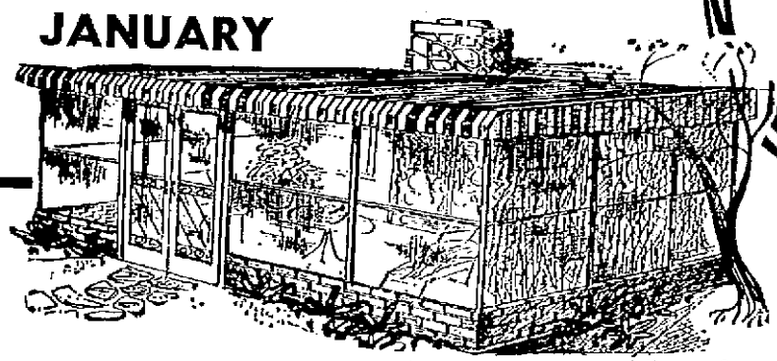

CONGRESS was divided on the proposal; some thought the sugar tariff meant more but Grant and many others were for it. The deadlock ended with a temporary treaty going into effect, to be ratified two years later after much struggle. Thirteen years after the United States was given exclusive rights to the harbor. Through the decision and work of Kalakaua strong ties of friendship and trade were forged between Hawaii and this country. A different decision on his part and the 50th state might be part of Russia today!

Historians say Kalakaua was a ruler who made mistakes but never made an enemy. He was intensely ambitious for his country, determined that it should become economically strong. At one time he placed his sister Liliuokalani in power as acting regent and went on a nine-month tour of the world. He recruited laborers for the sugar plantations and brought to Hawaii four of the five main racial groups that make up its population today: Japanese, Chinese, Portugese and Filipinos. American settlers needed no recruiting.

True to his happy way of life the King had a wonderful time on his trip. He was entertained by the Emperor of Japan, given a royal welcome in Egypt, Siam and Italy and

Doodling Under Glass

By Muriel Mercer

RECIPE for a custom-made picture: Take one old-fashioned oval-framed picture with a good convex glass, to provide the necessary room for this operation. Remove the back and withdraw the picture of the gentleman with the handlebar mustache, or the photo of the lady with the 15-inch waistline.

Now, cut a new cardboard back from heavy cardboard. Measure inside of back area for doodling space on reverse side. Later you will cover this cardboard with another of larger size to give support to doodling board.

Using an old-fashioned oval picture frame with raised glass, hobbyists may develop interesting doodle art.

At this point check frame to see what condition it is in if you have not done so before. If it is wood and in good condition it may only need hand waxing. If a metal covered frame on a wood base, like that in the accompanying illustration, plan now what color it will be, not only to harmonize with room in which it is to hang, but also plan to blend with colors of the picture you are going to create.

NOW CLOSE your eyes and concentrate. Remember the purpose of using the picture with a convex glass. It is to provide space to build a many-leveled scene. This gives actual rather than a painted depth. You may plan a thick mass near the center, if a hard material such as the ceramic fish shown, is used. You may be inspired to re-

One of nature's most remarkable rituals studied

Science Tracks Great Whales to Calving Lagoons

Zoologist Dr. Kenneth Norris tries to open mouth of newly born gray whale in study of the mammals with marine biologist Robert Eberhardt.

By Lou Jobst

EACH WINTER and spring Southern California is a witness to one of nature's most remarkable rituals, the 12,000-mile migration of the great gray whales.

Among the largest animals on earth, the 40-ton "devil fish" travels from the Bering Sea to the warm water lagoons of Baja California to breed and give birth to their young.

Plowing through the seas at up to 10 knots, the huge herds—numbering some 5,000 whales in peak years—pass within a few miles of the Southland shore and are visible from such vantage points as Point Vicente, the Palos Verdes Hills, La Jolla and Point Loma.

Thousands of Southern Californians, armed with binoculars and telescopes, gather on the bluffs December through February to view this phenomena while the more intrepid of the whale-watching fraternity board fast boats to chase the herds in the open sea.

PIERPOINT LANDING in the Port of Long Beach operates a whale excursion service which in six weeks last year carried more than 5,000 passengers.

The migration southward also is followed by the scientist and each year researchers descend on Scammon's Lagoon, a favorite nesting spot 500 miles south of San Diego, to conduct experiments and study the great mammals.

In the past, the scientists have jabbed the whales with electronic needles to study their heartbeats, tagged them with sonar transmitters to learn how deep they dive, chased them with airplanes, miniature submarines and self-propelled boats.

But none of the hundreds of experiments matches the efforts this year of two researchers, Lockheed marine biologist Robert L. Eberhardt, 3720 Leland St., San Pedro, and UCLA zoology professor Dr. Kenneth S. Norris, 5 Fruit St. Rd., Portuguese Bend.

NORRIS AND Eberhardt are studying the maternity habits of the 45-foot mothers and have succeeded in measuring a half-dozen newborn calves.

How big is a baby whale? Whopping.

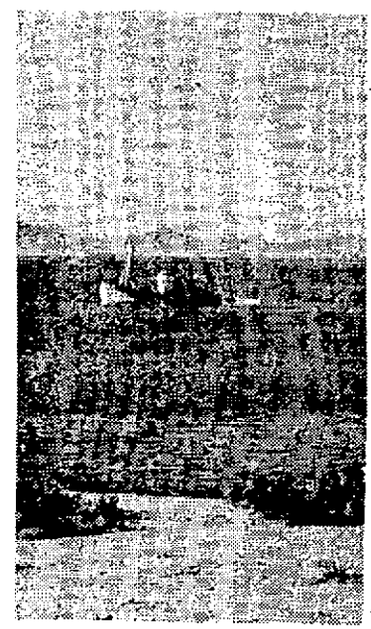

The pair found one 17 feet, 8 inches long. It was too heavy to weigh.

Unable to separate the babies from their fiercely protective mothers, Norris and Eberhardt, who sailed to Scammon's in December aboard the Lockheed oceanic research boat, Sea Quest, had to wait until a newly-born whale was separated from its mother or stranded in shallow water.

Then they waded into the surf and with a steel tape measure took down the vital statistics on the threshing baby whale. They recorded the dimensions of the baleen (whalebone) plates inside the mouth, throat grooves, fetal folds, flippers, water spout blowholes, eyes and blubber thickness.

MOST OF THE stranded young died, but Norris and Eberhardt rescued a five 15-foot bull calf they found floundering in shallow water.

Tugging and pulling, they managed to get the calf into 10 feet of water while its anxious mother, blowing and sounding, waited nearby.

Research boat Quest plies lagoon in search of whales.

Before freeing the beast, Dr. Norris put his arm into the whale's mouth and felt inside. He reported the whale, otherwise lethargic, gave a vigorous sucking movement.

The scientist spent seven days in the lagoon and counted some 700 whales. The voyage is a part of a continuing study of whales by Lockheed-California Company's antisubmarine and oceanic research division.

THE PAIR plan to prepare a paper for publication on the natal habits of the gray whale which is also known as the California gray whale, mussel digger, rip-sace and devil fish.

One thing researchers have ascertained in recent years is that the gray whale—once thought extinct—is growing in numbers.

At one time the herds numbered more than 25,000, but uncontrolled whaling decimated the species and at its ebb point there were probably only 500 left.

Twenty years ago the gray whale was put on the protected list and the herds began to grow. An estimated 3,000 were counted in 1959 and 5,500 last year.

The herd this year may number more than 7,000.

THE GRAY WHALE is smaller than most of its brethren which includes the blue which may reach 100 feet in length and 100 tons, the 70-foot fin whale, the 60-foot sperm whale and the 70-ton bowhead.

Their color is gray with pale mottling on the underside and head region. They have a short dorsal fin and a series of small humps leading from it to the tail.

After mating and birthing in the south, the gray whales turn north to the Bering Sea to feed.

The gray whale gives birth every two years.

A giant gray whale, scarred back and tail visible, heads for Baja California breeding grounds.

Successful Long Beach contestant tells how to win prizes in

The Boxtop Bonanza

Having won the keys to a Cadillac (but not the car) for a day, Mrs. D. E. Reaney of Long Beach, frequent winner in "Why I Like . . ." contests, starts on tour of Hollywood with daughter-in-law, Mrs. Mike Reaney, Signal Hill.

By Renee B. Simon

IN 25 WORDS or less you can now win a buffalo, a fully furnished house, or a snug little island. As an attention-getting device, no Madison Avenue gimmick has yet gripped the imagination of the purchasing public as powerfully as the consumer merchandising contests. Every ad that offers free trips to Hawaii or the chance to pluck $50 bills from a money tree shouts "Stop, Look, and Listen!"

Who could resist the temptation to vie for an oil well or a glamorous sports car? American housewives, with a hopeful, anything-is-possible attitude, conscientiously snip boxtops and write jingles, waiting to stumble over the rainbow's pot of gold.

Despite occasional outcries from skeptics, the tide of entries and boxtops continues to rise. If the doubters ask, "Where are the winners?" the sponsoring companies counter with long lists of them from every state in the Union. Who are they then, these winners of trips to Hawaii, private islands, hideaway mountain cabins—and how do they do it?

"IT'S NOT EASY, but anyone can win," says Mrs. D. E. Reaney, a Long Beach resident and frequent winner on the boxtop circuit. Her own experiences and successes provide a sound basis for that view. A past president of a local contest club, she is a youthful grandmother who has turned her skills as a free lance writer to the difficult task of finding the winning combination of 25 words or less.

"To win the buckets of dollars and merchandise," Mrs. Reaney expains, "takes more than good fortune. In those 25 words you must inject sincerity, originality, and aptness of thought—the judges' usual guidelines. Condensing an idea into a few words is harder than you might imagine," she adds. "I never just dash off a few lines."

Those who enter contests regularly know that only the carefully-thought-out entry survives the keen competition. A nationally advertised contest attracted at least 500,000 entries and frequently double that many. It is not unusual for a first-place winner to have competed against one-in-a-million odds. A major milk company competition a few years ago drew an unprecedented 2.9 million prize seekers. Advertisers concede that, against such odds, even a nation ready for any gamble needs added incentive to keep trying. For that reason, they have baited their advertising hook with one more lure—the hundreds of subsidiary prizes for those who can't come in first.

THESE COMPRISE the bulk of Mrs. Reaney's winnings. She does not claim to feed her family on contest prizes. In fact, she discourages anything but the hobby approach. What she wins are the extras that add up to a little luxury in the home. Her contest gleanings read off like a trading stamp catalogue and the variety pleases everyone in the family.

Her husband particularly enjoys his share of the prizes although he himself has no interest in contesting as a hobby. He has acquired various power tools to enrich his hobby of carpentry. The fishing rods and accessories Mrs. Reaney has won for him would please the most discriminating angler. The most thrilling prize, however, was the 16-foot boat she won as fourth prize in a national contest. That is the closest she has come to a top award, but secondary prizes are often less troublesome. "Taxes alone on the more glamorous prizes make them more a burden than a gift," she claims.

Aside from the challenge and excitement of contesting, surprise endings can add another pleasant touch. A local radio station contest offered the winner modest, but free, supplies of fruit and vegetables. Mrs. Reaney won, but the supplies were anything but modest. Instead, often throughout the year she could pick up huge 50-pound baskets of food—enough not only for her own household but plenty to share with neighbors and the families of her two married sons!

CHRISTMAS GIFT giving sags most charge accounts long into the New Year but stocking the tree creates new financial problems for the frequent contest winner. In fact, Mrs. Reaney's gift list created a reverse-twist situation. What to do when your supply of electric razors exceeds your supply of brothers, uncles, and nephews?

Winning small prizes doesn't leave her disappointed about the bigger ones that got away. The world cruise may have gone to someone with a better slogan, but she is still proud and satisfied to have won a trip to Las Vegas. She greets the phonograph records she wins with as much enthusiasm as she would any larger prize. "I can hear the postman coming half a block away," she says. "Never knowing what he may bring next is what makes contesting such an exciting hobby."

Mrs. Reaney accepts watch for entry in "Why I like Swiss-made watches" contest.

Her interest in contests developed quite by accident during an ordinary shopping trip to the supermarket. "Are you buying that brand of coffee for the label, too?" a stranger asked her. The woman, she learned, was an avid contest entrant. The unusual question led to a discussion of the consumer contest market and when they parted, Mrs. Reaney had accepted an invitation to attend a meeting that evening of a Los Angeles contesters' club. Neither woman won the coffee company prize but the chance meeting led Mrs. Reaney to many other successful entries and to the presidency of that club.

Contests which once were relegated to the side panel of a cereal box, today enjoy a deep respect as retail sales boosters for anything from aluminum shingles to never-fail rat killers. Heralded as a comparatively inexpensive form of advertising, the give-away contest and, incidentally, its associated product, always receive top priority display space in markets and store windows. Major corporations have found that profits in additional sales easily compensate for the nearly $60 million a year spent on consumer contests. Relying on the public's hunger for something for nothing, national contests lure millions to produce 25 words or less of sincere, original praise for soaps, dog biscuits, and breakfast cereals.

CONSUMER CONTESTS began as an advertising agency brainchild. Today they have become a business in themselves. Six national magazines devote their pages solely to contest information and self-help articles for the serious participants. Hundreds of clubs meet monthly to analyze contests, share helpful hints, and discuss mutual problems. Two correspondence schools have nationwide enrollment. For a tuition of three dollars a month the eager student may enroll for a 12-month course. The curriculum provides the winning techniques for every variety of contest giving each a thorough and comprehensive analysis. However, the schools offer no money-back guarantees.

While Mrs. Reaney has never gone to a school to learn the game, she has found her own successful approach to this national pastime. Read her advice before you accept the challenge to beat the odds:

"1. Don't get discouraged. Anyone with average intelligence, perseverance, and a product label can win.

"2. Contests are absolutely fair but each is judged by different standards. Find out on what basis your entry will be judged.

"3. Read the rules. Too many people skip over these. Thousands of entries are thrown away because contestants neglect to follow the rules.

"4. Take a sensible approach. Remember contesting is a hobby, not a livelihood."

Much like a good whodunit, the best part of the contester's hobby is the suspense of never knowing the ending. Will your jingle tickle the judges' fancy and if so, to the tune of how much?

Mrs. Reaney agrees that everyone loves to be a winner—even if only of a buffalo.

Mexican Mecca for Sportsmen

By Lee Craig

SWIFTLY GAINING STATUS as a favored vacation mecca for Southlanders is a magnificent, imaginatively designed resort hotel on the tip of Baja California, nearly 1,000 miles from Long Beach.

Part of the appeal to its Southern California visitors is the remoteness of the Hotel Cabo San Lucas, which is financially backed by a half-hundred of America's wealthiest men.

The hotel's soaring columns rise from the rocky slopes at the edge of the sea, where waters of the Pacific mix with those of the Gulf of California.

Lushly landscaped, the resort stands alone—except for a few permanent dwellings where its Mexican employes live—surrounded by desolate, cactus-studded hills. The nearest village, San Jose del Cabo, is 12 miles away.

MAIN MEANS of access to the hotel is by air, although an occasional yacht rides at anchor in protected Chileno Bay, which the resort overlooks.

A quarter-mile away is the hotel's 3,600-foot airstrip. Most frequent users are Southern Californians who fly their own aircraft down the long, desolate—yet picturesque—coastline from Tijuana. Others take airline flights to La Paz, then charter similar planes for the final 90 miles to Cabo San Lucas.

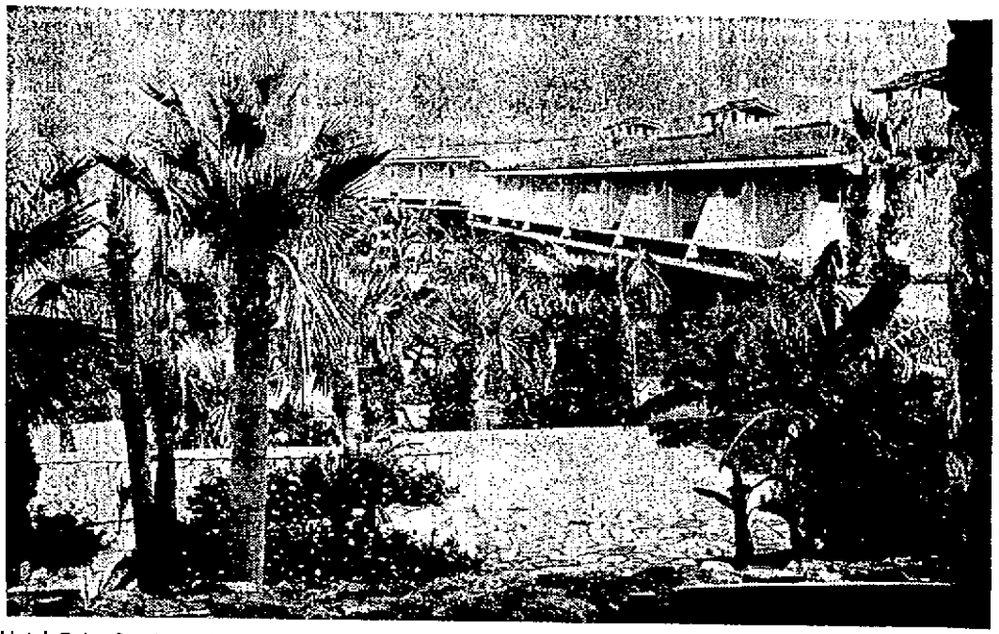

The resort recently bought a Cessna 182 from Larry Hunt, Long Beach Cessna dealer, to use in frequent pick-ups of guests at La Paz.

Since the hotel opened in April, its popularity has been assured. In several months, construction will be completed on a 30-room addition to the present accommodations for 36.

YET THE HOTEL exists only because of a half-serious remark at a party several years ago at the fashionable Los Angeles suburban home of attorney John Myers.

During the party, discussion got around to the lack of luxury resort hotels in Baja California, one of the most sensational fishing and swimming areas in the world.

Someone among the group—which included many of the Southland's wealthiest and most influential men—had an idea.

Hotel Cabo San Lucas is a remote fishing village and hunting resort situated on tip of Baja California, born of chance remark at meeting of influential Southland men. Above, view of living quarters, only top floor showing.

Why not build their own resort?

The suggestion met quick approval and Bud Parr, a retired Los Angeles investment broker, was elected to head the project.

Parr finally managed to obtain a lease on a four-mile strip of coastline, a mile deep, at the end of Baja California.

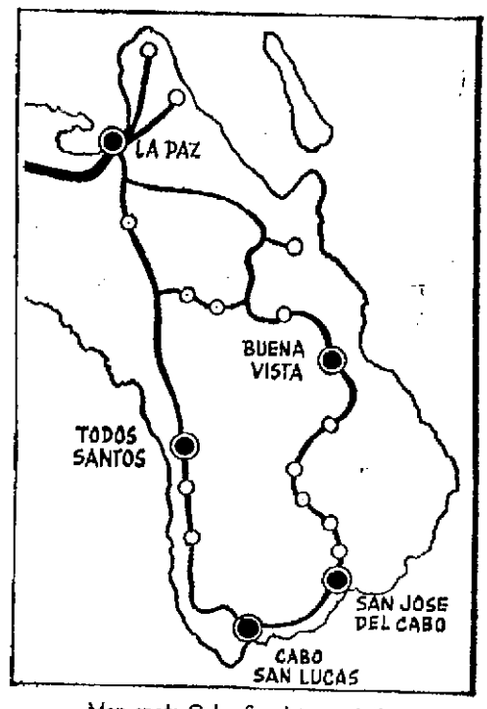

ONLY RUDIMENTARY roads served the area. Parr recruited workers at San Jose del Cabo and began building. Carpenters were imported from Manzanilla, sculptors from Guadalajara. Rock, cement and other supplies came from Ensenada by boat. A water well was dug and construction of the air strip was given high priority.

Dale Jeffries, retired Newport Beach naval architect, came down to supervise building of the hotel's fleet of fast, 31-foot fishing boats. Parr added to the resort's self-sufficiency by bringing in equipment to enable them to make their own gravel, cement pipe, tile, furniture and other products.

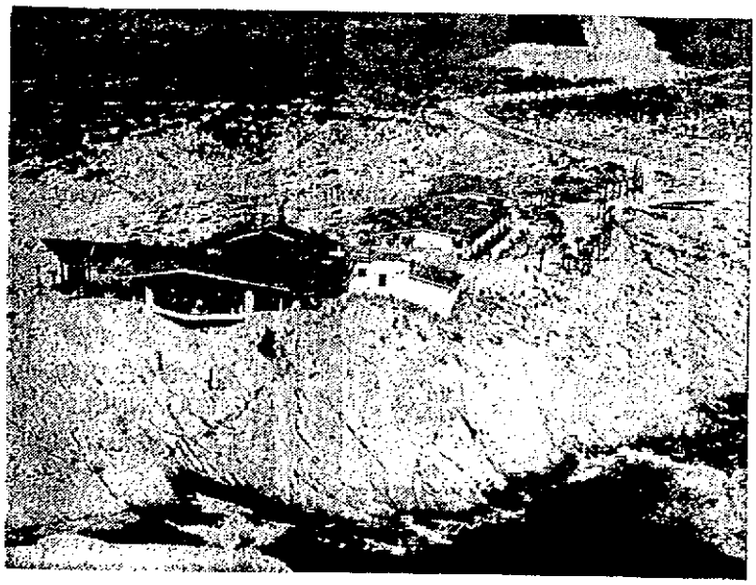

The construction went on for two years but when it was completed, Parr's backers were so impressed that several want him to build homes for them nearby. Among these are hotelman Baron Hilton and actor Kirk Douglas.

Fishing in the warm blue Pacific is unsurpassed. Marlin strikes have been made in less than five minutes from the bay. Dolphin, wahoo, lobster, shrimp and tuna are caught daily. For skindivers, the many varieties of colorful fish give the impression of swimming in a huge tropical aquarium.

Other sports available include hunting safaris for mountain lions, deer and big horn sheep and shooting expeditions for doves, geese, quail, ducks and pigeons.

Map spots Cabo San Lucas, at tip of Baja California, where wealthy Americans have built resort hotel.

Chief access to the hotel is by airplane and a landing strip has been provided nearby. View northward is from plane flying over Chileno Bay.

You Ask, We Answer

By Haskin

Q. In making a sundial, what is the best metal to use? J. T.

A. Bronze or gunmetal is generally used. Copper, aluminum, brass, silver, German silver, and most of the other common metals are subject to tarnish or oxidation, and in a short time the lines become indistinct. Iron rusts too easily to make a good sundial material. To avoid any possibility of electrolysis, the gnomon (straight-edged indicator) and any screws making contact with the dial should be of the same material as the dial.

Q. Is an angel named Abbadona mentioned in the Bible? S. Y.

A. No. Abbadona, a fallen angel who regretted his share in Satan's rebellion and reproved him for blasphemy, is found in Der Messias (The Messiah), an epic poem by the German poet Friedrich Klopstock (1724-1803). This poem, written over a period of 25 years from 1748 to 1773, does not reveal the ultimate fate of Abbadona, but implies that he was redeemed.

Q. Please give the "One I love" rhyme that children use in "counting out." F. S.

A. One version is: "One, I love, Two, I love, Three I love, I say; Four, I love with all my heart, and five, I cast away; Six, he loves, Seven, she loves, Eight, they both love; Nine, he comes, Ten, he tarries, Eleven, he courts, Twelve, he marries; Thirteen wishes, Fourteen kisses, All the rest little witches."

Q. How many calories are there in coconut? T. L.

A. A piece of fresh coconut 2" x 2" x ½" contains about 160 calories; a cupful of fresh coconut meat, shredded, has about 350 calories. A 4-oz. package of dried, shredded, sweetened coconut has 629 calories; one cupful of this has 344 calories. One cupful of coconut milk contains 60 calories.

Q. What was the capital city of the Queen of Sheba's kingdom? C. D.

A. Ruins of alabaster palaces at Marib, in Yemen, have led to the belief that this city may have been the Queen of Sheba's ancient capital. Yemen is the southwestern part of the Arabian peninsula.

Q. What parts of the body are susceptible to sunburn? E.P.

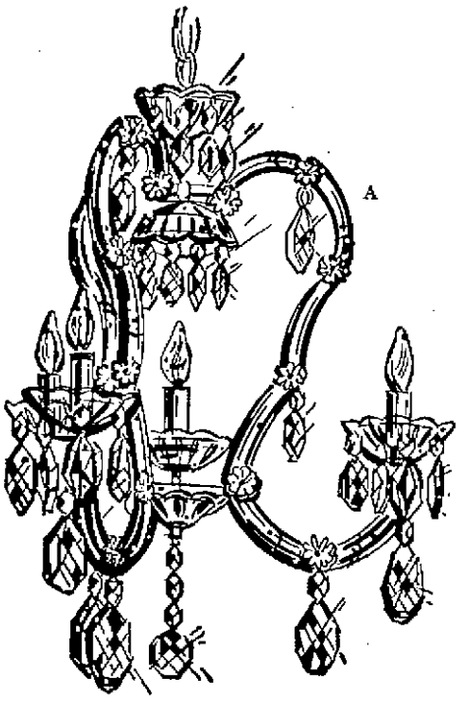

A. The face, the skin in front of the elbows, and the legs are more sensitive to burning than other parts of the body and need extra protection.

Remodeling has added value to this home nestled behind its pleasant landscaping.

Bar separates kitchen from family room, a new addition. Kitchen underwent changes.

SOUTHLAND HOMES

Remodeling Made It That Much Better

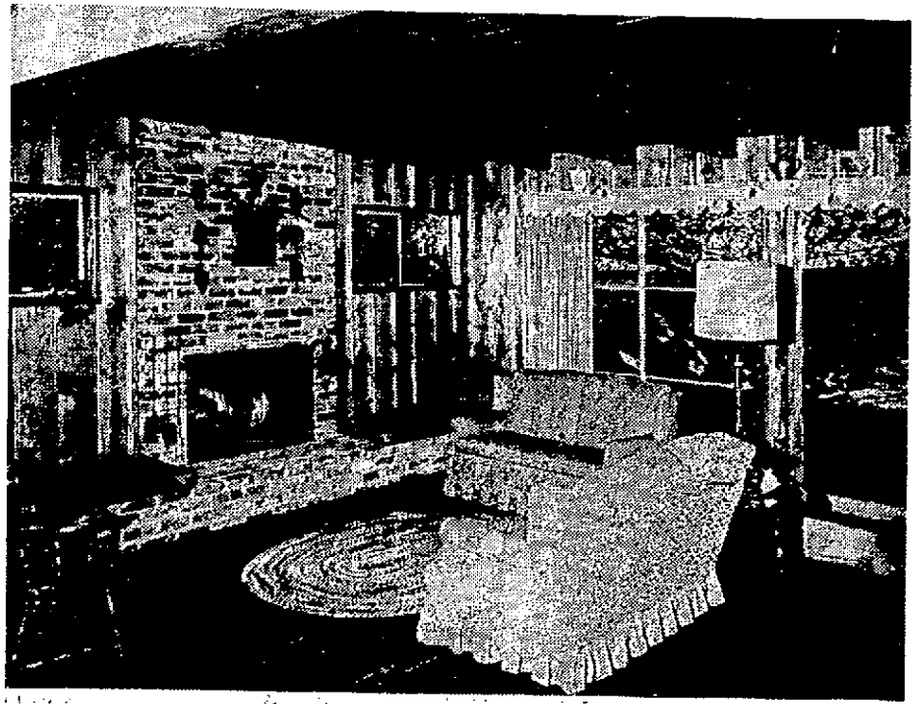

Good furnishings carefully placed give the living room of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Bronn a sense of spaciousness. The home has been extensively remodeled.

By Stella George

LIKE MANY knowledgeable home owners nowadays, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Bronn, 2794 Vuelta Grande Ave., liked their attractive tract home and its location and have customized it to their needs. Even before the remodeling, the home had many excellent features not always found in tract homes.

An entry hall leads directly ahead to the living room, to a bedroom at the right, and offers direct access to the kitchen. Major changes in the home consist of a complete remodeling of the kitchen and the addition of a large family room. The dining end of the kitchen has been remodeled into a desk area leaving the kitchen uncrowded and spacious. New built-in units lend a custom look to the room, and bright yellow tile makes it gay and sunny. The service porch area at the far end now opens into the kitchen and adds even more space.

THE FAMILY ROOM was added so expertly that it seeems like an integral part of the home, such as is found in an expensive, custom residence. Furnishings were chosen with excellent taste. A cozy corner has couches placed at right angles to each other before the used

Cozy fireside in the new family room is conducive to rest, relaxation and enjoyment of home life's pleasant informality— where guests may be made welcome, too.

An expanse of glass at the dining end of the family room looks out on the nicely arranged rear garden.

brick fireplace. The raised hearth provides seating area on either side of the fireplace itself. Knotty pine walls lend a homey feeling to the room, which is large, and there is an ample dining area with maple table and chairs placed near the kitchen. The open space above the sink, facing the family room, blends the two together. Items include a portable TV.

BLUE IS the color accent in the living room. Here the fireplace is more formal—of red brick, with a floor-to-ceiling bookcase at one side and draped window at the other. A handsome painting hangs above the couch. Furniture placement adds space to the room.

Interior decorating in the bedrooms was skillfully executed. Once again, blue is the color accent. In one bedroom the single bed is placed against the wall to double as a couch. A three-piece unit in one corner provides space for dressing table, chests of drawers, and work area. In another bedroom pale blue walls blend with the white carpeting. A white, wrought iron bed and white furniture add a feminine touch. The spacious master bedroom faces the garden in the rear.

Proof Lacking in Diet Claim

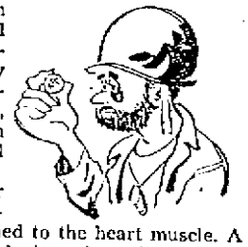

By Ben Zinser
Southland Magazine Medical-Science Writer

USE OF pregnancy hormone—HCG—in the treatment of obesity is questioned by the Department of Drugs of the American Medical Association.

A recent article in a popular magazine suggests that daily injections of HCG (human chorionic gonadotropin) can be beneficial in a weight-reduction program.

There is no scientific evidence to justify use of HCG in the treatment of obesity, the AMA asserts.

A TINY radio device that keeps a failing heart beating in normal rhythm is reported by three Florence, Italy, doctors in the journal Surgery.

A receiver coil is surgically attached to the heart muscle. A transmitting device, also miniaturized, is worn outside the body.

Most "pacemakers" now in use involve wires between power sources and electrodes implanted in the heart muscle. The wire connections sometimes result in failure of the device. One advantage of the radio pacemaker: the frequency of the pulse can easily be regulated.

AN AUSTRALIAN scientist questions the claim that the drug phenacetin, found in APC headache preparations, can cause dangerous side effects such as kidney damage.

In a news report in Medical Tribune, F. H. Shaw, professor of pharmacology at the University of Melbourne, comments: If the drug were dangerous, there would be widespread illness because of its wide use during the past 50 years.

In earlier reports, some Australian doctors contended that excess use of phenacetin resulted in 50 deaths from kidney damage.

The drug is now under intensive investigation both here and aboard.

AIRLINES have adopted uniform standards for carrying handicapped and ill persons.

Barred by all airlines: Persons with malodorous conditions, gross disfiguration, contagious diseases. Also denied transportation: Unattended persons unable to care for their own needs and individuals whose behavior might be hazardous to others.

AN OIL-IN-WATER emulsion, when added to bath water, often gives relief to patients with skin ailments, reports Dr. Alexander Borota of New York City.

The preparation, called Sardo, benefited 122 of 135 patients afflicted with various skin disorders.

Skin became softer, itch diminished and inflammation decreased, Dr. Borota says in the Journal of the American Geriatric Society.

The effect of one bath lasted several hours, he says.

CONNECTIVE tissue fibers of beef tendon have been used to fashion a yarn for the reinforcement of hernia repairs.

Buffalo University researchers say the substance is stronger than synthetic Dacron mesh and that it is absorbed in 80 to 120 days, leaving no foreign body imbedded in tissue.

THE BRITISH Ministry of Health now recommends, for safety's sake, that initial smallpox vaccinations be given during the second year of life—not the first.

CAPSULES: Two live-virus mumps vaccines are scheduled for testing among humans next year. . . . There's no evidence that drinking tea or coffee can cause stomach cancer or kidney tumors, the British Medical Journal says. . . . Fewer than one out of seven hospitalized psychiatric patients can pronounce all the consonants correctly, an Indiana researcher has found. Investigators are seeking the significance of the finding.

Luscious King crab meat may be enjoyed all year long in a variety of dishes—from appetizer to soup, through main dish to salad. Low in calories and high in energy-giving protein, the tender pink and white chunks of pure meat are ready to use as soon as they're thawed, and ask only for subtle seasonings and congenial liquid accompaniment.

You can plan superb menus around the King crab and sparkling beer and ale, beginning with an appetizer of thawed crab meat chunks served with a beer- or ale-flavored dip of mayonnaise seasoned with Tabasco, the zesty liquid red pepper. A delicious Crab Oriental casserole, quickly prepared, combines crab, frozen green beans, mushrooms, onion and celery in a sauce subtly tanged with beer or ale and spiced with Tabasco.

King Crab on the Menu

Crab Valerie presents the Alaska King crab blanketed with a savory Port Salut or Cheddar cheese sauce. A light, fresh salad mingling the flavors of crab, orange and grapefruit sections, sprinkled with a simple Tabasco French dressing. Simplest supper of all is broiled crab legs basted with a mixture of melted butter and Tabasco.

The giant Alaska King crab is found in the cold watery depths of 300 feet around the Aleutians, Bristol Bay, Kodiak and Sand Point, Alaska, and the Bering Sea. The body of the crab contains little edible material, but the claws and legs produce on the average 4 pounds of meat with excellent flavor and delicate texture. Only the prime male crabs are used, and the legs and claws are washed, trimmed, chilled, packed and frozen right on the fishing boats. Wakefield Fisheries' facilities, in full operation, can handle from 18,000 to 20,000 crabs a day, processing 60,000 pounds of meat. From the live tanks to deep freeze, the entire procedure takes less than 60 minutes, preserving the moist tenderness and delicate fresh flavor characteristic of Alaska King crab. The crab is packed for consumer use in 6-ounce solidly frozen blocks of meat and 12-ounce packages of split legs.

Light, refreshing beer and ale are the perfect beverages to serve with crab dishes so the delicate flavor of the fish may be fully savored.

Crab Valerie

2 packages (12 ounces each) frozen Alaska King crab legs
2 tblsps. Butter
2 tblsps. flour
½ tsp. Tabasco
1 cup milk
1 cup crab liquid
½ cup grated French Port Salut*

Defrost crab legs and drain thoroughly, saving the liquid for sauce. Remove crab from shells, slipping meat gently off the membrane strip. Clip membrane from shell with scissors. Cut crab meat into chunks, replace in shells, and arrange in shallow baking dish. Melt butter; gradually add flour. Stir in Tabasco, milk and crab liquid. Cook to a smooth sauce. Add grated Port Salut, stirring over low heat until cheese is dissolved and sauce is creamy and smooth. Remove from fire and spoon over the crab legs generously. Place crab legs under preheated broiler and broil until crab meat is hot and sauce is nicely browned (about 8 minutes.) YIELD: 3-4 servings.

*—If desired, ½ cup grated Cheddar or other cheese may be substituted for Port Salut.

Special Crab Bisque

3 cups skim milk (or liquified nonfat dry milk)
1 stalk celery, cut up
1 small onion
2 cloves
1 bay leaf
1 tblsp. butter or margarine
1 tblsps. flour
½ tsp. salt
½ tsp. Tabasco
1 package (6 ounces) Wakefield's frozen Alaska King crab meat
Minced parsley

Heat milk with celery, onion stuck with 2 cloves, and bay leaf; strain after simmering about 15 minutes. Melt butter, stir in flour; add seasoned milk, salt and Tabasco. Stir smooth and add frozen crab meat. Simmer over low heat until crab thaws and separates, stirring frequently. Sprinkle with minced parsley as served. YIELD: 4 servings.

Memory's 'Secret'

By Harry Karns

Education Research Associates

QUESTION: What is the secret of a good memory?
ANSWER: William James, the psychologist and philosopher, wrote a brilliant answer to that question in his "Principles of Psychology."

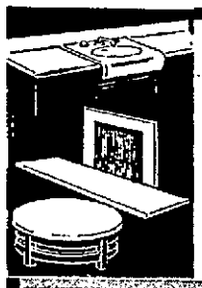

The "secret," he said, is to think about a fact as much as possible.

A football player who can't remember his class work may perform astonishing feats of memory on the gridiron, memorizing intricate plays and signals to perfection. He goes over these things in his mind, thinks about them, weaves them into a system. They are not just so many odd facts, but a concept that means something to him.

"In a system," James points out, "every fact is connected with every other by some thought-relation. The consequence is that every fact is retained by the combined suggestive power of all the other facts in the system, and forgetfulness is well-nigh impossible."

He adds then a paragraph which I find valuable enough to quote almost word for word and which every parent should read and explain to his school-age children:

"THE REASON why cramming is such a bad mode of study is now made clear. I mean by cramming that way of preparing for examinations by committing 'points' to memory during a few hours or days of intense application immediately preceding the final ordeal, little or no work having been performed during the previous occasion, for one purpose, cannot possibly have formed many associations with other things in mind. . . . Speedy oblivion is the almost inevitable fate of all that is committed to memory in this simple way. Whereas, on the contrary, the same materials taken in gradually, day after day, recurring in different contexts, considered in various relations, associated with other external incidents, and repeatedly reflected on, grow into such a system, form such connections with the rest of the mind's fabric, lie open to so many paths of approach, that they remain permanent possessions. . . . Of course there is no moral turpitude in cramming. If it led to the desired end of secure learning it would be infinitely the best method of study. But it does not; and students themselves should understand the reason why."

Cottoning-up to a couple of canines was easy for Cozy, a kitten, ready for a cat nap here with Samoyed, Blizzard.

PET PARADE

Cozy Takes a Lickin'

By Eleanor Avery Price

EVERY ONCE in a while someone will quip, "Don't you ever get tired writing about animals and how to take care of them?" Frankly, I never do. But I also like the funny, sunny side of pet life. So when I heard about Blizzard and young son, Rogue, two snowy white Samoyeds, being disturbed over the family's new snowy white Persian kitty, Cozy, because, although it was properly white, it meowed and did not smell properly doggy, I hurried to see their owner, Mrs Verla Davis, 8514 E. Compton Blvd., Paramount.

I was just in time to witness the two dogs giving Cozy a little assistance in making her more worth while. And Cozy was learning the lesson that now and then a cat must content itself with pleasing the dogs and that there are times when the better part of valor is abject surrender. Besides, a sandpaper-tongue lickin' was all that Cozy needed to make her one of the gang. A dog can overlook meowing, but an un-dog-like smell, never!

SANTA ANA Valley Kennel Club will have a sanctioned match Jan. 20 at the fairgrounds in Costa Mesa.

One thing, though, Cozy had to get used to a dog-licking, as is demonstrated here by Blizzard's son, Rogue.

ENTRIES close Wednesday for the Cal Coast Cat Club show in Long Beach Municipal Auditorium Feb. 16 and 17. Entries may be registered and reservations made for a luau planned by the club by telephoning Mary Niemi [illegible] 699[illegible]

LA REINA RULE

WHAT YOUR NAME MEANS

Send your name to La Reina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif., for origin, meaning and brief genealogy, for reply only in this column.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please explain O'HARA.—Mrs. E. M., Long Beach.

E.M.: — O'HARA is from the Gaelic Irish clan O'Heaghra, translated as "sons of the precise, methodical one." The ancester was Eaghra, a famous leader of Luighne in County Sligo, Ireland, who died in A.D. 926. Since the 1300s the Clan O'Hara has been divided into two branches, O'Hara Buidhe (Yellow O'Hara) and O'Hara Riabhach (Brindled O'Hara). Both family lineages were dispossessed of their land by the English in the 1600s. The ancient O'Hara shield is green, decorated with a black rampant lion standing on a vertical gold stripe with serrated edges.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give data on TEAGUE.—Mrs. B.T., South Gate; D.T., Lakewood.

B.T., D.T.: TEAGUE is an Irish surname. The uniquely talented ancestor was Taidgh whose name meant "the poet." His descendants, the Clan O'Taidgh, lived in Derry, Thomond, Wicklow and Connaught in the Emerald Isle. Tadhg O'Taidgh was Bishop of Killaloe in the 11th century. The old Gaelic name was modernized in the 1500s to O'Teige, Tigue, Teague and Tighe. The family shield has a diagonal blue stripe between three blue crescents on a silver background.

DEAR MISS RULE: What is the origin of BUSTAMANTE. — Mrs. J.S., Lakewood.

J.S.: BUSTAMANTE, a Spanish name, has an unusual significance, meaning "large-chested man with a cloak." This described a forefather who wore a short cloak of striking colors. The family shield is gold, emblazoned with thirteen blue circular spots. Anastasio Bustamante of Spanish ancestry was an early 19th century president of Mexico.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give genealogy on SORRELL. —O.S., Torrance.

O.S.: SORRELL was taken from the old English word "Sorel" a nickname meaning "redhaired man." Ancestors include John Sorel of Oxfordshire in 1273. The Sorrell coat-of-arms has two ermine-covered lions on a red shield.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give genealogy on FALKENBURG or VALKENBURG. — E.S., Long Beach.

E.S.: FALKENBURG and VALKENBURG are Dutch names commemorating the famed, impregnable fortress once owned by this old family. The original name Van Valkenburg, translates as "from Falcon Castle." This family's coat-of-arms was granted at Haarlem near Amsterdam, Holland. Their shield is gold, emblazoned with three red castle towers, each with a symbolic black falcon above it. In the center of the shield between the towers is a large red castle.

Will Japan Turn Her Back on America?

By Vera Williams
Southland Magazine Book Editor

ON THE NIGHT of May 19, 1960, Japan's parliament, the Diet, was besieged by a mob of more than 150,000 rioters. Within, a parliamentary battle raged, in which jeers and heckling gave way to a physical struggle for control of the speaker's chair.

The origin and future significance of this explosion form the core of James Cary's "JAPAN TODAY: RELUCTANT ALLY" (Praeger, $4.95). Cary, for six years an Associated Press correspondent in Japan, witnessed the night of violence and the month-long struggle that followed.

The governmental chaos, triggered by the scheduled ratification of the U.S.-Japanese Security Treaty, cast grave doubt not only on the solidity of our mutual ties but, more important, on the effectiveness of Japan's role as a link in our Cold War defenses in Southeast Asia.

If Japan, the most industrialized of our allies in the Pacific, again should be paralyzed by conflicts between right and left, labor, militant students, pacifists, might she then turn her back on the United States and make common cause with her ancient neighbor Communist China?

To this sobering question, Cary provides informed answers, illuminated with sketches of Japan's leaders in politics, universities, labor unions and industry. He reaches far into Japan's past for the roots of conflict, as well as analyzing the effects of the war and the American occupation on the social, economic and intellectual life of Japan. Thus he draws a portrait of 94 million people "rushing down a road whose direction no one can foresee."

Cary, who since October 1960, has been assigned to the Washington, D.C., bureau of the Associated Press, is a son of Mrs. Ruth F. Cary, and brother of Miss Ruth Lee Cary, both of 161-B Corona Ave., and brother of Clinton B. Cary, 6503 Belen St. His son, James Christopher, was born in Long Beach in 1949. For years the writer and his family have vacationed in Long Beach.

CARL SANDBURG

"Honey and Salt" is the title of a new volume of poems by Carl Sandburg, published on his 85th birthday by Harcourt, Brace & World ($4.95).

FRANK BUCHMAN, founder of Moral Re-Armament, was a 20th Century revolutionary with a message as old as human nature. He drew his conception of Moral Re-Armament from his American heritage — and it grew with a force which has healed hostilities, settled bitter disputes and successfully challenged communism on many fronts in Asia, Africa and Latin America.

In "FRANK BUCHMAN'S SECRET" (Doubleday, $2.75), Peter Howard, British author-journalist who worked closely with Buchman for nearly 20 years, reveals with insight and humor the secret that made Buchman's life significant.

MAX LERNER means his "THE AGE OF OVERKILL" (Simon and Schuster, $5.95) to be a preface to the politics of today's world. He polemicizes that world politices, in the classical sense, is kaputt, fini. Wars, he says, are no longer waged, nor is peace made, to bring about a balance of power. World politics must now transcend the power principle.

Lerner considers power clusters and power centers, calls communism a political religion, and gives the emerging "undeveloped nations" a thorough examination. Thought-provoking, if not always convincing.

King Kalakaua, merry monarch of the Hawaiian Islands, laid foundation for the 50th state.

Merry King

was a companion of the Prince of Wales in London.

AS KALAKAUA watched folk dances in many lands he realized that Hawaiian customs should be preserved. Hula dancing, forbidden since the early days of the missionaries, was made legal and revived by his edict.

Like so many of his countrymen, the king was a good musician. Many of the beautiful songs he composed reveal his love of nature and of country. When Kamchameha V was ruler he asked young David and Lilio Kalakaua to write a national anthem for Hawaii. A week later "Hawaii Ponoi" was in the hands of the leader of the Royal Hawaiian Band, ready for arrangement.

Music was one bond between the pale thin poet, Robert Louis Stevenson, and the sturdy brown ruler. A love of fun was another. Unfortunately few pictures were taken of the King. One of him and his poet friend sitting under a hau tree in Stevenson's yard would be a treasure. The King played a guitar and the poet a flageolot. They also sang together in this favorite spot, and no doubt planned the antics that amused the King's subjects.

KALAKAUA also liked splendor. The only palace standing on American soil was built for him. At the first gala social event, a dinner given for 100 of his fellow lodge members (he was a 33-degree Mason), he christened the palace Iolani, a sacred Hawaiian word meaning Bird of Heaven. Today Iolani Palace is the State House.

There is a saying that all visitors either return to California or long to. Two years after Kalakaua's historical first visit the king returned hoping to regain his health which had failed alarmingly. The jolly man who loved travel, people, music and the country he ruled for 17 years died Feb. 12, 1874, in the land that 85 years later would welcome his country as its 50th state.

Glassmaking History in Goblets

By Helen Gillum

FINE OLD GLASS goblets owned by Mr. and Mrs. Joe H. Scott, 1710 McKenzie St., portray an important period in glassmaking. Numbering about 135 in all, the old drinking vessels display a wealth of favorite patterns and designs from American glass houses from the 1830s through the 1870s and later.

Since the Scotts are partial to goblets made of flint glass, their 65 items of this category are particularly outstanding. A typical example is a flint glass goblet from the 1830s in the Giant Sawtooth pattern. Although it could easily qualify for the title of the "unprettiest" item in the entire collection, it is noteworthy because it is revelatory of America's earliest attempts at both flint (lead-content) and pattern-pressed glassmaking. Thick-stemmed and very heavy, the series of faceted diamond forms projecting from it are huge and crudely shaped. Small bubbles and imperfections are visible in the body, but it is a good illustration of some of the wares that emerged from Enoch Robinson's newly patented "pressing machine" in 1827.

Beauty and antiquity are represented in this selection from the glass collection of Mr. and Mrs. Joe H. Scott.

JUST AS interesting is a frosted Thumbprint, a flint glass goblet from the 1830s, of which there are believed to be only four in existence. The bowl, stem and pedestal are made in three separate pieces in the "pressed on" manner, a term which describes the method of pressing handles and other forms separately and attaching them to the pressed bodies while hot. The object of the "frosted" effect in much early glass was twofold—to add beauty to the piece, and to cover any imperfections.

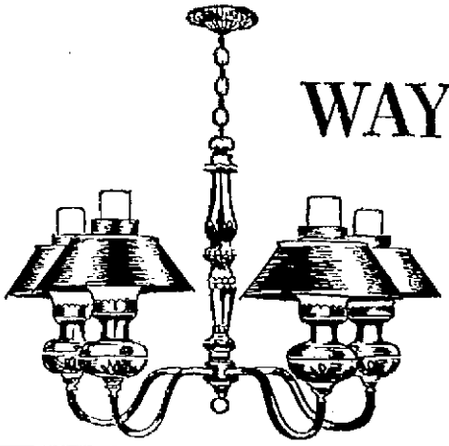

The rarest flint glass goblet in the collection is one of 1860 with Morning-Glory pattern, from the Sandwich factory. Other rare ones include two "Chilsons" from the 1860s, this pattern being named after a Mrs. Chilson, glass fancier and collector of that time. Additional patterns in the flint glass are Bull's-Eye with Wishbone, three Bull's Eye with Diamond Point, and two Horn of Plenty.

MAGNET and Grape with Frosted American Shield, and Magnet and Grape with Frosted Leaf are good examples of the frosted technique. Many of the goblets are exceptionally beautiful in their crystal clearness and smoothness of texture, the result of the "fire-polishing" technique developed in the late 1800s. All the goblets "ring" with varying bell-like tones in the manner of good flint glass.

Pretty and unique is a pair of 1860 "Mercury Glass" pieces. Many of such elegances (also known as "Boston silver glass) were made in the 1850s and the 1870s. The interior of thin, double walls of flint glass were coated with mercury in a chemical process similar to that used in silvering mirrors. The glass object was then sealed so that the mercury could not tarnish.

A beautiful, gold, iridescent Aurene goblet by Steuben and an overlay are art glass pieces. Three non-flint pattern-glass goblets of the 1880s in a rare blue color are in the Wildflower, Diamond Point, and Fine Cut and Block designs. The Scotts also have representative pieces of purple slag, custard, carnival, milk glass and French Bristol.

LOVELY GEISHAS wrapped appropriately in silken kimona, stroll along a portion of the famed Silk Road, the ancient route extending from Europe through the Middle East to the Orient—once traversed by Marco Polo. This road, which leads to the most exotic trading ports in the world, reopened recently when Japan Air Lines extended its present Japan-Bangkok service on to Calcutta, Karachu, the sheikdom of Kuwait, Cairo, Rome, Frankfort and London. Further service connects London with Tokyo by way of the North Pole.

Doodling

produce your own garden, or your house and grounds, or a ship at sea, in which you might build up waves, using plaster of Paris as a base. A photograph of yourself, your husband or child, using actual jewelry, real cloth for clothing, a simulated book (or racing form) for your husband's picture, with a real tie pin, real beard--this is accomplished by throwing sand in his face (only on the picture of course).

THE PICTURE shown is a marine scene. The person for

Beautiful effects, using dried or artificial flowers on velvet backgrounds, have been created by the author. One of the exhibitors at the Festival of Arts at Laguna Beach this year had similar plaque. He used great bunches of flowers, making use of lace paper doilies with delicate effect. However his decorations did not have a glass cover and most of us would shudder in horror at the prospect of these dust covered gems, come mother-in-law visiting day.

THE PICTURE shown is a marine scene. The person for whom it was made has many colors in the room in which this picture is to be hung. Tiny bits of color will reflect the room decor, but the background of real beach sand has a soft harmonizing movement. Now to the method.

Take several layers of newspaper. Lay on flat surface. Picture shown was created by this step-by-step procedure: The cut cardboard was covered with a paste made of flower and water, with an addition of about a teaspoon of glue. Sand was tossed into this mixture. A bronze spray can was held in the right hand, while the left rotated the sand strewn cardboard, to give a wavy look to the background. At this point the author also sprayed the picture frame with bronze.

Next, the dried weeds were glued on. The ceramic fish was centered at highest point of glass where there was the maximum amount of room for clearance. Household cement was used to affix the soft plastic fish and the mermaid. A few wooden curls made by planing a piece of wood were cemented for air bubble illusion. Raw rice and bits of washed, inner peeled egg shells were stuck about on the lower quarter. A green glass bottle was broken and crushed. The medium sized pieces were also applied with glue. On the left side a long stem of artificial vine, with small shell-like artificial flowers, was sewn on in three places, through the cardboard back.

SPARKLE IN three colors was placed at interesting spots with a light spread of cement. Cotton was thinned to a weblike thickness and arranged sparsely. A piece of white net, scalloped at top, was placed over the lower quarter of the picture, by stapling in four places. A few flat shells and bits of pearl stones completed the plaque. Cutting a thinner piece of cardboard to cover the entire back, gave it an added support and it was ready for delivery.

One last word: Keep placing glass over surface as you add odds and ends, before gluing. You will find that the curved glass will accommodate only so much bulk. Be careful to not push any material against glass from underneath, as any movement against the glass from outside could scratch or break it.

Happy doodling under glass!

Adjustabed IN SICKNESS AND IN HEALTH

introduces a new concept to comfort in bed... by special positioning

The Adjustabed raises the head and back into many comfortable positions.

The Adjustabed lessens the burden of care of those attending to patient needs.

The Adjustabed can be used for reading or relaxing with television.

The Adjustabed brings relief to backache sufferers when a bedboard is recommended.

The Adjustabed comes to the aid of mothers when their children are ill.

The Adjustabed is an adjustable bedboard providing comfort in sickness and in health.

In sickness, it offers patients many of the advantages of a multi-positioned hospital bed as well as certain psychological benefits. The sickroom atmosphere, often present when using a hospital bed, is avoided. The Adjustabed, because it operates with a standard bed, does not disturb the home setting. The patient is comfortable in his bed and in his surroundings.

In health, the Adjustabed is ideal for just watching television, reading, or relaxing in bed.

By placing the Adjustabed between a standard mattress (innerspring, hair, felt or rubber) and spring, the Adjustabed makes your bed into a many-positioned bed. The Adjustabed, 85 x 74 inches, will fit any single or three-quarter size bed and will function with a double bed when occupied by only one person. It folds compactly to 85 x 37 inches; it weighs 35 pounds.

Coming Up: A Fair in the Desert!

By Fred Taylor Kraft
Travel Editor

Girls in Oriental costumes will pose for photographers at Indio's National Date Festival, February 15-24.

IF YOU PLAN a trip to the desert in the next few weeks, as thousands will, jot down the dates of Feb. 15-24 on your calendar.

That is the time of Riverside County's National Date Festival — one of California's most unique fairs — at Indio.

This event stems from exactly what its name implies —dates. Ninety-five per cent of the country's dates are grown in the Indio locality. The annual output is more than 40 million pounds.

But there is much to see in addition to the exotic date (and citrus) displays on the 84-acre fairgrounds.

First, of course, will be the greeting of Queen Scheherazade and her court of 10 fetching Arabian princesses. And each night for the duration of the fair will be a free attraction, the Arabian Nights Pageant, a drama combining music, dance and mystery and set on an authentic Arabian stage. The cast of 150 will wear costumes valued at more than $35,000.

BUT THAT'S only a starter. Another free attraction will be a gem and mineral show, advertised as the largest in the West.

Also scheduled is a national horse show each afternoon, with camel and ostrich races as intermission events.

A Palm Springs Antique Car Club exhibit will include 18 cars of 1903-26 vintage, and sand dunes buggies.

A trailer show will encompass 11,000 square feet, complete with professional patio landscaping.

In addition, of course, will be a midway and thousands of exhibits in a complete Arabian setting — Far Eastern architecture, brightly striped tents, swaying date palms, costumed fair personnel, and elephants, camels and Arabian horses.

ALL OF THIS, of course, poses a field day for photographers, and fair officials have arranged for the costumed girls appearing in the various shows to pose at 2:30 p.m. each day around the big Arabian Nights stage where the setting is exotic.

The surrounding date gardens and picturesque desert canyons also offer pleasing possibilities for shutterbugs.

Indio is located 25 miles east of Palm Springs and 30 miles north of the Salton Sea.

OTHER LATE January and February events in the desert include:

The 22nd annual Palm Springs Rodeo, Jan. 26-27. The movie colony is always well represented in the audience.

Palm Springs' fourth annual Golf Classic — Jan. 30-Feb. 3 — with its $50,000 added purse and a $50,000 cash prize for any pro who makes a hole-in-one. Participants usually include such stars as Arnold Palmer, Gary Player and Jay Hebert, and such celebrities as Kirk Douglas and Jerry Lewis.

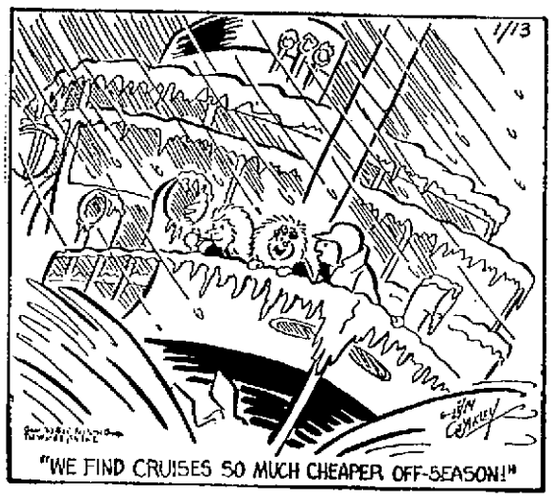

YOSEMITE National Park had its greatest year in 1962. The visitors numbered 1,505,496, surpassing the previous record, set in 1961, by 278,386. One of these visitors was President John F. Kennedy.

Factors contributing to the increase were the heavy snowfall last winter, the warm April-May weather which caused the famed waterfalls to run much fuller than normally, and an influx of easterners bound for the Seattle World's Fair.

M. K. GUERTIN, 4217 E. Ocean Blvd., for years secretary of the nationwide Best Western Motels chain, pretty nearly takes over the current issue of Tourist Court Journal. His picture appears on the montage cover and inside is a five-page interview with him by Doug Cochran, editorial director of the magazine.

If you travel by family car, and want to know all about this highly successful motel chain, write for your copy (35 cents) of the January number of Tourist Court Journal (306 E. Adams Ave., Temple Tex.).

No Hotel Worry

Late-arriving travelers to the cathedral city of Reims, capital of the Champagne country, no longer need to worry about hotel hunting. From 7 p.m. throughout the night, a new electronic push-button board at the Reims railroad station does the job instead.

By merely pushing the button next to the name of any Reims hotel, the board lights up the number of available rooms at that moment. A quick call to the hotel then confirms the reservation.

Around the World With

DELAPLANE

"Could you give us approximate costs on going to Hawaii? Any ways to keep expenses within reason?

THE ROUND TRIP jet from the West Coast is $250. But if you're willing to do nine hours by piston plane (instead of four-and-a-half by jet), you can get it down to $200.

"For a family, I'd get a price on the Matson Navigation Co. (San Francisco) cruise ships. More than air fares, of course, since you eat and sleep four days, five nights. But it's a most pleasant, relaxing run to the islands.

There's a combination fare so you can fly home.

Highest hotel prices are those right on the beach. Stay a couple of blocks away and you'll cut it in half. The outer islands are cheaper than Waikiki. Air fares won't bother you much. The longest run is one hour.

The small costs that mount up: Room service has an extra charge most places and a 75-cent minimum. (The children order a Coke. Bingo, 75 cents. Send them across the street.) Exotic tropical cocktails are full of pineapple sticks and have romantic names. However, they come at $1.50 a smash.

Leis from the lei seller stands OFF the main Kalakaua Boulevard are half or a third what they are in the hotel flower shops.

There are a number of small restaurants a block off the boulevard. Same price differences as on the leis.

". . . what place you like best in the islands outside Honolulu?"

MY personal preference is Kauai, a half hour flying time from Honolulu. I've been going out to Hanalei Bay, almost to the end of the island. The new Hanalei Plantation House is on a hill overlooking the white sand beach and bay where they made the picture "South Pacific."

People living in the islands think the island of Maui is the coming country. Sheraton should have their new big hotel open there this year.

". . . can you get to the South Pacific islands easily from Hawaii?"

Easily, but until air fares are lower (by increased traffic), expensively. The 2,500 miles from the mainland to Hawaii is $250 round-trip. But the same distance to Tahiti is $500 round trip.

Well worthwhile if you can afford it. Or if you can stay long enough to prorate the travel cost over a number of days. The route is flown by South Pacific Air Lines of San Francisco and the French line TAI.

"Where do we go to learn the hula when we go to Hawaii. . . ?"

Free lessons in the hotels. Mornings for guests at Hilton Hawaiian Village. Afternoons for guests of all Sheraton hotels in the banyan court at the Moana.

". . . what the good buys are?"

The Waikiki beach area is full of all sorts of things from all over the Pacific. Not all inexpensive. But the best overall shopping selections.

Some of them are: Woven planters' hats with seashell bands from Tahiti. Kimonos, dolls and zori sandals from Japan. Life-size toy koala bears from Australia. Cream grassy hula skirts from Bora Bora. Carved ivory from Hong Kong.

The BEST buys are probably island-designed and island-made casual clothing — sport shirts, slacks, bathing suits, muumuus, sport dresses. Great selection and very reasonable prices.

". . . resent your story that you cannot get shirts back from London laundries."

Sorry you resent it. Sorry I couldn't get the shirts.

". . . we found prices were fixed, one-price in Hong Kong. So why do you etc."

They're fixed if you only ask once.

Going Places

By SHIRLEY and BOB SLOANE

AMERICA is a remarkable country, what with journeying more than 5,000 miles over land and water, and never getting out of it. And it was a remarkable journey for us to Hawaii, seeing that we scarcely heard a word of American all the way.

"Good awfternoon," spake the captain, an airman named Bird, as we left New York. "We'll be floying at thuhty-foive thaousand feet, pawsing over Chicagao, Ioawa, Oamaha and Coloradao to San Franciscao."

It was a familiar pitch but we felt as if we were hearing it for the first time, like being in the right church but the wrong pew. The reason was that we were making this trip —ultimately to take us to the South Pacific and Australia— on Qantas, the airline with the misspelled name that is one of only two (neither American) permitted to fly across the United States on its way around the world.

QANTAS stands for Queensland and Northern Territory Air Service. If you didn't know those places are in Australia, you would have known whose international airline this was from Captain Bird's accent. Or else the pictures of Sweet Scented Wattle, Narrow-leaf Bottlebrush and other unlikely flora decorating the cabin walls of the 707 jet.

This unlikely airline befits the unlikely land of kangaroos, boomerangs and wattles, a place which needed air service long before we did. As a result, the airline reputedly was the world's first. It was also the first non-American line to operate the big jets, and the first of any flag to run them across the Pacific. That's a pretty progressive record for a country with only 10,000,000 inhabitants to push things along.

THE TRIP was a gratifying lesson in the wonder of America, and not just in terms of its size. The Australians aboard clucked wonderingly at the sights we are dangerously close to taking for granted—the towers of Chicago rimming the oceanic expanse of Lake Michigan, the endless farms of the plains, the rock formations of the desert and the majesty of the Rockies. The stewards lectured patiently and knowingly about the charms of San "Franciscao" while serving kangaroo tail soup and Australian burgundy seven miles above Des Moines.

By the time we were having lunch on the terrace of the Royal Hawaiian next afternoon, the plane and its passengers were in Sydney — wines, wattles, kangaroo tails and all. And we mused on how time and space are becoming even closer relatives in this ever smaller world.

Paris at Gayest

All over Paris, the house lights are dimming and the curtain is going up on the City of Light's new — and, many say, greatest — theatre season. Among the plays scheduled this year are Robert Dhery's hit "Branquignol," starring Colette Brosset, Louis de Funes, and Christian Duvaloix.

"Branquignol" will play at the Varietes Theatre, while Robert Soulat's "Baby Foot" will be at the Theatre de Poche. "Mic-Mac," at the Palais Royal, "La Maison d'Os," at the Theatre de Lutece, and "Turlututu," at the Theatre Antoine are among the nine other comedies and musicals opening in Paris this fall.

Tips on Gardening

Garden tips for this week: Plant perennials now for bloom in spring and summer. Delphinium, primroses, coral bells, candytuft, columbine and Shasta daisy are but a few of the many available.

Plant bareroot roses this month and start pruning old roses.

Be sure to keep Christmas gift plants watered. An occasional airing on the back porch or by an open window will benefit most of them also.

Plant artichokes, asparagus and several other vegetables from seedling flats this month.

Make your first planting of gladiolus as soon as they show up in nurseries. Some are already on the market.

Move 'Em Now

Winter is the best time to move most shrubs and trees. If you have any that are in the wrong spot, take shovel in hand and start digging around the roots. Most shrubs will stand bare rooting this time of year, but they are really better when you can take a sizeable root ball with them.

YOUR GARDEN

New Vegetables for the Garden

All-America Selections for 1963 go to Greyzini summer squash (top left), Buttercrunch lettuce and Hercules squash; below, Executive snapbeans and Emerald Cross cabbage.

ALL-AMERICA Selections for 1963 offer five new home garden and local market vegetables as the best of their kind to date.

These are high quality, prolific home garden varieties. They are good to eat and, except for the winter squash Hercules, should be picked at tender stage of growth, just in time to serve or to prepare for dinner.

Buttercrunch lettuce, Emerald Cross cabbage, Hercules squash, Greyzini summer squash and Executive snapbeans are the All-America winners.

Only one other vegetable introduction has merited award in the past three years, Just Right turnip. It is the first hybrid turnip, excellent for its uniform white bulbous roots of fine-grained quality and its abundant foliage for succulent turnip greens.

BUTTERCRUNCH lettuce, developed by Dr. G. J. Raleigh of Cornell University, is of highest eating quality, much larger heading and more heat tolerant than Kentucky Bibb, and a couple of weeks slower to bolt to seed. Leaves are thick, crisp and juicy, deep rich green in color except as blanched inside to creamy yellow or white.

Emerald Cross cabbage is a true hybrid, developed in Japan. With exceptional hybrid vigor and uniformity, it is also extra early to mature its medium small heads, firm, round and perfect in appearance.

Hercules is of the most popular Butternut type of late or winter squash. But, it is much larger, thicker fleshed and with a straight solid neck. The vine is more vigorous. The seed cavity is very small in the blossom end. Hercules is highly productive, almost all solid flesh of fine texture and top flavor. It needs about 82 days for maturity.

GREYZINI summer squash is a grey Zucchini type, a true or F1 hybrid, generally earlier, slenderer and with a longer cylindrical or cucumber shape. It is more uniform and a heavier bearer on more vigorous bushy plants. Both skin and flesh are tender and of fine texture in its eating stage. It must be used three to eight days from the time its blossom drops.

Executive bush snapbeans brings further improvement and productivity to the Tendergreen type bean, most popular of all. Tendergreen won the AAS gold medal in 1933. Executive has darker green, full round pods of good length, slightly curved with rather long points. For home gardens, pods should be picked when young and tender. Also, small successive plantings should be made twice a month to keep up the supply for the full season.

Cassias Deserve a Place in Sun

Lush foliage and bright yellow flowers assure cassias of being noticed where the sun shines in the garden.

By Joe Littlefield

WHAT'S happened particularly to the so-called Hawaiian Candle bush? A few years ago they were highly advertised, now its hard to find them at many nurseries.

This cassia alata shrub provides a tropical effect, a rather coarse growth that eventually reaches 12 feet. The shrubs deserve spots in sunny garden areas because the upright heads of showy blossoms of vivid yellow, almost cylindrical in form, give the impression of candles—hence the common name candle bush. The flowering season is long.

Cassia artemisiodes, called feathery or wormwood cassia, grows to about five feet, stands cold down to about 30, even 20 degrees above zero. The gray-green, short, needle-like foliage presents a graceful effect. The yellow, cup-shaped blossoms in winter are quite fragrant. The shrub needs a sunny location and doesn't like wet feet.

HERE'S an easy way to have orphan areas of sunny back yard colorful and showy for late winter into spring: Soak the soil well and a day or so later, scratch it up as if to sow grass seed. Instead, sow baby blue eyes, or Virginia stock, or dimorphotheca the annual African daisy mixed colors of yellow, white, orange, salmon, nemesia, or linaret, the miniature snapdragons.

The best way to spread the seeds evenly is to mix the seeds with some manure in a water bucket or some similar container. In sowing the manure tends to separate the seed so you don't have it too thick in one spot, bare or thin in other areas.

Rake lightly after sowing the flower seeds. Keep moist till young plants are up about an inch. Water as needed thereafter.

Rose Field Day

How to plant roses correctly will be an added feature of the annual rose pruning demonstration field day at 1:30 p.m. next Saturday at Los Angeles County's Descanso Gardens, 1418 Descanso Drive, La Canada. The public is invited. Ample free off-street parking is available and 1,500 bundles of cuttings of old-fashioned roses will be distributed free to visitors after the demonstration.

"Scotty" Raitt, Descanso rosarian, will plant bare-root roses in the All America Rose Garden and will answer questions by visitors. A panel of rose growers, including Joe Littlefield, Independent, Press-Telegram garden writer, also will be on hand to answer inquiries. C. E. Jones, president of the Pacific Rose Society, will demonstrate his new method of mist propagation of rose cuttings, and society members will man 12 pruning stations.

THIS IS A PERFECT BLOCK . . . the kind we use to construct perfect blockwall fences; why don't you be a perfect angel and call in today for a free estimate.

PAZO lets you be active in comfort

Research finds new fast way to shrink hemorrhoids without surgery

Recent research reveals fast new way to shrink hemorrhoid tissues, stop pain and itching—all without surgery. It's a combination of six modern medications in one complete formula! The Pazo Formula.

NEW, RELIABLE RELIEF. Pazo is the only leading formula with these six active ingredients to shrink and soothe hemorrhoid tissues. Research shows this new combination brings symptomatic relief even to long-time pile sufferers.

CLINICALLY TESTED BY DOCTORS: Pazo actually proves to do more than just shrink hemorrhoids. It also relieves pain and itching promptly, fights infection, promotes healing, and lubricates membranes.

1 out of 2 women suffer from P.M.T.*

but don't know what's wrong

*Pre-Menstrual Tension may be an unfamiliar term to many women, but its symptoms are very familiar. In the week before periods, the body accumulates excessive water, then bloating, pressure on nerves and organs result, causing tension and discomfort. Now, in Pamprin Tablets, medical science offers an effective, yet simple relief. Pamprin safely removes the excess water from the body, thus easing tension. Irritability, emotional upsets, "nerves" are wonderfully calmed. Pamprin will not disturb the normal period — contains no hormones, narcotics or harmful sedatives. Get Pamprin at your druggist . . . before your next period.

To every woman who uses vinegar for that certain "intimate" problem...

For the fastidious woman, science offers a special formula for personal feminine hygiene. Instead of vinegar (acetic acid) or harsh germicides, modern women suggest a new powder expressly for douching. It's called V.A. Powder—gentle, effective, pleasantly scented...and wonderful to use.

When mixed with water, each V.A. Packette makes exactly the right strength of a soothing, refreshing douche. It gently soothes, cleanses delicate tissues—can leave you poised, confident, sure.

Instead of old-fashioned vinegar or germicides, try new pleasantly-scented V.A. Powder. Available at all drug counters in convenient "packettes"—each one pre-measured to take the doubt out of feminine hygiene.

Windows With a View
WAYNE SHARP

BY DAY, the winter air is clear as crystal, lacking the haze and smog of summer. By night, the view through windows overlooking the ocean is a spectacular heaping of color, with the lights of Palos Verdes looming like a gorgeous Christmas tree.

Sit by those windows at the excellent Pierpoint Restaurant on Pierpoint Landing and whether it's night or day you'll see an endless stream of sights. Boats of all descriptions—tankers, cruisers, fishing vessels and yachts—go slowly past, their masts tall against the sky.

THE VIEW itself should be enough to delight anyone. But Wayne Sharp, proprietor of the Pierpoint Restaurant, gives his patrons much more. Each morning he visits the fishing boats docking near by and purchases fish as fresh as tomorrow. Among the delicacies currently in season (and priced remarkably low) are fresh albacore, caught off Mexico; fresh lobster from Catalina and San Clemente Island waters; Catalina sea bass; oysters, fresh from Maine; large shrimp and Alaskan king crab. The latter is offered cracked on ice, in a salad or as crab Newburg.

The prices for those beauties range from $1.60 for the rich albacore, baked, grilled or broiled, to $1.80 (that's no misprint) for the lobster. The oysters, giant tender shrimp and crab are $2.25. All include soup of the day, salad, fine baked potato, French roll or Italian twist roll.

The restaurant's International Room cocktail lounge gets its name from the interesting personalities who gather there, including French, Belgian, British, Canadian and Italian officers and men from ship in port.

BERT'S EYE VIEW

Pulsating Pin-Ups Greet Fleet

By BERT RESNIK
TV and Radio Editor

The girls on the dock gaily waved as the Navy ships pulled in to Long Beach Naval Shipyard and tied up.

The sailors, like good, healthy sailors should, waved back.

The girls were gorgeous.

For a sailor who had never before been in California, this truly was Hollywood-on-the-docks.

This truly was a land where pin-ups—gorgeous, gorgeous, gorgeous — were made with pulsating life instead of being slick-paper, fan-magazine pictures for shipboard locker adornment.

As they waved, the sailors envied.

They envied the shipmates for whom the pin-ups were waiting.

But the truth is that it was a rare sailor for whom the gorgeous girls were personally waiting.

The Navy boys disembarked and, suddenly, envy evaporated.

* * * *

FOR WHERE there stood a lonely sailor — and there were plenty standing lonely — there hurtled a beautiful girl into his arms to hug and kiss him.

For some of the younger salts, this back-to-earth reception was just a little too sweet.

They ran from the girls like a school of fish fleeing sharks.

But most of the sailors, like good healthy sailors should, readily cooperated. And as they obligingly returned the hugs and kisses, the Navy men thanked the good fortune that had brought them into a port where pin-ups were made with pulsating life — and all for them.

All for them, that is, until a megaphonic voice shouted, "Cut!"

* * * *

CHESTER MORRIS leaned back in his chair and laughed.

"The girls pulled away from the sailors like the five o'clock whistle had just blown," he said.

"Some of the sailors—poor kids—almost fell flat on their faces. They never did understand."

What was to understand was that a movie, "The Devil's Playground," was being made. It was a movie that required a scene where the returning fleet was greeted by an abundance of pulchritude.

To acquire that abundance, the movie's producers hired about 100 of Hollywood's most beautiful starlets and models, then convoyed them down to Long Beach for the scene-shooting.

"That was in 1948 ," said Morris, "the first time I was in Long Beach. I was with Richard Dix and Dolores Del Rio. We stayed here a couple of weeks."

* * * *

THIS TIME Morris was in Long Beach for a television drama, the "Alcoa Premiere" play, airing 10 p.m. Thursday on channel 7.

It features Morris as the manager of an arena and the Long Beach Arena was used for the filming.

Morris much prefers filmed or taped television to live TV.

"Let me tell you how it used to be with live television," he said.

"Take, for example, 'Studio One.'

"On dress rehearsal night, we had a half-hour before airtime in which to supposedly relax.

"Well, at 25 minutes to 10, the public address system would come on and a mournful voice would say:

"'Twenty-five minutes to airtime.'

"The same voice would give you the count-down every five minutes. Then, at a quarter of 10, the voice commanded:

"'Cough. Cough now.'

"At 10 minutes to 10 the voice said:

"'All visitors will please leave.'

* * * *

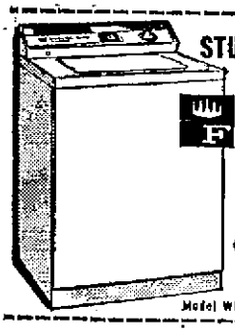

"AT 5 MINUTES to 10 you were hoping the warden and chaplain would come in, walk you down the last mile and throw the switch so you wouldn't have to go on.

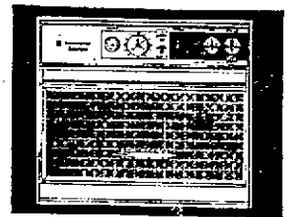

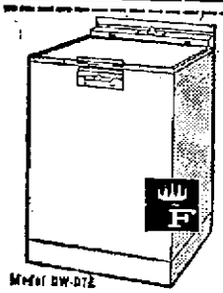

"Just about that time along comes the cameraman and solemnly wishes you, 'Good luck.'

"I tell you that once you were on it took 10 minutes to get the cotton out of your mouth you were so scared."

Jay North 'Very Warm in Spacesuit'

By WILLIAM D. LAFFLER

NEW YORK (UPI)—Young Jay North, television's "Dennis the Menace," knows exactly how Astronauts Scott Carpenter and Wally Schirra must have felt when their spacesuits became overheated.

Jay spent three uncomfortable hours in a real Mercury capsule while Screen Gems was filming sequences of a "Dennis" show which CBS will televise Sunday (today, 7:30 p.m., Channel 2). In this episode, Dennis dreams he is orbiting the earth.

"It was very warm in the spacesuit," Jay said. With great pride, Jay noted that his spacesuit is identical, except for size and electric wiring, with that of the seven astronauts.

This orbit episode was filmed after Jay had been designated "Junior Astronaut" by the U. S. Treasury Department in a drive to get school children to buy savings stamps.

JAY NORTH
Orbits Tonight

Jay is enthusiastic about his role as young ambassador for the Treasury Department.

* * * *

"OTHER school children can become junior astronauts by buying savings stamps," Jay said. "And they will be doing something for their country, too."

On television, Jay is a curious child who innocently creates problems for his blustery neighbor, "Mr. Wilson."

While Dennis the television character is somewhat of a menace, real-life Jay North is a well-behaved, good-mannered young lad.

Jay was just beginning his grammar schooling when he was selected to portray Dennis.

Once Jay became a Sunday night television fixture, he no longer was able to attend school. Now he receives his education from a tutor on the studio set.

"I have to study at least three hours a day because California's education laws are tough," Jay said. "I'll do a scene and then study with my teacher and then go back and do another scene. But I must complete three hours of study every day."

This rigid law applies even when Jay is traveling. A tutor accompanies him.

'Perry Mason'

Raymond Burr is on-camera an estimated average 90 per cent of each "Perry Mason" show on the CBS Television Network.

WIGS

Throughout this month you may buy your wig directly from me at wholesale and save from $60.00 to $90.00.

Every January I make my wholesale prices available to the public for the one month and permit each individual woman to have a wig at exactly the same wholesale price that beauty salons and wig salons pay me during the rest of the year when they buy a dozen or more at a time.

My wigs are all one hundred percent pure European human hair of virgin cutting and are made by the proudest and most experienced wig makers in France and Germany. There are no better wigs anywhere at any price. They come uncut and unstyled ready to be fashioned to your own good taste by your own hair stylist.

Shop around first and then compare these prices: German or french in dark ash, strawberry, copper, auburn, mink brown, dark brown, sable and black $88.90. (The average retail price for these wigs is $150.00. You save $61.10)

Light platinum, regal platinum, silver beige and platinum beige $93.85. (The average retail price for these wigs is $165.00. You save $71.15.)

Champagne beige, salt & pepper and light ash $98.95. (The average retail price for these wigs is $190.00. You save $91.05.) All prices plus 4% California sales tax.

By definite appointment made by telephone you may select your wig in the privacy of my home in Bellflower, purchase the wig on the spot and take it right with you at the time. No waiting. Appointments available from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. 7 days a week during this special offering.

January is the only month of the year during which you can get a wig at wholesale so it is suggested that you not delay too long. $88.90 — $93.85 — $98.95.

RELAX

Whirl away the exciteme nt and cares of everyday living in billows of warm, turbulent water with a

Jacuzzi WHIRLPOOL BATH

Many common headaches and sleepless nights are the result of everyday tension. The stress and strain of modern living frequently cause back and neck muscles to tighten . . . causing pain and edginess.

Hydromassage usually provides the relaxation needed to ease pain caused by tension. The forceful, moving water filled with bursting air bubbles is the kind of pleasant massage most people enjoy after a busy day. Whirlpool warm water massage relaxes muscle spasm and stimulates local blood circulation where applied.

If you suffer tension headaches . . . can't sleep at night — Relax. You should try a Jacuzzi Whirlpool Bath in your own home bathtub. This pleasure can be yours immediately — perhaps tonight.

Want the facts? Want to spike rumors? Want to learn the truth about prominent personalities? Write Walter Scott, PARADE, 733 Third Ave., New York 17, N.Y. Your full name will be used unless otherwise requested. Sorry, the volume of mail received makes personal replies impossible.

A. Yes, he has booked Maurice Chevalier for a one-man show, will in the future book others.

Q. "The First Family" record album which pokes fun at the Kennedys—isn't that an invasion of Presidential privacy rights? — Mrs. Robt. Quinn, Rahway, N.J.

A. As a U.S. President, John F. Kennedy and his dependents have practically no privacy rights.

Q. Has Antonio Ordonez, the great bullfighter, retired? How old is he?—P. Keller, San Diego, Calif.
A. Ordonez, born in 1927, recently announced his retirement in Lima, Peru.

A. Yes, it shortly goes off CBS-TV.

Q. Bill Leyden of the TV show First Impression wore an eye patch for some time and then removed it. What happened? Does he now have a glass eye? —B. L., West Chicago, Ill.
A. Leyden's eyes are both his own. He was once hit in the left eye by shotgun pellets while hunting and recently underwent corrective surgery which saved the sight in the injured eye.

Q. Can I find out how much profit was earned by these two Paramount films: Escape to Zahrain with Yul Brynner and Hell Is for Heroes with Steve McQueen and Bobby Darin?—M. Smith, Baltimore, Md.
A. Both films will lose a fortune, possibly a million each.

A. He does, and plans are in the works for Fontaine to cut an album of the songs he does on the Gleason show.

Q. Did Fidel Castro recently "sit" for his portrait by an American artist? If so, who is the artist?—Mavis Corbally, Akron, Ohio.

A. Josef Diftler, now living in Majorca, who does portraits on velvet and numbers Princess Grace and Albert Schweitzer among his subjects, was commissioned to paint Castro. Castro, however, would not sit still, so Diftler followed him on official engagements but took so long to complete his task that Castro dismissed him without remuneration.

Q. *George Abbott, the stage director, has had three hits on Broadway this season—*A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum, Take Her She's Mine and Never Too Late. How old is Abbott?—Grace B., Chicago, Ill.
A. Abbott is 75.

Q. To whom was Pamela Mason married before she became Mrs. James Mason? — Helen Winston, Miami Beach, Fla.

A. Her first husband was Roy Kellino, film producer, who divorced her 24 years ago in a suit in which James Mason was named as corespondent.

Q. Can the Cuban refugees in the United States apply for citizenship through the special dispensation of President Kennedy? — Thomas York, Pueblo, Colo.
A. Most of them are on IVDS (indefinite voluntary departure status), making them ineligible at this time for U.S. citizenship.

Q. I read that Elizabeth Taylor is going to make another film with Richard Burton called The V.I.P.'s. Isn't she stupid to do this, especially if The V.I.P.'s is released before Cleopatra*? —Lawrence Kelleher, New Hyde Park, N.Y.*
A. Since Taylor owns 7½ per cent of the Cleopatra profits, she might be reducing her own net. No doubt by competing against herself she will detract from the Cleopatra casting chemistry of Burton-Taylor.

'I turned against Red China'

by JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON, D.C.

LATE LAST YEAR, a frightened, exhausted Chinese Communist security officer named Chao Fu knocked at the door of the American Consulate in Frankfurt, West Germany, and asked for political asylum. He told an astonishing story of growing disillusion and despair over Red tyranny, a daring escape by night in a car stolen from the Chinese Embassy in Stockholm and an agonizing decision to abandon his wife and child, who remained in China as hostages.

At first, intelligence officers could scarcely believe him. But a careful cross-check confirmed that not only was Chao Fu telling the truth—he was also the most important Chinese defector ever to fall into American hands. Now under the wing of Chinese Refugee Relief here, he declares through an interpreter: "I am alone in a strange country whose language I do not speak. I have cut myself off, perhaps forever, from my wife, my child, my native land. I made my choice after six months of painful soul-searching. Yet I know in my heart that my decision was the right one." Here is Chao's story as told exclusively to PARADE.

Chao Fu was born February 3, 1935, the third son of Chao Lien-sheng, a peasant who didn't even own the land he worked. They lived in a remote mountain village, a cluster of weathered adobe huts, in eastern Manchuria. Their home had windows of greased paper, a raftered roof for a ceiling, no floor except the hard ground. Every inch of usable land was cultivated, every wisp of grass saved. The inedible straw was woven into baskets and sandals. Even the family sewage was hoarded, to fertilize the soil. Just to survive was a triumph.

New Father for Chao

Many failed to survive; an epidemic left Chao fatherless when he was 11. The following year (1947), Communism took over Manchuria and became his foster father. Chao had shown unusual intelligence and was selected for a special education at a military academy in Changchun.

After a three-year course, Chao was commissioned a second lieutenant in the Public Security Force, which is responsible for internal security. In 1959 he became a platoon commander at Chia Mu-szu detention house, not far from the Siberian border. Here, seeing the degradation of the political prisoners, he began to have his first doubts about Communism.

Back in his village, his widowed mother, following the age-old custom of her people, began to look around for a wife for her successful son. She sought a healthy girl who would bear her strong grandchildren, and finally settled on Chia Su-hua, the daughter of a neighboring family.

By Western standards, it was a strange romance. Chao had never set eyes upon his bride when he applied for wedding leave, and the courtship was to last only 17 days. But first he had to secure the Communist Party's consent to his marriage. Party officials were not enthusiastic. They saw nothing in the girl's background that would make Chao Fu a better Communist, and it was with some reluctance that they finally gave their approval.

Chao tingled with excitement as he went to his first blind date with Chia Su-hua. At first blush, she didn't strike him as beautiful. But there was something in her shyness and gentleness that attracted Chao Fu. For the next 17 days, they walked and talked a great deal. Once they hiked 12 miles to the movies in Shuang-Yang, the nearest town.

Then they were married. By the standards of old China, it was a bleak wedding: no palanquins for bride and bridegroom, no streamers, no gongs, no feast. Conditions in the commune, to which the little village belonged, were too austere for a celebration.

Chao Fu and Chia Su-hua simply appeared before a local Communist official, bowed three times to a photograph of Mao Tse-tung, then fixed their "chops," or seals, to the marriage papers. Afterwards there was a better-than-usual family dinner. Bride and groom had time for a week's honeymoon before Chao had to return to his post on the Siberian border. Three months later Chia Su-hua joined him, and in May 1960 a daughter was born. They named her Mai-hwai (Plum Blossom).

Chao now speaks with hurt in his eyes of the love and happiness they shared. They were cut short in June 1960, when he was summoned to attend the Advanced People's Police Cadre training school in Peking. There were no accommodations at the school for his wife and baby, who returned to their village.

The following October, Chao was assigned as security officer to Red China's embassy in Stockholm. He was granted a 10-day farewell leave with his family, who were forbidden to accompany him. Not even the Security Police are trusted outside of China by the Communist authorities unless their families remain behind as hostages.

Chao Fu caught a rickety bus to Shuang-Yang; his wife, carrying the baby, trudged the 12 miles from the village to meet him. "The sight of them," Chao recalls, "caused my heart to burn." They did not kiss or embrace—in China, it is bad form to display emotion. But as they walked home through the mountains, Chao broke the rules by insisting on carrying his daughter. In China, women haul the burdens.

A Chance to Compare

For the next eight days the young couple enjoyed a second honeymoon. They knew they would be parted for three years, but their sadness was mixed with a sense of adventure. Chao was going to see the great outside world and contrast the achievements of Communism with the decadence of capitalism. The days passed in a dream of excitement. Gentle Chia Su-hua was unable to conceal her pride in her husband.

When they trudged the 12 miles back to the bus station, Chao Fu once again carried his little daughter. His wife's parting gift was a package of handkerchiefs, especially treasured in China because they are used close to the face. Through the bus window Chao watched his wife approach and lift the child to the window. It was a gesture he understood, a gesture which said: "We belong to you; come back to us." He could see the tears welling in his wife's eyes; indeed, he had to fight back his own tears. They turned away from each other, and the bus rumbled down the dusty road. Neither of them knew it, but the journey to heartbreak had begun.

Chao Fu had not been in Sweden long before he began to doubt. He had been told to expect gangsterism and poverty, infinitely worse than the hardships at home. But what he was able to observe belied the education of a lifetime. "I could see the Western workers enjoyed luxuries beyond the rosiest Communist promises," he reports. "They also had something

Now living in the U.S., Chao Fu works for Chinese Refugee Relief, which is headed by Mrs. Claire Chennault (L).

I began to realize was more important: Freedom."

The reality of what he saw sent his thoughts reeling. He would lie awake at night comparing life in Sweden to life in China. "We were not free to speak, to travel, to change jobs—not even to have our own thoughts," he declares. "Suddenly I was struck with the realization that Communist leaders suppressed all freedom because they didn't trust the Chinese people."

The idea of defecting began to flicker like a flame in his mind. At first he refused to admit the thought was there. Then he began to grapple with it, to weigh the terrible cost, all the while not daring to speak a word that would betray the turmoil in his soul.

As officer in charge of internal security, he kept watch on all employees except the ambassador and a few senior officers. Except for them, no one could leave the embassy without signing in and out, reporting where they were going and when they would be back. They could only go out in pairs. They were forbidden to associate with the Swedish except in the line of duty, forbidden to attend plays and movies.

Mail from home came once a month, carefully censored, in a diplomatic pouch. Chia Su-hua wrote mostly about the growing up of their little daughter, how one of her first words was "Papa," which means the same in Chinese as it does in English. The letters hinted of hardships and hunger at home. Other employees received outright appeals for food. The embassy chef, Hsiung Chang-shui, received a letter from his wife in Nanchang, telling of the hunger of his five children. "Poor Hsiung burst into tears in front of us all," recalls Chao. "But there was nothing we could do for him."

Such incidents added to the dissatisfaction that was wrenching his soul. "I found my anger rising against the falsehoods of Communism," he says. "But I knew the dangers to myself and my family. I wanted freedom, but I kept wavering."

A sudden development made him realize that he must act at once or forever forfeit the chance to escape. The ambassador announced that because of the tense international situation, a new "convoy system" would be put into effect. Employees would have to stay in groups, and surveillance would be tightened. Even Chao would lose his privilege of solitude.

The night of decision came last August 29. It was Chao's last chance to slip out of the embassy, and he planned his moves carefully. He would wait until everyone was asleep, seize one of the embassy cars, then drive as far and as fast as he could.

The car pool had Swedish, German and American cars; he decided an American model would be the most dependable. Unobserved, he sneaked into the storage room where the car keys were kept and stole the keys to a black Chrysler.

That night in the room he shared with another comrade Chao Fu tried to appear casual. He slipped his savings, a pitifully small amount, into his pants pocket. Then he carefully arranged his clothes on a chair. He crept into bed and lay rigid and tense until long after his roommate had dozed off.

Shortly after 3 A.M., he decided it was time to go. He put on his pants and shirt, struggled into a coat, grabbed a tie and thrust it into a pocket. Then, in stocking feet, shoes in hand, he stole down the stairs and into the garage. "I felt as if eyes were watching me from the dark," he recalls. "I imagined that the night noises were people following me."

As he slipped behind the wheel of the black Chrysler, his heart thumped with panic. What if it didn't start? But he turned the key; the motor purred smoothly. Chao Fu drove off into the night. It was not until he had put several miles between him and Red tyranny that he realized he had left behind one of his most treasured possessions: a picture of his wife and child.

On Foot and by Rail

Out in the country Chao abandoned the Chrysler and walked miles through the woods. Then he took to the railways, traveling here and there, sleeping in waiting rooms. He was afraid to ask for asylum in Sweden or Denmark in case the authorities handed him over to the Chinese Communist embassies in those countries.

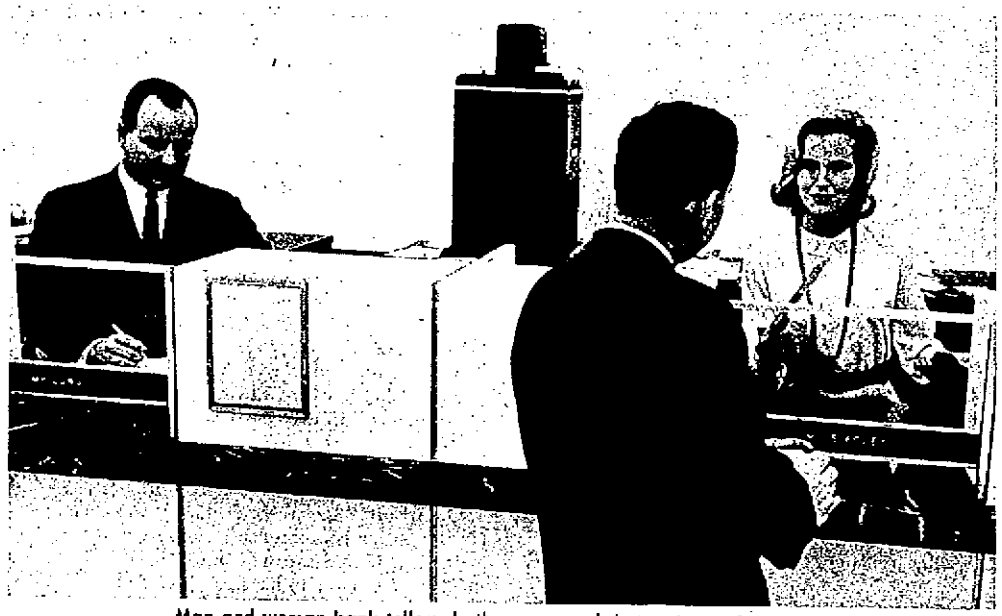

Says Chao Fu: "Not until I reached West Germany did I feel safe. I got to Frankfurt and headed straight for the American Consulate." Flown to the United States, he now lives here incognito. He is an editorial consultant to a newsletter published by Chinese Refugee Relief, reporting what is going on behind the Bamboo Curtain. (A year's subscription is given to all who donate $10 or more to Chinese Refugee Relief, care of the Postmaster, Washington 13, D.C.)

"I haven't made up my mind about the future, but I want to do something meaningful and don't want to be a soldier or a spy again," says Chao.

He had last heard from his wife in July. She wrote that little Mai-hwai had just learned to walk. The letter ended with a tender line reminding him that "it will be only one year before we will be together again." He knew this would never come true, and the thought so agonized him that he didn't trust himself to write a good-by letter. He feared he would betray his feelings or tip off his plan to defect. Instead, he sent her all the money he had saved, except the few bills he needed to get out of the country.

Chao doesn't dare write to his wife now. "It would only bring her harm," he says. "Yet I hope to find some way to get a message to her. I would like to urge her to forget me, to consider me dead, to remarry. Of course, it would be wonderful to get her out of China, but this is as impossible as it is impossible for me to go back. But some day, when China is free, I will go back and find my daughter.

"What I did was not easy," he adds. "Many might say the price I paid was appalling. Yet I would do it again." For the air of freedom is a heady wine, especially for one who had never tasted it.

Man and woman bank tellers do the same work but their pay is unequal.

OPEN TO DISCUSSION

Why are women paid less?

by LLOYD SHEARER

FOR YEARS THE LEGEND has persisted that women run America.

Countless statistics have been offered to prove that they buy most of the goods, own most of the stock, inherit most of the wealth, dominate most of the husbands, control most of the vote.

That's the propaganda line, anyway.

The truth is that economically, politically and legally the American woman is far from emancipated.

True, she has the vote, but in many of the most important fields she is subject to strong discrimination. This is particularly true in the area of employment.

Since the early 1830s for example, the little woman has been trying to secure federal legislation assuring her the same pay as men for equal work. To date, she's been unable to get it.

Last year, even with the solid support of the Kennedy administration, women failed to get an "equal-pay" bill through Congress. The House passed one version of such a bill and bucked it along to the Senate Labor Committee, but there it stayed in limbo until Congress adjourned.

That bill would have prohibited an employer from discriminating on the basis of sex in paying wages to men and women who perform equal work.

Although equal-pay laws are in effect in 22 states, employers discriminate against women in almost every business, industry and profession you can think of.

In Dallas a male bank teller gets $91 a week, a female bank teller is paid $63. In Chicago a male clerk-typist gets $60 a week, a female clerk-typist $55. In Kansas City a male hotel clerk is paid 40 cents an hour more than his female counterpart. In Buffalo a male physical therapist gets $91 per week. For the same work, his female counterpart gets $81.50. In St. Paul a male X-ray technician is paid $71 per week, a female $66.

In a recent survey of more than 1,900 employers, the National Office Management Association reported the following question and answers:

"Do you have a double standard pay scale for male and female office workers?"

YES	33 per cent
NO	66 per cent
NO ANSWER	1 per cent

Not only do banks, insurance companies and large mercantile houses discriminate against the woman employee, she is also discriminated against in the professions. According to the Bureau of the Census, the average earnings of men professional workers in 1960 was $6,848; for women professional workers it was $4,384.

Among women the most popular profession is teaching. In October 1961 there were 1,258,000 women and 533,000 men teachers in elementary and secondary schools. Yet a National Education Association study of salary schedules showed higher rates for men than for women in 16 out of 761 reporting school districts.

Why are many employers reluctant to pay women the same wages as men?

A mail questionnaire survey conducted by two university professors, Lola Dawkins of Arizona State University and E. Lanham of the University of Texas, indicates that the factor of permanency is involved. Several personnel executives contend that women aren't worth as much as men in the same job because they don't stay on as long. They leave because of marriage, pregnancy or other personal reasons. Replacements then have to be brought in and trained at new expense.

Other employers believe women are marginal workers who labor for pin or luxury money and just don't take their work as seriously as men. This allegation raises to boiling point the blood pressure of Mrs. Esther Peterson, director of the Women's Bureau of the Department of Labor.

"I sure get irritated," Mrs. Peterson declares, "when I hear such nonsense as that women are marginal workers, or too emotional, or working for pin money. There are 4,600,000 women working in this country who are the sole support of their families. There are another 7,500,000 married women working because their husbands earn less than $3,000 a year. These women aren't working for pin money. They're working because they have to."

At the moment there are more than 24,000,000 women in the U.S. work force, one-third of the total. The largest occupational group, comprising 6,400,000, do clerical work. Those who are in the professions are concentrated in the following six fields: teaching, social work, nursing, music, library work and accounting. In most professions they play second fiddle to men.

Closed-door Policy

American women are bothered not only by unequal pay for equal work but by the wholesale denial of opportunity in such varied fields as religion, banking, insurance, architecture, hotel management and many others.

The majority of churches decline to place any woman in the pulpit. A woman hotel manager is a rarity. Four out of every five hospital employees are women, yet how many hospitals boast a woman superintendent? There are no top echelon female executives in the automotive field, and what insurance company has a top-rung female officer?

American women also play a disproportionate role in politics. They may control 52 per cent of the national vote, but there are only 2 distaff members in the Senate and 17 in the House of Representatives.

The girls are the first to admit that John F. Kennedy is "one of the best-looking Presidents we have ever had." They are happy that he established a commission on the status of women to make a study of discrimination. "But how come," one asks, "he's the first President since Herbert Hoover not to have a woman in his cabinet?"

The women are also quick to point out that while the U.S. Constitution does not discriminate against them in legal rights, several of the individual states do. In Alabama, Mississippi and South Carolina, women may not serve on juries. Other states declare that no married woman can start a business without the written consent of her husband. There are further inequities which combine to transform today's "emancipated" woman into a second-class citizen.

It is against these inequities that modern woman is currently rebelling. To her the oft-repeated allegation that American women rule the roost is so much hogwash. She is convinced that a double standard exists for salary, legal rights and job opportunities and she's determined to legislate it out of existence.

At the next session of Congress, an "equal pay for women" bill may pass and become the law of the land.

It may well be that 43 years after the 19th Amendment gave them the right to vote, American women will stride forward on the road to true emancipation.

MEDICAL MIRACLE— A PAPER BAG

BY DR. HERBERT L. HERSCHENSOHN

A HOUSEWIFE who had been taking medicines for a heart condition for seven years was rushed to a hospital because of severe chest pain. She was given an ordinary small paper bag and told to hold it tightly around her nose and mouth and to breathe into it, rebreathing her own breath over and over again. Within a few minutes the chest pain was gone.

A bride of just three weeks was giving an outdoor barbecue party for some of her friends. She observed her husband having an animated conversation with one of the girls. Jealous and infuriated, she ran into the house. A few minutes later her mother called to the husband to get a doctor quickly. His wife was having a heart attack.

One of the girls at the party was a nurse. She took an empty potato-chip bag and held it over her friend's nose and mouth. In only 30 seconds the chest pain was completely relieved.

Too Much Oxygen

These and similar cases were reported at an Annual Assembly of the Interstate Postgraduate Medical Association at Cleveland. Although none of them resembled each other exactly, they have one thing in common—a condition known as hyperventilation.

This is what happens. For some reason, usually emotional tension or excitement, a person breathes too fast. Normally a person inhales oxygen and exhales carbon dioxide. But when he breathes too rapidly he gets rid of carbon dioxide faster than he can absorb oxygen. Consequently, the red blood cells retain the oxygen. To make matters worse, the blood supply to the brain is reduced up to 50 per cent.

Fainting Helps

The person becomes lightheaded. Fainting is nature's way of curing the attack, since an unconscious person breathes at a slower rate. Also the prone position permits more blood to reach the brain.

However, if a person does not faint or lie down, lack of oxygen in the brain, together with certain chemical changes in the blood, can cause symptoms so bizarre and frightening that even a physician may, at first glance, think the person is having a heart attack, a stroke, a seizure or a gallbladder attack. [NOTE: A person with these symptoms should, in any case, immediately consult his doctor.]

As a rule the symptoms are not extreme. There is difficulty in concentrating, shortness of breath, tingling of the fingers and toes, a peculiar feeling around the mouth and profuse perspiration—all effects of hyperventilation on the nervous system.

When the nervous system becomes affected, so does the muscular system which it controls. The muscles twitch or become cramped. If this happens at the same time that a person faints, the symptoms can be mistaken for those of an epileptic seizure. Also, twitching can cause pain in the muscles around the joints of the body and lead one to believe he is suffering from arthritis or rheumatism.

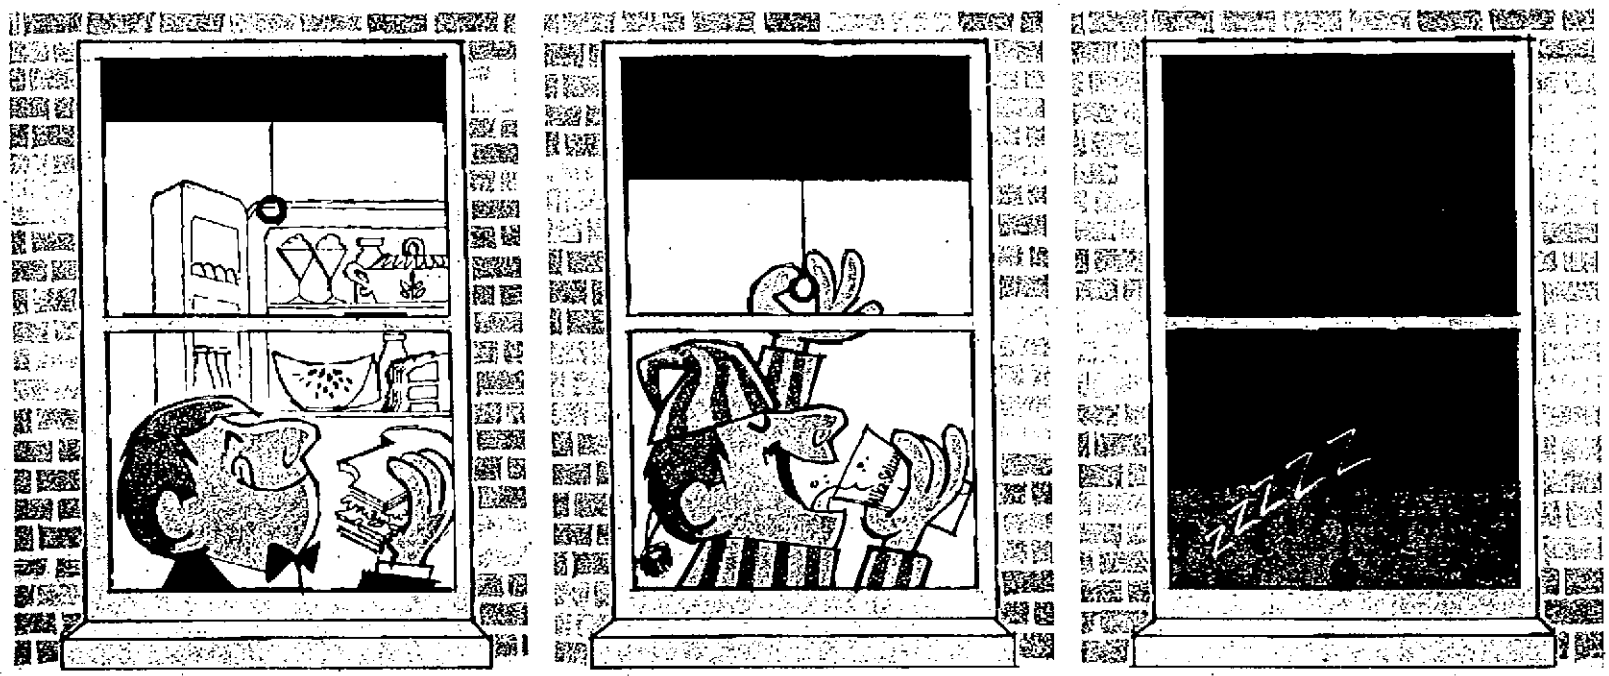

Or, in the case of the diaphragm, twitching of this muscle and of the short, tight muscles between the ribs can result in a severe pain which in every way mimics a heart attack.

What happens when a person who really does have heart trouble also becomes hyperventilated? Anyone with coronary trouble wonders when the next heart attack will occur. He is nervous, which makes him a particularly good candidate for an attack of hyperventilation. Eventually something happens to upset him. He starts breathing too fast. After a while he gets exactly what he fears most—severe chest pain.

While waiting for medical attention he should breathe in and out of a paper bag. Symptoms due to hyperventilation will be quickly relieved, although pain due to heart trouble will persist.

A young receptionist in a broker's office had what she thought was chronic asthma. She had a habit of yawning and sighing, sometimes breathing hard in an effort to catch her breath. One day a doctor, a client of the firm, was sitting in the waiting room observing her. He suggested she hold her breath as long as possible. He also told her to try to stop yawning and sighing.

With this unorthodox treatment, her so-called asthma disappeared. She used a paper bag, recommended by the doctor, when she could do so in private.

According to a Mayo Clinic report, hyperventilation occurs in 5 to 10 per cent of patients seen by doctors in general practice, especially among young women. Chronic hyperventilators are usually irritable, restless, emotional and worrisome. They try to hide their feelings by pretending to be calm. Their fatigue is out of proportion to the amount of work they perform. They are often "exhausted."

Because they are tense and nervous they hyperventilate. The hyperventilation in turn makes them more nervous. A cycle is set in motion which sometimes spins out of control until a person has a "nervous breakdown" or thinks he is losing his mind.

An attack of hyperventilation always comes on after an emotional disturbance, not during it. Similarly, athletes do not become hyperventilated while they are performing. Attacks occur only after the physical and emotional strain is over.

Underwater Breath

Swimmers should be especially careful to avoid hyperventilation. At Avalon, Santa Catalina Island, Calif., a young man on a boat boasted he could stay under water longer than anyone else. Before diving into the ocean he did prolonged breathing exercises. He was right. He stayed under water for a long time—too long. He had hyperventilated himself, and while under water he lost consciousness and instinctively took a deep breath. Fortunately, he was rescued.

Space pilots are no exception. It is possible to determine if an astronaut in his capsule is breathing normally or excessively. While he is in flight those on land who are monitoring his flight may hear his reassuring voice say, "I feel fine. Everything under control." However, the doctors know at that moment his heart is pounding furiously and his breathing is so fast that any moment he may have an attack of hyperventilation.

Anyone who drives an automobile may have the same trouble as an astronaut. A college girl was driving when a little boy ran into the path of her car. Fortunately it was a near-miss, and the child was not hurt. The girl continued driving even though she felt a bit giddy. As she approached the next major intersection she thought she stepped on the brake pedal in time to stop at the red signal, but half-way across the intersection she was struck broadside by another car.

She was driving only 35 miles per hour, but hyperventilation delayed her reaction time one-fifth of a second. It made her travel an extra 10 feet, bringing her into the center of the intersection.

After any exciting experience while driving it is a good idea to stop until completely composed. If a lunchroom is close by, one should go in for a relaxing cup of coffee until the jitters are gone.

One of the cruelest impersonations hyperventilation can perform is to mimic alcoholic intoxication perfectly.

Staggering to Work

In a missile factory in California a young woman who had just reported to work attracted the attention of others in her office by staggering down the aisle to her desk and greeting co-workers boisterously. The supervisor escorted the woman to the medical department, because she was obviously drunk.

Between gasps the woman told the doctor that she was delayed in traffic on the way to work, that she had been late twice the previous week and was afraid this time she would be fired. When she got to her assigned stall in the parking lot someone else had parked there. It had taken her an additional 10 minutes to find a space.

As she ran the two blocks to the factory entrance her anger mounted. While hastening to her desk she felt giddy. She knew she was talking to the other girls in a loud, incoherent way, but she couldn't control herself. Her heart pounded and she was literally dripping with perspiration.

The doctor suspected hyperventilation. He gave the young lady a mixture of oxygen with 5 per cent carbon dioxide to inhale. In seconds she was her usual calm self and able to return to work.

As might be expected, a person subject to repeated attacks of hyperventilation can quickly hyperventilate himself at will. He is conditioned to do so just as a person who is repeatedly hypnotized becomes more readily responsive to the suggestions of the hypnotist.

Such a person needs psychotherapy to learn how to control his emotions and avoid these involuntary spells of rapid breathing. In other words he has to learn a sense of values so he does not become overly upset about circumstances of no real importance.

Table tennis is only one of many activities available to teenage members of the Cape Coral key club, opened as a new way to combat juvenile delinquency.

Bill Joe Humphreys gets back his club key from adult manager William Thew. Loss of key is a member's penalty for misbehavior, inside the club and out.

key club for kids

by OPAL GINN

CAPE CORAL, FLA.

THE KEY CLUB has always been regarded as the exclusive playground of wealthy businessmen and big expense-account spenders. But this go-ahead little Florida township has given the idea new meaning. It is pioneering the nation's first key club for teenagers, which may open up a whole new front in the campaign against juvenile delinquency.

When Cape Coral's sunny peace was marred by the first shadows of delinquency, a search was started for ways to combat it. A number of incidents had dramatized the need to give the township's 500 youngsters some place to let off steam. A group of boys had commandeered a bulldozer, crashed it through a house under construction and caused thousands of dollars' worth of damage. Street lights were being shot out; drag racing was keeping people awake into the early morning hours.

But Cape Coral wanted more than just another youth center that might end up invaded and taken over by out-of-town hoodlums. It wanted a club that could be reserved for its own young people, a club which would teach them through pride of membership the elements of civic responsibility.

So, early last November, the Cape Coral key club opened its doors by closing them to all but key-carrying members between the ages of 8 and 19. With the exception of a full-time supervisor and local officials, no adults are permitted except as guests. Club hours: after school until 9 P.M. weekdays, all day until 11:30 P.M. Saturdays and Sundays, closed on Mondays.

The club is managed by an eight-member board of directors, four of them youngsters elected by their fellow key holders. The penalty for breaking club rules is withdrawal of the offender's key for a period depending on the seriousness of the offense. While suspended he cannot visit the club even as a guest.

So Far So Good

So far, few of the club's nearly 300 members have had their keys lifted for misbehavior, although recently the club was closed for a week because of vandalism. As yet the offenders have not been caught.

PARADE was present when Bobby Weinmeister, 13, first member to lose his key, was given it back after a 2-week suspension. He had been caught throwing decorative rocks from the club's driveway into the river. Bobby admitted he should have had some punishment, but: "Two weeks. It was awful. I learned not to do that stuff again."

Bill Joe Humphreys, another youngster who lost his key for two weeks for rock throwing, explained: "I don't think my punishment was too rough. I really appreciate the club, and I'm going to try hard not to lose my key again."

The club got off to a flying start through the generosity of the Gulf American Land Corporation, which donated the land, a $73,000 modernistic, glass and concrete building and equipment costing more than $8,000. Less fortunate communities may have to build more modest quarters.

Outside view of modernistic $73,000 clubhouse.

The Cape Coral club provides a variety of activities: archery, badminton, baseball, basketball, billiards, cards, checkers, chess, croquet, dancing, football, golf, gun club, horseshoes, juke box, ping-pong, pram racing (a pram is a small sailboat for beginners), scuba diving, shuffleboard, swimming, water skiing — and, of course, telephones (a must for teenagers).

There are no membership fees, but profits from the snack bar and soda fountain help meet the cost of maintenance. Without exception club members are proud of their keys and the privileges that go with them. They are incensed by the recent vandalism and would like the rules to be tougher, administered completely by a court of teenagers, who, they believe, would be more strict than adults.

Typical is Wanda Bauman, 16, who has been a member since the club started. Says Wanda: "Before the club, the kids just used to hang around. There was little to do. Now we have our own place, and we mean to do our best to see there is no more vandalism."

The club's teenage officers—Dick Helgeson, president; John Holmes, vice-president; Sandy Ellison, secretary; Cathy Rasso, treasurer—all want to see the club rules more strictly enforced. Says Ellison: "We had nothing like this in Detroit, where I came from. But we've got to be much tougher with offenders. I believe we should make our laws really work."

And how do the parents feel about the key club for kids?

They are as enthusiastic as the members, but have some criticisms—centering principally around supervision. Says Mrs. Ann R. Smith, mother of four: "The club is fabulous. But the time hasn't come when children can take care of themselves without supervision. I believe there should be a man and woman on the premises the entire time."

A mother of five, a business woman in Cape Coral, is concerned about the age spread. Says she: "The club keeps the children off the streets and out of cars at night. But I think the age span is too great. I wouldn't want my 13-year-old daughter to dance with a lot of 19-year-old boys."

Jack Pockrass, a clinical psychologist, father of two daughters, takes a somewhat different view.

He states: "I am all for the club, both as a parent and as a psychologist. Anything that will give a young person interest and a sense of responsibility is valuable. As for the dances, in some places a girl must have a date to go to a dance. My wife and I don't approve of our daughters dating at their age. Without the club, the girls would have to stay home from dances."

William Thew, adult manager of the club, admits: "This is an experiment, and we may do a lot of things wrong in the beginning." But he insists that most of the members have shown a sense of responsibility.

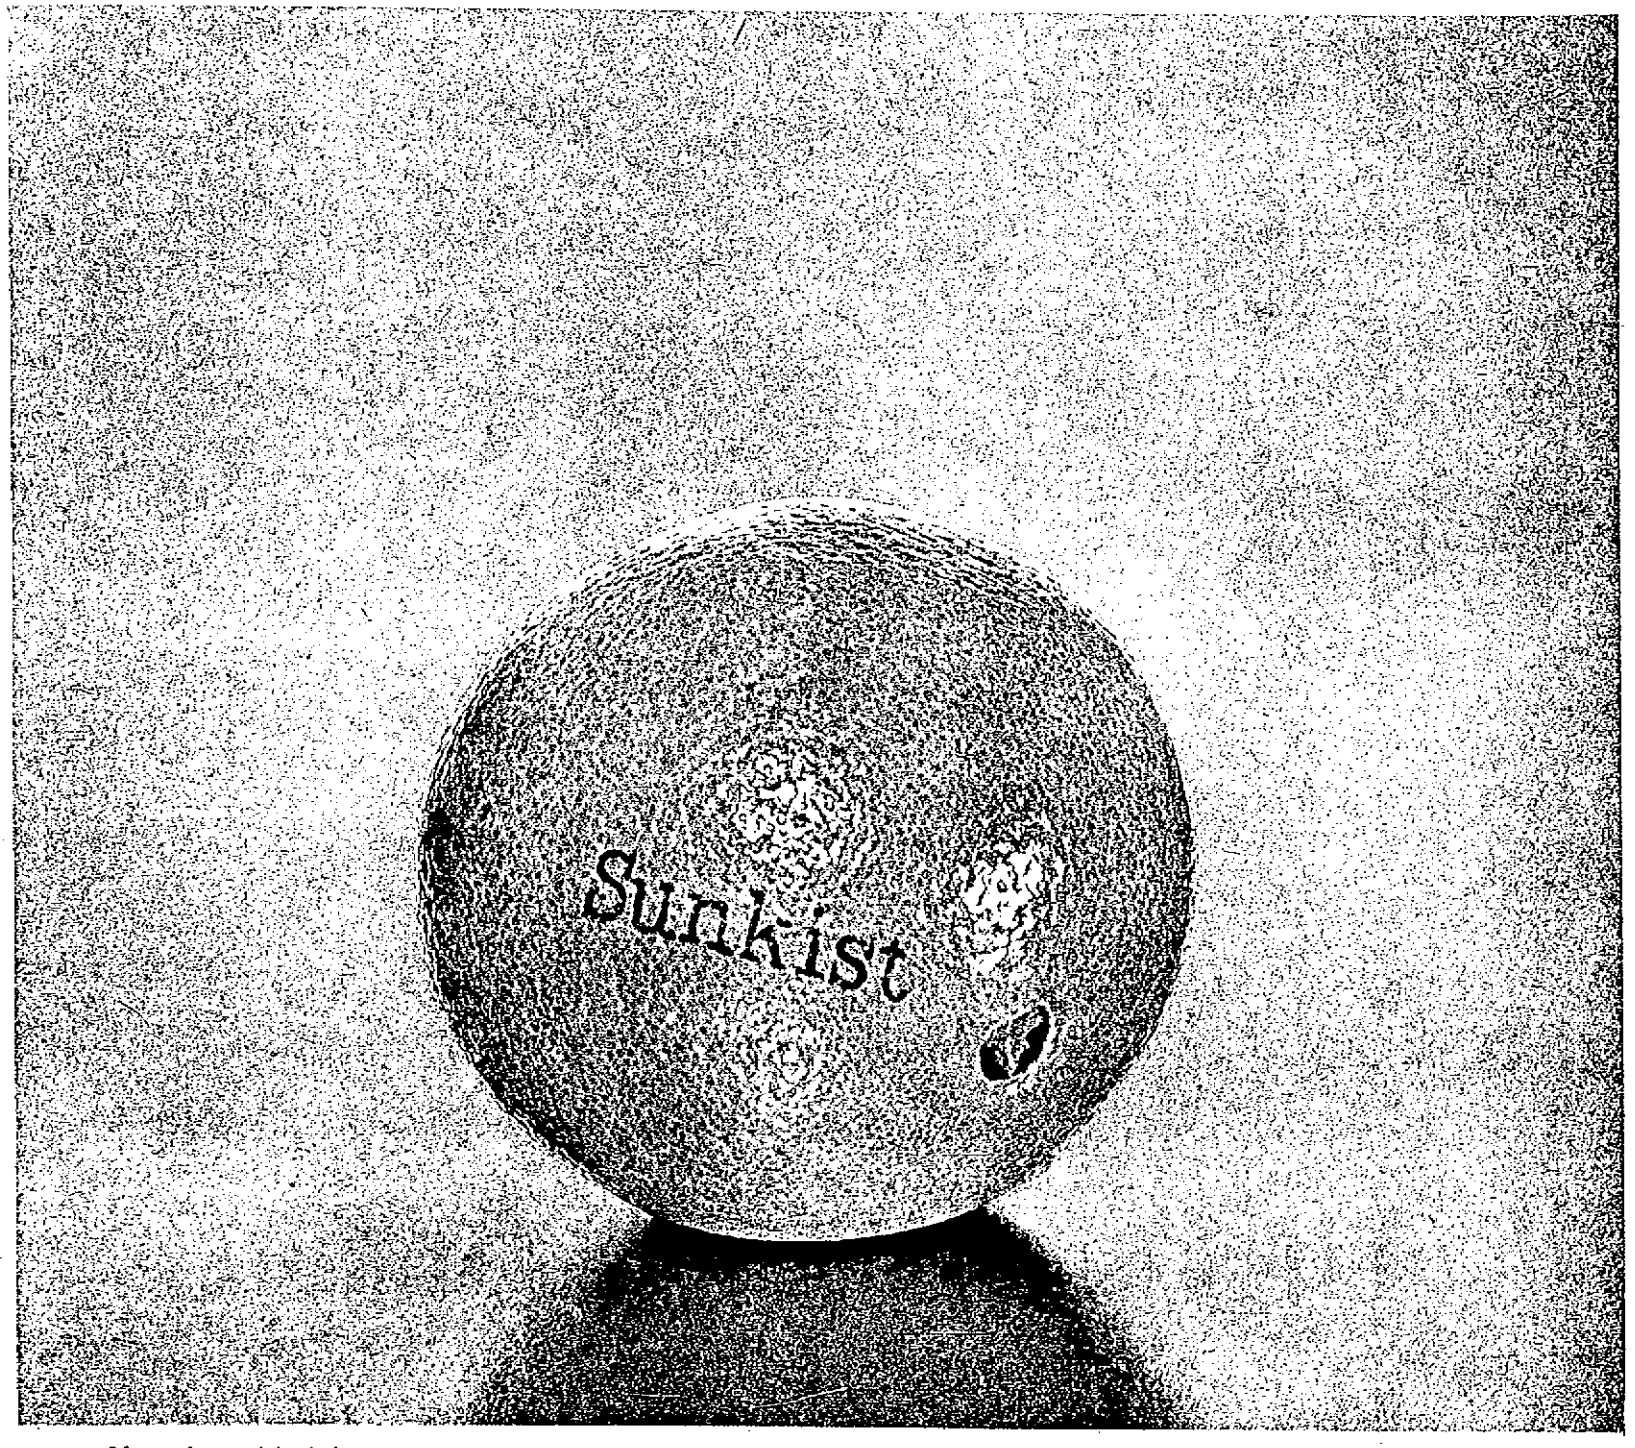

He points out that bad behavior outside the club can also cost a member his key. He says: "Young people don't like to tell tales on each other, and I don't encourage them to do so. But I have been glad to discover that members have been taking offenders aside and urging them to stick to the rules."

Since the kids' key club opened, there has been little or no delinquency in Cape Coral, a consequence other communities might study with interest.

A KEY CLUB FOR YOUR TOWN

Would you like to start a kid's key club in your community? Here are some pointers:

- ► You don't need much money—just a clubroom, simple equipment, space for dancing, a set of rules and numbered keys.
- ► Parents can take turns doing supervisory duty. Children might be encouraged to pay nominal dues from their own pocket money to give them a greater sense of membership.
- ► Rules should be simple but firmly enforced —by the members themselves.
- ► To overcome the age span problem there might be junior and senior memberships, with later club hours for seniors.

Hollywood's happiest married couple

by ARNO JOHANSON

HOLLYWOOD, CALIF.

LECTURERS WHO TOUR the country verbalizing on Hollywood are always asked this question: "Are there any really happily married movie couples in Hollywood?"

A few years ago one female columnist on the lecture circuit—she gushes like a severed artery—used to say, "Of course, of course, dozens of them," and then she would quickly rattle off: "Debbie Reynolds and Eddie Fisher, Janet Leigh and Tony Curtis, Natalie Wood and Robert Wagner, Marlon Brando and Anna Kashfi."

Since all these marriages have gone south, she now, when confronted with this same question, says quickly, "Well, there's Shirley Jones and Jack Cassidy. They're terribly happy." And then she rattles on explaining how difficult it is for a young movie couple to achieve a successful marriage in the film colony.

"Difficult" is not the right word. It's almost impossible.

When a husband and wife are both in films, a career rivalry develops, wittingly or unwittingly. If the wife is more successful than the husband—which is what happened in the Natalie Wood-Robert Wagner entente—the masculine ego is bruised. The husband resents the fact that he is not the family breadwinner. He presses and becomes grumpy. Should his streak of bad luck continue, and he eventually become known as "Natalie Wood's husband," or so-and-so's husband, his outrage develops into a formidable divorce cause.

Living the Part

In addition to career rivalry, young movie couples are beset by temptation. Casting throws them into the company of exciting, handsome, frequently irresistible players. Sometimes there's a carry-over. The love scene doesn't end when the director calls, "Cut." The late Gary Cooper, a man of strong will power, could rarely shake a movie love scene. He made films with Lupe Velez, Clara Bow, Ingrid Bergman and Pat Neal, and fell in love with all four of them. Tony Curtis, filming Taras Bulba in the Argentine, succumbed to his leading lady, Christine Kaufmann, eventually divorced his wife. Examples of this are endless.

Hollywood is also jammed with stooges who thrive on dividing husband and wife. They come to each carrying false tales, currying favor, wrecking one home after another.

Despite this deleterious environment, the marriage of Shirley Jones and Jack Cassidy is currently referred to by movieland defenders as "the most blissful, happy young marriage in Hollywood."

Shirley Jones at 27 is a small-town (Smithton, Pa.—pop. 900), sweet-as-sugar blonde who was brought out to Hollywood a few years ago to star in Oklahoma.

She proved so talented and photogenic in that one that she was signed for two others, Carousel and April Love. "Then I got my big break," she recalls. "Burt Lancaster was casting Elmer Gantry. He was looking for someone to play a prostitute who didn't look like a prostitute. He chose me. It was my first chance to go dramatic—that's why actresses love to play wicked women; the role usually has some dimension, some depth; you're a woman with a past, with a knowledge of men. I won an Academy Award for my work in Elmer Gantry, and honestly, everything's turned up roses for me. I've been working steadily ever since and you couldn't find a happier, more fulfilled woman anywhere in the world.

'Love Won Out'

"I have a simply marvelous husband, Jack Cassidy. He's a singer and actor. He's a sensible and mature man, seven years older than I am. We toured in Oklahoma together, and for a while he was reluctant to marry a girl in show business—you know, two careers in the same family and all of that. But love won out, and we've been married since 1956. We have two delightful boys, Shaun who's 4 and Patrick who's 1, and all we need now is a little girl.

"Marriages may be breaking up all around us," Shirley continues, "but not ours, even though I guess it's subject to all the pressures and dangers of most Hollywood marriages.

"It's true that I'm better known in the business than Jack, that I make more money than he does—but as I've said before, he's a mature man. He realizes the nature of the business. One day I'm on top. Maybe in a few years I'll have faded, and he'll be on top. The thing is not to let it make any difference, to pool all our assets, to look on everything as a joint venture, never to let jealousy give birth.

"The only thing that bugs Jack is if he's not working. He can't stand inactivity or hanging around the house doing nothing but waiting. He's got to work, got to contribute. So long as he does that, everything is fine. No actor likes not to work. But Jack doesn't have any complexes about being called "Mr. Shirley Jones" or anything like that.

"I think the secret of a successful marriage, here or any place, lies in marrying a mature man. When I was working on Broadway—I made my debut in the chorus of* South Pacific *as one of Ensign Nellie Forbush's fellow nurses—I used to date a lot of fellows, mostly businessmen. After all, my father's a businessman. He owns the brewery in Smithton. And frankly, many of them were dull and immature and so unimaginative. They couldn't understand what I was doing in show business. Some of them could understand it as 'a lark' but not really 'a career you want to give your life to.'

Exceptions to the rule, Shirley Jones and husband Jack Cassidy.

"It wasn't until I met Jack that I found someone who understood me and the problems and inequities of the business. He didn't object to my working. He was anxious for my happiness and realized that my personal achievement was part of it. You can't take a girl like me who's been singing since she was a child, who's been in show business since she was a teenager, who has the business coursing in her blood—you can't take a girl like that and use marriage as a substitute. Businessmen don't understand that. They'll marry a girl providing she gives up her career. But Jack, no matter what his success, would never make that demand.

"He's a man who loves me and, loving me, is prepared to share me with my career, our children, our homelife. It sounds awfully stuffy, and I know we've only been married 6½ years, but I honestly think that on all scores we've got it made." ■

NEW AT THE RESORTS

The covered look

by VIRGINIA POPE Parade fashion editor

Modest two-piece of Orlon and Helanca. Red and white striped top, navy shorts. By Cole of California. $20. Lila Bath beach hat. Photographed on the beach of the El Presidente Hotel, Acapulco, Mexico.

A cover-up suit in one-piece with a figure-revealing sweater top. The top bright red, the shorts navy. Orlon. Deep oval neckline. In the surf at Acapulco beach. A Catalina suit. About $24.

For the cocktail hour, at the Maria Isabel Hotel, Mexico City, Carol Hoffman wears a tunic dress of ribbed white cotton. By Hannah Troy. $80. Her hat by Henri de Chatillon. Her escort, Manuel Patiño.

BEACH SIRENS are springing a surprise this resort season—they're going under cover. The rush to cover has nothing to do with modesty—it's the new style. At all popular winter resorts girls will hide their curves in shifts, snappy beach dresses, belted jackets of terry or sports shirts. Don't be dismayed, men, there's plenty of pulchritude in the cover-ups.

The attractive new fashion will also be seen at play in cabanas or clubs. The new long-skirt-for-evening dress has its counterpart on the beach—they are the fabulously full beach pajamas (see cover).

There's something too for the girl who likes her midriff bare. It's a suit with a top which barely covers the floating ribs and shorts which begin just below the waist. In the cover-up camp there's a one-piece swim suit with a "sweater" top, generally in two-color effect.

In these days of rapid air travel, the lady vacationer may stop off in a major city before proceeding to her resort. Our model here hopped off the plane in Mexico City in a costume that permits sightseeing or shopping. For luncheon or cocktails she whips off the jacket to uncover a pretty dress. A sleeveless dress does the trick for evenings.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION on the fashions on this page, write to Virginia Pope, PARADE, 733 Third Ave., New York 17, New York. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

An ensemble of green silk linen is perfect for arrival in Mexico City. The jacket covers slim dress. By Leonard Arkin. $100.

COVER: Beach or cabana two-piece for resort play, of red, white and blue cotton. Silhouetted against the Pacific Ocean. By Sylvia De Gay for Robert Sloan. About $35.

New undercover beach costume. The back-buttoned shift is of Mexican pink silk linen; worn before and after a swim. About $35. Its companion is a strapless one-piece suit of green sateen, r. The suit, $19. Designed by Ricci for Cabana. The multi-jeweled crocheted toe sandals by Lila Bath.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Woody Woodbury of Plantation, Fla., is a Marine pilot turned comic. Originally from St. Paul, where he attended grade and high schools, Woody in his 20s was a jet fighter pilot in Korea with 106 missions to his credit. After the war Woodbury turned to show business in Jacksonville, Fla., then signed for a two-week engagement at the Clover Club in Miami, where he remained three years. Last September, Woody succeeded Johnny Carson as permanent host of the TV program: Who Do You Trust? Woodbury has a wife and two youngsters.

by WOODY WOODBURY

I was trying to get a hotel room in Miami Beach over a very busy weekend. I overheard the hotel clerk telling the man in line just ahead of me that there were no rooms available.

"If the President came in," the man persisted, "you'd have a room for him, wouldn't you?"

"Of course," replied the clerk indignantly.

"Then let me have his room," came the retort. "He's not coming."

A recent guest on Who Do You Trust? told me that during her 40 years working in a clock factory, she had wound 80 million watches.

"The work never became monotonous?" I asked.

"No," she said thoughtfully, "I was always meeting new faces."

It was a magical, moonlit night and they were very much in love. And after many tender words were exchanged, she asked: "Will you love me when I'm old and gray?"

"Love you?" he asked, and then in rapturous, dulcet tones went on: "I shall always worship the very ground under your dainty feet—I shall always and forever adore you—I shall never cease wanting to gaze upon your lovely face—I shall—say, you aren't going to look like your mother, are you?"

My neighbor's little boy was watching quietly while the repairman was trying to fix our television set. It was a long session which seemed to be getting no results. Finally the youngster volunteered: "I bet it would work if you'd clean out all those dead cowboys in the bottom!"

Have you ever noticed that lots of lovers kiss with their eyes closed? Sometimes, unfortunately, they marry the same way.

One wife I know said irritably to her husband: "You don't love me any more now that my hair is gray."

"Don't be silly," he replied. "I loved you when it was every other color!"

But I guess the honeymoon is really over when there are more bills than coos.

A wealthy industrialist was taken to the hospital. Because of a room shortage, they had to put him temporarily in a private room in the maternity ward. Being in some pain, he asked the nurse if he could have a drug that might induce sleep.

"No," said the nurse, "that drug is only for labor."

"What!" he exclaimed angrily. "Don't you have anything for management?"

I understand that it's become a lot tougher to recruit showgirls for Las Vegas this year. They've run out of Crosbys.

Talk about an exciting weekend. Yesterday my wife and I were standing in front of a wishing well—and she suddenly fell in. I didn't realize those things worked!

ANECDOTE of the WEEK

HERKIE STILES, the comedian, was lunching with Edgar Bergen at a Hollywood restaurant when fellow comedian Jack Benny sauntered in. Benny sat down at the table, had lunch with his two friends, then asked for the check. On the way out, Herkie said to Benny, "For years now I've heard you're a tightwad. How come, Jack, you picked up the check?" Said Benny, "All I can tell you is that this is the last time I'll ever have lunch with a ventriloquist."

PARADE'S SPECIAL INTELLIGENCE REPORT

CLERGYMEN WANTED. The Labor Department forecasts an increasing shortage of clergymen to administer to the nation's spiritual needs. The present force: 215,000 Protestant ministers, 53,000 Catholic priests, 4,300 Jewish rabbis. Yet many rural congregations have no full-time ministers; some large congregations can't find assistant pastors. Theological seminaries simply aren't graduating enough clergymen to meet the need.

BETTER SCHOOLS. Are children learning more in school today than a generation ago? The answer, according to a federal survey, is an emphatic Yes.

INSURED COLLECTORS. The British Civil Service Clerical Association has taken out a special insurance policy for those of its members employed as tax collectors. These men are now insured against physical attack by angry citizens.

BEGGARS CAN BE CHOOSERS. Carefully organized by syndicate operators, Italy's beggars are now being driven to their posts and paid a regular weekly wage. In Padua, for example, "Big Bruno," top organizer, has 15 cars in which he transports his beggars from one location to another. The beggars are paid a fixed wage of $10 a day, pretend on duty to be blind or crippled or both. Three years ago Rome police discovered a "beggars' preparatory school" conducted by a slick Neapolitan operator, Pasquale Pugliese. He recruited apprentices from impoverished Sicily, trained them in Rome for a month, then assigned them to strategic tourist spots. When police closed in on Pugliese, he was clearing $1,200 a day.

TV TAXIS. Taxis in Tokyo come equipped with TV sets these days. Passengers seem to like them, and cab drivers say they help kill spare time while waiting for fares. Several TV set distributors are trying to talk American taxi chains into trying the miniature TVs.

LBSC PLAN APPROVED

$60 Million Campus for 20,000 Students

By ROBERT WILCOX
Education Editor

Long Beach State College is preparing today to don its spectacular new "face of the future."

A master plan to complete the $60-million campus which was approved Friday by the Board of Trustees won quick praise from educational and community leaders.

Its highlights include:

A concrete public plaza topped by a nine-story faculty office building.

A new entrance from Seventh Street centered on the south edge of the campus.

A three-level student union building cut into a 45-foot hillside.

A "campus square" of student facilities, including a 10,000-seat amphitheater.

A quarter-mile-long "fraternity row" stretching along Atherton Street at the north edge of the campus.

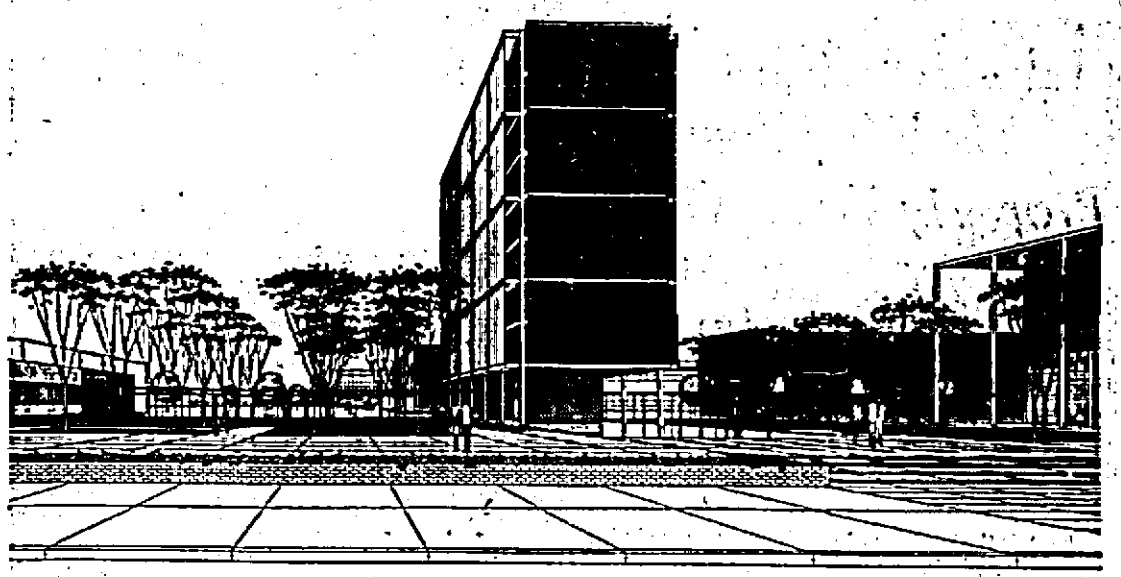

The master plan—the college's first since a 5,000-student version adopted in 1952—is the result of two years of effort by the consulting architects, Killingsworth, Brady, Smith and Associate, "so that the completed college will have the appearance of a total building program rather than one of parts."

• • • •

THE PROPOSAL anticipates a 20,000-student enrollment which college officials estimate is due some time after 1970. Present enrollment is about 9,000.

Handsome masonry pylons will mark the wide new campus entrance which provides direct access

Deny Top Cuba Red Wounded

HAVANA (AP) — Carlos Rafael Rodriguez, one of the top Communists in the Cuban government, has been shot and severely wounded in an assassination attempt, an informed source reported Saturday.

Prime Minister Fidel Castro's regime denied the report. The official Cuban information agency said it had "been authorized to deny the reports of the alleged assassination attempt ...as being without foundation."

Rodriguez, boss of Cuba's powerful National Institute of Agrarian Reform, was said to have been hit by four bullets in the leg and thigh last Wednesday.

• • • •

(THE COLUMBIA Broadcasting System in New York quoted its Havana correspondent as saying Rodriguez was in a hospital and that a specialist had been summoned to treat him.)

An attempt to kill Rodriguez was made on Sept. 12, 1961, as he returned by car from Matanzas Province. He escaped unhurt.

FATAL ERROR

Black Leopard Kills Zookeeper

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—A black leopard escaped into a safety enclosure behind its cage at the San Diego zoo Saturday and fatally mauled a veteran zookeeper as several horrified spectators watched.

Witnesses said the 125-pound cat named Jet took one swipe at James Tuttle, 35, Encinitas, ripping off his left ear and opening an artery in his neck. Tuttle, a senior keeper and 10-year zoo employe, died en route to the Naval Hospital.

After the lightning attack, the big cat started down a path in Cat Canyon toward the public area of the zoo but Angie Campos, a zoo employe, grabbed a bamboo pole and forced the animal back into his cage.

• • • •

"I KEPT hitting at his eyes," Campos said. "Finally the leopard backed into his own cage and I slammed the door."

Dr. George Pournelle, curator of mammals at the zoo, theorized that Tuttle apparently threw the wrong lever among the several regulating the movement of animals from cage to cage. He said Jet would not be destroyed.

Frank Bonnet, a chief zoo security officer, said Tuttle was feeding animals when the attack ocurred.

"I don't think he saw it coming," Bonnet said.

• • • •

A CORONER'S deputy said Tuttle suffered a severed carotid artery and a possible broken neck.

Other zoo officials carrying drawn revolvers ran to the aid of Campos. Some of the many visitors at the zoo heard the leopard's savage growls but only a few were aware of the fatal attack.

The leopard is a nine-year-old male born in Griffith Park Zoo in Los Angeles. It was brought here in 1954.

Corruption Probed in 22 States

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Justice Department is investigating alleged corruption of public officials in 22 states and has dug into reports of attempts to fix professional and amateur sports events, the White House announced Saturday.

The disclosures came with the release of Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy's report to the President on the 1962 activities of the criminal division of the Justice Department.

The report said the division, headed by Asst. Atty. Gen. Herbert J. Miller, increased racketeering prosecutions last year by about 300 per cent over 1961 and 700 per cent over 1960. Convictions were up by more than 350 per cent over 1961 and almost 400 per cent over 1960, it said.

• • • •

THE enactment of legislation in 1961 to curb interstate gambling operations proved very effective last year, the attorney general said, but he added:

"Nevertheless, betting on sports events particularly

$10 MILLION IN FRANCS

Tshombe, Bank's Currency Missing

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Between $10 and $20 million is missing from the National Bank of Katanga in the Congo, authoritative sources said Saturday. They said the multimillion loss—in Congolese and Katanga francs from the bank in Elisabethville — has jeopardized the country's monetary system. One source called it "the great Katanga bank robbery."

However, U.S. sources were careful not to accuse Katanga President Moise Tshombe of theft. But it was noted that when Tshombe left Elisabethville earlier last week, he had "an unusually large amount of baggage."

There was speculation, but no authoritative confirmation, that the money might be in Kolwezi, where Tshombe might be heading.

Discovery that the cash was missing from the bank vault prompted a search in both Africa and Europe, an attempt to locate the European-based printing facilities for the Katanga francs, and a speed-up in previously scheduled efforts to integrate currency of secessionist Katanga and the central Congolease government.

Officials were known to be concerned about the possibility of inflation if the money is not located.

Although the sources referred to it as a "robbery," they said it was conceivable there might be another explanation.

"The money is supposed to be in the vault according to books of the bank," one source said. "The money may turn up some other place but it certainly is not in the bank where it is supposed to be."

• • • •

THE SOURCES, authoritative and highly reliable, asked that they not be identified. But U.S. officials confirmed, in response to questioning, that the U.S. government and the United Nations in New York had been informed of the situation and were concerned. But these and other monetary officials declined to discuss the situation.

The reason for the concern was that the bulk of the money had not been in circulation. An infusion of a large amount of currency into the monetary system would raise the threat of inflation by reducing the value of the francs.

One question raised in official circles was the possibility that Tshombe had financed his well-paid mercenary force and airplane purchases by printing extra money.

Freeze Predicted Here Tonight

MORE WIND FORECAST TODAY

By RALPH HINMAN JR.

Today's weather in Long Beach is expected to duplicate Saturday's—sunny but cold and very, very windy.

The same storm now deep-freezing many Midwestern and Eastern states should do its worst here tonight, however, with a low of 30 forecast.

Winds of up to 40 m.p.h. were recorded Saturday afternoon at Long Beach Municipal Airport and today's breezes probably will be no slower.

Trees throughout many parts of the city were broken or felled by arctic blasts. One of these downed giants, at the home of Beryl Hall, 3502 Magnolia Ave., posed a question for the woman:

"What'll I do now to get rid of it?" she asked sorrowfully.

Many homes near Santa Ana and in the San Fernando Valley were briefly without electric power as 60-m.p.h. winds blew down power lines.

Citrus growers were warned that temperatures of 20 could be expected during the night in some wind-sheltered areas.

A lighter note in Long Beach: late in the afternoon many residents, seeing heavy black smoke clouds hanging over St. Mary's Hospital, feared the worst.

But fire hadn't broken out.

The hospital was shifting from natural gas to oil in case gas supplies were curtailed and this caused the fearsome cloud.

Fishing fleets and individual vessels bore much of the brunt as gale warnings went up from Port Hueneme to Pt. Dume, small-craft danger signals

Icy Wave Kills 33 in Nation

By United Press International

Winter's fangs slashed the nation from coast to coast and border to border Saturday, delivering deep snow, high winds, sleet, freezing rain, thunderstorms and death-dealing cold.

The storm death toll rose to 33.

The icy air knifed through to the Mexican Border and the Gulf, threatening a hard freeze for the Rio Grande Valley's $50 million citrus and vegetable crops and bringing cold wave warnings to southern Arizona, further jeopardizing produce supplies already curtailed by last month's Florida freeze.

• • • •

IT WAS so cold in Texas it was "like breathing razor blades," the Dalhart police dispatcher said. Salt Lake City, Utah, had a high of 4 degrees, coldest daytime temperature in the history of the city.

The temperature hit 60 below zero in a section of Montana and the U.S. Weather Bureau said, "It cannot get much colder than this."

Up to a foot of snow covered the Midwest and drifts closed highways in Wisconsin. Sleet and freezing rain glazed highways from West Virginia to Massachusetts. Highway travel was a bad dream from the Rockies to the Atlantic.

Below Zero readings were reported in every Western state. The temperature dipped into the 30s in Los Angeles' suburbs.

A hard freeze followed Dixie thunderstorms which spawned tornadoes in Mis-

Rumor Knowland May Run in 1964

By JAMES McCAULEY
U. P. I. Sacramento Bureau

SACRAMENTO — Some Republican lawmakers are hinting that former Sen. William Knowland may try to win back his old Senate seat in 1964.

Sen. Clair Engle captured that seat in 1958 after the disastrous Republican musical-chair game in which Knowland ran for governor, forcing ex-Gov. Goodwin Knight to try for the Senate. Both Republicans lost — Knowland by one million votes.

Asked for comment, Knowland said: "I have no plans at this time to reenter public life." Pressed for clarification as to whether he had discussed the possibility with anyone, Knowland said: "I've given it no consideration at this time."

• • • •

KNOWLAND did not slam the door completely shut on the possibility of running for the Senate in 1964, however. He qualified each of his answers by saying: "Not at this time."

Knowland said he wasn't trying to be coy. But he made it plain he wasn't going to make a "Sherman-like statement" about anything. (It was William Tecumseh Sherman who said: "If nominated, I will not run. If elected, I will not serve.")

Several factors triggered the speculation about Knowland.

Prior to 1959, Knowland occupied the Senate seat Engle now occupies. In 13 years in the Senate, Knowland was both majority and minority leader.

And of the GOP's fallen giants since the 1958 Democratic blitz, Knowland was the only one who showed up at a meeting in Fresno last month of the State GOP Executive Committee. That is where the rumor started.

• • • •

IN FRESNO, Knowland spoke for a few minutes about rebuilding the party. And despite the 1958 fiasco, Knowland got standing applause. Another factor that could point in Knowland's direction is that one U.S. Senate seat traditionally goes to the north, one to the south. Sen. Thomas Kuchel of Anaheim just was re-elected—nailing down the southern seat for another six years.

The north-south tradition could rule out a bid by Joseph C. Shell, former GOP minority leader in the Assembly, as Shell lives in Los Angeles. Some Southland legislators are speculating Shell may bid for the nomination anyway.

Mayor George Christopher of San Francisco also has been mentioned as a possible GOP contender for Engle's seat.

Progress in News Walkout

NEW YORK (AP)—Both sides in the city's longest and costliest newspaper strike Saturday night relaxed the stands they had held since before the newspaper blackout began on Dec. 8.

But at the close of several hours of joint negotiations, neither side would accept the compromises made by the other as a solution to the labor dispute.

However, Federal Mediator Stephen I. Schlossberg said "we think this was an important day. We think real progress was made here today."

• • • •

JOINT TALKS brought about at the urging of a fact-finding panel which blamed the International Typographical Union for the strike were recessed until further notice.

Bertram Powers, head of the printers union, said that although the publishers had made some "slight changes" in their offer, his membership still felt the terms were "wholly inadequate."

L.A.C. Says:

The Way Your Property Taxes Grow

The explosion over the suggestion that the Metropolitan Transit Authority could assess county property to build a rapid transit system can be useful. There is little doubt about the need for such facilities. They would relieve traffic on freeways and are essential to the growth predicted for this area in the next 10 years. But, how the over $600 million is to be collected, raises many problems.

First, is the question of permitting any appointive body to levy property taxes. Second, is the question as to how high these taxes can be raised without discouraging home owners and location of new industries in the areas so taxed. Third, is the question of any large capital expenditures—by local and county governments without a vote of the people.

Property taxes on the home of one of our friends have increased just about 100 per cent since 1955 when it was purchased. It is doubtful he could sell the property for any more today than he paid for it. Thus, it costs him twice as much in taxes as it did eight years ago. Tax rates have not increased materially for this period—but assessed valuation has, which accounts for the increased taxes.

It may be that all property values in this area should increase if we had a rapid transit system over the county. It would mean many Los Angeles city workers and executives would make this their home and commute to other parts of the county. But, should property owners pay for this service—or should it be collected from sales or some other consumer tax system? It is hard to justify using gasoline road taxes for a mass transit system. It would be supposed to reduce, rather than increase, the sale of gasoline and furthermore, gasoline taxes are already 25 to 30 per cent of costs.

It may be retailers might be opposed to an increased sales tax. But if it applied to all sales in the county it would not affect any particular area. They might well compare this system with that of the ever-increasing tax on the property they occupy—which is a cost of doing business for them—whereas the sales tax is paid by the consuming public—of which about 65 per cent are also property owners in this county.

The county supervisors are vigorously opposing the governor and MTA in their plan to permit the MTA to arbitrarily assess a property tax. It is doubtful such a program will have a chance of passing the Legislature this year. The supervisors' opposition is based on permitting such a bond issue or taxation without a vote of the people.

This does not solve the problem of rapid transportation. That must be provided if our freeways are not to experience continuous overcrowding. That problem cannot be solved by ignoring the immediate need for such planning. This will call for some form of government subsidy, because it cannot be financed out of revenues alone. The question, therefore, is, How will this subsidy be provided—by property or some other taxation means?

The MTA issue is only one of many increases in state, county and local expenditures that are facing us in the near future. The easy way out is to place the added taxes on property. But that is also a sure way to discourage the development and ownership of property. It is essential that a new approach be made to financing large capital expenditures. But the only way to hold down unnecessary expenditures is to continue the people's right to vote on them.

The MTA-suggested system is a challenge. It is essential to the future growth and welfare of this county. It should not be considered an unnecessary obligation but rather one that must be undertaken. The only question is, what form of taxation will be used? Elimination of the property tax factor might gain support for it that otherwise would defeat the entire project.—L.A.C.

McCormack Hit by Labor Revolt

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Speaker John W. McCormack struggled desperately Saturday to quell a labor-backed revolt by a group of rank-and-file Democrats against the party leadership's first big decision of the 88th Congress.

The revolt was aimed at upsetting efforts of the leadership to assign a conservative Georgia Democrat—Rep. Phil M. Landrum—to a vacancy on the powerful House Ways & Means Committee.

The fight will be settled, probably by secret ballot, at a caucus of House Democrats Monday morning.

• • • •

BOTH SIDES believe the outcome could have a significant effect on the future course of legislation. But they differed in their appraisals.

Pro-labor liberals opposing Landrum contended that it was wrong to assign a conservative to a committee which was life-and-death powers over such vital New Frontier issues as taxes, medicare for the aged and unemployment compensation.

Landrum, who incurred labor displeasure for his co-authorship of the Landrum-Griffin Labor Reform Act of 1959, already has given assurances in private talks with some pro-labor Democrats that he would not use his vote on the committee to help keep Kennedy's medicare program bottled up.

• • • •

INFORMANTS said that Landrum would make further concessions shortly before the showdown vote. These concessions, they said, would be announced at the caucus.

Democratic House leaders argued privately that if Landrum were defeated, it would be a serious blow to President Kennedy's program. They said the net result would be to make it difficult, if not impossible, for them to gain broad support needed from Southern Democratic moderates and conservatives to win approval of closely-contested Kennedy bills.

They warned that Kennedy's program would be hit with a backlash of resentment by Landrum's supporters.

• • • •

McCORMACK was trying to put Landrum on the committee as a reward for the vote supplied by Georgia Democrats in the administration's victory over conservatives who had sought to capture control of the legislative machinery of the House.

Landrum is one of three contenders for two vacant Democratic seats on the Ways and Means Committee. The other two, who have labor and liberal backing as well as support from some conservatives, are Reps. Ross Bass, Tenn., and W. Pat Jennings, Va. McCormack was backing a slate of Landrum and Bass.

Meredith Denies Shift to College for Negroes

OXFORD, Miss. (UP)—Negro student James H. Meredith termed "inaccurate" a report in Saturday's Memphis Commercial Appeal that he might transfer back to Jackson State College, a Negro institution, after he completes the present semester at the University of Mississippi.

The Commercial Appeal said sources indicated Meredith had already applied for a telephone in an apartment near Jackson State, which he left to enter Ole Miss last fall.

The paper said this might be a prelude to his re-entering Jackson State.

Meredith said last Monday he would not register for the second semester at Ole Miss unless the atmosphere became "more conducive to learning."

But he declined to disclose any other plans. Examinations start here Jan. 17 and run until Jan. 25. Registration for the next term is Jan. 31.

Meanwhile, Meredith remained on campus, apparently studying for examinations.

HERE ARE DRAWINGS of the USEAD-M-90-D, an unmanned, tractor-driven dredge for mining the ocean floor at depths down to 15,000 feet. The device was designed by Fenelong A. Brock of Long Beach.

DESIGNED BY L.B. EX-NAVY OFFICER

Machine to Mine Sea Floor

By LOU JOBST
Marine Editor

A Long Beach man has designed an undersea machine he believes can recover vast riches from the ocean floor.

The device, known as USEAD-M-90-D, is an unmanned, tractor-driven dredge which will be able to operate on the sea bottom at 15,000 feet.

It is the brainchild of Fenelon A. Brock, a retired anti-submarine warfare expert aand professional engineering graduate of Annapolis.

• • • •

BROCK believes the M-90 can be built for $750,000.

The M-90 is the result of 2½ yeears of work and is one of two revolutionary undersea craft designed by Brock for his firm, Fenbro Associates. The other is a deep exploration ship similar to the bathyscaphe Trieste.

Brock, who lives at 43 Bonito Ave., says the underwater mining machine is merely the consolidation of several proven components into a single new system.

• • • •

THE 90-foot dredge operates like the bathyscaphe, a craft which took two men seven miles down to the deepest ocean floor. It uses kerosene-filled tanks for buoyancy and 20 tons of pellets as ballast.

The M-90 is controlled and supplied with electrical power through a neutral buoyancy line and dredged material is to be carried through a buoyant, 12-inch pipeline which employes an ingenious arrangement of artificial air pressure and natural ocean pressures to force the materials to the surface.

FENELON A. BROCK
2½-Year Job

• • • •

BROCK believes the M-90 can pump material to ships and barges on the surface at the rate of 500 to 700 tons an hour. He admits, however, that the system can only be proven by actual sea trials. The M-90 will employ such proven systems as underwater television, automatic pilots, water immersed engines and water lubricated bearings. It can be adapted for exploration work, underwater research and construction as well as mining, said Brock. It could even be manned if necessary.

Brock says there are vast mineral riches to be got from undersea mining by men with the vision to take the gamble. Scientists say the ocean floor is covered with a layer of magnesium nodules, some of which weigh up to 1,700 pounds each. The University of California estimates that there are 17 trillion tons of these nodules in the Pacific alone.

• • • •

RESEARCHES of the International Geophysical Year—who found the nodules—also believe there are vast deposits of cobalt, nickel, coal, iron and about 16 billion tons of copper under the sea.

Underwater mining already is a reality, says Brock. The Yawata Iron and Steel Co., of Tokyo is taking 30,000 tons of iron ore out of the sea each month, the Collier Carbon and Chemical Corp., has taken a federal lease on 30,000 acres of ocean bottom off Southern California to mine phosphorite, a mineral used in fertilizer, and Shell Oil Co., is mining submerged gold in Alaska, while the Marine Diamond Corp., is taking diamonds from the sea off South Africa.

"It is almost impossible to demonstrate the M-90 in a laboratory," said Brock. "The efficiency of the ore lift, for instance, remains to be proven, but I will stake my reputation on it."

This reputation includes 22 years of sea command, ship construction and antisubmarine work in the Navy and five years experience as an industrial specialist for the International Telephone and Telegraph Co., and his own firm.

JFK Lists Education Aid Tops

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy Saturday described aid education as a top domestic issue and said that although his administration has not been as successful on this matter in Congress as it might have been "we're going to stay at it."

Kennedy, addressing 50th anniversary ceremonies of Delta Sigma Theta, a Negro sorority, said "we want our citizens to be the best educated in the world, and it can be done. . ."

He said that during the present decade more than 8 million young men and women will be pouring into the labor market without adequate preparation.

The President made an impromptu appearance at the sorority's anniversary luncheon at a hotel and was greeted by with applause by sorority members.

The group was founded at Howard University here in Washington in 1913. The White House said it undertook a great deal of public service work and now has 25,000 members. It is headed by Mrs. Jeanne L Noble of New York City.

In addition to his talk to the sorority, Kennedy spent part of the morning working on the State of the Union message he will deliver to Congress in person Monday.

Rising Losses of Copters, Crews in Viet Nam War Stir Criticism

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—A rising toll of U. S. helicopter crewmen and aircraft in the war against Viet Cong guerrillas has brought American helicopter tactics under review. Bodies of the seven latest victims were recovered from an island in the Mekong delta Saturday.

Of 53 Americans killed so far in a year of supporting South Viet Nam's armed forces 23 were killed in helicopters. Many others have been wounded.

Sixteen helicopters have been destroyed, either as a result of Communist action or in accidents. Nearly all the 144 or so operating in South Viet Nam have been hit at last once by ground fire and many have been forced down temporarily.

• • • •

THE MEKONG delta crash that killed seven American crewmen Friday night was attributed to mechanical difficulty. Three other helicopters had been forced down by mechanical difficulty in the same 24-hour period.

U. S. Army service crews are having increasing maintenance problems. American military leaders believe more helicopters are sorely needed. But nearly all the trained and equipped helicopter units the United States can spare are already in South Viet Nam.

"Remember, this kind of warfare is brand new," a high-ranking military spokesman said. "We have to do some experimenting and we're bound to make some mistakes. But let's not forget how much helicopters have accomplished here."

Five of the helicopter companies in South Viet Nam are equipped with the obsolescent Vertol H21. Nearly all of these aircraft are nearing the end of their recommended flying lives.

• • • •

THE SIKORSKY H34 also is used for troop-carrying missions. The H34 is more powerful than the H21 and is considered a better aircraft. But only the one Marine Corps helicopter company in Viet Nam is equipped with the H34.

The Vetrol company has ended production of the H21, so presumably no more of these will be sent. Sikorsky is turning out the H34 again, and another company of choppers is slated to come to Viet Nam when it is trained and fitted out.

The U. S. Army flies turbine-powered HU1A and HU1B escort helicopters in Viet Nam to protect the troop carriers, knocking out ground fire with rockets and machine guns. Pilots call the escort craft "the Cadillacs of combat helicopters." But some of these also have been destroyed.

150 Fishermen Taken off Floe

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—About 150 ice fishermen were rescued Saturday from a floe in Lake Erie after spending at least 3½ hours on the floating ice about 50 yards from shore, the Coast Guard reported.

Four other fishermen were taken off a concrete water intake in the lake by the Cutter Tepelo. They were marooned after a large chunk of ice parted from the shore. There were no injuries.

RUSSIAN VICE

Underground Disc Factory Closed Down

MOSCOW (UPI)—A Russian vice squad uncovered a clandestine record company recording Western-style music in a vast underground studio in Leningrad, Radio Moscow reported.

The report said officials shut down the operation, which had pressed records on the "Golden Dog" label for "big profits."

Monsoon Downpours Ravage Indonesia

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—Monsoon downpours have caused floods through wide areas of West Java, driving more than 20,000 persons from homes and destroying nearly 10,000 homes, Antara News Agency reported Saturday. There was no report of casualties.

Lt. Gov. Anderson Speaks on Civil Rights

California's lieutenant governor Saturday in Compton called for a four-point program to end all forms of racial and religious discrimination in California.

Speaking before the Compton Council on Human Relations, Glen M. Anderson gave his full support to Gov. Brown's antidiscrimination program, listing the following steps:

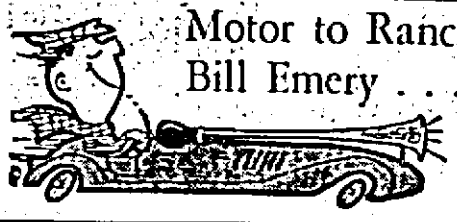

Ratification by California of the federal antipoll-tax amendment.

Expansion of the State Fair Employment Practices Commission into a human-rights commission, with authority to move against discriminatory practices in housing.

More instruction in the public schools on the American heritage of equality and the Bill of Rights.

Implementation of the State Board of Education's recent position against de facto segregation in California schools.

Anderson asked all citizens to join the state in achieving harmony and social justice for all elements of the population.

'WHAT'LL I DO NOW?'
Miss Beryl Hall of Long Beach had problem on hand Saturday when tree was blown down by wind in front of her car on the 3600 block of Denver Avenue. High winds Saturday upset trash barrels, blocked traffic on highways in addition to uprooting trees.

between Pt. Concepcion and the Mexican border.

In Long Beach and Los Angeles harbors alone, at least eight fishing vessels were bobbing helplessly as crewmen cut themselves adrift to keep from being smashed against piers.

"This has created a major headache for us all up and down the coast," a Coast Guard spokesman said.

Meanwhile, a Coast Guard cutter rendezvoused off Pyramid Cove on San Clemente Island with a disabled fishing vessel. Earlier another boat crashed and sank at that spot.

• • • •

OFFICERS at Long Beach said the skipper of the sunken craft managed to scramble onto the rocks and later was picked up by a rescue boat from a naval station on the island.

The second craft, a 24-footer, was shipping water after its steering mechanism broke and propeller was cut away.

The island, 50 miles south of Newport Beach, has been battered by high waves and strong winds since early Friday.

At Cabrillo Beach, the 100-foot motor schooner Crusader dragged her anchor and was drifting toward shore when a tug passed her a line and towed her off. Owner of the ship, Calvary Church of the Full Gospel, is outfitting her for a missionary voyage.

WITH blowing sand completely obscuring visibility in many areas, the California Highway Patrol late in the day closed four highway routes to campers and house trailers. These were:

U.S. 101-alternate from Los Angeles city limit to Ventura County line; U.S. 66 in the Cucamonga-Fontana area; U.S. 60 near Ontario-Redlands; U.S. 70-99, Ontario-Colton area.

An indirect fatality of the storm was three-year-old James W. Downey, of 1721 S. Evergreen St., Santa Ana.

Police said the son of James and Judy Downey was playing at a neighboring apartment house when strong wind blew open a door to a swimming pool. Mouth-to-mouth resuscitation failed to revive the lad after he fell into the pool.

FOREST officials reported fire hazards in mountain and foothill areas will be "very high to extreme" for the next three days. Zero humidity was reported in some areas.

At the highest elevations, ski conditions were described as all but nonexistent. Patchy snow dotted the ground at such resorts as Big Bear and high winds made downhill trails extremely hazardous. Saturday's low temperature at that 6,750-foot spot was—1.

sissippi and Louisiana during the night.

Only Florida and Virginia escaped the winter onslaught. Richmond, Va., had its sixth straight spring-like day with a high temperature of 68. Three girl musicians fainted from the 86-degree heat during a jamboree at Surfside, Fla.

There were five storm deaths each in Nebraska, Colorado and Utah. Wisconsin had four, Illinois three, Louisiana two, and one each in Kansas, Nevada, Missouri, North Dakota and South Dakota.

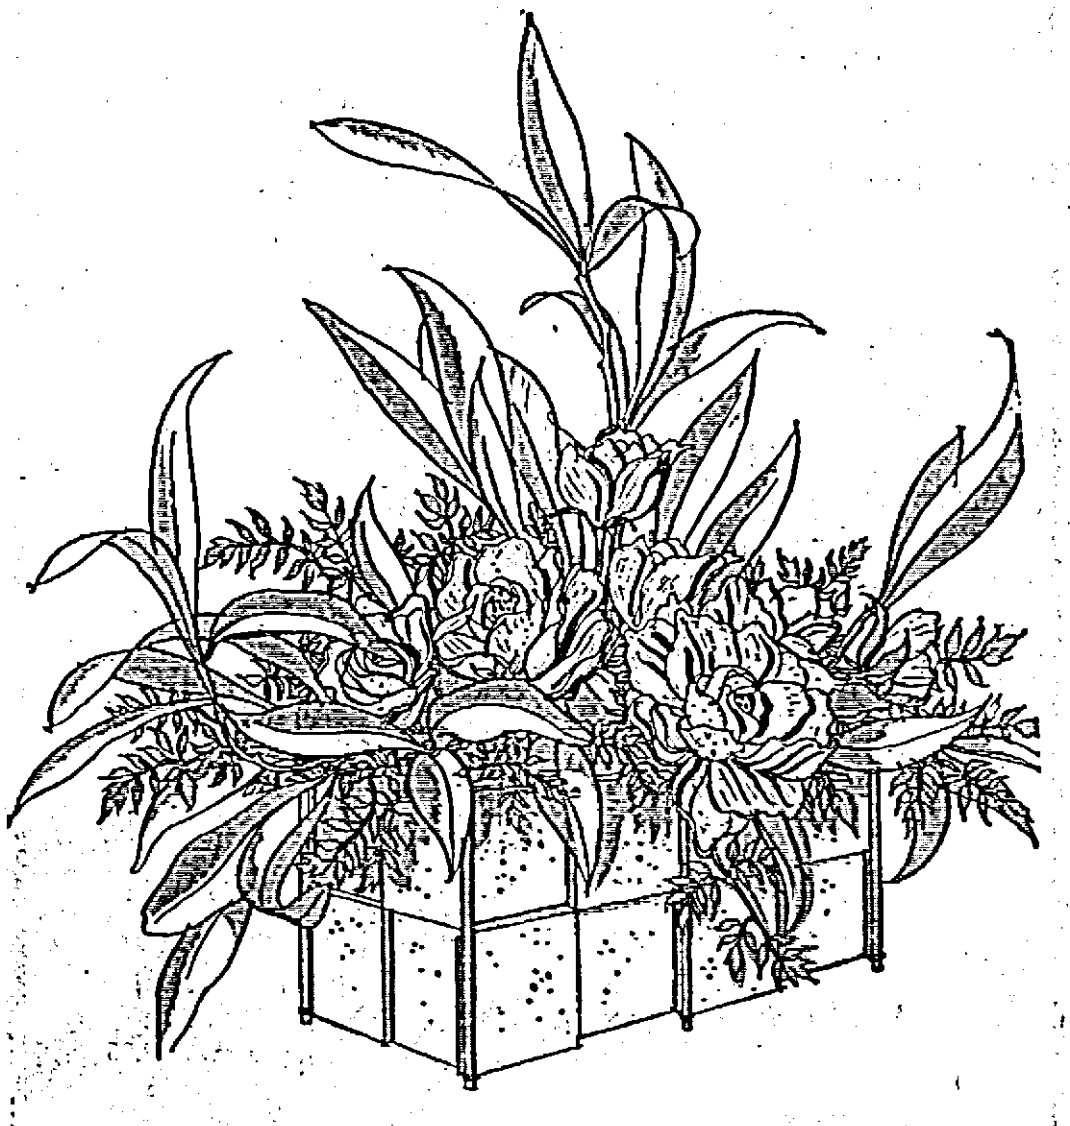

Thick clouds and cold curtailed the search for two planes missing with six persons aboard in Colorado's Rockies.

A 5-year-old Hettinger, N.D., girl who wandered outside while her parents were away died of frostbite.

WORLD NEWS BRIEFS

No Secrets Told, Pentagon Says

WASHINGTON (AP)—A published report that a Soviet study of U.S. military strength had fallen into American hands brought from the Pentagon Saturday the suggestion that the material appeared to be a book sold commercially. Officials said it includes no material considered secret by the United States.

The Omaha World-Herald, in a dispatch from its Washington office, described some of the details in what they said was a "vast and comprehensive study of United States military strength prepared by the Russians." The newspaper said it contains supposedly secret information.

In answer to questions, the Pentagon said it was aware of no official Russian document which fitted that description.

But, a spokesman said, it was possible the reference was to a 600-page book which went on sale in Russia, 1962, called "Military Strategy." It was prepared by a V. D. Solovsky and was translated recently by the U.S. Air Force, the spokesman said.

JFK Thanks Aide in Cuba Talks

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy, in a letter released today by the White House, has voiced his "very greatest appreciation to John J. McCloy for service to the nation during "the difficult negotiations on the Cuban affair."

McCLOY

McCloy headed a special U.S. team which dealt with the Russians at the United Nations and finally came to a settlement.

McCloy worked with Adlai E. Stevenson, U.S. ambassador to the U.N. and the State and Defense Departments. Kennedy said his work had been most valuable.

Comic Newhart Weds Virginia Quinn

LOS ANoELES (AP)—Comedian Bob Newhart, 33, and Virginia Quinn, 22, daughter of actor William Quinn, were married Saturday. The ceremony was performed at St. Victor Roman Catholic Church, West Hollywood, by the assistant pastor, the Rev. Brian Kane.

Seven Rescued From Burning Ship

PROVINCETOWN, Mass. (AP)—Seven fishermen, trapped on the bow of their burning ship, were rescued before dawn Saturday by a Coast Guard helicopter minutes before an explosion wrecked the 96-foot craft. None of the crewmen was injured.

U.S., Russia to Talk Disarmament

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States and Russia will open special talks on a nuclear weapons test ban and perhaps other disarmament issues in New York next Monday afternoon, the State Department disclosed today.

FOSTER

The United States will be represented by William C. Foster, director of the U.S. Disarmament Agency. Russia will be represented by two ambassadors, H. E. Fedorenko, envoy to the United Nations, and Semyon K. Tsarapkin, a top Soviet disarmament expert.

U.S. officials said Britain was advised of the plan for the two-power talks, and will be kept informed of their progress.

Parents, 3 Children Die in Fire

BONANZA, Utah (UPI)—A cabin that was home for a family of 10 burned to the ground in 25 below zero cold Saturday, killing two parents and three children.

Five children, aged 8 to 14, survived and were treated for burns. Victims of the fire, which apparently started from an overheated stove, were Mr. and Mrs. Marion R. (Lucky) Madsen and three children. The youngsters were Judy, 11, Betsy Lou, 4, and Sammy, 3.

Pacifists, Rain, Fail to Halt Launching

GROTON, Conn. (UPI)—Rain and pacifists showed up today to try to hamper the christening of the huge $110-million atomic Polaris submarine Nathan Hale, but the mighty ship slid down the ways to join the Atlantic Fleet.

The new submarine was the sixth of the Lafayette class to join the fleet. The seventh, the John Adams, was also launched Saturday at Portsmouth, N.H.

JFK Crosses Fingers on Fate of Program

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy apparently is keeping his fingers crossed about the fate of his legislative program in Congress, despite his victory in the House Committee fight.

Kennedy has told those who have discussed the political situation with him he believes the chances for passage of controversial proposals he makes may have improved somewhat in the Senate but are about the same in the House as they were in 1962.

Another decision important to the President will come Monday when House Democrats caucus to determine who fills two places on the powerful Ways and Means Committee—which holds the key on presidential tax plans and other administration goals such as medical care for the elderly.

• • • •

THREE MEN are seeking the two places—Reps. Phil M. Landrum of Georgia, W. Pat Jennings of Virginia and Ross Bass of Tennessee. The real contest seems to lie between Landrum and Jennings with the former uncommitted on medicare and the latter favoring the President's Social Security approach, in principle.

Public congressional activity Monday will center on the President's State-of-the-Union Message to both houses. He is to deliver this in person at 12:30 p.m. EST. (9:30 PST). As usual, it is expected this will be couched in general terms with specific recommendations reserved for later, special messages.

In the Senate, preliminaries probably will be carried out for a prolonged fight over the Senate filibuster rule. Motions to change the present rule and make it easier to curb filibusters are expected to be offered.

• • • •

SOUTHERN opponents of any change in the present rule—which requires a two-thirds majority of those voting in order to limit debate—already are organized to filibuster against it. However, the actual debate is not likely to start until Thursday.

But it could run on for days, or even weeks, once it starts.

The President was represented as surprised by his margin in the 235-196 vote by which the House decided to continue its rules committee at the 15-man level. Nominally, this is expected to produce 8-7 votes in the traffic-directing group to send major administration proposals to the House floor.

There is some thought in Congress that Democratic leaders may have done too good a job in rounding up support for a move Kennedy said would determine whether his program was to get a hearing or would be shunted aside by a 12-member committe controlled by Republicans and conservative Southern Democrats.

There may be a tendency by Democrats who back the administration only when they are put under heavy pressure to point to the 39-vote margin as indicating their help isn't needed on individual measures they want to oppose.

Five Bids Made on Superplane Study

WASHINGTON (AP) — Five companies or combinations of companies submitted bids to the space agency this week for advance research on a 2,000-mile-an-hour commercial airliner.

The offers were for studies based on four tentative configurations, or general shapes, of supersonic transports, as developed by the Langley Research Center, Langley Air Force Base, Va., and the Ames Laboratory, Moffett Field Calif. Both are agencies of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Proposals were received at Langley from the Boeing Airplane Co., Seattle; North American Aviation, Los Angeles; Lockheed, Burbank, Calif.; General Dynamics Corp., Fort Worth, Tex.; and a team composed of Douglas Aircraft, Santa Monica, Calif., Republic Aviation, Farmingdale, N.Y., and McDonnell Aircraft, St. Louis, Mo.

Langley conducted wind-tunnel studies of the various shapes at simulated speeds of two to three times the speed of sound or 1,200 to 2,000 miles an hour.

NASA will select, later this month, the winner of the contract to study the various kinds of engines, fuels and subsidiary systems the different aircraft designs might best employ.

U.S. Watches Reds' Huddle in E. Berlin

By WALTER T. RIDDER
Chief L. P-T Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — With particular intensity those here who deal with Russian affairs are watching the East German Communist Party convention which will be held this week in East Berlin.

Star of the show will be Nikita S. Khrushchev who is arriving at the conference with a vast horde of advisers. Khrushchev is technically only head of a "fraternal delegation" to the conference, the chairman of which is East Germany's Communist leader, Walter Ulbricht. However, it is obvious the Russian will dominate the proceedings.

• • • •

THE UNANNOUNCED but main topic for discussion at the conference will be the latest cold war—that between Russia and Red China. American experts are anticipating that an open break between the two countries may be in the offing. Khrushchev is therefore doing his best to line up his satellites and to make sure they stay on his side of the ideological fence when, and if, the break comes.

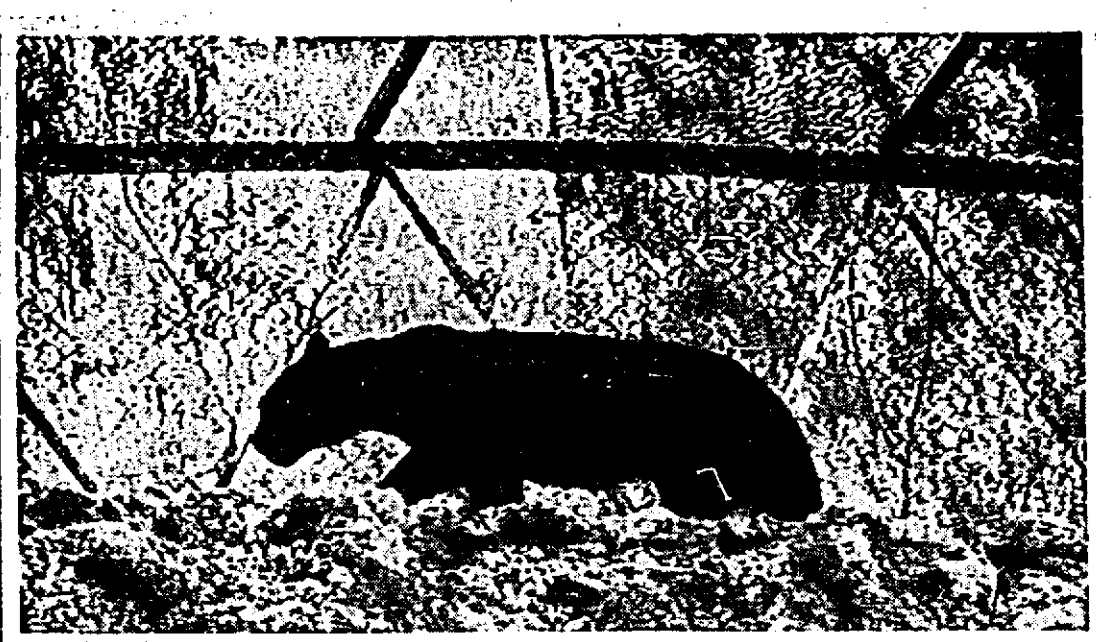

Khrushchev had not originally intended to be at the East Berlin show. He put the trip on rather hurriedly and equally hurriedly made up a train schedule which had him stopping off for a couple of day in Poland to hold talks last Thursday and Friday with Poland's Communist boss, Wladyslaw Gomulka. The suspicion in Washington is that Khrushchev is busy arranging for purges in the statellite Communist parties, ridding them of those who follow the old Stalinist and the current Red Chinese line.

• • • •

IF THERE IS a momentary slackening in the U.S.-Russian cold war, as there now appears to be, this is because Khrushchev probably is more concerned now with Red China than he is with the capitalist world. The heavy verbal shelling between the Soviets and the Chinese have put the Communist world into a ferment and the parties everywhere are seething and writhing in the vicious internecine strife.

The Red Chinese will be represented at the East Berlin conference. However Khrushchev is taking no chances. He has them woefully outnumbered. He is bringing with him his ideological experts, his theorists, and his propagandists. Among those accompanying him are the editors of the two Russian news services and the editors of the two leading Russian newspapers. Khrushchev intends to make sure that his story is told and told fast and that his men will be present everywhere to combat whatever argument and propaganda may be spread by the Red Chinese.

It should be quite a show, but no matter what happens the great and unresolved question will still remain: is the fight between the Russians and the Red Chinese good or bad for the free world? To that one, no one yet knows the answer.

Nikita, Gomulka Talk in Pole's Camp David

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Premier Khrushchev and Polish Communist chief Wladyslaw Gomulka prepared to break camp Saturday. They have been relaxing for two days in the Polish north woods and presumably discussing the Peking-Moscow dispute.

The Soviet leader is en route to East Berlin, where he will be the star of the East German Communist Party Congress next week.

Official information on Khrushchev's activities was withheld. But there was lively speculation that Gomulka was undertaking to mediate in the Soviet - Chinese Communist ideological quarrel that is expected to be aired at the Berlin Congress.

• • • •

THE TWO leaders donned fur hats, coats and boots to walk and hunt in the snow-covered woods of their "Polish Camp David."

The name was applied to the Gomulka - Khrushchev meeting place north of Warsaw by a Pole who recalled the Soviet premier's 1959 meeting with President Eisenhower at a secluded lodge at Camp David, Md.

Khrushchev and the Polish Communist leader were said to have bagged three lynxes and several wild boars. They were reported at a two-story lakeside villa at Lansk, south of Olsztyn (former Allenstein, East Prussia).

Atomspheric Test

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Air Force said it will drop a 9-foot inflatable sphere from an altitude of 160 miles in mid-February to test atmospheric density. The experiment will be conducted at Elgin Air Force Base, Valpariso, Fla.

Black Leopard Kills Veteran Zookeeper

grunt. There were no screams," was the description of a 14-year-old boy gave of an attack that cost the life of a San Diego zoo attendant.

The boy, Rich Adams of Arcadia, said he watched the silent struggle for a moment, then got up courage to climb a fence and run up a hill to the rear of the cage where James Tutte, 35, was being mauled by the animal.

"The cat had the man down and was chewing on his face," Rick said. "I thought, 'oh, God, he's dead.'"

ANOTHER attendant, Augie Campos, 32, heard the boy's scream for help.

"The panther had Tuttle down and was shaking him by the back of the neck," Campos said.

Italian Doctors Halt Strike on Red Tape

ROME (UPI)—Italy's 83,000 striking doctors called off their 48-hour strike at midnight Saturday but threatened to walk out again in the near future in protests against low fees and government red tape.

The doctors maintained emergency service with skeleton staffs but said the strike was effective.

It was called to emphasize demands for a slash in paper work connected with the treatment of patients under health insurance and medical assistance organization programs. About 90 per cent of patients treated fall into these categories.

'Quit Berlin,' Izvestia Tells West

MOSCOW (UPI)—The government newspaper Izvestia said Saturday night that Western troops should leave West Berlin and a peace treaty be concluded with East Germany. It said West Berlin must become a city of peace instead of danger.

No threats were made and no deadlines set.

Western observers here cited the newspaper comments as still further evidence of a Soviet diplomatic drive for a Berlin settlement. They predicted the issue will share the spotlight with the expected airing of the Sino-Soviet dispute at the East German party congress opening in East Berlin Tuesday.

EX-CONVENTION CHIEF

Jones Joins Staff of The Breakers

HOWARD JONES
On Hotel's Board

Appointment of Howard Jones, former manager of the Long Beach Convention Bureau, as vice president and director of the Breakers International Hotel was announced Saturday by Fred A. Miller, president and owner.

Jones, who will direct the hotel's sales, public relations and community-relations activities in the executive post, has become a stockholder in the hotel.

• • • • •

"SELECTION of Jones for this new key position gives the Breakers International a top-level team to serve our Long Beach and Southern California residents," said Miller. "With our current remodeling program nearly completed and additional improvements contemplated in the near future, we are now able to offer the finest in rooms, food and service and look forward to a bright and successful future serving the Long Beach area."

In accepting the new post, Jones stressed his confidence in the future of Long Beach. "Our city is entering its brightest era. Such events as the coming World's Fair, growth of our great harbor, new recreation attractions, commercial and industrial activity and other factors will do much for Long Beach. It will be a challenge and pleasure to continue to participate in its growth."

• • • • •

JONES SERVED nine years as manager of the Convention Bureau. He previously held key positions with the Chamber of Commerce and Community Chest.

He is a member of Rotary Club, Advertising and Sales Club, past president of the California Association of Convention Bureaus, former president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce and a director of the Children's Home Society. He has lived here since 1932 and resides with his wife and family at 651 Ultimo Ave.

Rescue of Skybolt by De Gaulle Hinted

By ELIE MAISSI

PARIS (UPI) — The air-launched Skybolt missile, abandoned by the United States and Britain, may find a new champion in President Charles de Gaulle, reliable reports said Saturday.

Qualified military sources said that, from a purely military view, France prefers a Skybolt-type nuclear deterrent system to the Polaris which is fired from a submerged submarine.

The French military believes that a fast plane equipped with a medium-range missile carrying a small nuclear warhead might be more adaptable to French needs. De Gaulle is expected to touch on the Polaris question at his Monday press conference.

• • • • •

THE 1,500-mile-range Skybolt, meant as Britain's chief independent nuclear deterrent, was scrapped as too costly by the United States after several test failures. The Polaris will be given instead to Britain and it has been offered to De Gaulle.

(In London, Sir Arthur Harvey, chairman of the ruling Conservative Party's Parliamentary Defense Committee, said upon return from the United States, Skybolt was scrubbed "largely on political grounds. It was certainly not for technical reasons. The missile behaved as planned and was only 42 days behind schedule after two years of planning.")

A high-ranking French expert told UPI that while U.S. defense requires a long-range nuclear submarine to reach West European shores before firing the Polaris, European countries such as France do not have the same problem. Their needs are for faster, shorter-range means of delivering a nuclear punch.

French experts believe the position of submarines at the beginning of any conflict probably would be known to the enemy through radar and radio monitoring. Thus, they could easily be tracked and destroyed.

• • • • •

THE IDEA of a plane traveling at twice the speed of sound with a nuclear warhead in a missile would allow aircraft to be in the air and beyond the range of detection at zero hour.

Objections raised in Washington and elsewhere against the Skybolt system have been taken into very serious consideration by French experts, the sources said.

One thing the experts admit is against the system is the question of controlling and guiding missiles after they are launched from a fast plane.

The experts said this was probably the reason why the French have not yet taken any firm decision either way.

Air Fleet Moves Men for NATO

FT. RILEY, Kan. (UPI)—A four-day switch of some 3,000 crack infantrymen between here and NATO forces in Germany is slated to begin today, using a 13-plane fleet of Air Force C135 transports.

The movement, called Operation Long Thrust VI, is a continuation of air mobility reinforcement of NATO forces. A 1,500-man battle group will be sent to Germany and a similar unit returned.

The Military Air Transport Service planes are to pick up the troops at Forbes Air Force Base near Topeka, Kan., and fly non-stop to Rhein-Main AFB, Frankfort, Germany. It will require 20 roundtrips, nine hours going and 11 hours returning, to complete the mission.

• • • • •

BESIDES switching the two reinforced infantry battle groups, the exercise will transport some 24 tons of gear and equipment to Germany. The unit moving to Germany, Task Force 28, is commanded by Col. Joffre H. Boston of Bowling Green, Ky. The unit returning is Task Force 12, commanded by Col. Thomas J. Clary of Philadelphia.

Task Force 12 moved to Germany last summer in a similar exercise. Part of the time was spent in intensive field training in West Germany and part as the NATO garrison in West Berlin. Another unit from here, Task Force 13, replaced 12 in Berlin.

Both units are moving without their heavy equipment, which remained in Germany.

Japanese Catch 500 Antarctic Blue Whales

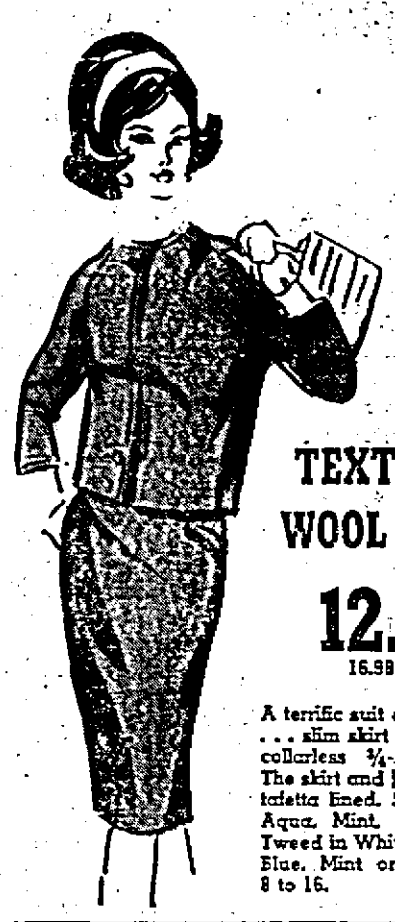

TOKYO (AP)—Japan's seven whaling fleets—the world's largest—got off to a favorable start in the Antarctic this season.

Informed sources said Nihon Fisheries Co. hauled in more than 500 blue whales in the first four week, in addition to other kinds of whales. The season began Dec. 12.

The firm harvested a little less than 350 blue whales in the corresponding period of the previous season.

Japan is allowed to catch 41 per cent of the total ceiling of 15,000 under an agreement signed by the five nations that operate in the Antarctic —Britain, Norway, the Netherlands, the Soviet Union and Japan.

LBSC Master Plan Approved

PROPOSED CENTRAL ENTRANCE to Long Beach State will be located on Seventh Street immediately east of the administration building instead of on west side as at present. So-called Loop Road terminates at college plaza and swings back. Nine-story faculty office building is in background.

to the administration buildings on its west.

The entrance connects with a new "loop drive" which swings to and from the plaza and the nine-story Language Arts office building, described as the "theme structure" of the campus. The present entrances will be reduced to single lanes—one for entrance and the other for exit.

* * * *

STATE COLLEGE Drive, which separates the upper and lower campuses, will be closed, excluding automobiles from the central academic area.

Situated east of the present library, the plaza is described as "the heart of the public portion of the campus." The theme building hovers over a large reflecting pool with sculpture and fountains. The plaza's east face is enclosed by a 2,500-seat auditorium, and a colonnade connects the theme building with the library and auditorium.

* * * *

TO THE immediate northeast is a large quadrangle, criss-crossed with walks and designed to be one of the most important pedestrian areas. Sculpture, pools, fountains and art works are planned.

The campus square, student heart of the college, would encompass the existing bookstore and cafeteria, plus the student union, amphitheater and a promenade.

The tree-lined, 60-foot-wide promenade extends from the present physical education building on the north to the existing library on the south. It will provide the main campus entrance route from parking lots for 9,000 student cars in the south section. Parking for 1,000 cars of faculty and administrators is provided in the north and central portions.

* * * *

"THE PROMENADE interlaces the campus square and quadrangle and is developed to give heart and personality to the campus," said architect Edward Killingsworth. The wide hillside features planting areas as well as large terraces for conversational groups.

Further trustee approval is necessary for the Atherton Street "fraternity row," which also would be open to sororities and other cooperative housing groups. The question of constructing fraternity and sorority buildings on campuses has not yet been resolved.

ADDITION OF dormitories in the area of the present two will bring the housing capacity to 5,000 students.

The master plan provides for other new construction in many areas of the college, including a general services building at the administration center.

In the music section, a 34,000-square-foot radio-television building and a practice-rooms building are projected. An 80,000-square-foot addition is planned in the science complex.

* * * *

EXPANSIONS also are provided in the engineering industrial arts, language arts, home economics, psychology and physical education centers. Working drawings have been approved for a $550,000 health building, and the corporation yard will be enlarged by 100,000 square feet.

First additions to the campus, besides the health center, will be an addition to the physical education department and a speech-arts classroom building and faculty office. Construction of the entrance and plaza have high priority in the future, Killingsworth said.

Tshombe, Currency Missing

THE UNITED NATIONS earlier took over the bank. An audit found that one billion Congolese francs and a large amount of Katanga francs were missing. One source said "hundreds of thousands" of the latter were unaccounted for.

NDOLA, Northern Rhodesia (UPI)—Katanga President Moise Tshombe left here by plane today and it was believed he was heading for his stronghold of Kolwezi.

Tshombe fled from his capital of Elisabethville to this Northern Rhodesian town early this morning because he said he still feared arrest despite United Nations guarantees of his safety.

He told a news conference he planned to go to Kolwezi Monday and would return to his capital "shortly," without specifying when.

Then, later in the day, he slipped out a back entrance of his Ndola hotel, drove to the airport in a small private car, boarded a chartered plane and took off in the direction of Lusaka, capital of Northern Rhodesia.

* * * *

BUT IT WAS believed Tshombe's actual destination was Solwezi, a town in northern Rhodesia not far from the Katanga border. From there he was expected to board a Katanga plane to return to his secessionist province and his key stronghold at Kolwezi.

His sudden flight from Elisabethville during the night followed the arrival there of 60 Congolese national army men and the presidents of the upper and lower houses of the Congolese parliament, both his bitter enemies.

(British sources in London said the flight was a "complete surprise." And a U.N. spokesman in New York said Tshombe had not forfeited his position as provincial president by his latest flight.

(Furthermore, the spokesman said Tshombe had been given no firm deadline by the U.N. to take his secessionist province back into the Congo, an indication he still had time to make his peace with the U.N. if he can work things out with his Congolese foes.)

25 U.N. Delegates Make Harbor Tour

By JIM HYNES

United Nations representatives from four continents toured Long Beach Harbor Saturday on a private yacht and the consensus could be summed up in one word: magnificent.

"Long Beach," said delegate Anis Hassan from Iraq, "must be one of the richest cities in America to boast such a beautiful harbor as this."

Adding to the harbor's beauty was a multitude of whitecaps whipped up by a strong wind which swept through the city all day.

* * * *

MORE THAN 25 ambassadors and delegates with their hosts from the United Nations Association chapters from the Los Angeles area enjoyed the two-hour tour sponsored by the Long Beach Harbor Dept.

Dr. Andre Akakpo, ambassador from the African nation of Togo, which gained independence from France in 1960, was one of the more lavish in his praise of Long Beach and the harbor area.

"In two days," he said, "I have seen things that my people will have a hard time believing even though they will see it on the film I have taken."

* * * *

TOGO, A NATION of more than one million persons situated on the west coast of Africa adjacent to Ghana, has no major harbor facilities.

Only two representatives of Iron Curtain countries made the tour. Both Ladislav Smid, Czechoslovakia, and Miso Pavicevic, from Yugoslavia, were reserved in their comments.

Delegates from the USSR, the Ukraine and Hungary spent the day touring Los Angeles with their hosts, a spokesman for the harbor department said.

Algerian Group Visits in Cuba

HAVANA (AP)—An Algerian delegation Saturday began an official visit to Cuba.

A spokesman told its Cuban hosts Algeria hopes "to profit from your experiences and theory so that the Algerian people may . . . start the scientific construction of socialism." The Algerians are guests of Cuba's Institute of Friendship With People.

remains a major problem.

"In both 1962 and 1961 we investigated reported attempts by gamblers to fix professional and amateur athletic events.

"Federal responsibility in this area is limited and further legislation might well be necessary.

"We will continue, however to take action under present authority should it be required."

* * * *

QUESTIONED about this portion of the report, a department spokesman declined to say what sports were involved, whether the investigations still are under way, or what legislation might be proposed.

The attorney general said the corruption of public officials is "probably the most damaging of all uses to which racketeers put their illicit profits."

"We have exerted particular effort to expose and prosecute such official corruption — in Newport, Ky., Lake County, Indiana, New York City and elsewhere," he said.

Revamped Army to Be Heavily Gunned, Fast

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army will start within a few weeks to reshape its regular divisions into the most heavily-gunned and most maneuverable in U.S. history.

The changeover, first in seven years, will be gradual and may take the better part of two years to complete.

Fourteen infantry, armor and airborne divisions in the United States, Germany, Korea and the Pacific will be revamped. Only one division at a time will be reorganized in each area to minimize disruption.

The Army's two newest divisions—the 1st Armored at Ft. Hood, Tex., and the 5th Infantry at Ft. Carson, Colo.—were organized under the new concept from the ground up. Their performance in field testing "demonstrated convincingly the soundness of the new division structure," the Army said.

BLARNEY SO GOOD IT'S CANNED

EMMETSBURG, Iowa (AP) —They've started manufacturing Blarney again and you can buy a can today.

The Chamber of Commerce of this northern Iowa community is getting ready for its annual St. Patrick's Day parade and celebration.

The Blarney is packed in orange juice cans wrapped in green and white bunting.

Included in the first shipment was a case for President Kennedy, O'Kennedy for the occasion.

Or maybe the Chamber announcement is just so much Blarney.

The Blarney they're manufacturing is air.

Reno Brothers Help Pay for Church in Italy

GENOA, Italy (AP) — Two Nevada brothers whose money made every resident of their father's Italian village relatively rich two years ago were reported Saturday to have donated $10,000 for a new church.

Residents of San Marco D'Urri, a mountain hamlet 25 miles northeast of here, said they had word that Joseph and Victor Saturno of Reno have deposited the money in an American bank to help pay for a church that San Marco D'Urri plans to build.

Victor, 64, and Joseph, 72, gave about $40,000 worth of Bank of America stock to the 284 residents of the impoverished village in 1959. That worked out to about $1,200 a villager.

The Saturnos' father, Leopoldo, had been an orphan raised by a San Marco family.

L.B. Freeway Billboards Prevent Beautification

By DON KIRKLAND

The weed-lined, paper-littered Long Beach Freeway won't be "prettified."

Not soon, anyway. Maybe never.

That's the word from the State Division of Highways, which regularly raps the knuckles of cities refusing to ban freeway billboards by similarly refusing to make any esthetic improvements along the monotonous expressways.

Long Beach, apparently, is getting the knuckle treatment.

"We simply won't beautify the freeway unless the cities show us they want beautification," said one state official. And "beautification," it seems, doesn't include billboards.

Long Beach councilmen three years ago defeated a proposal which would have barred billboard advertising from freeway routes. Renewed study by the Chamber of Commerce and the Planning Commission prompted a redrawn ordinance, however, and councilmen will be asked to pass on it next month.

Even with approval, though, there's not much chance you'll see blossoming shrubs and flowering eucalyptus on the slopes of yonder freeway.

Here's why:

The state blends its freeway landscaping with adjacent property, at the same time hoping to curb erosion, inhibit fire, discourage weeds and perform a variety of functions necessary to proper maintenance.

If the adjacent land contains attractive homes, the state may be inclined to install shrubs, grass and trees to complement the surroundings. But when it is fronted by junkyards, industrial property and farmland—as is much of the Long Beach Freeway—then the state installs minimum landscaping and calls it quits.

Therefore, passage of a city ordinance banning billboards might arouse little hope in a community-wide campaign to stamp out ugly freeways.

Richard Folkins, billboard section supervisor for the maintenance department of the state highway division, says he sees little change of Long Beach Freeway beautification in the near future. "There's just nothing proposed," he says.

Landscaping a freeway can cost as much as $100,000 a mile, Folkins says, and it seems unlikely the state has a large enough budget to undertake such an expenditure here.

So here's the best answer yet:

Stick to the streets in Long Beach. If you're obsessed to drive the freeway, do it in Pasadena. They've got freeway bridal bushes, acacia trees, flowering shrubs and oleanders.

And no billboards.

Williams to Challenge Romney in 1964 if JFK Wants Him to

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Democractic Gov. G. Mennen Williams said Saturday he is willing to run against Michigan's Republican Gov. George Romney in 1964 if President Kennedy considers the governorship more important than his present State Department assignment.

Williams, assistant secretary of state for African affairs, made his comment on the 1964 Michigan governorship possibility in an interview for the Detroit News.

* * * *

WILLIAMS indicated he is willing to take on Romney in the 1964 governorship race "if the occasion would arise where I would be most able to carry the Democratic banners in Michigan and it was more important to work there than in Africa."

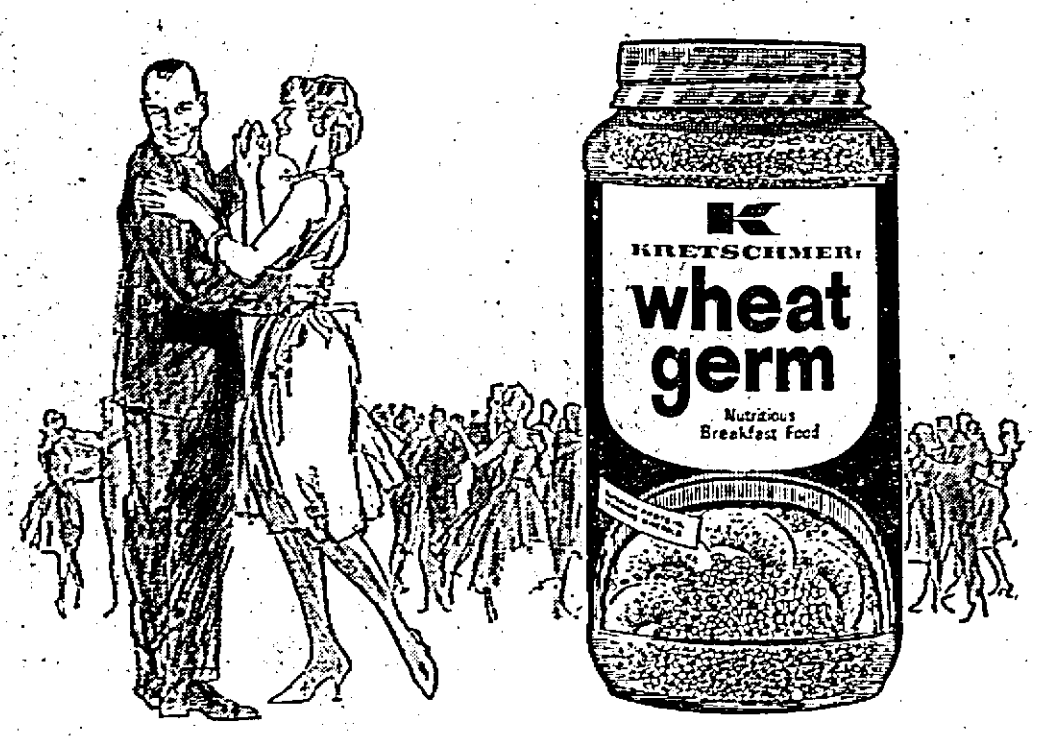

Williams, who served as Michigan's governor for six terms before being named to the State Department post in 1960 by Kennedy, added: "This would be something maybe the President would decide."

Political observers said a governorship race between Williams and Romney would vie for national attention with the presidential election in 1964.

SUCH A campaign probably would make or break whatever political ambitions the two men might have for 1968.

Williams gained the Michigan governorship in 1948 and proved invincible in winning five additional terms.

When he stepped out for the State Department post, Williams gave up the governor's chair to Democrat John B. Swainson. Romney defeated Swainson in last November's election.

Judge Opens Hospital to Ousted M.D.

PECOS, Tex. (UPI) — Dr. John Dunn, controversial physician fired from the staff of the Reeves County Memorial Hospital, was ordered restored to the hospital staff Saturday in an order filed in district court.

Judge W. E. Ward of El Paso said in a court hearing Saturday that he would issue a temporary injunction insuring Dunn full use of the facilities in the Pecos hospital.

But Ward's order as filed with the court clerk said Dunn's "termination of hospital privileges ... is hereby set aside and held for naught as being void."

Dunn, a member of the John Birch Society, insisted the reason he was fired was politics. The president of the hospital's board of managers said it was for malpractice and harassing nurses and politicians.

Dunn turned Billie Sol Estes in to the FBI in February, 1961, suggesting the government look into Estes' anhydrous ammonia (fertilizer) tank dealings.

3 Terrorists Fire U.S. Plant in Venezuela

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—Three terrorists held employes of a U.S. Rubber Co. tire warehouse at gunpoint Saturday while they fused incendiary bombs. Then they fled, authorities said, while the building went up in flames.

Warehouse manager Graham Rainbow said losses were substantial. No casualties were reported.

Terrorists have struck frequently at U.S.-owned installations, as well as public and private buildings. The Venezuelan government blames the campaign mainly on leftists.

WATER INJECTION BRINGS $15.3 MILLION OIL RETURN

LBOD Production Increased 20 Per Cent in '62

By GEORGE WEEKS

Water injection in the harbor section of the Wilmington Oil Field paid big dividends last year in oil and money.

Production by Long Beach Oil Development Co., the city's contractor, increased 20 per cent in 1962—to 11,132,000 barrels from the 1961 figure of 9,265,000 barrels.

The net return to the city—to be devided equally with the state—rose by an even greater margin, 76.3 per cent. It was $8,668,000 in 1961 and $15,325,000 in '62.

City Auditor Murray T. Courson compiled the figures on the basis of actual results in 1961 and the first nine months of 1962, plus estimates for the final quarter of last year.

• • • •

COURSON, former chief accounting officer for the Harbor Department, said the production increase could be traced to nothing but the injection program. Oil output in the harbor district had been declining before the city and private companies initiated the repressuring.

The disproportionate increase in city profits was attributed to two other factors—a slight rise in crude oil prices and a decrease in production expenses as injection costs declined.

The latter was more important, Courson said. He estimated total expense last year at $7,278,000, against $9,905,000 in 1961, a difference of 26.5 per cent.

• • • •

LBOD'S overhead allowance—its share of the profits—amounted to $3,819,000 in '62 and $3,140,000 in the previous year.

The city's other tideland oil contractor, Richfield Oil Corp., did not show comparable results, although there were slight gains last year both in production and net profits.

Courson pointed out that production in the Richfield parcel east of the Los Angeles River started some 10 years after the start of the LBOD operation. The effects of secondary recovery were thus less dramatic.

Comparative figures from the Richfield contract were:
Production, 1962—3,788,000 barrels; 1961—3,767,000.
Net to city, 1962—$5,099,000; 1961—$5,052,000.
Total expenses, 1962—$3,293,000; 1961—$3,166,000.
Overhead allowance, 1962—$527,000; 1961—$512,000.

Beach Combing
With Malcolm Epley

WHAT next from the resourceful and imaginative young music students among the readers of this dept?

Inspired by the exchange with one jr. high girl the other day about the pitch of the foghorns here, now comes another who wants the telephone company to adjust its dial tone so it can be used for instrument tuning.

Writes Ann Gardner, a student at Hamilton Jr. High:

"Many instrumentalists have in their homes no practical means to tune their instruments before practice. This is vital to string players, especially if they don't have perfect pitch.

"I should like to make this plea to the telephone company: The dial tone in this area is slightly off b natural. I see no logical reason why this tone could not be lowered one whole step to a a. The high-pitched sound you receive when you dial 1 and certain other numbers is also a b natural a few octaves higher (slightly off.) This tone should be lowered one half step to a b flat.

Ann says she explained her proposal to a telephone company man. "He didn't know a thing about music and thought I was completely out of my mind," she reports.

Shame on him! What a tremendous public relations idea—a phone company that fixes its dial tones so its musician customers can use it to tune their instruments!

THIS is, as some may already know, the 75th anniversary of Long Beach's incorporation.

A Chamber of Commerce committee is pondering a celebration, possibly something pretty big, for along in the fall. A decision will be made soon.

Meanwhile, it seems to me, individuals, firms and organizations might initiate some ways of recognizing the diamond anniversary of the city. Not all recognition must be organized or follow some official pattern.

Letterhead printings, school programs, club programs, class work ideas, etc., could reflect the significance of the year to our city.

It's early in the year, but if we don't get busy, it'll be over before we get the proper recognition under way.

THE other night six young people of the area, some students and some employed, were riding on Ocean Blvd. when they saw six lieutenants from the French Navy—a Navy training cruiser was in port.

The Long Beachers all live in the same apartment house. They responded to a whim, stopped and invited the Frenchmen to their place. The girls whipped up a scrumptuous chicken dinner. The boys dragged down furniture from their apartments.

Everybody had a wonderful time—especially because the Frenchmen couldn't speak much English. On the following day the local folk took the visitors for an auto trip to see the sights of the area and Hollywood.

There was no special reason for all this—just a spontaneous people-to-people good-will program. The Frenchmen were astounded at the American friendliness. They had never been here and had only seen some of our miserable movies.

Local participants included Joseph and Howard Atkinson, Dennis Albert, Pamela Meyers, and Gloria Meyers. In one evening they did more for international good will than the U.N. has done in many a month.

OUR paper is represented by one of our circulation dept. alumni in the Assembly delegation from this area now in Sacramento.

He's William A. Dannemeyer, new Democratic Assemblyman from Fullerton. He worked for our circ. dept. some years ago, both in the L.B. office and in the Orange Co. Area. With pride.

$15-Million Harbor General Hospital Dedication Slated

Ceremony Scheduled on Monday

By BEN ZINSER
Medical-Science Editor

The new Harbor General Hospital, a 607-bed county-operated facility built and equipped at a cost of $15,400,000, will be dedicated at 10:30 a.m. Monday.

More than 500 civic officials and dignitaries have been invited to attend dedication ceremonies.

The new eight-story hospital, located just east of the existing facility quartered in 100 wooden buildings, is on Vermont Avenue between Carson and 220th streets in Torrance.

• • • •

FULLY air-conditioned, the complex features a two-story outpatient clinic equipped to handle 9,000 patients a month. Another two-story wing contains one of the largest hospital laboratories in the nation.

The building is elevated on columns at the first floor to form a colonnade, enabling patients and visitors to enter both the public and admitting lobbies from their automobiles.

• • • •

TRAVERTINE walls and terrazzo flooring are featured in the main lobby. Basic interior colors alternate from floor to floor—green, yellow, two shades of beige—and contrast with bright accent tones.

Electronic controls, some of the most advanced ever installed, are another feature. Warning lights on the engineer's electronic control panel and the telephone switchboard will blink in case of fire anywhere in the building. They also will blink in case of failure of the ventilating system in operating or delivery rooms, or if pressure should drop in the building's extensive pipeline system for oxygen.

The 450,000-square-foot structure was planned and designed by architects Welton Becket, Adrian Wilson, Paul R. Williams and Francis J. Heusel.

NEW HOSPITAL TO OPEN

Looking on are Mrs. Ruth Ruttan (center), nursing supervisor, and Mrs. Florence Denice. New hospital will be dedicated Monday.

Increase in County Fees for Golf, Parks Requested

L.P-T Los Angeles Bureau

Increases in fees for a variety of county park and recreation facilities, including greens fees on county golf courses, will be recommended Tuesday to the Board of Supervisors.

As proposed by N. S. Johnson, director of parks and recreation, green fees at all county golf courses will go up Feb. 1.

Weekday play on the 18-hole courses would be raised from $2 to $2.50 and weekend and holiday rounds would go up from $2.50 to $3. The monthly ticket would be raised from $12 to $15.

• • • •

AFTERNOON fees on weekdays would go up from $1 to $1.25 and for weekends and holidays, from $1.25 to $1.50.

On the nine-hole course, the weekday fee would go from $1 to $1.25 and the weekend-holiday fee, from $1.25 to $1.50. Student rates would go from 50 to 75 cents, while the monthly ticket would rise from $10 to $12.50.

No change in the 60-cent weekday and 75-cent weekend fees at the "pitch and putt" course recently opened is proposed.

• • • •

JOHNSON said the increases are an attempt to make the golf courses self-supporting.

Also proposed are increases in fees, effective Feb. 1, for use of facilities such as clubhouses, swimming pools and park areas. Existing fees were set in 1957, Johnson said.

Swimming pool charges for children under 12 would be raised from 15 to 25 cents, making the cost 25 cents to all persons under 18. Adult rates would go from 30 to 50 cents.

• • • •

A NEW FEE of $3 an hour will be established for park use by dog obedience classes.

Use of community buildings or auditoriums, which for the first four hours, is $3 an hour for less than 100 persons and $3.75 for 100 persons or more would be increased to $3.75 and $4.75. Beyond four hours, the fee would go up from $4 an hour to $5 an hour.

Similar increases also are proposed for use of kitchens, equipment, bleachers and patios.

Sheldon Picnic

The Sheldon, Iowa Picnic Club will hold its annual indoor picnic from noon to 5 p.m. today in Silverado Park Clubhouse.

City Asks Report on Transit Tax

The City Council's Legislative Committee will meet at 3 p.m. Monday in City Hall to study proposed state legislation to aid the construction of a rapid transit system by the Metropolitan Transit Authority.

Chairman Emmet Sullivan called the meeting in response to a council request for a prompt report on the legislation, including power for MTA to levy a property tax of not more than 15 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

One result of the legislation, according to MTA officials, would be to enable the agency to complete a Long Beach-Los Angeles line in time for the 1967 World's Fair.

The City Bureau of Franchises, which was asked to study technical details of the transit system, will meet at 9:30 a.m. Monday.

Longshoreman Gravely Burned in Hotel Room

A 68-year-old Long Beach longshoreman, badly burned when his cigarette set fire to his hotel room, was in serious condition at Kaiser Hospital in Torrance Saturday.

Police said Nels J. Johnson was discovered unconscious Saturday on the floor of his room in the Marleton Hotel, 144½ Long Beach Blvd., after hotel manager Robert E. Goux and a passer-by, Michael Snelling, 19, of the USS Kearsarge, kicked in his locked door. Snelling had seen the flames in Johnson's room from the street.

Johnson was given emergency treatment at St. Mary's Hospital for second- and third-degree burns on his face, chest and both arms. Firemen who extinguished the blaze said Johnson apparently fell asleep while smoking.

The fire damaged the rug, curtain and blinds in the room.

RELIEF IN SIGHT FOR HUNTINGTON BEACH

They Have Classes in Street

By BOB GEIVET

HUNTINGTON BEACH—They've got school in the street here — and everywhere else there's any room.

The elementary school system, unable to build classrooms fast enough, is using anything it can to house the youngsters, and is fast running out of space.

By early next month, however, there will be some relief—it will be king-size relief for harried teachers and administrators.

By then, John R. Peterson School at 20661 Farnsworth Lane will be ready for occupancy, and it will have a first-day enrollment of at least 629.

That many pupils already are in classes—everywhere.

• • • •

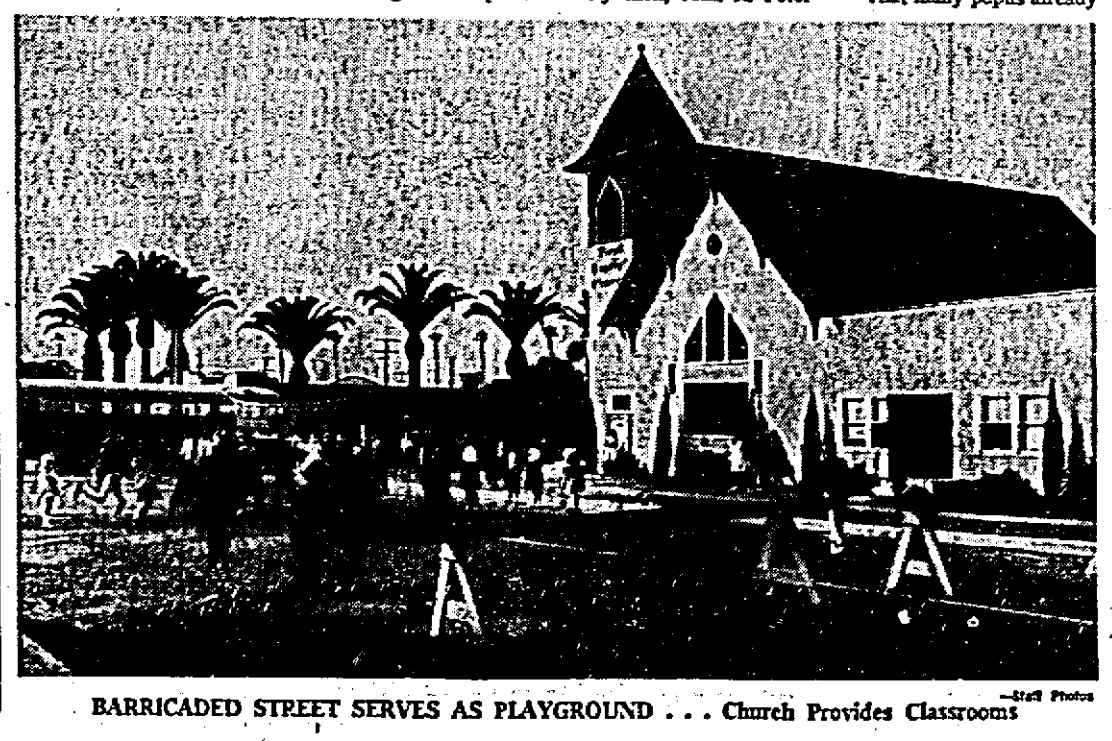

THERE ARE seven classrooms set up in First Baptist Church at Sixth Street and Orange Avenue, opposite City Hall. They roped off the street—and that's the children's playground.

There are three classrooms in Recreation Center, 17th Street and Orange Avenue—where there's a built-in playground.

And the Huntington Beach Elementary School plant set up 12 classrooms in the teachers' lounge, in the health offices, on the stage and everywhere else there's room for some desks.

Administering a school with that many pupils scattered in so many places isn't easy. Superintendent Peterson, for whom the new school was named, assigned Miss Betty Funkhouser to the task.

She figures that by the time the John R. Peterson School is ready, it will have a lot more kids than the 629 already enrolled. But there will be room for them—something there isn't enough of now.

Prestige Is More Than Being Loved

WHAT IS THE ESSENCE OF national prestige?

Does prestige depend on hurting nobody's feelings, obtaining everybody's approval, and compromising every issue?

Or does a nation gain prestige by ignoring opinion polls and acting as principle and good sense dictate?

THE ISSUE OF PRESTIGE was much debated in the 1962 presidential election campaign, with candidate John Kennedy contending that American prestige had declined under the administration of Dwight Eisenhower. There was even an elaborate and detailed survey kicking around which purported to show which countries liked us and which did not and why. Before the campaign ended, many Americans had reduced Mr. Kennedy's charge to an unfortunate oversimplification — that it is bad national policy to do anything which will displease other nations.

PRESIDENT KENNEDY NOW makes it quite clear that he did not mean any such thing or, if he did, has changed his mind.

In a discussion with newsmen recently in Palm Beach, Mr. Kennedy indicated that the United States will follow a vigorous, determined, and independent foreign policy which may at times step on other people's toes. He said he thought that "too often in the past we have defined our leadership as an attempt to be rather well regarded." But, he added, "The fact is you can't possibly carry out any policy without causing major frictions." The United States, he said, "ought to be more aware" of the fact that "we are going to incur at intervals people's displeasure."

SOMETHING HAS MADE a very strong impression on the President's mind, and no doubt that something was the obviously profound impact which his actions in the Cuban crisis exerted on friends and foes alike. Some nations complained that they had not been consulted, some complained that the action was precipitate, but the result was general admiration and respect. America found out again what prestige really is.

IT IS AMAZING THAT after the many lessons furnished by American history, Americans had to learn all over again that national prestige comes from having strong policies of principle and acting upon them with vigor. But brainwashing can erase reason. We had been led to believe that it is immoral to be independent, that the object of foreign policy is to radiate a sweet personality, and that principle does not matter as long as we are loved. Let's hope the President's statements mean that the period of delusion is at an end.

Old Guard Got Its Lumps in GOP Tilt

By Our Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — ALMOST EVERYONE is putting this interpretation or that onto the apparent rebellion which occurred in Republican ranks last Tuesday. The "Old Guard" definitely got its lumps, but those who pulled it off put forth two disclaimers:

First, they say, it definitely was not an attack on the leadership of Charles Halleck. Here is the gentle way one of them put it:

"We just gave him notice that he'd have to do a better job — or else."

Second, they wish to avoid the designation "Young Turks," which is the way they are being described, and with some sarcasm. The bulk of the rebel forces was composed of House veterans. The man they chose to head the Republican conference — Gerald Ford, Michigan — is 49. The instigators are mainly of the mid-forties and fifties.

The effort was made to give the articulate majority of the Republican House delegation — both conservatives and liberals — a voice in policy decisions, to force its leadership to take stands on issues in the House even when defeat is certain.

An example of the failure to stand, or to present alternative positions to Democratic legislation, occurred last year during the scrap over medicare. A group of Republicans put together a bill which recognized the problem, but which presented a different approach. But it came to the floor without Halleck's blessings and, in fact, after he had pulled the rug out from under them.

THE ANONYMITY of American Vice-Presidents has long been a standard joke. There was the old one on the vaudeville circuit which told of the mother who was lamenting the fates of her two sons. "One went to sea," she said, "the other became Vice-President of the United States — and NEITHER has been heard of since." The latest version of this runs that Lyndon B. Johnson is about to make an appearance on "What's My Line?"

FRANCIS BIDDLE, FORMER Attorney-General of the United States, has been engaged in writing a rather lengthy autobiography. The first volume, "A Casual Past," appeared a couple of years ago. The second volume, "In Brief Authority," was just recently published. The other day Biddle made a speech before a women's group here in Washington in order to plug his new book. The chairlady in introducing him was generous in her praise of his book, but she kept talking only about the first volume. Obviously she hadn't realized that Biddle was present to boost his book which is for sale, not the one which is out-of-print.

1963 Session of Legislature Off to a Partisan Beginning

L. A. Times-Mirror Sacramento Bureau

SACRAMENTO—The 1963 Legislature is off to a highly partisan start, and veteran observers say the Democratic-Republican scrapping is more furious than usual this early in a session.

For one thing, Republicans ripped into Gov. Edmund G. Brown's inaugural message even before he finished making his speech. GOP legislators obviously had obtained an advance copy of Brown's text.

M'CAULEY

For another, State Sen. Donald L. Grunsky (R-Watsonville) says "the word is out that if you want to get a bill through this year, you'd better get a Democratic author."

Democrats outnumber Republicans 52 to 28 in the Assembly and 27 to 13 in the Senate.

Grunsky says Democrats passed the word to lobbyists that bills will fare better if Democrats carry them. In recent years, Grunsky says, lobbyists have asked him to carry 20 to 30 bills. This year the Republican senator hasn't had a single request from the Third House—the lobbyists.

• • • •

GRUNSKY presumes his lobbyist friends are taking their business exclusively to Democrats.

Democratic leaders say there is no boycott on bills introduced by Republicans. Ways and Means Chairman Bob Crown of Alameda maintains the Democratic leadership wants bills considered on their merits no matter who sponsors them.

And not all Republicans appear as convinced as Grunsky that such a scheme is under way by Democrats. However, most lobbyists admit privately that Democrats will author most of their 1963 bills.

You can't blame the lobbyists, however. It's good political insurance. There has been a marked trend toward more partisan politics in the legislature since cross-filing was abolished.

And there is no question in Sacramento but what the Democrats have taken firm command of the capitol.

But regardless which way the political chips fly, Long Beach area is well represented.

Assemblyman Joseph M. Kennick (D-Long Beach) has been close to the Brown administration, and some capitol insiders are betting he will wind up with the chairmanship of the Assembly Transportation and Commerce Committee. That committee would play a key role this year on any bill to give taxing authority to Metropolitan Transit Authority.

Assemblyman Carley V. Porter (D-Compton) is chairman of the powerful 31-man Los Angeles County delegation in the Assembly. Assemblyman Vincent Thomas (D-San Pedro) is dean of the Assembly, holding more seniority than any other assemblyman.

State Sen. Thomas Rees of Los Angeles County, a former assemblyman, is a power among the Democratic majority due to the influence of the state's largest county.

On the Republican side, State Sen. John A. Murdy of Orange County swings a lot of weight as a 10-year veteran. GOP leaders also are jubilant over the quality of their 1963 crop of freshmen.

Hailed as among the most promising are George Deukmejian of Long Beach and James E. Whetmore of Los Alamitos.

• • • •

DEMOCRATS are equally proud of their first-year legislators, including John Monroe of Santa Fe Springs and William E. Dannemeyer of Fullerton.

Several of the non-Long Beach lawmakers are well acquainted with Long Beach problems. Dannemeyer of Fullerton attended high school at Long Beach's Poly. Porter of Compton has taught classes at Long Beach City College.

Preposterous Is Fair Word for 10 Per Cent Board Vote

APATHY HAS taken the Fifth—a fifth of our registered voters, that is. About 21 per cent of those registered to vote last Nov. 6 didn't do it. If those people are still at their same addresses they may have registration reinstated easily by returning postcard notifications sent them by the county registrar.

HOUSER

The ghost of elections past is pertinent now because of things coming up. We elect three to the Long Beach Unified School District board of education April 5. We elect nine Long Beach city councilmen in a May 14 primary and a June 4 final.

Registration deadline for the school board election is Feb. 10. Deadline for city council registration is March 21.

Preposterous is a fair word to use for the turnout at our school board elections. It was slightly over 10 per cent at the last election in 1961—18,980 out of 185,829 registered. At the same time, citizen nonvoting has a vague plus about it, in that voter silence on board elections might be construed as satisfaction with the job being done. However, this kind of silence can lead to a sometime election of an undesirable who calculates to beat the known poor turnout.

CONSIDER the school board job. The five trustees elected for four-year terms, two elected at one two-year interval, three at the next two-year interval, govern an establishment of more than 80,000 full-time students and 20,000 part-time students plus 4,728 employes.

Trustees control a current budget of $42,813,960 which is more than $10 million greater than the City of Long Beach budget.

The Long Beach Unified School District covers virtually all of Long Beach, all of Signal Hill and Avalon, about two-thirds of Lakewood and some county territory outside the city limits.

Board members get $25 a meeting. The big work, the low pay, the big responsibility show clearly the need for top-caliber servants. The kind to whom a vote of confidence is the least tribute we can give.

The three members whose seats are at stake April 5 are Dr. Dwight C. Sigworth, president, Jerald S. Jacobs and Ted Sullivan. All three are expected to seek reelection. Jacobs was appointed to the unexpired term of Laban H. Brewer, who resigned, and Sullivan was named after the death of board president Dr. Walter H. Boyd. Terms of Mrs. Elizabeth Hudson, vice president, and M. A. (Bud) Duncan, run to 1965.

CANDIDATES may file, without fee, until the deadline, Feb. 18. Forms for declaration of candidacy may be obtained at Room 302, Board of Education Building, 701 Locust Ave., or from the county superintendent of schools, 155 W. Washington Blvd., Los Angeles 15. Declarations must be filed with the county superintendent.

Citizens may register to vote in Room 101, City Hall, 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. Mondays through Fridays. Absentee voting provisions also apply. Absentee ballots must be applied for at Room 302, Board of Education Building, March 7 through March 29. Such ballots must be returned April 2, three days before election day.

Last biggest turnout for the board election was in 1953 when it was consolidated with a city election and drew 26.74 per cent. Since then the biennial elections have drawn 12.5 per cent in 1955; 13.5 in 1957; 13.5 in 1959 and 10.2 in 1961.

PRECINCTS have been consolidated into 251 polling places for the board election. Their numbers and locations have been published in classified legal advertising Jan. 11 and will be repeated Jan. 18 and Jan. 25. Voters also will be advised of their precinct polling place in their sample ballots which will be mailed March 15 through 24.

U.S. Freedom's Last Bastion

EDITOR:

Recently our papers reported a sad little episode in Russia wherein a small band of Christian peasants approached our embassy and asked for asylum. For obvious reasons they had to be turned away. As they went they spoke these words, "There is no place for us here—no place to go."

Those words haunted me for I thought what if one day I were faced with the same situation. Would I have an embassy to go to, a wall to tunnel under or a border to cross? Where could I go? At the risk of being called a scare-monger I must conclude that the answer would be—no place at all! America is fast becoming the last bastion of freedom, and because too many of us prefer to bury our heads in the sand we are fast losing that freedom.

You think I am crying wolf without reason? Well my fellow citizens listen to these statements from a little paperback put out by the Communist Party U.S.A.:

"The defeat of Sens. Capehart and Wiley, Congressman Judd and Richard Nixon are defeats for all those most closely associated with out-right opposition to peaceful co-existence. It is a vote against those demanding a tougher policy or invasion of Cuba. It represents a serious setback to all those who would make anti-communism the yardstick of patriotism, loyalty and devotion to country."

Where Does He Go From Here?

EDITOR:

A recent column referred to Willard Wirtz juggling unemployment figures a few days prior to the last election, and his covering up a few days after the event. Also brought out was the seemingly deliberate lies released by the Department of Defense, and Assistant Secretary Sylvester's justification of lies.

A man who holds such convictions should never be given a public office. No wonder our nation's morals have begun to crumble. Even the government is telling us it is all right to lie.

I've tried to teach my children and my Sunday School the laws of God which condemn liars, and how truth can set men free, but, now where do I go from here?

CTF Platform 'Shocking Thing'

EDITOR:

I have noted that the California Teachers Federation (AFL-CIO affiliate) has made at least three very significant resolutions in its recent convention.

First, they have told their teachers to teach the "abolition of war," and praise for the so called "peace" groups. Second, they have called for abolition of the House Committee on Un-American Activities. Third, they have called for an end to all religious influence and Christmas observances in California schools.

There is a most interesting platform. Coming from a group which represents 10 per cent of our teachers, it is a very shocking thing.

Justice Frankfurter Gone, High Court Speeds Up Work

WASHINGTON—Dean Acheson, brilliant former Secretary of State, was in the Virgin Islands on a cruise with his wife, the John Cowleses of the Minneapolis newspapers, and the Archibald MacLeishes. MacLeish is former Librarian of Congress and the famed poet-playwright who wrote "J.B."

The cruise was a happy one despite one discordant fact—namely, that the MacLeishes are among Adlai Stevenson's most ardent admirers while Acheson is one of his consistent unadmirers. Acheson is credited with being one of "the high officials" who leaked the Saturday Evening Post piece on the Cuban crisis to Kennedy's press pals.

PEARSON

During the cruise, Dean got a call from his law firm to come back and argue a case before the Supreme Court. He remonstrated, asked his partners to see if he couldn't finish his cruise.

But the word from Washington was that Dean's old friend, retired Justice Felix Frankfurter, not being on the bench to pepper witnesses with questions, the work of the court was proceeding much faster than previously. So he would have to return to argue the case.

• • • • •

THERE WAS an important backstage hassle over the Congo, and now that the crisis is about over, the inside story can be told.

The initiative in settling the Congo dispute came from United Nations Secretary-General U Thant and Undersecretary Ralph Bunche. They knew that if the U.N. financial drain of $10,000,000 a month continued, the United Nations would be bankrupt. They also knew that Britain and France were fed up with the U.N. in the Congo, that Russia was 100 per cent opposed, and that American Congressional support was getting wobbly.

Therefore, they decided to have an all-out showdown with President Tshombe of Katanga.

This, however, required complete support from the United States, and when the issue came up before State Department White House advisers, there was vigorous disagreement. Critics of the U. N. inside the State Department were skeptical. McGeorge Bundy, sometimes called Kennedy's "personal secretary of state," was quite negative.

But the U.N. position was strongly supported by four ex-governors, now turned diplomat. They are: Assistant Secretary of State G. Mennen Williams, former governor of Michigan; Assistant Secretary of State Averill Harriman, former governor of New York; special ambassador Chester Bowles, former governor of Connecticut, and Ambassador Adlai Stevenson, former governor of Illinois.

All four were accustomed to making tough decisions. Assistant Secretary Williams argued that President Tshombe was a paper tiger, that he didn't represent any real sentiment in the Congo, that he would collapse once the U.N. bared its teeth.

• • • •

PRESIDENT KENNEDY, who had to make the final decision, Ended up with his ex-gubernatorial advisers. He decreed that the United States should give the U. N. 100 per cent support. It did.

And Tshombe, despite a lot of headlines and bombast, folded. The U.N. took over Katanga with casualties of fewer than 10 dead.

Questions from readers:

"Is 'chop suey' derived from American or Chinese words?" — Anne Lubarsky, Quincy, Mass.

It is reputed to be derived from the Cantonese phrases for "odds and ends" (chap hsuch). Chop suey is unknown in China, although its ingredients are Chinese. Chow mein, however, is Chinese, as mein designates the thin noodles which are so important in Chinese cooking and which were adopted in Italy to make the many forms of spaghetti.

"What do the names of the money in the U.S.S.R. mean?"—Larry Crain, Poplar Bluff, Mo.

The ruble (rubl, in Russian comes from rubl, "block of wood," and kopeck, the hundredth part of a ruble, is derived from Greek koptein, "to smite" or "to cut." It has been suggested that the idea of smiting may have arisen because the old kopecks showed a Russian hero brandishing a lance.

88th Congress Begins With Two Surprises

By HARRY WILSON SHARPE
United Press International

The Democratic-controlled 88th Congress opened for business last week on two surprise notes.

President Kennedy's House lieutenants gave him an unexpectedly big victory on expansion and control of the Rules Committee which has life or death power over New Frontier legislation. It was a sharp setback for conservative Southern Democrats and Northern Republicans who have dominated the committee.

• • • • •

ALSO IN THE House, younger Republicans anxious to improve their party's post-election public image, rebelled against House GOP leader Charles A. Halleck, Ind., and other Old Guarders to oust 67-year-old Charles B. Hoeven of Iowa as chairman of the Republican conference.

Named to replace Hoeven by an 86 to 78 vote was Rep. Gerald Ford of Michigan who thus got on the leadership ladder and some day may succeed Halleck. There also was "considerable sentiment" against the performance of House GOP Whip Leslie C. Arends of Illinois. But the rebels agreed to abandon that objective for at least two years.

The coup gave Ford and younger GOP members a strong voice in leadership decisions. It was engineered quietly by 65 members who wanted "a more aggressive leadership" devoted to carving out a record rather than harassing a Democratic president.

• • • • •

HOUSE AND Senate Democrats re-elected their holdover leaders as did Senate Republicans.

Starting Monday, after the President delivers his State of the Union message in person, the new Congress will plunge into a long and hard battle over such New Frontier proposals as an early tax cut, medical care for the aged, foreign aid, record defense spending, and federal aid to education.

The White House—after some of the contents were published in British newspapers—finally released for publication excerpts from a New Year's Eve interview the President gave 35 newsmen at Palm Beach.

• • • • •

SUBSTANCE of the interview was that whether or not our Allies like it, Kennedy is determined to build the NATO defense alliance into a powerful war deterrent, including a British-American-French nuclear striking force.

He was critical of French President Charles de Gaulle's independent nuclear course. He called this a "fragmentation" of the alliance which could cost great sums and "cause political and strategic imbalance."

He gave Europe much-wanted assurances that no matter what happens, the United States has no intention of abandoning her—"we are too much bound together."

After voicing this hardened policy, Kennedy said: "I think we are more aware, probably, that we are going to incur at intervals people's displeasure. This is a sort of revolving cycle. . . . I think that too often in the past we have defined our leadership as an attempt to be rather well regarded in all these countries. The fact is, you can't possibly carry out any policy without causing major friction. . . . I don't expect the United States will be more beloved, but I would hope that we could get more done."

PRIVATE dispatches from Havana said Communist Dictator Fidel Castro was trying to organize an Army loyal only to himself because of growing alarm over Russian control of his armed forces.

Richard Cardinal Cushing, Catholic archbishop of Boston, revealed that he was the "mysterious donor" who put up $1 million cash to help ransom 1,113 invasion prisoners from Cuba after a pre-Christmas telephone call from Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy.

The President also was keeping a sharp eye on the troubled Congo, firm in his determination to unify the country against Communist inroads.

The President will hand Congress his fiscal 1964 budget next Thursday and will send up his annual economic message Jan. 21. The budget will call for record defense spending and envisions another deficit.

THE DEFENSE Department issued a call for 9,000 draftees in March — its highest quota in nearly a year. This will build up the Army to offset demobilization of troops after last year's Berlin crisis.

The department vehemently denied London newspaper reports that British jet bombers penetrated the U. S. air defense network a few weeks ago in a simulated H-bomb attack that caught the American early warning system napping. "A lot of nonsense," a spokesman said.

The United States increased diplomatic and military pressure to prevent Yemen's war from spreading to oil-rich Saudi Arabia. The President publicly expressed support of Prince Faisal, Prime Minister of Saudi Arabia, while the State Department hinted that U.S. warships may soon visit that Middle East country.

A space agency official said that astronaut Gordon Cooper's celestial flight this spring may be extended from 17 orbits in 25 hours to 22 orbits in 34 hours. The purpose would be to get the maximum amount of experience possible with weightlessness in the Mercury space capsule. Maj. Cooper's flight, if successful, will be the last before the two-man Gemini flights next year.

In Southeast Asia, U.S. military advisers complained bitterly about the lack of fight in South Vietnamese troops in a battle against Communist Viet Cong guerrillas. They said some battalions defied their officers' orders to advance.

"It was a damn miserable performance," said one American. Kennedy is trying to save South Viet Nam from a Red takeover.

The Soviet Union and Communist China, split ideologically, continued denouncing each other. Moscow accused Peking of "trying to provoke war in the Cuban crisis with a philosophy of suicide." Peking continued accusing Russia of cowardice in pulling out its Cuban missiles.

The Labor Department reported that unemployment dropped slightly in December but said the 5.6 jobless rate was still disappointing. Nearly 4 million men were out of work — a situation Kennedy hopes to correct with an across-the-boards, pump-priming tax cut.

In New York City, J. Truman Bidwell, former chairman of the New York Stock Exchange, was found innocent of income tax evasion.

Mayor of Long Beach Looks at City's Future

What's ahead for Long Beach?

Personal opinions on this were expressed by Mayor Edwin W. Wade the past week in an address at a Chamber of Commerce breakfast forum.

"To me," the mayor said," the answer to that question is very simple after examining the experience of the past. The future of Long Beach can be described only with such words as growth, development and progress.

"They say that one day soon Southern California will be fully developed from Santa Barbara to San Diego. Because of its location by the sea and its extra mild climate, Long Beach is destined to grow both in size and importance in the years immediately ahead.

• • • •

"AS WE START this new year, I compare Long Beach to a man who is reaching maturity and who is taking steps to provide for his future. And if you or I had a crystal ball, here are some of the developments we might foresee:

"Construction in Long Beach, which hit an all-time high of $76 million in 1962, will continue at the same record pace. Look for an acceleration of high rise construction, especially along the shoreline area of the city.

"Sales tax revenue, an index of business activity in a community, also was a record high in 1962, and from all advance indications 1963 should be even better.

• • • •

OIL, for 30 years an important factor in the economy of Long Beach, will attain a new peak in '63 as the city awards a contract for development of the huge offshore oil field, the largest undeveloped reserve in the state, and advances with development of the Recreation Park oil pool.

"If the Recreation Park pool is as good as expected, many millions of dollars will go into the city's bond redemption fund and will be available for financing various needed public improvements.

"For Long Beach, commencement of the offshore oil development program will immediately make available $25 million for use in financing a variety of projects of broad public benefit in tidelands areas of the city. It will produce funds to complete the $42 million shoreline development program for the downtown area, approved by voters in 1962 and by the state in September of last year.

• • • •

"THIS PROGRAM involves complete development of the shoreline between Alamitos Avenue and the Los Angeles River Flood Control Channel, and it includes development of a Maritime Museum and a large swimming lagoon and related parking facilities, landscaping and the building of access roads.

"With the completion of the Long Beach Arena and improvement and expansion of hotel and motel facilities, watch for Long Beach to take on new importance as a convention and tourist center.

"Long Beach Promotion Inc., in cooperation with the Chamber, the city and some 20 other local organizations and agencies, already has started an extensive campaign to promote Long Beach as a convention-tourist mecca. We are faced with an opportunity to build convention and tourist trade into a major contributor to the local economy.

• • • •

"MUCH WORK also is being done by these same organizations to attract new business and industry to the city. Preliminary advertising and promotional campaigns already are bringing in good, interested responses. I also urge you to be alert for increased business activity in the area of Municipal Airport during this year. Aircraft sales and service operations will be expanded substantially, and even high rise office buildings will be going up in the vicinity of the airport.

"As for Douglas Aircraft, future opportunities appear to be unlimited. This plant is regarded as the finest aircraft manufacturing complex in the world, and is preparing to bid on a sizeable portion of a potential $90 billion worth of business during the next 10 years.

"Also, don't be surprised if Douglas branches out into other than aircraft production activities at its local plant.

• • • •

"WITH subsidence in check and with good prospects for successful settlement of the federal government's subsidence damage suit against Long Beach, the state and private oil companies in the offing, look forward to expanded Navy activity in the Long Beach area in the years immediately ahead.

"As for our harbor, you can expect to continue to see the Port of Long Beach gain greater and greater prominence throughout the world. More than any other factor, development of our harbor, together with advancement of plans for the California World's Fair on Pier J, will establish Long Beach as a truly outstanding international city.

"Because of our growing importance as a port city, a convention center, a key business and industrial area, and because of the proposed World's Fair, I am confident that we will see great gains in rapid transit in the months and years just ahead."

U.S. Aims to Foil Customs Cheaters

BALTIMORE (AP)—The government has announced plans aimed at frustrating customs cheaters who send gift packages into the United States without paying a duty.

Commissioner of Customs Philip Nichols Jr. proposed cutting the exempted value of gift parcels from overseas from the present $10 to $1.

The Treasury has lost considerable revenue because of widespread abuse of the exemption, Nichols said in a speech prepared for the Federal Business Association of Maryland. He contended the reduction, all but wiped out the exemption, would for all practical purposes stop the flow of such duty-free parcels.

Nichols said many U.S. tourists have shipped packages marked as gifts to persons in this country and picked them up on returning home. Tourists traveling together have been sending "gifts" to each other, he said, and shipments have been split to hold each under $10.

Many cases of undervaluing or placing false invoices on parcels have been discovered, Nichols added, and mail-order parcels have been labeled gifts.

The Bureau of Customs in Washington said Congress feared trouble when it enacted the exemption and, in an unusual provision, authorized the Secretary of the Treasury to reduce the value if the privilege were abused. The exemption was meant to apply to gifts from persons in foreign countries if the value of such parcels received by an individual in the United States did not exceed $10 in a single day.

The bureau put off issuing its order for 30 days, during which it will consider protests.

Rhode Island Newsman Heads Brotherhood Panel

NEW YORK (UPI)—Sevellon Brown, associate editor of the Providence (R. I.) Journal and Evening Bulletin, has been named national chairman of the Newspaper Committee for Brotherhood Week.

Dr. Lewis Webster Jones, president of the National Conference of Christians and Jews, sponsor of Brotherhood Week, announced the appointment.

Praising the cooperation of the American press in promoting the objectives of the national observance, which this year marks its 30th anniversary, Dr. Jones said, "The press is one of America's greatest weapons in combatting bigotry and prejudice."

"THOSE OF us whose daily job it is to record the world's woes, from Berlin to Cuba, from Mississippi to the slums in our own home towns, know how desperately the spirit of brotherhood is needed today. This is our chance to do something about it," Jones said.

Brown, who writes a daily column for the editorial page called "Topic for Today," began his newspaper career as the Washington correspondent for the Privdence Evening Journal in 1939.

Brown became chief of the Washington bureau for the Providence Journal-Bulletin in 1942. He was made assistant to the editor in 1946 and associate editor in 1949.

12 Cal. Jobless Training Courses Given OK by U.S.

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The State Department of Employment has announced federal approval of 12 additional vocational training courses for workers who are jobless because of automation or similar factors.

The department said the approval brings the total number of such classes in California to 68, with 3,139 trainees enrolled under the Manpower Development and Training Act.

The classes include eight nurses aid courses which begin this week with 120 trainees in Hayward; two licensed vocational nurse courses to begin Jan. 14 in Hayward; and two licensed vocational nurse courses to begin Jan. 21 in San Luis Obispo.

Symposium on Teenage Sex Problem Set

"Sex Problems of the Teenager" will be discussed at a symposium at 8 p.m. Jan. 22 at Rossmoor School.

Speaking on the program, presented by the Rossmoor B'nai B'rith, will be Samuel Pilchman, M.D., Long Beach psychiatricst; Rev. Robert Fitzgerald, pastor of the Community Congregational Church, Los Alamitos; Kenneth Gray, school teacher-counsellor, Long Beach Unified School District and Mrs. Miriam Chalker, Probation Department, Long Beach. Attorney Arthur Miller will be moderator.

School Enrollment Up

Located at 1130 Locust Ave., the school maintains an extended day care schedule for those boys and girls who need it. No additional charge is made for this service. Children may participate in indoor, outdoor games during the non-school hours between 6:30 a.m. and 6 p.m. under close supervision. Arrangements may be made for hot lunches and transportation.

NEW PROGRAM of year-around liberal arts education will be inaugurated at Pepperdine College at the beginning of the next fall term, President M. Norvel Young announced.

Pioneering the trimester plan on the West Coast, Pepperdine's new program will enable students who wish to accelerate their formal education to complete requirement for the bachelor's degree in two years and nine months instead of four years.

"We feel this is a real step forward—one which we will see followed by more and more colleges and universities that must make better use of their facilities in today's growing demands on higher education," Dr. Young said.

"Trimester," he went on, "is a part of the answer, we believe, in meeting the challenge of producing capable leadership in a shorter span of time. Many of our outstanding young people are not being challenged to move ahead as rapidly as they should."

LOCAL NEWS BRIEFS

Accidents Kill Two Workmen

A Wilmington machinist and a Compton man were crushed Saturday in separate industrial accidents.

Carmen Prinzo, 30, of 1271 Wilmington Ave., was working at a deburring machine at Brad Machine Co., 8441 Monroe Ave., Stanton, when his jacket caught on a gear, pulling him into the rotary action.

He was freed by fellow workers, but died 45 minutes later at Katella Emergency Hospital.

A 1,000-pound refrigeration unit fell on Keith M. Ramsey, 33, of 1740 E. Compton Blvd., as he placed blocks under the unit while it was being lifted by a fork-lift truck. He was dead when he reached Physicians and Surgeons Hospital.

Police said the accident occurred at the Owl Trucking Co., 500 S. Alameda St., Compton.

Public Defender System Rapped

The president of the Orange County Bar Association has criticized the county's public defender system for "carrying the burden normally borne by private lawyers."

In an interview, Robert Frazer called on the bar to examine the validity of claims of indigence and to set up a lawyer reference panel for criminal matters.

He suggested the panel members should list themselves as willing to accept criminal cases on an installment-fee basis to reverse the trend of naming public defenders when attorneys demand all or part of their fee in advance.

"Because many clients claimed they could not pay the fee in advance, the court started to appoint a public defender to represent them," Frazer said. "Now the trend is the appointment of a public defender by the court without investigating completely the client's financial standing."

Asks Harbor Freeway Call Boxes

U.P.-T Los Angeles Bureau

Installation of emergency call boxes along the entire length of the Harbor Freeway has been urged Friday by Supervisor Kenneth Hahn as the first step in erecting the boxes on the entire freeway system.

Hahn said he had written to Robert Bradford, director of Public Works for the State of California, asking extension of the call-box system, which now is confined to the downtown Los Angeles area.

KENNETH HAHN
Pushes Call Boxes

Eighty of the boxes are installed on the downtown freeways to provide quick assistance to motorists involved in accidents or stranded by mechanical difficulty.

They connect with a central station in Los Angeles police headquarters, which dispatches emergency aid as needed.

Hahn long has proposed that the call-box system be extended to cover all freeways in Los Angeles County along their entire length. Friday, he spoke out to start this program with the Harbor Freeway.

He noted that Harbor Freeway now carries more than 212,000 cars every 24 hours and commented "the freeway carrying the heaviest traffic should have priority in installation of the call-box system."

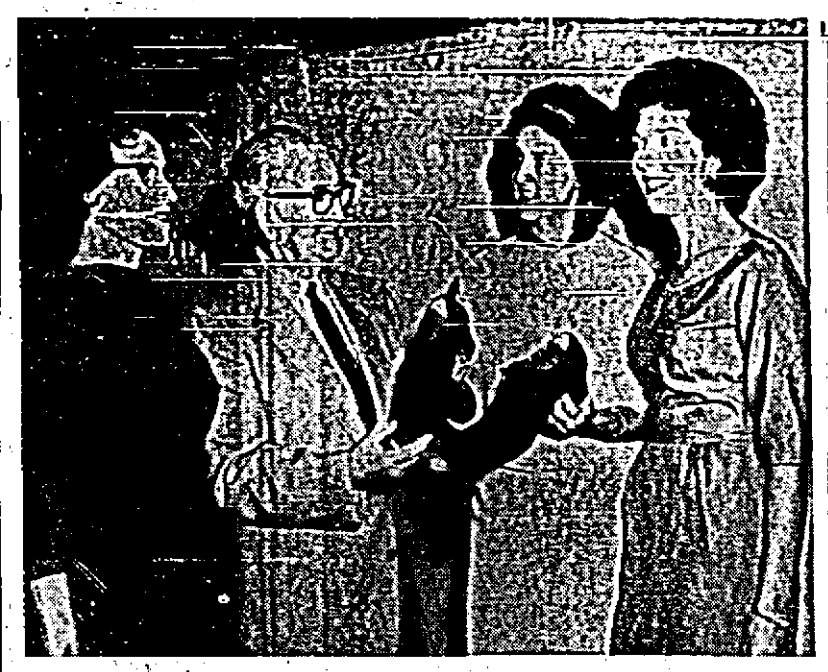

Board to Discuss L.B. Oil Plan

U.P.-T Sacramento Bureau

SACRAMENTO—The State Lands Commission is expected to discuss Long Beach's projected $3.5-billion tidelands oil development program when it meets in the capital Jan. 24.

The commission must approve unitization agreements and contract forms before the 890-million-barrel oil project gets a final go-ahead.

City and state attorneys have been drafting agreements for several weeks. City Atty. Gerald Desmond returned to Long Beach late this week after a final round of capital conferences.

VOLUNTEERS to "fill the shoes" of campaign workers in the Red Cross drive to open in March are being sought by Campaign Chairman William S. Grant and his volunteer assistants (from left) Mrs. Francis Heusel, Red Cross Fashion Show chairman; Mrs. Geza J. Krempels, residential division chairman and Mrs. David Gean, vice chairman, residential division.

VOLUNTEERS NEEDED

Red Cross Issues Call

A call to residents of this area to serve as volunteer Red Cross campaign workers during the annual appeal for members and funds, starting March 1, was made Saturday by Mrs. Geza J. Krempels, residential chairman for the drive.

The women's division needs at least 3,000 volunteers to make house-to-house calls on behalf of the Red Cross, said Mrs. Krempels.

• • • •

THE RED CROSS office at 319 W. Broadway, which serves the areas of Long Beach, Lakewood, Signal Hill, Paramount, Bellflower, Artesia, Dairy Valley, Hawaiian Gardens, Dominguez and Avalon, now is accepting volunteers for the campaign. Mrs. Krempels said volunteers may "sign up" by calling the office, HE 7-2921.

"Many people have the idea that the Red Cross volunteer is active only during wartime. Actually, volunteers daily serve the community through numerous Red Cross services," she said. "One of the activities is in the annual campaign when volunteers are asked to make a few calls on neighbors and friends to sign up members and help raise the funds for the activities of the Red Cross.

• • • •

FIRST AID, water safety, blood program, home service activities are a few of the programs presented for resident use each year, said Mrs. Krempels. "We in the community take advantage of the many Red Cross services all year long. This is the opportunity for residents to participate in the drive for funds that make these programs possible."

Theme of the 1963 local campaign is "Red Cross—Always There . . . With Your Help."

INSURANCE LEADER OPTIMISTIC

Growth Here Hailed

By GEORGE ROBESON

The economy of the Long Beach-Orange County area is keeping pace with the booming Southland population, and will rise to record heights in the next few years.

That's the opinion of Horace R. Smith, a vice president of the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Co., in Long Beach this weekend for an annual meeting with the staff of the local office.

"Our company wrote nearly $7 million in new insurance in the past year in this area," Smith said, "and our total insurance in force here is now more than $50 million."

• • • •

THE FIGURES, setting a record for Connecticut Mutual in this area, bode good for the economic outlook here, Smith contends, because the insurance business is a fair measuring-stick for the economy.

He said Orange and Santa Clara Counties are the fastest-growing in the nation. The Orange County population has increased by about 500 per cent since World War II, Smith said.

"And I wouldn't be a bit surprised if the Long Beach area population doubled in the next ten years," he added.

"I can't see anything but UP for this area. Unless somebody wants a depression, I can't imagine how we could have one."

• • • •

HE SAID Long Beach's healthy industrial growth provides easy absorption for laid-off workers.

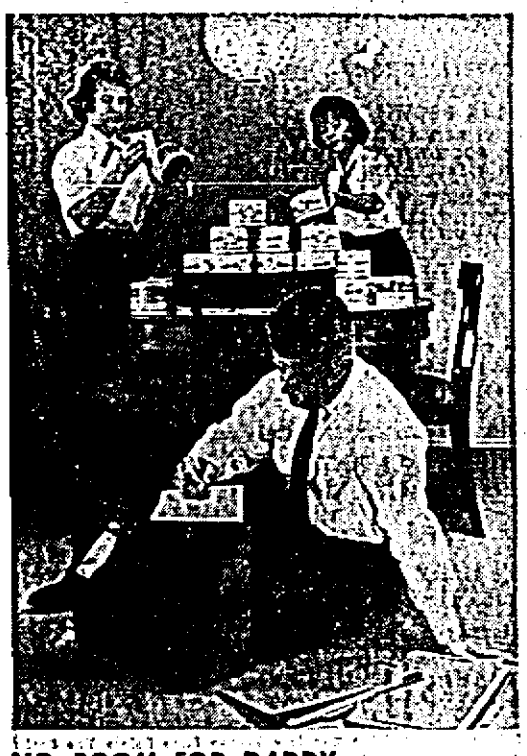

"We estimate that if 4,000 workers are laid off here, about 1,000 will go into business for themselves and the remainder will be absorbed by other industries," he said.

"With 1,500 people a day entering California, there is a built-in pressure for more industry that can't be stopped."

POLITICS

21 Pct. of Voters off Rolls

By BOB HOUSER
Political Editor

Long Beach-area voters whose registration has been canceled for failure to vote in the Nov. 6 general election represented about 21 per cent of the eligibles, paralleling the countywide 21-per-cent purge.

As usual, more Democrats lost registration through failure to vote than did Republicans. In the East Long Beach-Signal Hill 39th Assembly District, Democrats dropped 11,526 to 40,783 for a 22.03-per-cent loss. Republicans lost 8,522 to 39,890 for 17.6 per cent.

In the West Long Beach-Lakewood-Dominguez 44th A. D., Democrats lost 15,494 to drop to a current registration of 54,709, a 22.07-per-cent reduction. The GOP lost 7,768 to 33,492 for 18.86 per cent.

Total registration for the 32nd Congressional District is now 173,337, down 45,312 from the November figure. Voters purged for not voting may reinstate their registration by returning post-card notifications sent them by the registrar of voters.

Move with Times, Says OCAW Head

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President O. A. Knight of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union (OCAW) has given his 200,000 rank-and-file workers and their leaders some strong advice for 1963.

It adds up to this: they must forget archaic ideas and move ahead with the times. This means they must face up to the challenge of automation and join management in adapting to new technology and must be more objective and flexible in other areas.

Knight's views were set forth editorially in the "Union News," the OCAW's monthly publication. They should be of more than passing interest to oil industry leaders who currently are negotiating new contracts with the union and aren't accustomed to such candor.

• • • •

THEY ALSO could be recommended reading for some other union leaders who refuse to be so forthright in approaching the modern-day collective bargaining table.

At the outset the editorial—which presumably had the endorsement of other OAW officers—notes a rising crescendo of criticism of unions, much of it from people friendly to the labor movement.

It said that top labor leaders were charged with being out of touch with the membership and with making flowery resolutions unsupported by action; that staff peoples are becoming fat and lazy and more concerned with keeping their jobs than crusading; that local officers are more concerned with good times at conventions than in being effective plant spokesmen, and that the rank-and-file is too prosperous and selfish to care about supporting any program that does not provide them immediate benefit.

• • • •

THE EDITORIAL conceded that people at all levels have done stupid or short-sighted things at one time or another. But it added that this was no time for recrimination but rather a time to "take a clear objective look at our circumstances."

"First," it continued, "working people do not hunger for the same things they did 25 years ago. We need to determine and evaluate present desires. Second, industry is changing so rapidly that collective bargaining for the contract provisions of past years doesn't make much sense.

• • • •

"MANAGEMENT has been more flexible than labor in adapting to new technology. Isn't it possible that our contracts need new kinds of clauses not even devised yet more than they need preservation of old clauses which are no longer practical?"

It went on to say that certain changes in work methods are inevitable and that "the unions had better roll with them, negotiating to get the best deal for our people within the new technology."

"Trying to hold back the clock never has worked," it added bluntly.

MERCHANT'S IDEA

Children's Day Proposal Made

NEW YORK (AP)—A New York merchant suggests that Children's Day be added to the holidays on the calendar.

He said it would complement Mother's Day and Father's Day.

The proposal was made by Joseph Love, president of Joseph Love, Inc., at the National Retail Merchants Association convention, which took no action.

Love said a Children's Day not only would increase retail sales but would provide a festive family occasion.

WAR FARE DELUXE

No Beef on GI Future Chow

By JOSEPH L. MYLER

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Hardly a veteran now alive will believe it.

Nevertheless, scientists say the combat soldier of tomorrow will not only eat his chow but like it too.

There is no readily accessible record hereabouts of foot soldiers, who since the beginning of human warfare, ever had anything civil to say about their rations.

BUT LISTEN to these words from a recent report of The National Academy of Sciences:

The foods for tomorrow's combat soldier, sailor, and airman will look better, taste better, smell better, and be better preserved; will be more acceptable, more edible, more digestible, more nutritious, more easily delivered and issued, and more easily prepared for consumption; and may even cost less than military foods of the past.

"Equally important, they will also generate and maintain a high level of well-being and combat effectiveness in the fighting man."

THE REPORT published by the Academy was written by Frank R. Fisher, executive secretary of The Advisory Board on Quartermaster Research and Development. He said a tremendous amount of work has been done to make better and more appetizing eatables available for the soldier in the field.

Meals for the fighting man of tomorrow will come in three categories: Ready-to-eat; heat-and-eat; and ready-to-cook. Which a soldier gets will depend on how closely engaged he is with the enemy.

THANKS TO IMPROVED drying and heat or radiation preserving methods, some 44 foods have been developed for eating in the field without fuss or preparation. From this group along you could make a menu, say, of tomato juice, cream of onion soup, chicken with mushrooms, spinach, cabbage slaw and strawberries.

About 67 food items also have been developed for use in a family of 21 quick-serve meals of the heat-and-eat variety. In the ready-to-cook department, prefabricated meals have been invented to serve 25 men at a time.

In all cases the soldier gets beef, pork, ham, turkey and other meats plus a large variety of vegetables and fruits in forms he can recognize by sight as well as taste or aroma.

GONE ARE the "unidentifiable bars or hashes" of yore. Gone also, to judge by Fisher's report, are the tin plates in which bobs of mashed (powdered) potato and ice cream floated together in a sea of gravy.

Fisher, a writer of considerable restraint, noted that the rations of these past world wars are "often recalled by the respective veterans . . . in a derogatory manner."

By contrast, he said, the tasty rations being prepared for the army of tomorrow will be "very acceptable." He said they will bring about "the maximization of food consumption, or morale, and of operational effectiveness of the fighting man."

Head of State P-T.A. Backs Federal Aid to Schools

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The president of the California Congress of Parents and Teachers has given qualified support to federal aid to education.

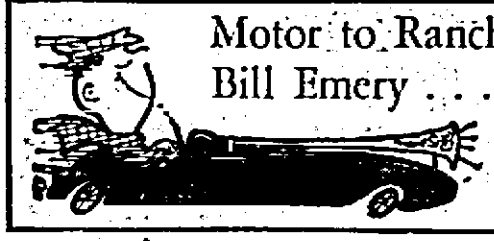

Mrs. W. W. Wood of Marysville said that the California congress will take its position at its May convention when 5,000 delegates meet and vote.

The legislation program proposed by the national board needs the approval of congresses in 31 states for final adoption. At present the national P-T.A. only urges federal aid for schools on Indian reservations and in areas deluged by heavy influxes of military and other government personnel.

Mrs. Wood said that she could still change her mind but added that she feels that the clause prepared by the national board was "very well written."

CLEAR WAY FOR BIG LEAGUE HOCKEY ON COAST

By JEROME HALL
I, P-T Staff Writer

SAN FRANCISCO—A hush-hush meeting was held here over the weekend to clear the way for the expansion of major league ice hockey to the West Coast as early as next autumn.

"Now is the time" for the National Hockey League to spread from coast to coast, said one leading figure in the NHL while on a quick inspection trip here.

I, P-T EXCLUSIVE!

So the plan for inclusion of Los Angeles and San Francisco in the major league, which The Independent, Press-Telegram recently revealed, apparently has been moved up into the immediate future.

The attitude of the majority of franchise owners in the NHL has changed drastically, the I, P-T has learned. The common conception that they were opposed to expansion because of sellout crowds was rejected by several of those owners themselves.

"Our costs are increasing every year and our income is not," said one. "We can't raise ticket prices (the NHL already charges a $7 top price) so we have to look to other sources."

That other source is television. It is considered certain that network broadcasts will begin as soon as the league spans the continent.

This is the breakdown of NHL owner opinion:

Toronto is strongly in favor of bringing in Los Angeles and San Francisco. "It is as certain as tomorrow," club president Stafford Smythe has told intimates.

Detroit is perhaps the leader of the westward movement. The Red Wings have been in a financial decline, are eager for a pep pill for the league. It was club president emeritus Jack Adams, a strong influence in the NHL, who said "now is the time." He met with officials of the San Francisco team here last week and urged them to make formal application for entry.

Chicago and Boston moguls are believed to be in favor. New York's attitude is unknown. Only Montreal is actively opposed.

San Francisco and Los Angeles, currently members of the Western League, are reportedly in close accord on negotiations. San Francisco Seals owners plan to attend the unofficial NHL meeting in Florida next month and will submit an official bid in May at the league meeting. The L.A. Blades' owner is Dan Reeves, Rams chief.

There remains the possibility that the entire Western League would be taken into the NHL as its western division, but this appears less likely now. At least two owners in the Western League reportedly have taken a stand against advancement to major league status.

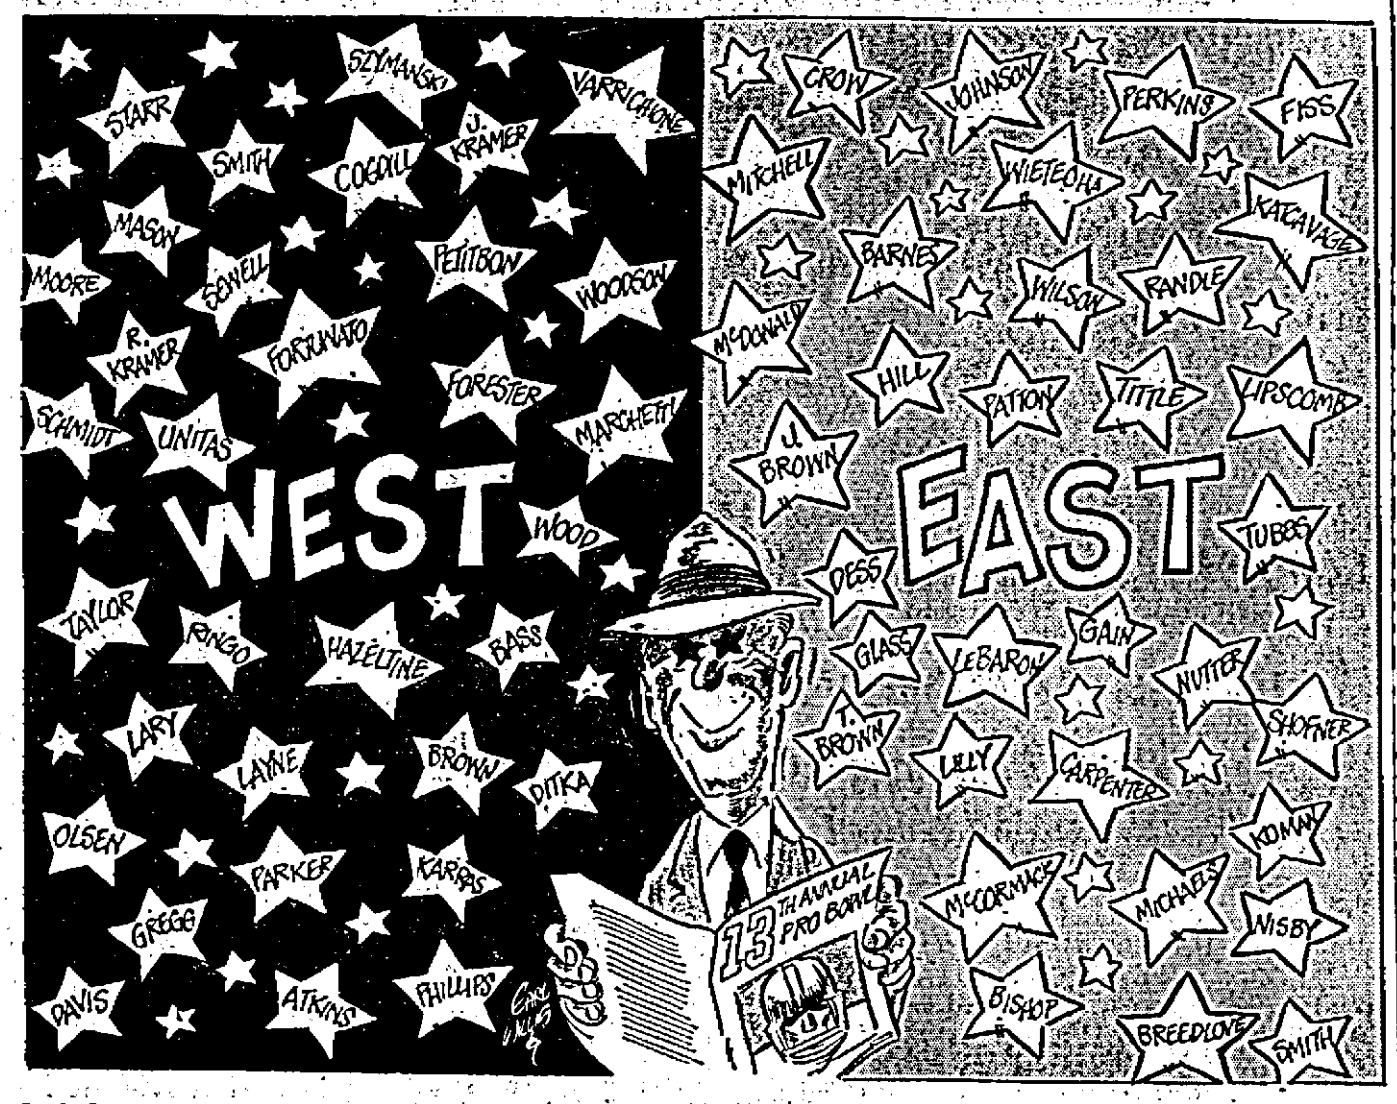

Two more significant quotes uncovered here were: Clarence Campbell, NHL president: "Expansion now appears to be inevitable."

Walter Brown, president of the Boston Bruins: "We're not above playing in the Cow Palace for a couple of years."

(Architectural drawings for a privately-financed arena in downtown San Francisco have been completed.)

From all indications here, major league hockey is headed West. Soon.

THE 'EYES' HAVE IT: ALL STARS

LAST GRID GAME . . . HONEST!

West Pick in Pro Bowl Today

By JERRY WYNN

Honest, folks, this is the LAST football game of the season . . . and it could be the best one.

For only the elite of the Eastern and Western divisions of the National League will assemble for combat on the Coliseum turf today in the 13th annual Pro Bowl Game.

A crowd of more than 60,000 is expected for the 1 p.m. kickoff in brisk, windy weather that should make East quarterback Y. A. Tittle wince from Championship Game nostalgia.

Despite the loss of star fullback Jim Taylor, hospitalized Saturday because of a recurrence of stomach pains, the West team is a slight favorite to score its fourth successive victory and ninth of the series.

The feeling (there are no more fix-ations) is that with eight members of his champion Green Bay Packers and seven from the ferocious Detroit Lions, West coach Vince Lombardi can hide his four Rams—Dick Bass, Jim Phillips, Frank Varrichione and Merlin Olsen.

WYNN'S WINNER

Not that they aren't outstanding players. It's just that they haven't won a game at the Coliseum since Fort Ord disbanded its squad.

Bass has made his own plans to hide.

"I don't want any part of that Big Daddy Lipscomb," says the scintillating scooter. "He might fall on me and kill me."

Bass will start at left half with J. D. Smith replacing Taylor at fullback, Lenny Moore at flanker and the great Johnny Unitas at quarterback.

• • • •

PLAYER OF the game in 1960 and 1961, Unitas was cheated out of honor last year when balloting was held before he masterfully marshalled his charges for a downfield drive climaxed by his unforgettable 12-yard touchdown pass to Jon Arnett on the last play of the game. Jim Martin kicked the extra point for a 31-30 victory.

To back up Unitas, Lombardi will call on his own astute leader, Bart Starr, just as he sent an SOS Saturday for Packer halfback Tom Moore to take Taylor's spot on the roster. Moore will wear the No. 31 of Taylor.

The East, coached by the Giants' Allie Sherman, boasts an even more formidable aerial threat with Tittle and Eddie LeBaron tossing to such outstanding receivers as Bobby Mitchell, Del Shofner, Tommy McDonald and Sonny Randle.

• • • •

TITTLE AND McDonald will start along with Jim Brown at fullback and John David Crow at left half.

There will be a pre-game show at 12:30. The game, nationally televised, will be blacked out in Southern California. It will be broadcast by KMPC. Probable starters:

Lakers Notch Ninth in Row

By DON HARDIN

The Lakers continue to dazzle their opposition — the Warriors in particular — and huge crowds.

With Elgin Baylor, Dick Barnett and Jerry West coming through in the clutch, the NBA's winningest team raced to its ninth consecutive victory, 119-114, over San Francisco at the L.A. Sports Arena Saturday night.

A crowd of 11,801, exceeding everyone's expectations, waited for more than 40 minutes for the Lakers to take charge, which they eventually did, after playing catch-up most of the contest.

The Warriors, who must be completely frustrated when facing the southerners, held leads of nine points over the Western Division leaders, but as in the six previous meetings this year, found the well-rounded Laker aggregation just too tough toward the end. They haven't won in seven games this season against coach Fred Schaus' crew.

The nine-game winning streak equals the Lakers' longest since they came west from Minneapolis. San Francisco, languishing 16 games off the pace at the season's midway point, might be lucky to make the playoffs. St. Louis continues to trail in second place by six and one half games.

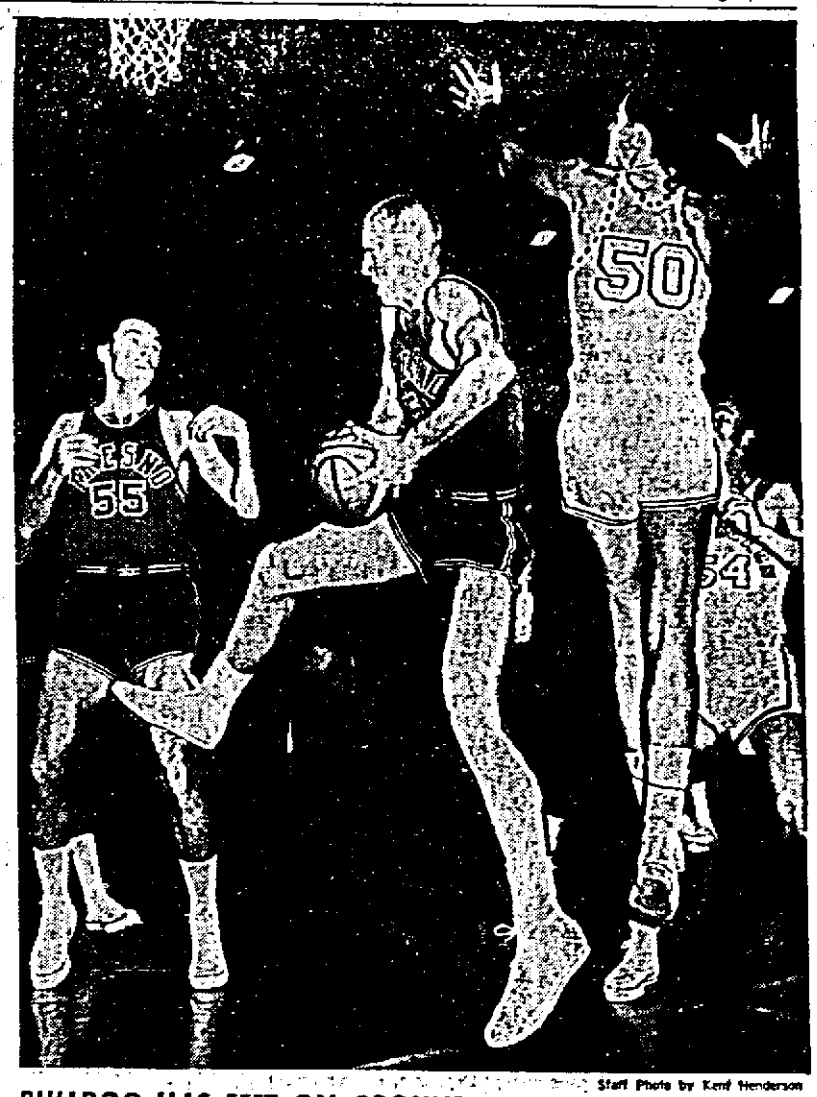

Wilt Chamberlain scored 40 points to lead both teams. He played a better team game than usual and led in rebounds, as usual, but in the tough going, when that clock was ticking away, it was "Tick Tock" Baylor who got the key rebounds and points.

• • • •

THE LAKERS didn't take the lead for good until 7:06 remained. It was Elgin's 20-footer which made it that way. Barnett, the Lakers' agile bench guard, started the drive with some beautiful out-

BULLDOG HAS FEET ON GROUND—AND THE BALL

Long Beach State's Al Windfeldt jumps up for rebound but Fresno State's Maurice Talbot comes down with it in CCAA game Saturday night. Watching from ringside is Fresno's Tom Jacobsen.

Cold-Shooting L.B. State Routed by Fresno, 76-59

By AL LARSON

Long Beach State's cagers were like the weather—frigid—Saturday night.

Coach Dick Perry's 49ers, who turned in their finest effort of the season Friday night in blitzing Cal Poly, came back with their poorest of the year as Fresno State's defending CCAA champions waltzed to a 76-59 triumph before a crowd of 1,375 in the loser's gym.

Fresno combined red-hot shooting and backboard control to hand LBSC its first conference loss in three starts. The victory evened the Bulldogs' league record at 2-2. They suffered back-to-back losses to Santa Barbara and San Diego State.

Long Beach sank only 9 of 34 field goal attempts the first half for a chilly 26 per cent effort, while the Bulldogs connected on 12 of 29 (41 per cent) and added 17 of 22 charity tosses to roll up an insurmountable 41-27 lead at halftime.

• • • •

THE SECOND half was no different as Fresno's big three of Maurice Talbot, Tom Jacobsen and Tony Burr continued to pepper away. Talbot was the most outstanding, scoring 28 points, 14 in each half, and pulling down 20 rebounds. Jacobsen had 24 points and Burr 19, 11 of which were made at the foul line.

Long Beach, blowing layins while turning in its sloppiest floor game, again committed too many fouls. Its over-aggressiveness resulted in 28 personals and the eviction of Al Windfeldt, Lyn Hodge and Stan Andersen.

The Bulldogs had only 16 fouls. For the weekend series, the 49ers were guilty of 58 personals.

With Dick Montgomery leading the charge, the 49ers jumped off to a 4-0 lead and expanded it to 7-1 with 3:25 elapsed, but Fresno finally caught fire and pulled ahead, 12-11, on Burr's two free throws with the game eight

UCLA TUMBLES BEARS, HUSKIES NIP TROJANS

By JEROME HALL

UCLA defeated California Saturday night in a Big Six basketball game that was without turning point, devoid of outstanding play and a bit difficult to describe.

But somewhere between the time the scoreboard broke and the time someone threw open the exit to let in the gale wind, the Bruins polished off the Golden Bears by a 63-58 count.

Before a raucous crowd of 2,400 that hung from the walls of tiny Santa Monica City College gymnasium, the Bruins broke free from some stuttering play that had kept them chained to the Golden Bears through three-quarters of the contest and grabbed a 10-point lead that was good enough to coast on through the final 10 minutes.

In an afternoon contest in the L.A. Sports Arena before an audience of 811 (yes, 811) in the 15,000 seat L.A. Arena, the USC Trojans made it three losses in four conference tries. Washington won, 62-61.

• • • •

THE SURPRISING Huskies got some surprising assistance from the central character in that astounding story of purported bribery attempt.

Guard Larry Sharp, who according to police reports was offered $1,000 to "miss three or four baskets" against the Trojans Friday night, turned in the finest game of his four-year college career on Saturday.

He ignited the rally that erased a 10-point deficit. Sharp scored 10 points in all, which is exactly 10 times his game average of last year, which is what makes any fix attempt involving him so absurd.

The Bruins almost tossed away the victory. After getting a 10-point lead with six minutes left, the Uclans went back to the pattern of play that had led to a one-point shortage at halftime. So the Bears shaved the lead to five points. Then, with less than three minutes remaining, Walt Hazzard began his Globetrotter dribbling act and it led to some easy points.

• • • •

THE BRUINS and Bears went through three-quarters of the contest one point apart but Hazzard and Fred Slaughter combined for three field goals (two by Slaughter, some fancy passing by Hazzard) at the 10:00 mark of the second half.

That started a rally that moved the Bruins 10 points ahead, which was enough to coast on — and the Uclans did just that.

It was not an impressive performance by the Bruins, but it was a winning one, and that's something they hadn't had since last year.

After two upset losses at Seattle against the Huskies last weekend, the Bruins now are 1 and 2 in league play and they probably will hold onto their No. 10 national ranking in the UPI poll.

Cal's performance was described by a Berkeley reporter as "the worst I've seen." He didn't say in how long.

Slaughter led the Bruins' scoring with 17 points, the same as the Bears' high man, Camden Wall, their 6-10 center.

Back to the Trojans:

USC got off to an early lead, led 29-21 at the half, and later by 10 points.

Midway through the final 20-minute session, the Trojans went cold. They began missing close-in shots and fell seven points behind as they connected on just four field goals over an 11-minute span.

With three minutes to go, the Seattle kids carved out a nine-point lead. It looked as safe as money in the credit

S. MONICA JC ALL-AMERICA GOES TO UCLA

Steve Sindell, all-America junior college quarterback from Santa Monica City College, announced Saturday he will enroll at UCLA for the coming spring semester which starts next month.

Sindell, 20, will have two years of eligibility for the Bruins.

Last season at Santa Monica, the 6-foot, 170-pound star set national JC records for passing in number of attempts, completions and yardage.

FREE SUB RULE BACK—WITH STRINGS

CORONADO (AP) — The National Collegiate Athletic Association Saturday brought back free substitution, after a 10-year hiatus, to college football.

There are a few strings attached.

The 15-man NCAA Rules Committee voted for the forthcoming season to allow completely free substitution by either team during all time outs and on all plays of a series except the fourth down and when the ball changes hands.

On the fourth down, each team will be allowed to substitute two players on the current "wild card" basis. When the ball changes hands, two more men may be sent in.

Under the old free substitution rule, last in effect in 1952, a coach could substitute any number of men at any time.

The Rules Committee also voted to reduce the number of time outs from five to four for each half.

The Sunday Sermon

Pearls from the Sunday pulpit:

. . . One of the West Pro-Bowl stars, asked his opinion of head coach Vince Lombardi, commented: "He's a nut on watching films. He has 16-millimeter eyeballs, I think."

. . . Apparently Lombardi is another Sid Gillman in the matter of studying football films. Sports Editor Chuck Johnson in The Tidings authored this little item: "Lombardi has been so single-mindedly preparing for the Pro Bowl game that he failed to show up for supper at the local Notre Dame Club's annual sports soiree. In fact, generally obliging Vince didn't even take time away from his boys and the movie projector to decline the telegram extending the invitation." Popcorn, anyone?

VINCE LOMBARDI
16-Millimeter Eyeballs?

. . . Harland Svare's official appointment as Ram head coach was met with extreme enthusiasm by most of the Ram players. However, one Svare supporter tempered his joy with this reminder: "I've seen great guys turned into howling demons after just one year as a head pro coach. We won't really know about Harland's ability until next December."

. . . I don't quite agree. No coach is going to enter a situation such as exists in present Ram ranks and produce a winner the first season. If Svare can improve morale (and this appears a certainty) and win one-third of his '63 games, he'll have been a success in this department's eyes.

. . . From outward indications, Svare isn't too upset over the Rams' miserable performance in the pen-and-ink department with draft choices. "He's not purposely trying to play it cool," whispered one of Svare's closer friends. "He just thinks he has some pretty good kids on the club right now. He may be right, because the Ram roster includes a lot of one and two-year kids who may be ripe for graduation into real pros next season." (Well, one thing the Rams don't need is MORE youngsters cluttering up the scene. I privately thought the 1962 Ram personnel was far superior to their 1-12-1 record. The fact that a lot of the boys "dogged-it" was a major factor in the horrible decline of the once great empire.)

IS IT TRUE that Belmont Shore's Jim Marshall, the much-traveled major leaguer, signed a $35,000 contract with the Chunichi Dragons of Japan . . . and received fringe benefits such as a home and car and all the other little things that help to make life worthwhile? Beats playing with the Giants, White Sox and Pirates, I'd say.

. . . Is Les Richter upset over a supposed ultimatum from new boss Svare that he either help coach the Rams OR take his chances trying to make the linebacking corps as a player? Apparently he won't be allowed to do both. Les enjoyed his player-coach status when Svare took over for Bob Waterfield, but he still thinks he has some good playing days ahead.

. . . Touch-of-class department: When he received his trophy at the Pro Bowl luncheon as 1962 player-of-the game, Cleveland's Jim Brown remarked: "The master of ceremonies forgot to mention that I made the most timely fumble of the game (the West team recovered Jim's bobble and drove to its winning touchdown). If there had not been a quick count on the votes, I might not have won this award."

IN ADDRESSING the Temple Sinai Men's Club a few nights ago, Ben Agajanian declared:

. . . "I have no intentions of retiring as long as I can help some club . . . even though other people think differently, I am convinced a quarterback is 80 per cent of a football team . . . some of the better American Football League teams could play on a par with the Cardinals, Vikings and Rams (1962 version) in another year."

. . . The 28-year veteran of all types of football also related an intriguing tale of his roommate with the old L.A. Dons, a fellow named Cementhead Clay. (Now, isn't THAT a name?)

. . . The Downtown Lions Club informed Art Kim, via letter from prexy Ed Alford, that it was "relinquishing all claim to any refund we might be entitled to on the unused portion of our season tickets. We thoroughly enjoyed your Chiefs' games and we now consider the account closed." (An excellent gesture to a man who in full faith intended to keep his ABL team in Long Beach for the full season, even though early attendances didn't justify such action.)

. . . Have the Dodgers got a big deal pending whereby they will wind up with a recognized STARTING pitcher? That's what the little bird whispers . . . and I hope so. Thus far, they seem satisfied that Larry Sherry will fill the fourth starter's role. (Ah, but what if Larry can't AND Sandy Koufax relapses again? Drysdale, Podres and two days of smog is no solution?)

Bearcats Run Unbeaten Streak to 31

Compiled From Wire Services

Cincinnati's Bearcats ran their unbeaten basketball string to 31 games—13 this year—but it wasn't without some anxious moments Saturday night.

Trailing most of the first half, Cincinnati managed a 32-32 tie at intermission and then let Ron Bonham fire away in the final period.

Bonham scored 20 points in those final 24 minutes and had 30 for the game.

The score was 67-57.

• • • • •

OTHER RANKED teams in the United Press International poll kept their high rating intact, too. Second-rated Loyola of Illinois was idle but all the others won.

Illinois (No. 3) went on a spree, whipping Purdue, 106-82, as six players hit in double figures, while Arizona State (No. 4) was downing Utah, 80-65.

Fifth-ranked Ohio State won its second two-point game, nipping Michigan, 66-66 as Gary Bradds scored 33. Sixth-rated Duke got 28 points out of Art Heyman and topped Clemson, 78-67.

• • • • •

GEORGIA Tech (No. 7) and Mississippi State (No. 8) were hard-pressed, but the Yellow-jackets remained unbeaten by edging Mississippi, 73-71, while State topped Vanderbilt, 58-55.

Ninth-ranked Wichita ended Bradley's dreams of gaining a higher rating by crushing the Braves, 79-60.

UCLA (No. 10) rallied in the second half to whip California, 63-58.

Records Fall as Indoor 'Cinder' Season Opens

BOSTON (UPI)—Canadian schoolboy Bruce Kidd set new Boston Garden and meet two-mile records in the Knights of Columbus indoor track meet Saturday night, winning in 8:43.2, about nine seconds off the indoor record.

Veteran New York steeplechaser Pete McArdle was second by half a lap as Kidd produced a 60.7 final quarter.

Previously, bespectacled Canadian Bill Crothers raced to a meet record of 2:08.2 in the 1,000-yard run in the college-abandoned meet.

Crothers, whose sprints on the final two laps gave him a 15-yard victory over Air Force Lt. Ernie Cunliffe of Oxnard AFB, Calif., trailed until late in the race.

Veteran sprinter Ira Murchison of Chicago captured the 50-yard dash crown, a triumph he first scored here five years ago, in 5.5.

• • • •

ONE-TIME high jump king John Thomas of Boston won his specialty at an even 7 feet, failing in three tries at 7-feet-2-inches. His competition, headed by Guatamalian Theodore Palacious, fouled out at 6-6.

In the mile, Kansan Bill Dotson staged an upset by winning in the slow time of 4:09.9. Dotson edged Canadian Jim Irish at the tape and both whipped Finnish favorite Olavi Salonen.

Unchallenged hurdle king Hayes Jones won his 30th successive indoor event with a three-yard victory in 5.5 for 45 yards.

Dave Tork, Henry Wadsworth and John Belitza pole vaulted 15 feet, 6 inches, but all failed at 16-2.

The trio, who finished in that order on the basis of early misses, were shooting at Don Meyers' indoor mark of 16 feet, 1¼ inches.

Three ineligible athletes from the U. of Maryland defied the NCAA's edict and competed in the AAU-sponsored meet.

Rabbits Bow to Compton

By NORM WILKY

Compton High put an end to Poly's dreams of an unbeaten season, halting the Rabbits' win streak at 15 with a 59-50 victory in the Tarbabes' gym Saturday night.

It was the amazing performance of forward Mike Jacobs and Poly's poor outside shooting and lack of rebounding which made the difference.

Jacobs scored 29 points, 15 in the last half. Poly hit only 34 per cent of its shots and its 50 points marked a season low. Also, the Hares grabbed only seven offensive rebounds.

• • • •

POLY LED after the first period, but Compton took command until late in the third stanza when the Rabbits gained a one-point lead. It was their last, however.

The game remained close until the final four minutes when the Tarbabes (13-2) pulled away.

AFL 'TOO YOUNG TO BE ACCUSED'

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—The American Football League, prompted by "rumors of gambling" in the National Football League, plans to tighten security regulations before next season, commissioner Joe Foss said Saturday at the conclusion of the AFL meetings.

Discussing possible violations in the AFL, Foss explained:

"We're too young a league to be accused of anything yet."

union, but it wasn't. The Huskies almost lost it as Gordy Martin and Wells Sloniger played splendidly in the closing minutes.

• • • •

MARTIN AND Sloniger each hit a pair of free throws to pull to within four points with two minutes remaining. Martin drove for a field goal that made it a two-point difference.

Martin, Troy's high scorer with 18, added two more free throws, but didn't regain the lead because Charley Hart sneaked in three free throws for the Northerners. Hart didn't score many, but he got three of them when they were the difference between winning and losing.

side shooting, winding up with 25 points, five less than Baylor. However, 13 of Baylor's came in the final period and he dominated the boards in the last few minutes. West, playing well throughout, was tops with 33.

The Lakers take on the New York Knicks tonight at 7:05 at the L.A. Arena.

Invariably the Lakers have had trouble with the Warriors in the first two quarters. After knotting the score several times and leading once by six points, the Lakers could not hold their advantage. Wilt hit his first two attempts in the opening moments, tailed off somewhat afterwards, but passing and rebounding well paced San Francisco to a 61-53 halftime lead.

That Warrior lead at intermission was exactly what it was in San Francisco Friday night although Bob Ferrick's club on that occasion once held an 18-point advantage.

Chamberlain had high scoring starts of 72, 67, 62 against the Lakers in earlier games. . . . Also he has scored 50 or more points in 28 games but the Warriors have won only 14 all season.

The Lakers came to the arena with a 14-7 road mark. best in the NBA, although getting off to a poor 14-7 start. . . . There are fabulous 31 home, 18-2.

President Bob Short of the Lakers was among the huge throng enjoying the game. . . . Short is beaming these days over the showing of his transplanted team. . . . He is here primarily to help set up the big all-star game Wednesday night at the Arena.

. . . He added the second quarter. The Lakers 6'9" and 6'8" Baylor is 6'5" and Wilt is a free throw. . . . While in more than 200 NBA games, had never fouled out. . . . Baylor has fouled out only 13 times.

Hot-Shooting San Jose Drubs Loyola, 62-52

SAN JOSE (AP)—San Jose State, firing 52 per cent from the floor and dominating the backboards, defeated Loyola of Los Angeles 62-52 in a West Coast Athletic Conference basketball game Saturday night.

The host Spartans had three men in double scoring figures — Eddie Sims with 15, Harry Edwards with 13 and Bill Yonge with 12. Sims pulled down 12 rebounds.

Loyola's Brian Quinn was high man for the game with 16 points.

San Jose opened a 9-0 lead before Loyola hit its first points.

80 for Prep Star

SANTA FE, N.M. (UPI)—Nick Pino, who stands seven feet tall, scored 80 points Saturday night in St. Michael's 90-35 basketball victory over El Rito High School. The old high school scoring record in New Mexico was 58 points.

Daniels Registers TKO Win Over Alongi

NEW YORK (UPI)—Heavyweight Billy Daniels of Ozone Park, N. Y., scored a technical knockout over tall Tony Alongi of Hollywood, Fla., Saturday night in the fifth round after Alongi had been officially floored twice but was on the deck three times in their nationally televised fight at Sunnyside Garden.

Midway in the fifth Daniels suddenly nailed Alongi with a right to the chin that dropped him. Another right and he was down for another mandatory eight count, and a combination right and shove floored him again.

Stanford Routs OSU as Dose Scores 29

STANFORD (AP)—Stanford, jumping off to 27-point lead in the first half, coasted to a 96-69 win over Oregon State Saturday night in a non-conference basketball game to avenge its 65-58 defeat by the Beavers Friday night.

Stanford center Tom Dose led the Indians with 29 points.

Hitting over 50 per cent of their shots, the Indians piled up an early 16-4 lead and built it up to 41-14 with seven minutes left.

Then the Beavers cut away at the margin, mostly on long jump shots by their 7-foot center Mel Counts, and Stanford led by 14 at the half, 53-39.

The ball-hugging Beavers cut the Stanford margin to 11 in the second half at 65-54, but then Counts fouled out with 11 minutes and 44 seconds left. Stanford breezed from there.

It was the worst defeat ever suffered by Oregon State at the hands of the Indians.

Counts was high for the Beavers with 20 points. OSU star Terry Baker was held to 11 points.

THE 59-POINT output was Long Beach's low of the year, a sharp contrast to Friday's season high of 90. For the night, LBSC hit 22 of 71 shots for a miserable 31 per cent. Fresno connected on 24 of 51 for 47 per cent. The Bulldogs also cashed in 28 of 40 free throws, nearly double LBSC's 15 of 20.

Andersen, who had trouble evading Jacobsen's guarding, led the losers with 16 points, 12 of which came in the second half. Montgomery again had to settle for a first-half scoring binge of 12 points. This duplicated his Friday performance when he also failed to score after intermission.

The 49ers now are idle until Jan. 25 when they travel to Santa Barbara to resume league play.

WYNN

Man to Man

TITTLE

By JERRY WYNN

His real name is Yelberton Abraham, but he goes by Y. A., the players call him Yat, the sportswriters peg him as the Bald Eagle and at the Pro Bowl luncheon the other day, he was introduced as "the stone-age Terry Baker."

Call him what you like, Y. A. Tittle is enjoying a second childhood — pro football variety — at the age of 36. Cast off as a "has-been" from the San Francisco 49ers, he has been and still is the star quarterback of the Eastern Division champion New York Giants.

Tittle, in 1962, set a new NFL record with 33 touchdown passes, tied another mark with seven TD passes in one game, and was named "player of the year" in several polls. Today he leads the East team against the West in the annual Pro Bowl classic at the Coliseum.

Is the East team going to win, Y. A.?

"I think we have a real good chance. We have a great team, but so do they. That's what makes the game so good."

With such great receivers as Del Shofner, Bobby Mitchell, Sonny Randle and Tommy McDonald, will Jim Brown get a chance to run with the ball?

"Sure. I'm happy to have so many good receivers, but we will play the usual game. It won't be 60 passes and two runs. You've got to be able to run with the ball to make the passing go."

At San Francisco, you had such fine receivers as Billy Wilson and Gordy Soltau. How does Shofner compare to them?

"Del is the finest deep receiver I've ever thrown to. In fact, he's the finest in the game. Wilson was a good short pass receiver and had the knack of getting open."

Did you enjoy your playing days with the 49ers as much as you do with the Giants?

"I enjoyed playing in San Francisco. That's my home. The fans and press treated me well. The only thing we missed was having a champion. We have that in New York, and of course, the fans love it. The Giants this year were the best team I've ever played for."

Is Green Bay the best team you've ever played against?

"It's a very fine team, no question about it. Probably the best-balanced team. But every year, the team that's champion is a great team. I don't know if the Packers are better than some of the other champions."

Do you think the Giants would have beaten the Packers in the championship game if the weather had been better?

"We would like to think we could. That's not to minimize their success. They're a great team, and the weather affected them, too. It was the worst I've ever played in . . . not so much the cold but the wind. We had a gale of about 35 miles blowing."

After 22 years as a player and 15 of them in pro ball, how long do you plan to continue to play?

"Just one more season. Physically, I still feel fine and probably could keep going longer. You know, a quarterback doesn't take the punishment some other players do. But I've got an insurance business in Palo Alto that requires more and more of my time and three children to think about. A guy can't play forever."

What has been your greatest thrill in football?

"It was at the end of the last game of the 1961 season against Cleveland at Yankee Stadium when the fans started a 10-second countdown. You know, how they count off the final seconds. I had that great feeling of being a champion for the first time in my life."

BALLOTING BEGINS TODAY

Who's L.B.'s 'Most Popular?'

Who was Long Beach's most popular athlete in 1962?

The Long Beach Century Club intends to find the answer before its seventh annual Sports Night awards banquet Jan. 24 in the Lafayette Hotel.

For the fourth consecutive year, the Independent-Press Telegram will work in conjunction with the Century Club to determine the most popular Long Beach athlete — whether the person's sport be volleyball, badminton, football or kendo.

Beginning today, and continuing throughout the week, this newspaper will print a "Most Popular Athlete" ballot. The athlete who receives the most votes through the newspaper ballots will be presented a special trophy at the banquet.

Any Long Beach athlete is eligible for a vote. Only stipulation in voting is that the candidate be engaged currently in athletics. No retired athletes are eligible.

Winners the previous three years have been Bob Soth (1960 Olympic Games distance runner), Vicki Van Hook (national water ski champion) and Ron Fairly (Dodger first baseman).

Meanwhile, guest acceptances for this year's annual banquet—honoring football star Johnny Olszewski and Long Beach athletes who have distinguished themselves during 1962 — have been pouring into the Century Club office at a fast clip. Not only former college and professional colleagues of Johnny-O will be on hand to honor the 17-year gridiron veteran, but also luminaries from baseball, auto racing, track-and-field, basketball, hockey, tennis, swimming and every other recognized sport.

Announcement of some of the nationally-known figures will be made beginning Monday.

Tickets (at $10 per seat) can be secured at Apple Valley Steak House, Kenny's Sporting Goods Store and through a special ticket box printed on this page of today's sports section.

TOP PLAYER AT SAN DIEGO
Gary Player belts one down the middle during third round of San Diego Open. The South African flash slipped to 70 Saturday after pair of 65s, but still holds one-shot lead.

Player Slips to 70, Still Leads by 1 Shot

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Gary Player's birdie production dropped off Saturday but he still fired a one under par 70 to retain his lead at the end of 54 holes in the San Diego Open golf tournament.

Player posted a score of 200, one shot ahead of Billy Casper and the fast-closing longshot, Miller Barber of Rye, N.Y.

The little South African star had checked in with identical 65s on the first two rounds but had a bit of trouble Saturday as the course played longer and tougher. And he had to settle for a 36-34, getting two birdies on the back nine to hold the lead he had established at the halfway mark Friday.

Casper, recovering from an illness that nearly sidelined him Friday, checked in with a 69 to gain a stroke. He had nines of 36-33 for a 201 total. Barber, a 31-year-old part-time touring pro, had a fine 66 on nines of 35-31.

The husky professional, who never had finished better than third in any PGA tourney, spanked his irons so close to the pin that he was shooting for birdies all day long. He had five of these on the back nine, with the longest from 10 feet and one from three inches.

• • • •

TIED FOR fourth place were Negro champion Charley Sifford, who had a 67, and Fred Hawkins of El Paso, who blew to a par 71 after two straight 66s.

The course played much longer Saturday due to a light breeze, and practically all the par four holes required long iron or wood approaches.

"I had to use a wood or a three or four iron on nearly every par-4 hole on the whole round," said Art Wall, who finished with a 68 for a total of 205.

• • • •

BIG GEORGE Bayer, the former football player, was disqualified for the illegal lifting of his ball. He had shot a 73 and was far back at 215.

Player said that he still thinks the tourney record of 269 will be broken.

"The wind came up today and hurt my chances for a good score," he said.

Gulls, Stars Collide on TV

By DOUG IVES

Long Beach and Burbank, as evenly matched as the Bobbsy Twins, resume their California Hockey League feud today at Pickwick Arena in Burbank at 2:30 p.m.

KTLA, channel 5, will televise the contest, which could develop into a real donnybrook after the ruckus raised in Burbank Thursday night.

The Stars are still grumbling about that game, which ended in a 5-5 tie. They were called on three misconduct penalties and their top scorer, Ron Bahr, was kicked out of the game.

• • • •

LONG BEACH still is trying to take over the CHL lead, despite the fact it has the only unbeaten (7-0-4) record in the league. Burbank (8-1-3) leads by one point.

Coach Doug Bentley, who didn't suit up Thursday, will be back in uniform today, thus setting up a brother act with Stars' coach Max Bentley.

Ernie Rucks will shift to center, replacing Ken Watson, who left to become player-coach of the Los Angeles Canadians Friday.

Don Makow, with two assists Thursday, has taken over the Gulls' scoring lead with 26 points. Vern Wildeman and Rucks each have 24. Week's schedule:

Today — L.B. at Burbank, Pickwick Arena, 2:30 p.m.; Los Angeles at Bakersfield, 7:30 p.m.
Tuesday — L.B. at Los Angeles, Culver City Ice Rink, 8:15 p.m.
Thursday — Los Angeles at Burbank, 8:15 p.m.
Sunday (20th) — Burbank at Los Angeles, 2:30 p.m.; L.B. at Bakersfield, 7:30 p.m.

Gulls Tickets

Tickets for Long Beach Gulls hockey games are on sale at the Gulls office, 209 E. Ocean Blvd., and at the Arena. Box offices open daily at 10 a.m.

Admission prices are $2, $1.50 and $1 with students and service men being admitted to general admission sections for 50 cents.

The Gulls' next home game will be played against the Burbank Stars Jan. 22. For information call 437-7027 or 437-3105.

L.A. Opens Drive for Olympics

NEW YORK (UPI)—A two-man delegation which is heading the drive to get the 1968 Olympic Games for Los Angeles conferred informally Saturday with Gen. Douglas MacArthur, who has been named as arbitrator in the current dispute between the Amateur Athletic Union and the National Collegiate Athletic Assn.

Joe Quinn, special assistant to Mayor Sam Yorty of Los Angeles, said he and Mel Pierson, president of the Los Angeles Reservation and Parks Commission, invited MacArthur to come out to light the torch for the 1968 Games "if we get them. He said he would be glad to do so."

Quinn said the he and Pierson will confer with Douglas F. Roby, vice president of the U. S. Olympic Committee.

Quinn said it was his understanding that the Detroit group was convinced that it would not win the approval of the International Olympic Committee as the site for the 1968 Games.

The U. S. Olympic Committee selected Detroit as the U.S. city to bid for the Games.

Tobin Tabbed to Head Olympic Promotion

Jack Tobin, former sports writer for the Long Beach Press-Telegram, was appointed by the Coliseum Commission to the new post as director of Olympic Games promotion.

Tobin's duties will entail landing the 1968 Summer Games for Los Angeles. Detroit currently is making a strong bid for the U. S.

Giants Entitled to Amalfitano in Toto

By HARRY GRAYSON
(NEA Sports Writer)

An unusual baseball transaction sent Joe Amalfitano back to San Francisco from Houston.

This time the Giants gave up Dick LeMay, a left-handed pitcher, and outfielder-infielder Manny Mota.

This being the Giants' third deal for Amalfitano, it might safely be said that they now have permanent possession. Horace Stoneham and Co. most certainly are entitled to the versatile San Pedro athlete in toto.

• • • •

SOMEBODY at Candlestick Park sees something in Amalfitano, who will be 29 when the season rolls around.

The Giants were still in New York when Amalfitano, then 20, was plucked out of Loyola University in February, 1954, by scout Dutch Reuther. The kid was given a $30,000 bonus and that fall picked up an $11,000 World Series check for little more than keeping out of the regular Giants' way as they swept the set with Cleveland.

In those days, a bonus baby had to be carried by the parent club for two years, so young Amalfitano sat around doing little more than errand boy duties throughout 1955.

After three years in the American Assn., Eastern League and PCL, the Giants peddled Amalfitano to Toronto in 1959.

When he settled down at second base and batted .308 for the Maple Leafs, however, Amalfitano was drafted by the Giants for $25,000.

Joey was useful to the Giants in 1960 and '61 and they reluctantly put him on the expansion draft list when they had no alternative. When Houston took him as a premium pick at $125,000, the Giants tried to buy him back at the same price.

Now he's back with the Giants for the third time. He batted no more than .237 for Houston the past season, but, you see, somebody up there likes him—meaning in Horace Stoneham's office.

BETTING ON SPORTS MAJOR PROBLEM

'Need New Laws to Halt Fixes'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Attorney general Robert F. Kennedy reported to the President Saturday that new legislation may be necessary to give the government greater powers to crack down on gamblers who attempt to fix professional and amateur sports events.

In a report to the White House on the 1962 Justice Department fight against organized crime, the attorney general said betting on sports events remained a major problem in combatting racketeering.

He said his department had investigated reported "fix" attempts but that federal responsibility in this area was limited.

"Further legislation might well be necessary," he said. "We will continue, however, to take action under present authority, should it be required."

The attorney general thought the over-all record of combatting crime in 1962 was "an encouraging one," with significant progress, but "no one believes the tide of the battle is turned."

Ultimate success for anti-crime efforts, he said, would require "years of cooperation among federal and local agencies . . . energy and integrity on the part of all law enforcement offices . . . the interest and involvement of every citizen."

The report said Internal Revenue Service figures showed a sharp decline in illegal gambling across the country, but that organized crime still continued "to tap the pocketbooks and sap the morality of our citizens."

One notable improvement in 1962, he said, was the enforcement of new anti-racketeering laws to help shut down national race results services, the distribution of telephone gambling information, and bookmaking.

According to Internal Revenue, gamblers across the country in fiscal 1962 reported accepting bets of $53,490,000 — the lowest figure since 1952 when the federal law first required a license stamp for anyone accepting bets.

Troy-Husky Basketball Fix Try Not a 'Joke,' Say Police

Los Angeles authorities declined Saturday to accept a 29-year-old truck driver's explanation that he was only kidding when he assertedly tried to bribe a University of Washington basketball player.

Officers grabbed David Donahue outside the L. A. Sports Arena Friday night just before the Huskies played the University of Southern California.

Donahue, booked on suspicion of attempting to bribe a sports participant, told detectives he "was just fooling around" when he made the cash-in-hand gesture to Washington's Larry Sharp.

Sharp scored one point during his 20 minutes of play. Southern California won 64-61.

• • • •

SHARP TOLD police Donahue approached him as he entered the Arena and asked him if he was with the team.

He said Donahue then asked:

"How about missing a few buckets tonight and I'll give you $500."

Donahue then pulled out a handful of money, Sharp said, and called to another man standing nearby.

"We'll each give you $500," Sharp said Donahue told him.

Sharp said he replied he wasn't interested and walked away.

He told his coach, John Grayson, who alerted Southern California athletic director Jess Hill.

Officers found Donahue outside the Arena.

The second man also was questioned but was released after he insisted he knew nothing about Donahue's acts.

Police said Donahue told them he had been trying to buy tickets for re-sale and that the incident was a "big joke."

"I didn't mean anything by it," he told officers.

L.A. Blades' Trainer to Leave Hospital

Trainer Dave Parker of the Los Angeles Blades, injured in a freak accident during a Western Hockey League match Thursday night, is expected to leave the hospital today.

The accident occurred when two skaters slammed in to the door leading to the players' box. The door flipped open and struck Parker in the lower abdomen, causing painful internal injuries.

Another Runaway for Wills: 'Athlete of Year'

By Associated Press

Maurice Morning Maury Wills, the base stealing son of a Washington minister, was named "athlete of the year" for 1962 Saturday.

The Dodger shortstop, who smashed one of the "unbreakable" marks in sports as he flashed to 104 stolen bases last season, won the honors by a wide margin in the annual Associated Press poll.

Wills captured 72 first place votes and 338 points on a 3-2-1 basis from a national panel of 302 sportswriters and sportcasters who participated in the poll.

• • • •

GOLFER Jack Nicklaus, whose first tournament victory as a pro was the U. S. Open, was runnerup, with 38 first place votes and 208 points. Y. A. Tittle, the old Bald Eagle quarterback of the New York Football Giants, was third in the voting with 38 first place votes and 180 points.

Golf's Arnold Palmer was fourth and the crushing fullback of the NFL champion Green Bay Packers, Jim Taylor, was fifth.

Wills was the 12th baseball winner of the award since the poll was started in 1931. Pepper Martin captured the honors the first year.

• • • •

ROGER MARIS of the New York Yankees, who wrestled with another of baseball's mighty marks when he hit 61 home runs for an asterisk decision over Babe Ruth's 60, won the award last year. However, surly Roger who had only an ordinary year in 1962, did not receive a single vote for first, second or third place in this year's balloting.

The runaway victory for Wills was fitting. He captured the national fancy as he closed in on Ty Cobb's mark of 96 stolen bases set in 1915, then passed it and finally emerged with 104 steals in the 165 games the Dodgers played, including three playoff games with the San Francisco Giants.

Wills on first was a fearful sight to the opposition because very often the next sight they saw was the slender shortstop standing safely on second, brushing off his uniform while the dust settled. He was caught stealing only 13 times in 117 attempts.

The Dodger shortstop soared to the sports peak at the age of 30. He was born one of 13 children of a Washington minister, and now has five children of his own.

He batted over .300 most of last season and sagged to his final .299 only on his last at bat. His 208 hits was the best total for a National League shortstop since Dave Bancroft of the New York Giants in 1922, and completely silenced any comments about not being able to steal first base.

He also sparkled in the field and displayed one of the strongest arms in the majors.

The voting points on a 3-2-1 basis, first place votes in parentheses:

1. Maury Wills, baseball (72) 338
2. Jack Nicklaus, golf (38) 208
3. Y. A. Tittle, football (38) 180
4. Arnold Palmer, golf (20) 111
5. Jim Taylor, football (22) 102
6. Terry Baker, football (16) 92
7. Mickey Mantle, baseball (14) 78
8. Sonny Liston, boxing (12) 72
9. Jim Beatty, track (9) 59
10. Warren Spahn, baseball (9) 56

Others receiving first place votes: Don Carter, bowling; Willie Mays, baseball; Peter Snell, track; Jerry Lucas, basketball; Bill Russell, basketball; Bus Mosbacher, sailing; Valery Brumel, track; Rod Laver, tennis; Lee Roy Jordan, football; Bill Dean, Charlie Cheek, golf; Don Schollander, swimming; Pete Rozelle, baseball; Robin Roberts, baseball.

'FOR THE GOOD OF THE ATHLETES'

10 Colleges Reject NCAA Policy, Enter Invitational

Long Beach State and nine other colleges or universities are planning to defy a recommendation of the National Collegiate Athletic Assn. and enter athletes in the AAU-sanctioned L.A. Invitational track meet on Jan. 19, it was learned Saturday.

In each instance, school spokesmen declared that their athletes' welfare was the sole consideration in bypassing a policy adopted by the NCAA convention in Los Angeles last week.

• • • •

THE RESOLUTION urges all colleges to support only meets sanctioned by the new U.S. Track and Field Federation. The Invitational has been sanctioned only by the AAU.

Athletes of the 10 schools planning to compete Saturday are entered unattached, not as representatives of their schools.

USC, California and Stanford, members of the Big Six which has spearheaded the Federation's drive against the venerable AAU, are awaiting a conference ruling, which is expected Monday.

Entries from Oregon State, Long Beach State, Los Angeles State, Redlands, Pepperdine, Claremont-Mudd and Cal Poly of Pomona apparently are firm.

Long Beach State also has accepted invitations to compete in the February Los Angeles Indoor Championships and Golden State Invitational in San Francisco.

Jack Rose, L.B. State coach, said Saturday night, "We don't want controversy, just a chance to run. Our boys have worked very hard. They're enthusiastic and eager and we expect them to do a good job. It would be a shame if they weren't permitted to compete after all that practice."

Robert Pestolesi, assistant 49er athletic director, stated, "We don't believe in hurting good meets by staying out or hurting our athletes by keeping them out."

L.B. State's entries were determined by time trials.

• • • •

THE 49ers will oppose Redlands, Pepperdine and Claremont-Mudd in the college mile relay with a team of Jim Richardson (49.9) Jeff Clements (49.9), Norm Johannes (51.3) and Dave Shirley (51.3).

Long Beach's college division two-mile relay team will be composed of Lee Ralph (1:53.9), Bill Crowley (1:55.9), Steve Tilney (1:55.9) and Darryl Taylor (1:55.9). Opponents will be Pepperdine, Cal Poly of Pomona and Claremont-Mudd.

The 49ers also entered Dee Andrews (24-11 last year) in the broad jump.

Speed Skate Mark

TOENSBERG, Norway (AP) — Norway's Knut Johannesen cut 6.3 seconds off the 3,000-meter speed skating world record Saturday night, clocking a phenomenal 4 minutes, 33.9 seconds during a national meet.

DASH DAZZLER
Dennis Johnson of Jamaica, one of world's fastest humans, will be favored in sprints at L.A. Invitational track meet Saturday night.

IT'S VILLAINY VS. TRICKS THIS WEEK

The villainy of Dangerous Don Manoukian and the Destroyer will be matched against the upstanding tactics of Tricky Dick Hutton and Tricky Ricki Starr in this week's pro wrestling headliner.

The match, for the tag team championship, will be held Tuesday night at Municipal Auditorium.

Hard Wins Doubles, Drops Singles Final

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (UPI) — Darlene Hard of Inglewood, Calif., won two double titles in the Western Province Lawn Tennis championships Saturday but lost to former Wimbledon champion Maria Bueno of Brazil in the finals of women's singles, 7-5, 6-3.

In women's doubles, Miss Hard and Miss Bueno defeated Margaret Hunt and Annette Van Zyl of South Africa, 6-2, 6-4. In the finals of mixed doubles, Miss Hard and Bob Mark of Australia defeated Christian Kuhnke of Germany and Heather Segal of South Africa, 6-4, 6-1.

Joe Schmidt: 890 Chances, 7 Errors

An observer remarked recently that "watching the Detroit Lions play without Joe Schmidt would be like watching a burlesque show that doesn't have a stripper."

Schmidt, who will lend his tremendous defensive talents to the West squad in today's Pro Bowl game at the Coliseum, is regarded as the greatest middle linebacker the game has yet known.

In fact, when the word got around last year that the movie people were considering the life story of the widely-publicized Sam Huff, middle linebacker of the New York Giants, one pro football observed: "If they do, they'll have to get Schmidt to play the part if they want an Academy Award performance.

JOE SCHMIDT
Highest-Paid Lion

Schmidt personifies the new era of pro football in which defense has become so dominant. In fact, it is feared that the strong defenses are threatening to choke off the pro sport's lifeblood of popularity — wide-open offense.

Joe doesn't agree with this. "Sure, it's evident that defense has gotten a lot better in the last five years or so. But it also is a lot more popular with the fans. They now watch and appreciate defensive play as much as they do the running and passing," he says.

Will the pro strategists do something soon to bring offense back into the spotlight?

"I think defense is going to stay this way a long, long time," he points out. "The personnel is getting better all the time and the emphasis on strong defense is greater. To win in the NFL, you must have a strong defense and every team knows it.

"I'm not sure what the next trend will be in offense, maybe multiple formations, like the Dallas Cowboys used the past season. They really mix 'em up. It takes variations like that to keep the defense loose and off balance."

SCHMIDT HAS BEEN IN PRO BALL 10 years after having been persuaded by his brother to try out with the Lions. "I didn't think I had a chance to make the club," he reveals. "They had just won the championship and I didn't think they'd be looking for a new linebacker, especially a rookie who was only their No. 7 draft choice."

Buddy Parker, who was coach of the Lions then, pointed out at the recent NFL draft meeting that "you just don't find men like Schmidt any more after the first couple of rounds in the draft — if then.

"He was a real bargain. We only had to pay him $7,500 that first year. Kids coming into the league now will get more than twice that much . . . and they're not in the same class as Schmidt was even as a rookie."

Joe's salary is now $27,000 a year, making him the highest-paid man on the Lion squad and one of the highest in the entire NFL, which now has a peak salary figure of $35,000 for an offensive star.

Schmidt also is the most popular man on the Detroit team and highly-respected and liked throughout pro ball.

WHO WAS THE MIDDLE LINEBACKER with the Lions before Schmidt?

The answer is — nobody. In fact, Joe didn't play that position until his third season (1955).

"They used a five-man line on defense when I came into the league," he recalls. "Les Bingaman was the Lions' middle guard. I played left corner linebacker. Laverne Torgeson was on the right side. We had nobody in the middle.

"The middle linebacker was born of necessity. Offenses started going into more spreads and using slot backs and it got so the middle of the defense was left open to passing. The middle guard was dropped off and the middle linebacker took his place."

The 5-11, 215-pound Schmidt has been an all-league selection in eight of his 10 seasons in the NFL and a participant in the Pro Bowl since '55.

Although he's one of the three oldest men in the league from the standpoint of service, he says "I still feel I want to play a couple of more years . . . maybe even longer. It all depends on how I feel. When I don't enjoy it any longer, then I will know it is time to get out."

THE RESPONSIBILITIES of a middle linebacker and defensive leader like Schmidt are awesome, indeed, in today's intricate game. He must have total recall of as many as 50 variations of basic defense formations as well as the play patterns and play trends used by opposing teams. It requires an alert mind as well as brawn to handle his job.

Statistics prove his effectiveness. Game charts of the 1961 season show that Schmidt was guilty of only SEVEN mistakes in judgment of execution out of 890 plays run off by the opposition.

That's a fantastic record. The average man makes that many mistakes in a single afternoon. The 1962 charts are not complete, but the Lion coaching staff is betting that they'll show Joe made even fewer mistakes than the year before.

What a man!

West Slim Choice in AFL All-Star Contest

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — The American football league presents its second annual glamour show today, featuring a 61 per cent-completions passer, three 1,000-yard ground gainers, possibly the best rookie ball carrier in professional football and a 321-pound defensive lineman.

The passer is Len Dawson of Dallas, who was named by the players as the league's premier performer this season. The runners are Cookie Gilchrist of Buffalo, who set a league rushing record of 1,096 yards; Abner Haynes of Dallas, who gained 1,049 yards; and Charlie Tolar of Houston who picked up 1,012 yards.

• • • •

THE ROOKIE is Curtis McClinton of Dallas, who came off the bench after an injury to Jack Spikes early in the season to spark the Texans to the league title. He was named rookie of the year.

The lineman is Ernie Ladd of San Diego who threatens to cut down Gilchrist's and Tolar's rushing statistics.

Dallas overcame Houston, 20-17, in overtime in the title game, and a dozen members of each team resume the rivalry today.

The West backfield features Dawson, Haynes and McClinton, with the league's No. 1 receiver, Lionel Taylor of Denver, at flanker.

The East was favored last year and lost, 47-27. The West is a 3½ point favorite.

NBA STAR GAME WEDNESDAY

By DON HARDIN

The most sparkling array of basketball players in the world will grace the L.A. Sports Arena floor Wednesday night when the National Basketball Assn. holds its annual all-star game.

For the first time since its inception this game, featuring the cream of the crop from the Western and Eastern Divisions, will be played on the West Coast. A capacity crowd of 15,000 is expected.

Three-fifths of the Lakers' starting team will be on the court. Jerry West and Elgin Baylor are definite starters for the West and Rudy LaRusso will see plenty of action at a forward post.

• • • •

BOB PETTIT, the St. Louis Hawks' star, will be a starting forward. Wilt Chamberlain and Walt Bellamy will alternate at center.

Fred Schaus of the division-leading Lakers will coach the West. Red Auerbach of the champion Boston Celtics will coach the East.

Auerbach's squad is headed by his all-pro center, Bill Russell, and teammates Tommy Heinsohn and Bob Cousy. Oscar Robertson of Cincinnati and Richie Guerin of New York are guard stars.

The West is a slight favorite in the battle of 12-man squads.

The skyscraping duel between scoring-machine Chamberlain and defensive ace Russell figures to top the other individual battles.

The Chamberlain-Russell rivalry began when Wilt came into the NBA four years ago. But this is the first time the two have opposed each other in the all-star competition.

Chamberlain and Russell always played on the same team, the East — and the West won two of the three — since Philadelphia and the Celtics were in that division. However, since the Warriors moved to San Francisco Wilt's a Westerner now.

Chamberlain leads the NBA in scoring with a 47.5 average, while Baylor is next with a 34.5 mark. Robertson is tops in field goal accuracy at .52 per cent, while Chamberlain is first in rebounds with 25 and Russell is second with 23 a game.

The game will not be televised in Southern California.

LBSC Boosters Plan Breakfast

Long Beach State's 49er booster club will hold its first tip-off breakfast Monday morning in the college cafeteria starting at 7 o'clock.

Coach Dick Perry will discuss the weekend's basketball activity with Cal Poly and Fresno State. The public is invited to attend.

Films of the Idaho-LBSC game will be shown in which local fans will get their first glimpse of the great Gus Johnson. The only two games the Vandals have dropped this year were when the 6-6 junior didn't suit up.

Graham Not in Line for Browns' Job

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Cleveland Brown's president Arthur Modell said Saturday he has not contacted Otto Graham, former Brown star quarterback, about succeeding Paul Brown as head coach of the team.

"I have not approached Graham about the job," Modell said. "I have four men in mind — three assistant coaches in pro football and one college coach."

"I should have an announcement within a few days," he said.

• • • •

MODELL SAID his list includes "at least one of the Browns' assistant coaches." He declined to comment further.

Mentioned most prominently since Brown was fired Wednesday have been Blanton Collier, Browns' backfield coach; Ara Parseghian, head coach at Northwestern and a former Browns' player; Bill Austin, assistant Green Bay Packers' coach and Tom Landry, head coach of the Dallas Cowboys.

Modell's statement would appear to eliminate Landry.

Bolero Makes Fine Debut After Gear Troubles

CAT CAY, Bahamas (AP)—Bolero, a speedy competitor from the Pacific Coast, made an impressive debut in Southern ocean racing Saturday by showing her stern to the fleet of East Coast yachts in the Miami to Cat Cay season opener.

The white-hulled, 73-foot-6 yawl raced by Sally Langmuir of Beverly Hills, Calif., lost time repairing gear trouble after crossing the rough Gulf Stream but still reached the finish line more than three hours in front of her nearest opponent.

She was a winner in the overall finish, but spotted the others handicaps ranging up to 3 hours 50 minutes and beat them all on corrected time.

Bolero's time for the 92 miles she covered in a windward beat through rough seas was 15 hours 41 minutes 25 seconds.

Good Hope, George Slayton's 63-footer out of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., finished second, a little over three hours behind Bolero.

Haney Sends Out 41 Pacts; Pay Hikes Due

General manager Fred Haney mailed out 1963 Angel baseball contracts to 41 players Saturday and commented that some contain rewards for work well done in 1962.

The club finished a surprising third in the American League last season. The team was formed only two years ago.

"I have talked to a number of the players living in the Los Angeles area about their contracts," Haney said, "and I do not anticipate any great difficulties with any player. I also talked to Lee Thomas when he was in the city earlier this week."

• • • •

"MANY OF our men had fine years in 1962," Haney said, "and it was their performances which enabled the Angels to finish third. In sending out their new contracts, they are being rewarded for their good work."

The Angels open spring training Feb. 12 in Palm Springs.

Bo Belinsky, the left-handed pitcher who stirred up considerable controversy during the 1962 season, was among those on the contract mailing list.

Right-hander Bob Turley, a conditional purchase from the New York Yankees, also was tendered a contract.

LONG BEACH'S Brian McCall became the first to sign with the Chicago White Sox Saturday. McCall batted .303 in the Northwest League in 1962 and hit two homers against the Yankees when called up late in the season.

Former Dodger Bob Lillis was named the Houston Colts' most valuable player for 1962. Signings:

Orioles—Hoyt Wilhelm, who won seven games last season and saved 13 . . . Wilhelm will be 40 in July.

MAKES UP 8 LENGTHS

By ERNIE MASON

Crimson Satan, with Herb Hinojosa in the saddle, whittled down Native Diver's eight-length lead and won Saturday's $50,000-added San Fernando Stakes in a photo finish at Santa Anita.

Willie Shoemaker kept Native Diver up for a second-place finish. Pirate Cove finished third, six lengths back.

Hinojosa made his move at about the half-mile pole in the 1⅛-mile race, finishing in 1 minute, 47 1/5 seconds to clip two-fifths of a second off the race record set two years ago by Prove It.

Crimson Satan, the second favorite at 2-1, paid $5.40, $3 and $2.40, Native Diver $3 and $2.60, Pirate Cove $3.

Hinojosa flew in from Florida to pilot the distance specialist. Crimson Satan looked impressive in the San Carlos last week, closing fast to finish fourth.

Four of the past five winners of the San Fernando have gone on to win the $100,000 Santa Anita Maturity.

Native Diver was highweighted at 120 pounds. Crimson Satan carried 117.

• • • •

NATIVE DIVER raced into command going into the first turn and drew into his long lead going down the backstretch.

Crimson Satan, rated well far back of the pace in the first one-half mile, then went to the outside for clear racing room to advance steadily.

Hinojosa kept the Crimson King Farm entry slightly back of Native Diver for a short distance, then got him up under strong handling to win it.

Native Diver was the entry of Mr. and Mrs. L. K. Shapiro. Pirate Cove, an H. B. Keck entry with Olympiarco, stayed close to the pace to the far turn then gave way but held on under strong urging.

Native Diver's stable had thought so little of his distance running ability that the colt was not nominated for the $100,000 Charles H. Strub Stakes for 4-year-olds, Jan. 26. The Strub Stakes, however, was one of the goals of the Crimson King Farm in sending their star west and barring the improvement of some of the other colts, he should be a heavy favorite for that rich stakes.

• • • •

CRIMSON Satan earned $36,300 for his victory. He came west with the record of having been the top juvenile of 1961 and the hard-luck colt of 1962 when he was disqualified out of two big purses but still won several major stakes.

Prior to losing with Native Diver, Shoemaker had scored three wins in a row on his final day of racing before starting a five-day suspension next Tuesday that will cost him several stakes mounts.

Hunting Licenses for Blind Men?

A blind man walked into a Seattle sporting goods store Thursday and bought a state hunting license. Nobody raised any objections. You think that's peculiar or funny? Well, just for the record, the same thing can be done in California.

We have laws that limit the number of shells that may be contained in a gun, laws that prohibit loaded guns in cars, etc., but there is no law which says that a blind man, or a person with impaired sight, can be denied a license.

The Seattle man was Arnold Sadler, an attorney who has been blind since he was eight years old. He said that he had no intention of using the license; he just wanted to point up a fault in the state's hunting regulations.

The stunt set this writer to checking the California Fish and Game Code. The search produced nothing. A further check with Capt. Robert Caneen, chief of the patrol and enforcement section of the Department of Fish and Game at Terminal Island, only caused Bob to shake his head and say, "Well, I'll be . . ."

Today's column is not the start of a campaign for such a law. It's merely intended to show the inequalities in our laws. A blind person can not get a driver's license, but he can get a hunting license.

IN OBSERVING ACTIONS in the field and in the forest, it's certain that some persons should not have licenses to hunt. Any person 16 and older can walk into a sporting goods store and obtain a hunting license.

If he's under 16, he must show a certificate from that year or the prior year showing that he has completed a course in the California Hunter Safety Program.

The licensing section of the Department of Fish and Game is a loosely knit organization. Not more than one license in 1,000 actually is issued by an official of the DFG; others are handled through agents — sporting goods stores, hardware stores, etc.

For that reason, any visual test that might be arranged for hunters could not be enforced unless the DFG hired several hundred workers to do the job.

The American Optometric Association has been contending for a number of years that far too many persons with defective vision are using guns.

In the Seattle stunt last Thursday, Dr. Charles Lamb, president of the Washington Optometric Association and a friend of the blind attorney, said that a study in Minnesota had shown that 77 percent of the hunters who cause accidents have defective vision.

A REPORT ON LAKE ELSINORE — and it's mostly bad news — was released last week by the Department of Parks and Recreation. While the summary didn't call a spade a spade, it was evident that boaters will not be using the lake this spring, perhaps not this year. In fact, one observer said he'd wager a dollar to a ginger snap that the Metropolitan Water District won't be able to release water to Elsinore any time this year.

Boaters are constantly asking that Lake Elsinore be filled with water so that they can use it for skiing. It would be a wonderful thing for the boaters and for outdoor recreation generally, but the Elsinore issue is full of "ifs."

To understand the situation, here is the background: The 1961 Legislature directed the Division of Small Craft Harbors to make a $750,000 loan to the Division of Beaches and Parks, subject to the same conditions as loans to local agencies, which are prescribed by law and which require that the project prove itself to be economically feasible.

Economic feasibility means that revenues must be available to repay the loan, including interest, over a period of 20 years. A management-consultant firm described Elsinore's economic feasibility as a guarantee of water throughout the full repayment period and complete control of lake access through fencing, preventing circumvention of the fee-collecting system.

NO AGREEMENT HAS BEEN REACHED with the Metropolitan Water District and there is little chance that one even will be started. Even if MWD agreed to sell enough water to fill Elsinore this year, it never would make a commitment to give Elsinore water for 19 other years.

Now the Division of Beaches and Parks sadly has to admit that the water isn't feasible and the fencing isn't feasible, although it maintains that it is working on other plans to pump life into the Elsinore project.

MWD has far too many commitments for the water it stores in Lake Mathews. Even if an agreement were reached this spring, it would take weeks, perhaps months, to establish a line that would take water to Elsinore.

Once a line were established, it would take two months to complete delivery of water, and MWD always would have an ace up its sleeve — it could stop delivery momentarily at any time in those two months.

MWD also insists that only at periods of surplus will ANY water be available. Most certainly, there is no surplus now, and if those few surprising clouds don't start dropping a bit of moisture, there won't be enough water to go around, excluding Elsinore.

Time also is running out for Elsinore. Even in a wet year Southern California priorities begin drawing allotted water as early as April. If the year is dry, the draws start earlier.

Rockets in Inglewood Playoff Tilt

By CHUCK MEDICK

The Long Beach Rockets take to the road for the first time this season when they meet Inglewood in a sudden-death Winter League playoff today. Game time at Centenella Field, near Prairie and Florence Blvd., is 1:15 p.m.

Unbeaten Inglewood defeated the L.A. Eagles and the Rockets edged the L.A. Angels, 8-7, in playoff openers last week.

Ex-major league pitchers George Witt and Ed Palmquist top the Inglewood roster, which also includes minor league hurler Bill Francis and second baseman Erv Palica, a former major league pitcher.

Don Rowe and Casey Cox will be pitching for Jack Graham's Rockets. Graham hopes that Centenella's short right field fence will be an inviting target for Brian McCall, who hit home runs in the last two games for the Rockets.

THAILANDER RECAPTURES RING CROWN

BANGKOK, Thailand (UPI) — Pone Kingpetch of Thailand, a skinny little man with a long left jab, made an unprecendented recapture of the world flyweight crown Saturday night by outpointing Japan's Masahiko (Fighting) Harada in their return fight.

Never previously in the 112-pound division's 53-year history had anyone regained the title.

Before 20,000 jammed but jubliant fans — including King Phumipol Adulyade— Kingpetch gave a boxing lesson to the stocky, muscular Harada to gain 72-67 and 71-67 point margins from the judges. The referee called the fight even, 69-all.

"Meet One of Our Chevrolet Service Technicians"

CHUCK FORST

Chuck has been a resident of Lakewood since March, 1953, and like lots of people in the Long Beach area, he is a native of Iowa. Chuck was raised in Indianola, Iowa, where he worked for the Chevrolet Dealer for five years. He has been a service technician at Oscar Gregory Chevrolet since 1953 and, like the rest of our technicians, takes the annual Chevrolet Mechanical Examination to test his product knowledge.

Chuck is always anxious to improve his skill. This is proven by the fact that he voluntarily attends every course offered by the General Motors Training Center where he has received instruction in transmission, engines and general maintenance on Chevrolets, Corvairs and trucks.

Chuck's wife, Nita, joins him several nights a week in square dancing activities. As a matter of fact, he is the Junior Past President of the South Coast Association of Square Dance Clubs. In this capacity, he supervised the activities of clubs having about six thousand members in South Los Angeles, Long Beach and Orange County. Next year, this association is the Host for the State Convention of Square Dance Clubs to be held in Long Beach. Chuck's job at this convention is General Chairman of the Grand Parade, an undertaking of no small stature, for this is the first parade in eleven years since it was founded.

As you can see, Chuck Forst is quite a guy! He tackles every job he does with the same quiet, confident attitude that a job can and should be done right—the first time. Chuck is confident of his ability and proud of his craft and I am proud of the fact that—"He's on my team!"

TONY LIKES THE PRISON WAY OF LIFE

Wife-Slayer, 88, Refuses Parole, Plans to Quit Quentin Feet First

By WEBSTER K. NOLAN

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (UPI)—In the annals of crime and punishment, Tony di Tardo ranks as a maverick.

The aging convict, who will celebrate his 88th birthday Thursday by blowing out the candles on his prison-baked cake and puffing contentedly on a big cigar, flatly refuses to leave San Quentin State Penitentiary.

It's enough to make any other convict weep with disbelief, but that's the way Tony wants it. And that's the way it has to be, because California law says no prisoner can be paroled against his will.

• • • •

TONY WAS sent to prison for murdering his wife. That was in 1920. In 1945, the State Adult Authority offered him his freedom.

But Tony pulled the surprise prison reverse-play of the year with this "thanks-but-no" reply:

"When I leave here, it will be feet first."

To prove that he means what he says, Tony has refused parole on eight other occasions. The Adult Authority doesn't even bother to offer him his liberty any more.

• • • •

TONY TELLS reporters frequently that he won't leave the "Big House" because he is too old and too comfortable. For the past three years he has occupied a private room in the prison hospital and, within that limited area, he does pretty much as he pleases.

"A good pair of boots," he smiles, "and a good heart and a home like this is all that a man can want. I stay here, come hell or high water. This place has everything to give me a good life."

• • • •

TONY DI TARDO'S "good life" began in 1875 in Cappuccio, Italy. He migrated to Buffalo, N.Y., in 1902 and came to San Francisco as an iron foundry worker two years later.

At the age of 45, the proud father of three children, he shot his pregnant wife to death.

During the trial, Tony contended that he had been drinking and that somebody slipped something into his wine. He said he didn't know what he was doing. But the court sentenced him to death by hanging.

The sentence was later commuted to life in prison and Tony began his long, lonely residence at San Quentin, across the bay from San Francisco.

• • • •

THE SHORT, stocky Italian was assigned the tasks of cell tender and supply distributor. He performed his chores—maintaining the cell blocks and assisting the guards on their rounds, for 34 years.

He became a trusted inmate—so much so that he was even allowed to keep the key to his own cell.

Tony's pleasures in life were the occasional visits from his family and the solitary moments in his cell when he listened to Italian operas and waltzes on his antiquated victrola.

• • • •

AFTER A few years passed, the family visits ceased. As Tony remembers it: "Children stop coming long time ago. Brother stop sending me money in 1947. Maybe he's dead now. I don't know why they no come.

"I don't give a damn."

But the white-thatched convict with the crusty manner still enjoys listening to his Caruso records, even though his opera house is a drably-painted prison infirmary and his companions are professional attendants.

"Why for I wanna go out?" he once asked. "I intend to live to 100 and I'll celebrate that birthday here too. I just wanna sit here in my rocking chair. I'll stay here until the Big Boss calls me.

"When St. Peter tells me, 'Come on, Tony,' I go quick."

FM Radio Available in Most Cars

By BEN PHLEGAR

DETROIT (AP)—The automobile, which has been blamed and praised for almost everything, may soon play a major role in the broadcasting pattern of FM radio.

FM (Frequency Modulation) stations are relatively free of both static and commercials, although in the latter case not always by choice.

For many of them advertising has come slow and hard despite a steady growth in FM receiving sets. The 1963 Broadcasting Yearbook says homes with FM sets are being added at the rate of two million annually.

NOW, THIS year for the first time a majority of the domestic cars can be bought with FM radios as original equipment. Chrysler Corp. began taking orders this month. Chevrolet will start within a few weeks. The standard size Ford and Mercury, as well as Thunderbird and Lincoln, opened the model year with AM-FM radios as did Buick, Oldsmobile, Cadillac and Pontiac.

Two major suppliers of the original equipment models are Bendix Radio (Ford) and Delco Radio Division of General Motors (GM and Chrysler). These radios will receive both the standard AM stations, of which there are almost 3,500 in United States

THE BUSINESS WEEK

Auto Production Feats, Sales Hog Spotlight

By ROGER LANE

NEW YORK (AP) — An old line star performer, the automobile industry, hogged the business and finance spotlight this week.

Lustrous new auto sales and production feats, and their influence on a buoyant stock market, overshadowed the pageantry and alarums and excursions attending the opening of a new Congress in Washington.

The big issue there, prospects for a federal income tax, awaited a sharp focus that may start developing with President Kennedy's State of the Union message on Monday.

Doings in Detroit also cast into the background relatively slight, but growing, damage to the economy by the three-week strike of dock workers at 41 North Atlantic and Gulf Coast ports.

• • • • •

IN THE MOTOR CITY, domestic car sales in the October-December quarter of 1962 were revealed as the highest ever for the period. They soared to 1,946,009, a rousing 20 per cent over the previous mark set in the last three months of 1961.

The splurge pushed sales for last year to 6,752,644. Adding in sales of 300,000-plus imported cars, the grand total topped seven million, exceeded only by the industry's peak year of 1955.

Moreover, assembly plants kept roaring at breakneck speed to meet still unsatisfied demand. Plans called for production of an all-time high of 700,000 units in January, a figure unequalled for that month.

Henry Ford II added to the rosy picture, disclosing plans for $400 million in Ford Motor Co. capital outlays for 1963, an increase of 20 per cent. Two thirds of the sum will be spent abroad, he said.

• • • • •

AND A SIDELIGHT to it came from George Romney, former chairman of American Motors Corp. and since Jan. 1 governor of Michigan.

It was disclosed that the day before he severed all connections with American Motors last November, Romney exercised an option to buy 13,494 shares of company stock at $9.91 a share, a little over one-half the market price.

The transaction underscored the steep advance in price of American Motors stock, and issues of Chrysler, Ford and General Motors, all at either historic or 1962-63 highs in recent days.

Their strength has contributed greatly to a powerful stock market rally that blossomed in November, paused last month and has surged ahead once more since the start of the new year.

• • • • •

THE STEEL industry, too, felt the influence of booming auto output. Production last week spurted upward nearly 100 per cent, the sharpest rise for any week in six months. Output hit its highest plane since late last April.

Obviously, the benefits were rubbing off elsewhere in the industrial world.

Citing consumer optimism and strong auto demand, the University of Michigan survey research center foresaw a prosperous economy through the first half of the year but expressed doubts about the second half.

A so-so report on employment came from the government. It showed the main barometers little changed in December, with the seasonally adjusted rate of unemployment down a whisker from November—to 5.6 per cent.

• • • • •

ON THE troubling side, the strike of 60,000 longshoreman gave signs of growing squeeze on commerce in scattered places.

A cutoff in the flow of cars imported from West Germany and other European nations was emptying showrooms of some dealers, especially those offering Volkswagens. The overall economic loss domestically was estimated at over $400 million, and rising $20 million to $25 million daily.

The government said the foreign trade balance of the U.S., $5.3 billion to the good in 1961, slipped to $4.4 billion last year.

The decline was bad news in the fight to overcome the nation's unfavorable balance of international payments, which has drained down the country's gold reserves and led to to periodic uneasiness about strength of the dollar.

• • • • •

AN OUTFLOW of funds for foreign aid, military spending abroad and other factors have more than offset the favorable trade balance in recent years.

Scattered new reports on corporation profits were mostly good. The Norfolk and Western Railway said it cleared $65.4 million in 1962, or $8.73 a share, both all-time highs. A coal-hauling line, the N&W was third to the Southern Pacific and Union Pacific in the industry in 1961.

Coal output last year climbed to 420 million tons, up nearly 18 million tons from 1961, the Bureau of Mines reported.

BRIEFLY around the business scene:

J. Truman Bidwell, former chairman of the New York Stock Exchange, was acquitted of income tax evasion charges . . . Frank N. Ikard, former Texas congressman, was named president of the American Petroleum Institute, succeeding the late Frank M. Porter . . . Hickman Price Jr. resigned as an assistant secretary of commerce to become chairman of International Products Corp., which has meat, fruit and land interest in Paraguay. . . Robert H. O'Brien moved up to the presidency of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Inc.

Brown Asks Rededication to Take Part in State Life

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Edmund G. Brown has urged Californians to rededicate themselves "to informed participation in the life of our state" in honor of International Printing Week starting today.

"The history of education through the printed word is the history of our democracy's greatest strength: the ability of its people to inform themselves and make their evaluations of events," the governor said.

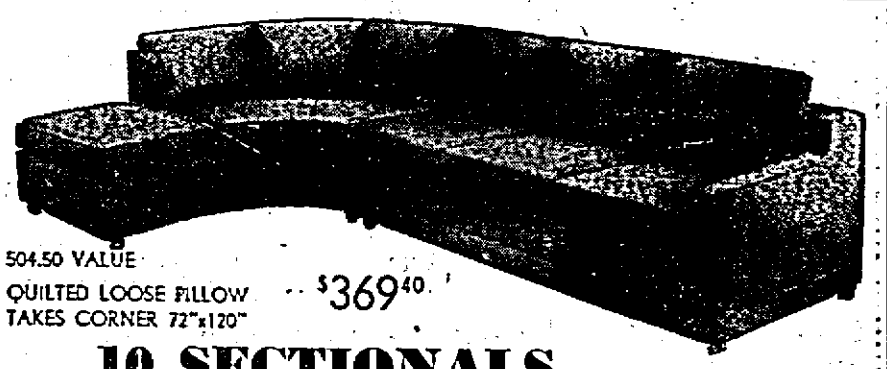

He noted the event, held on the anniversary of the birth of Benjamin Franklin, "emphasizes the great statesman-scholar's connection with the founding of the printing industry in this country."

We'll Sell for a Few Cents on the Dollar

GOODS LOST IN STORAGE

Sale Starting Tomorrow (Monday A.M.)

Conducted by Long Beach Bargain Cntr.

Thousands of fine articles from many homes were put in storage and were later lost because the storage bill was not paid —therefore the goods were disposed of for storage charges. We now have a warehouse full of such lovely items from many homes to be sold to the public for a few cents on the dollar. New and used things of every kind, such as:

Fine linens, blankets, bedspreads, comforts, sheets, pillow cases, drapes, curtains, towels, small rugs, hundreds of pieces of clothing for men, women, boys and girls — SO CHEAP! Stainless steel utensils, small electric appliances, dishes, tie racks, silverware, pots, pans, glasses, lamps, clocks, tools, new and used. Big new lot of paint. You will be surprised to see the low prices that these fine things will sell for! Don't bring much money — but bring your friend to share with you in these bargains. A few cents will hold your goods on lay-away. We must move this storage lot out quick, as we have another lot coming in. You and your friends hurry down now and stock up while the stock is so heavy and the prices so low!

A small gift for all kiddies and women —

a MASTERPIECE of Planned Living in the CONTINENTAL MANNER...
Le Chateau
APARTMENT COMMUNITY

Your driver's license is all the passport you need to enjoy luxurious "Continental Living" right here in Orange County. When you leave the heavily-traveled tourist routes and turn in to your private parking area on the grounds at elegant Le Chateau you'll find yourself in a wonderfully different world.

Le Chateau is a luxury apartment community, each air-conditioned unit of which has been designed with the tasteful charm of the French Provincial town house, creating the overall effect of a quiet and exclusive residential area in the suburbs.

Located just minutes away from Freeways and Shopping Centers, Le Chateau offers every modern convenience and comfort — including a beautifully landscaped pool and putting green — which Southern Californians have come to associate with the better living afforded in this prosperous section of the county.

In a choice of four different plans, each apartment includes a private patio and planting area. Wall-to-wall carpeting, ceramic tile, balanced power living featuring Coloric built-in ovens and ranges are only a few of the extras that make living at Le Chateau an experience in pleasure and ease as well as a point of justifiable pride.

Rentals as low as $125 per mo.

ACCIDENT INSURANCE

packed with protection!

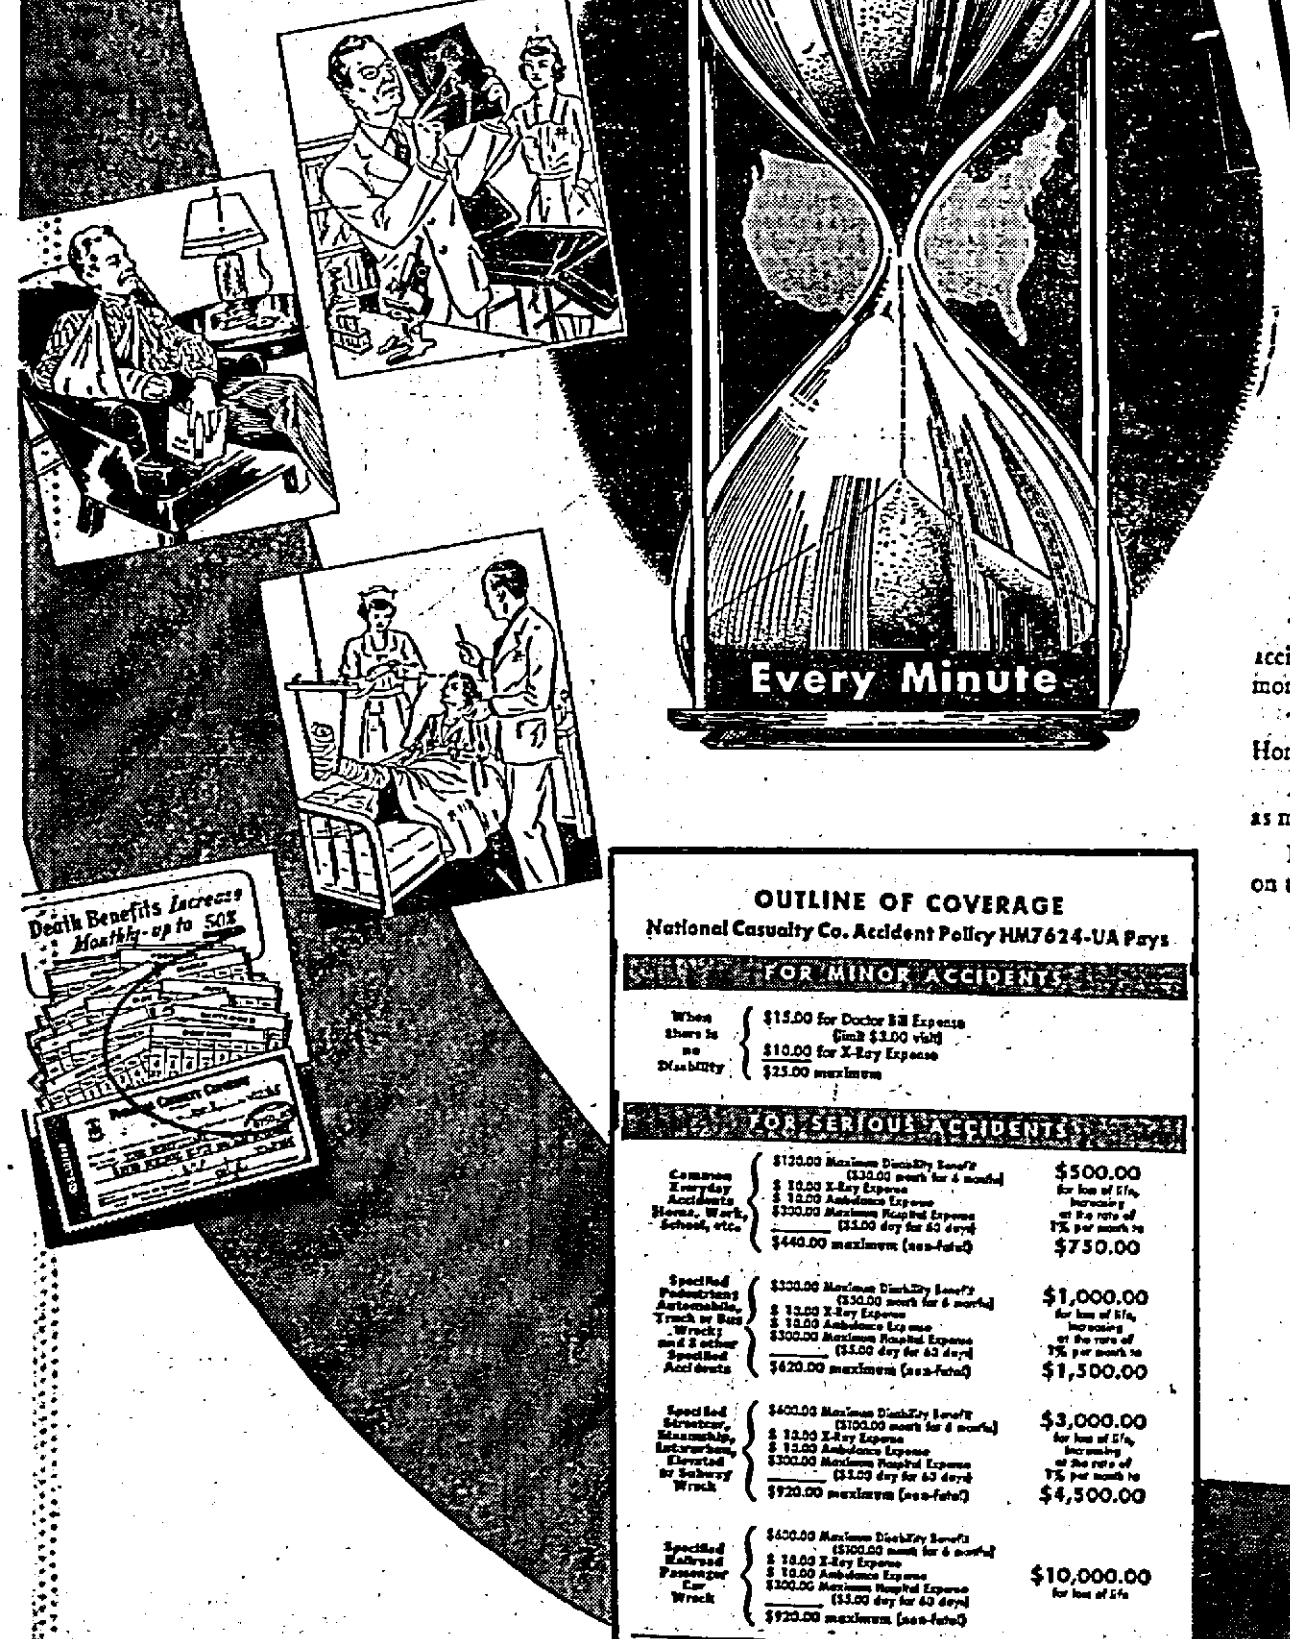

A Wonderful Reader Service offered by

Independent Press-Telegram

A Remarkable Insurance Value for a Little More Than A-Penny-A-Day

Covers Accidents at Home, at Work, at School, while Travelling
Pays Bigger Benefits in line with Today's High Accident Costs

FOR ONLY 50c A MONTH

EVERYONE NEEDS THIS KIND OF ACCIDENT INSURANCE

Accidents are the largest single cause of crippling, dependency and destitution in the United States.

This is especially true today when 19 persons are being injured every minute—and accidents are more expensive than ever before. Doctor bills are higher—hospitals charge more—you lose more if your paycheck stops when you are laid up.

This policy, available to you and the members of your family covers accidents at Home, at Work or School, on the Street, in your Automobile, etc.

A bookkeeper who has only a minor accident, like an injured left wrist, can collect as much as he pays for several years protection—even if he does not lose a day from work.

For more serious accident you collect much higher benefits, as shown in the chart on the left.

OUTLINE OF COVERAGE

ROUND UP ON BELLY DANCER SITUATION

Ohio Girl Who Does Casbah Twist In Movie Complains About Status

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Belly dancing enjoys about as much status in this country as alligator wrestling, snipe hunting, strip teasing and religious cults founded on snake handling.

In polite circles it is a bust.

But Youngstown, Ohio, of all places, has produced a beautiful young belly dancer who will display her talent and charms in a new movie.

• • • •

SHE IS Lulu Porter. You heard right, Lulu Porter. And she is miffed at the low regard in which her dancing is held by people of dubious character and bawdy instincts.

"The Arabs and Turks appreciate belly dancing as an art," said Lulu. "Americans put it down as no better than strip teasing.

"Belly dancing is very modest. When I perform I'm all covered up, except for my belly, of course, and my costume is more decent than the Bikini swim suits you see on the beaches these days."

• • • •

IT IS ALL very well to take Lulu's word for these things, but she accepted the challenge to dance a few steps to prove her point.

Let the record show that her costume is indeed semi-modest. But the gyrations are something else again. Lulu curled, uncurled, wriggled and writhed to an Oriental recording in spectacular manner.

One could almost overlook the music which was composed primarily of doumbeks, ouds and doubukas (stringed instruments and drums) accompanied by small finger cymbals by Lulu.

• • • •

THE OVERALL impression was one of the twist as practiced in the Casbah.

"See," said Lulu. "There are no bumps and grinds. Just nice relaxed dancing."

She may have been relaxed.

• • • •

THE QUESTION arises, how does a Youngstown girl learn to belly dance? Obviously, there are no belly dance schools in Youngstown, Ohio, or even in Cleveland.

"I never heard of a belly dance school," Lulu admitted. "I learned from a dancer out here in California. Her name is Jamila and she is one of the greatest of them all.

"It took me months of study and practice to get all the moves memorized. Now I get called by foreign embassies when Oriental dignitaries come to Hollywood and want to see a belly dance. Sometimes I accept and sometimes I don't."

• • • •

LULU, A well rounded brunette in her early 20s, makes her living primarily as a singer in night clubs. But she is adding the belly dance to her act now that Universal Pictures has signed her to performe her dance in a new picture, "The Brass Bottle."

"American audiences are awful," she complained. "Usually the men yell 'take it off' and things like that. The women are afraid I'll start to undress. But after five minutes they relax and enjoy the dance.

As noted earlier, only Lulu appears relaxed during her act.

Shy Brigette Shuns Publicity in U.S.

PARIS (UPI) — France's other female institution, Brigitte Bardot, will not follow the Mona Lisa to the United States, her friends said Saturday. She is afraid of all that "hellish publicity."

The tousle-haired actress canceled plans for her first trip, although "she is dying to see New York and California." She won't make the trip until she can slip into the country incognito — a tough job for the world's reigning sweater girl.

MARCEL MARCEAU . . . Makes Invisible Visible

PANTOMIMIST SPEAKS

Marceau Vocal About Mime

By RALPH H. COSHAM

NEW YORK (UPI) — French pantomimist Marcel Marceau opened his mouth—and spoke!

It wasn't so much what he said as the fact that he spoke at all. For the image of Marceau's silent eloquence seems to eliminate the need for speech. After all, he has entertained audiences in 40 countries without uttering a single word.

But there is nothing wrong with the Marceau vocal cords. In fact, he speaks extremely well about mime, one of the oldest yet least practiced of the theatrical arts and of which he is the undisputed master.

"THROUGHOUT history," he said, "the mime has used props and sets to assist his actions. I do not. I rely solely on gesture to bring to life the concrete and the abstract at the same time.

"I can make the visible invisible and the invisible visible and create for an audience the illusions of time and space, surrounding them with familiar objects and experiences."

Marceau is a small, spare man and his expressive face is framed by an unruly mop of wiry, dark brown hair. He speaks softly and his English (one of five languages he speaks) is only slightly accepted. Even more unusual—in a Frenchman and pantomimist—is the fact that in conversation his use of hand gestures is minimal.

BORN NEAR Strasbourg, France, Marceau has been interested in mime since childhood, when he would imitate by gesture anything which caught his imagination. He was devoted to such silent screen stars as Charlie Chaplin, Buster Keaton and Laurel and Hardy.

"They were great pantomimists," he said, "and they were my inspiration to make silence my profession."

Mime is Marceau's life. He believes it to be the most eloquent theatrical form.

"Anyone can understand it, no matter how young, how old or what language they speak," he said, "because it's gestures deal with life—not of one man, but of every man."

CITY COLLEGE PLAY

'The Lark' Smooth, Integrated Show

By ROBERT C. WYLDER

No matter who retells it, the story of Joan of Arc seems to be infinitely compelling. Joan, struggling alone against the massed forces of a monolithic church, somehow seeks out and strengthens the will toward individuality in the soul of every man. "A lark in the skies of france," she can set every heart to singing.

David Emmes, director, and J. L. White, production designer, helped her considerably this weekend in their excellent presentation of Jean Anouilh's "The Lark" at Long Beach City College.

• • • •

MARLENE SILVERSTEIN in the taxing part of Joan performed almost as well as the play demands that she must, very high praise indeed considering that she bore the major burden of the show, and that no one, not even the Maid of Orleans herself, could live up to the billing that history has fashioned for the saintly virgin of Domremy.

• • • •

HER SUPPORTING cast contributed much to the high quality of the play. All of the actors delivered their lines both confidently and articulately, a welcome rarity, especially gratifying in a group so large.

Taken altogether, the production was very good, a smooth and skillful blending of all the arts of the theater. It was, in fact, better than the play, which adds little to what Shaw has already shown us and leaves out a lot. In other hands it might have been a case of too little and too late, but in these it succeeded even beyond its deserts. What more can a playwright or audience ask?

Fantasy Friends Attend School

Making believe they had make-believe friends was no chore for these children at Huntington School, 2935 Spaulding Ave. They quickly entered into fun of fantasy giving photographer Joe Risinger the most cooperative models he could wish for. Above, Roben Johnson, kindergartener, gives imaginary pup a pat, while, at right, Freddy Jon Schutz, first grader, poses as little boy who kept imaginary canary, Chirper, perched on finger.

PHANTOM PALS in tow (left), Louis Peddinghaus, Alexis Burns and Dickie McCord, of Huntington School, illustrate with help of cartoonist Dick Wallmeyer, what fun make-believe playmates can be.

World of Make-Believe

By MARY NETH

Whenever dark haired Dorkey came to visit, trouble brewed.

Doors were slammed, shoes misplaced, ink bottles and milk glasses overturned and mama's best dishes, like as not, ended in the sand pile.

Everyone in the family knew Dorkey was terribly naughty — the direct opposite of blonde 3-year-old Martha, her friend — but no one could do a thing about it.

When she was on a rampage the cat hid under the sofa and daddy got out the hairbrush.

But, Dorkey never got a spanking — she was too hard to find. In fact, she was invisible.

Like a multitude of other little people who inhabit children's homes, Dorkey was purely pretend; the fantasy playmate of her little creator, Martha.

ACCORDING TO some estimates, about one third of all children between 3 and 9 years of age have make-believe playmates.

A few, like Dorkey, take the blame for their small originator's misdeeds, but most make themselves known only as fun companions — phantom children and, less frequently, animals to talk to and play with.

Their names range from commonplace (Mary, Tommy, Jane) to such wonders as Mr. Mergatroid, Mrs. Frim Fran and Johnny June Bug. Sometimes they come from "just around the block." Sometimes from far off places: Charlecoe City (near Seal Beach), Sandy Ego, Paris.

NO TWO ARE alike, but all have one thing in common: though invisible, you know when they're around.

Take the word of one mom. "We went through a Henry period — it was horrid," she says.

"Everytime I sat down my three-year-old would shriek, 'Oh, Mama! You're sitting on Henry, again.' Everytime I closed a door Henry had been left on the other side. Everytime I brought up a subject I heard Henry's views.

"He was a wonder. He lived in a tree house, ate only candy and ice cream, never went to bed until midnight and had 5 dogs and 18 cats."

CONFRONTED WITH such tales, many a startled mother has wondered if she was rearing

AS THE Junior League gals go into high gear preparing for their gigantic annual rummage sale (to be Feb. 2—but more on that later) their volunteer work is frequently an all-day affair.

To keep up the schedule, still not ask their providers to provide too many restaurant dinners during the holocaust, the smart young wives keep each other supplied with quick trick dinner ideas.

This one from Nancy Latimer, trucking chairman for the sale, was printed in the league's current High Tidings . . . sounds good enough for even stay at homes to try. Sprinkle a package of dry onion soup over a chuck roast then wrap securely in aluminum foil and bake at 250 degrees from whenever you have to leave the house in the morning until dinner time. In other words, let it simmer along all day. Would work fine with swiss steak, too.

HOW TO STAY happy though commuting. Rex Welch has the answer. He commutes to Tahiti, literally. He and Ginny bought a hotel and restaurant on the Isle of romance, the Bel Air. With daughter, Jane, they spent the entire summer over there and since then Rex has been back on three separate trips. If that isn't commuting, what is?

Latest trek ended last weekend. It was occasioned by the fact that 115 fellow (and sister) members of their exclusive Beverly Hills gourmet club, Cave des Roys, went on a tour to Tahiti and as many as could be accomodated stayed at the Welch's hotel.

CONVINCED THAT she had flown much faster than even the airlines claimed, Mrs. William Shropshire, Lee McFarland's mother, arrived on her first jet flight Sunday from Tenafly, N. Y.; figured she had gained on the calendar clear back into July, it was so warm. She's here to enjoy a three week visit with Lee, Don and the baby, Susan, and to soak up as much sun, poolside, as the weatherman produces.

MORE ON the clan McFarland. Alma, Doug and son, Bruce, cruised down to Cape San Lucas on their boat for a three week vacation, which included eight days (glorious, she said) at Palmilla. Alma flew home, declining the rougher uphill-most-of-the-way cruise back. Doug and Bruce brought the boat safely into harbor Tuesday night.

SOMEONE'S going to have to tell him the facts, that bit about it's a dog's life. Only, so far, no one has. Which leaves Elva something less than leisurely.

FRIENDS OF the Museum decided to adopt a new name, "Buddies of Ourselves," and treated themselves to a gay night on the Los Angeles town. Dinner at the Bantam Cock preceded attendance at the opening of Claire Falkenstein's sculpture and art exhibit up there on La Cienega. In addition, they wandered in and out of various other galleries on the boulevard.

About 40 went up Monday by charter bus; another 10 drove up in their cars. Bus-mates included Peg and Ray Webb, Estelle Mooney, Pat and "Van" Van de Water, Kitty and Maurie Rosenbaum, Carolyn and Don Raney and Emily Cottrell. Dallas Conklin major domo-ed the night.

Incidentally, a number of our Friends tell me that a trip to Art Gallery Row, even if you don't know a collage from a bent fender, is worth the trip just to see the beatnik fringe characters who dote on being seen rubbing elbows with the hoi polloi in Cinega's caves of culture.

DOWNTOWN Kiwanians and their wives were treated to a snappily run and entertaining installation dinner at Elks Club Tuesday and that, dear readers, is an accomplishment that deserves a 21 gun salute.

"Mad Kiwanis"

It had double significance for outgoing president, "Mac" Epley because he and Jane were celebrating their 36th anniversary. With tongue in cheek "Mac" noted that the last year was the longest and Jane agreed. It was a good night to have her husband returned to "civilian" status after the 12 months she loaned him to Kiwanis. Phyllis Miller is now the donor of a president as Harlan begins his term.

Spotted in the big and stylish crowd were such Epley and Miller fans as Burton and Polly Chace, Irene and Jess Holton, Bud and Joyce Holton, Hortense and John Wyatt, Clare and Helen Hamman, Barbara and Bud Ivey, Irene and "Sig" Sigworth, Bill and Marie Todd, "Win" and Leah Hanssen, Crystal and Nile Bunch, Ken and Dorris Martinson, Maude and "Scotty" Scott and Ted and Cleo Bowman; he was achievement award winner of the year for a tremendous job done as inter-club chairman.

Equally, if more quietly, proud are grandma, Sophie, and Michelle Eileen's parents, Neena and Dermott McHenry.

Auxiliary Gives Time, Funds

IF TIME IS MONEY, THE SCALES ARE BALANCED! Mrs. Lyle Gunn, associate member of Community Hospital Auxiliary, holds clock which measures hours members have volunteered, while the money raised at the annual Benefit Horse Show is weighed in by Mrs. Russell Davison, provisional. Hospital administrator Walter M. Oliver, who accepted the donation for new X-ray equipment, checks the balance.

The newly enlarged and redecorated section of Community Hospital now has fully equipped X-ray and darkroom facilities.

Injuries which must be checked by X-ray can be photographed and the film developed on the spot, a convenience to both doctors and patients.

The new equipment is the gift of the Hospital Auxiliary, which had donated more than $13,600 for the new rooms.

• • • •

THE CHECK was presented to Walter M. Oliver, hospital administrator, by Mrs. B. Wallace Newaier, a past president of the auxiliary.

The money was raised at the auxiliary's one large fund-raising event, the annual Benefit Horse Show at Los Alamitos Race Course, and from the hospital gift shop and baby photo services, both staffed by auxiliary members.

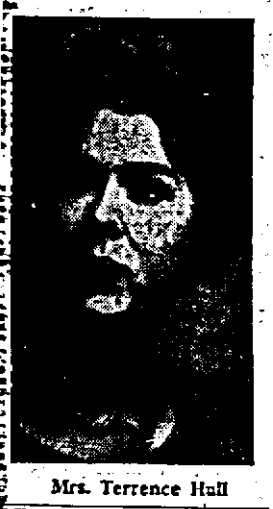

Since its inception in 1957, the auxiliary has donated more than $60,000 to Community Hospital for equipment. Last year more than 200 members volunteered nearly 50,000 hours, working in the hospital and in their homes on many projects.

FOASBERG'S FABRIC CARE COUNSELOR

HOW TO DRY

As fabrics become more and more complicated what with synthetics, blends, special finishes and all, even such a simple matter as drying them may become a question. For example, the new Orlon Sayelle should be machine dried. If it is washed in a machine and dried on the line or on a towel, special care should be taken to shape it back to its original size or it will be larger than desired. However, when Sayelle is dried in a tumble dryer, it returns to its normal size automatically. Any questions? Phone me.

He Should Read the Handwriting on the Wall—in Fact, the Smudge Would Do Him Good

Dear Molly Mayfield

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

Why, after two years of marriage, could this happen? I married the most wonderful man in the world. My children and family just love him. Their father is dead and he seemed to love us all, couldn't do enough for us. So he bought us a new home.

I don't enjoy the new home because he comes home every night and goes around to see if the children have put their hands on the wall. He doesn't allow the kids in their own bedroom except to go to bed. They can't come in the house with their shoes on.

Now people won't come to see us because they said they weren't taking their shoes off! I try to explain to him his fault, but he says there's nothing wrong with him.

I'd rather be back in the old house, with its cracks and laughs. — PHONEY HOME.

DEAR PHONEY HOME:

Honey, it's your home, too, you know. Set him down and set him straight. If he lets the children live normally—and others who come, we hope—you'll do the normal amount of cleaning and caring so the house will not deteriorate.

He wants to keep it like new, but he'll have to understand he can't do it his way and keep you, too.—M.M.

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

My parents know I'm 16 and still they say I'm too young to date. They won't let me date until I graduate, and I am only a junior.

I'm going steady with a boy who is 17 and my parents know I like him. I can't talk to them because they just get angry and tell me everything is settled and that's final. I don't like to lie, but I meet my boy friend secretly, saying I'm going with my girl friend. So far it works fine.

I want to please them, but I think sometimes I hate them.—PARENT TRAPPED

DEAR PARENT TRAPPED:

Keep on tripping that trap and you'll chance being trapped by something more confining than that. I think you know what "being in confinement" means to a girl—it's worse than you can imagine and happens to lots of girls who sneak around like you do.

Try to please your parents, really please them, and you can't possibly hate them.—M.M.

• • • •

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

Several of us here in the office have an argument we'd like you to settle. The belle around here is a divorcee that doesn't intend to be. She's intended for a long time to fetch herself a new mate. And several of us have been willing.

The catch is that she expects her date to pay the baby sitter when he takes her out. And taking her out is no small matter.

She expects dinner in style, the theater after, and nightcaps all the way home. By the time you reach her door and reach for your change to pay off the sitter, you're a sitting duck.

Tell us, please. Is it proper for her to expect this, too?—DIVORCEE.

DEAR DIVORCEE:

May heaven protect the picked pocket. Of course not!—M.M.

• • • •

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

My husband goes out at least once a month and stays out all night. I can't sleep for wondering and worrying all through the night. I believe he loves me. Do you? —FOREVER WORRIED

DEAR FOREVER:

No.—M.M.

• • • •

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

Every time I read a letter from a 14-year-old girl on "the verge of marriage" I want to swear. Kids determined to get married at that age need some profanity to startle them into sanity.

When I was that young, Mother told me I didn't know what love was all about. I got mad because I knew I did. And by the time I was 15 I was sure I did. Know what? I didn't know what love was then, either.

Young loves die quickly because there isn't enough maturity to stand the strain. These girls say they can pass for 18. Lots of people pass for 59, but don't have the sense to admit they're 60.

Love lasts a long time, sometimes 70 years or more. Young people can't see past next week. Where are they getting this distorted, incomplete concept of love?

Writing the blame on the blackboard and calling it parents or movies or magazines won't help. They're all to blame, but the individual is finally at fault.

I'm still searching for the complete conception of love. —NINETEEN AND SINGLE

DEAR NINETEEN:

For those like you that wait, love is great. I'm terribly afraid that for those who can't, it only grates.—M.M.

Deceptive Play Wins

Bobby Jordan is ten years older than his partner, Arthur Robinson, but the maturity of age 36 does not seem to have made him the steadier member of the partnership.

Instead it is Arthur who plays straight man while Bobby creates the situations in bidding and play that are most likely to force mistakes from the opponents.

In a recent duplicate match, Bobby found himself in a very comfortable three no-trump contract. Overtricks are important in duplicate and at trick one Bobby was able to make a deceptive play that netted him all thirteen tricks and a top score.

• • • •

THERE wasn't anything too complicated about the play. West had opened the five of spades and after East produced the ten spot Bobby won the trick with the king, not the jack.

Then he ran off his six club tricks and West had to find five discards. The first three were easy. There was no pain about letting a low heart and two low spades go. The fourth discard was the queen of spades. On the last club, West could not afford to chuck a diamond and he did not want to unguard the king of hearts so out came the ace of spades. It looked safe enough. East surely held the jack since Bobby had won the first trick with the king.

Now Bobby's jack and four of spades were good and he had thirteen tricks. His false card at trick one had really paid off!

Phantom Playmates for Fun

a pint-sized pathological liar or miniature Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde.

Psychiatrists don't take such a gloomy view.

Many, in fact, feel that in a well-balanced child, adoption of a make-believe pal is a good sign: that it can even lead to a better integrated personality.

They acknowledge such fantasy as an attempt to solve problems with the child often using the pretend friend to compensate for something he feels lacking in his real world.

Little Johnny's case is an example of this. An only child in a nearly childless neighborhood, he was a lonely little boy indeed until he made-up Mike. Then he and Mike kept busy every day: playing cowboys and Indians, climbing fences and trees, sharing secrets.

"Mike was a life saver," says his mother. "He kept Johnny from moping underfoot — I was almost sorry to see him go when Johnny found real friends."

MOST PHANTOM playmates occur during the child's third and fourth year when, according to child psychologists, the tendency to dramatize is the strongest.

They usually disappear when the child enters school at about 5 or 6 years of age.

"We missed Chirper Bird when David went into kindergarten," says the mother of a child who had an imaginary canary.

"When David stopped walking around with his finger held out in front of him as a bird perch, I asked him where Chirper was."

His answer was voiced in a tone of disgust, she recalls. Seems, naturally enough, Chirper had flown away.

WHEN A PRETEND playmate lingers on long after the child has entered school, some psychiatrists such as Dr. Merle Page, 1777 Bellflower Blvd., feel parents might be wise to seek advice

He also believes that while its going on, mom and dad should take the whole phase as matter-of-factly as possible—neither ridiculing the child or entering into the make-believe to the point that it's dwelled upon to an unhealthy degree.

"He flew away."

Here, it's interesting to note, most children make no pretense about the whole matter being just pretend. They freely admit that they made-up the make-believe companion—often change his appearance or character on whim.

WHAT CAUSES this form of imagination to delight some children and have no appeal for others?

Psychiatrists offer many different theories. Most feel, however, that the temperament of the child is the deciding factor. Children who create their own playmates are most often found to be average to unusually bright, chatterboxes with a big capacity for pretending. The matter-of-fact little realist who sneers at fairy tales is not about to create any of his own.

All child experts agree that parents can profit from observing any fantasy that their off-spring might dream up. It's a good clue to basic personality.

One mother, observing her son's reactions to his invisible friend, decided she was being too strict.

"He kept ordering his little brain child around in the meanest tone of voice he could muster," she says. "It came as a shock that he was imitating me."

She let up on the discipline awhile and her son stopped making-up friends to bawl-out.

IN MOST YOUNGSTERS the desire to please more than equals the adventuring spirit. When little Martha blamed Dorkey for every disaster that came up, she wasn't really attempting to get away with something but just to maintain the picture she had of herself as a perfectly behaved little girl.

Coping with the conflicting and confusing attitudes of the adult world is no easy task for one little person. Who can blame him for adding a few extensions of himself to make the job easier?

A SMALL invisible addition to the family can be rewarding to all concerned. After all, there's no problem of space, no increase in the budget.

And, in later years, what fun to look back on the adventures of the little boy who wasn't there.

You'll also find him in favorite books of childhood. Like for example in this poem by A. A. Milne (author of Winnie-the-Pooh)

"Blinker—what I call him is a secret of my own,
And Blinker is the reason why I never feel alone.
Playing in the nursery, sitting on the stair,
Whatever I am busy at, Blinker will be there."

SOMETHING FOR EVERYONE

Viva la Spring—la Fashion

By MARY ELLIS

NEW YORK—Spring fashions, like New York City, have something for everybody. Viva la Spring!

If there's one word to describe the look for spring, 1963, it's individuality—with a capital "I."

There's one consistency; daytime skirt lengths still hug the knee cap.

Most designers, unveiling their collections the past week for the nation's press, elected to provide a little of everything for fashion-conscious femmes.

You can go sleeved or sleeveless, collared or uncollared, slim-skirted or full-skirted. Whether the jacket is long, short, or in-between, it's up to you.

PROBABLY the quickest way to charm your wardrobe into a this-minute frame of mind is to step up your overblouse supply. They appear in almost every collection—on suits, and over dresses. For daytime and for evening.

Ditto tunics. Ditto shifts. Ditto sheaths.

It's a season of clothes designed to change your mind. Consider some of these notes gleaned at collections the past week:

VICTORIAN PINK, silk chiffon ballgown from Harvey Berin's Spring collection designed by Karen Stark. Drifting skirt has a soft-slim look with front and back panel. Draped strapless under-bodice is topped by an overblouse, lavishly embroidered in bugle beads.

Hannah Troy—Tunics play an important role in all lengths and in all groups . . . dresses are cut on the bias, assuring a subtle and simple fit . . . liquid layers of color fashion a group of down-to-the-floor floaty silk marquisette ball gowns.

Samuel Winston—Many dresses slender but waistless . . . tunics galore, most of them cut on the bias for supple movement.

Hattie Carnegie—Suits with set-in sleeves, straightened shoulders and "disappearing" hiplines . . . she calls it the "little look."

AND STILL more looks.

Branell—Prints, prints and more prints . . . billowy silk print scarves and scarf blouses that almost make the dress or costume . . . concise, reversible print coats nearly as slender as the dresses that go underneath . . . evening dresses all "in short."

Maurice Rentner—Travel companion costumes in featherweight wools or silk . . . jackets in several lengths, some curving to a crescent front . . . newest look a hip-length, camel-colored whipcord jacket with stitched fly front, topping a grey flannel skirt and white blouse.

Harvey Berin—the "figurine silhouette," as carefully executed as modern sculpture via elongated shaping of giant diamond-cut bias sections which meet in a point at center front and back. The result: A willowy sort of revealment.

Pattullo-Jo Copeland—Jackets as smartly tailored as an officer's, with wide shoulders, slim hips . . . little black dresses with tunics, low flounces, low necks, some seductively fitted, others easily unfitted but revealing nonetheless.

Herbert Sondheim—Costumes with vestees of French linen and blouses of silk . . . man-tailored, long jacket suits with dashing vestees . . . the schoolgirl look in white-collared dresses, the John Held flapper look in others.

Paul Parnes—A little schoolboy feeling about jackets . . . new "stringbean skirts" with neatly-turned unpressed pleats . . . "lampshade" sleeves, a flared out shape that gives importance to elbow-length sleeves.

The silhouette? A neckline for every neck, a hemline for every leg, but predominately an individual look for everybody.

YEP, reporting spring fashions is like trying to write one story that captures the excitement of New York. There's no way. Because every direction you look there's another story. . . .

Caught up in the workaday world of rushing from one appointment to another, neither visitors nor New Yorkers can soak up all the things that make the city great.

We've hit some of the high spots, to be sure . . . like Plaza 9 Theater, where, in satirical revue, a sextette of talented entertainers poke fun at everything from peace marchers and city bigwigs to Tennessee Williams and JFK . . . the New Americana Hotel where Janet Blair holds forth in the hotel's swank night spot, The Royal Box . . . and the Copacana, where Sammy Davis Jr. is wowing capacity crowds nightly with songs and wisecracks.

Judge's Janet Best Chef

Chef of the Week

By MILDRED K. FLANARY
I-P-T Food Editor

The "J's" have it in the Raycraft family! There's Joe, Juanita, Joan, Jane and Janet.

The head of the house is today's Chef of the Week Judge Joe Raycraft, who is just starting his fourth year as presiding judge of the Superior Court. A judge since 1947, Raycraft was first appointed by former Gov. Earl Warren to the Los Angeles Municipal Court. He was assigned to Long Beach in '52.

Actually, Judge Raycraft started "practicing" law while still a student at Poly High. The recipient of a traffic ticket, he pleaded his own case and won.

• • • •

DETERMINATION to become a lawyer was prompted by his father's admonition that he "study law and learn to understand 'the fine print.'" The "fine print" on the back of contracts had been responsible for his dad's loss of two fortunes.

A general contractor and architect, he had established the Long Beach Construction Co. in 1913. The old Silver Spray Pier, and the roller coaster on the Pike, which still stands, were products of his handiwork.

Though Wisconsin born, Raycraft's boyhood was spent in Long Beach. His baseball field was the middle of Pine Avenue; Pine being paved only south of Fourth. The largest market in town was a Japanese one at the southwest corner of the street.

Raycraft attended the American Avenue Grammar School — that is, until the fourth grade, when it burned down. He then transferred to the Pine Avenue School on the southwest corner of Sixth. After the American Avenue School was rebuilt, renamed and made a junior high, he returned. Four years at Poly High preceded his graduation from USC with a B.A. and then a law degree.

• • • •

HE HUNG out his first shingle in San Pedro in 1932, where he remained until 1947, when he was appointed judge.

A member of the American Bar Association, and the American Judicature Society, Raycraft also belongs to the Conference of California Judges. A Mason, he's active in the Knight Templar, the Shrine and the Royal Arch of Masons.

Bridge, reading and sports vie for outside interest honors, but his real forte is as a handyman. His family call him "Mr. Fix-it."

Our "chef" thoroughly enjoys cooking, but the REAL cook in the family is 11-year-old Janet. Today we're sharing with you her recipe for Sour Cream Coffee Cake, for which she won the grand sweepstakes prize in the Gas Company's Baking Contest when she was only 10.

Not to be outdone, however, "Pop" has a couple of cooking tips—"How to Bake Bacon," and a Marinade for Shish-ka-bobs."

SOUR CREAM COFFEE CAKE

½ cup butter
½ cup shortening
1¼ cup sugar
2 eggs, beaten
1 cup sour cream
1 tsp. vanilla
2 cups sifted cake flour
1 tsp. baking powder
½ tsp. baking soda

Cream butter, sugar, shortening and eggs, which have been beaten before adding. Then add sour cream and vanilla. Beat well and gradually add sifted flour, baking powder and soda. When mixture is too thick to beat, stir with a spoon until well mixed. Place half the mixture in buttered 9-inch tube spring-form pan and sprinkle with half of the topping mixture. Place rest of dough on top and sprinkle with remaining topping. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) 1 hour or until knife comes out clean. Sprinkle confectioners sugar on top while still hot and let cool 15 to 20 minutes before cutting. Serves to 12.

TOPPING

½ cup finely chopped mixed nuts
2 tblsp. sugar
1 tsp. cinnamon

Mix ingredients and sprinkle evenly between layers and over top.

RAYCRAFT'S BAKED BACON

Bake without turning! Place separated slices wafer thin, lean bacon on wire rack in shallow pan.

Place oven rack in top position in oven and bake at 400 degrees (10-20 minutes) or until done.

MARINADE FOR SHISH-KA-BOBS

Combine:
½ cup salad oil
2 cloves garlic
3 tblsp. soy sauce
2 tblsp. catsup
1 tblsp. vinegar
½ tsp. pepper

Judge Joe Raycraft

'Loud Red Patrick' to Debut

Formal opening of "The Loud Red Patrick" will be held Friday at Community Playhouse, 5021 E. Anaheim St. It will be followed by an informal Saturday showing and productions on Thursdays, Fridays and Saturdays through March 2.

The comedy, written by John Boruff from a novel of the same name by Ruth McKenney, is based on the lives of an Irish-American family living in Cleveland, Ohio, in 1912. It is presented as a wholesome family play, with sparkle and fun.

Juvenile leading roles are played by Claudia Danielson, who played in "The Lady Chooses" at Community, and Jeff Angell, a newcomer to local theaters who has played in Ventura and Oxnard little theaters.

Frank Keith is Patrick, the father, a big and hearty Irishman, and Walter Crockett is his friend, a twinkling Irishman with cocky charm.

Linda Weech, playing a 16-year-old daughter, and her mother, Virginia, as a housekeeper and substitute mother of the family, were charter members of the Quivera Playhouse in San Pedro.

Signe Merrifield, as a 10-year-old, Kristina Kennan, as the baby of the family, and Steve Arena, as a boy friend, complete the cast.

Photographs Interpret Art

By ELISE EMERY
Arts Page Editor

An antique art exhibit and a photographic show opened Thursday for a four-week run at California Museum of Science and Industry in Exposition Park, Los Angeles.

The 50 rare and ancient pieces include Iberic bronzes of the 9th to the 5th centuries B.C., High Renaissance works, Greco-Byzantine icons, Greek clay figures, Greco-Roman figures, rare Eskimo and early American Indian art. They are from the collection of Oscar Meyer.

Harold Van Pelt's photographic enlargements of these individual works are up to 30 times the size of the actual subjects, creating monumental works from objects only inches in height.

• • • •

THE CURRENT show at Atelier 7, 3316 E. Seventh St., emphasizes contrasting approaches to the art of photography.

On display is the work of Victor Haveman, artist-photographer for 40 years, and Charles Baltz, a young man many years Haveman's junior.

Both agree that photography is an art of visual selection.

But Haveman's subjects explore a vital present because, he says, "life and joy are in the present." His portraits are sensual, exotic and intense.

Baltz, on the other hand, is primarily involved with past history and development. He believes that "man is condemned to an eternal search for completeness. The past is not only a prologue to the present, but all past is contained in the present."

TWO ARTISTS, new to Long Beach, are exciting attention at Long Beach Civic Light Opera headquarters, 518 E. Fourth St.

Marianne Hoggatt, art teacher at Wilson High School, is showing 16 oils and collages in cool, subtle colors. Allan Allar, who forsook music studies at Juilliard to devote his time to painting, has 25 oils and water colors. For his non-objective, abstract works he prefers hot yellows, reds and oranges.

The show will hang through Jan. 25.

Seethaler to Lecture

Karl Seethaler, Austrian-born painter and sculptor, will present an illustrated lecture on "Highlights in the Development of Graphic and Plastic Arts" at 7 p.m. Tuesday in the choral room of Millikan High School, 2800 Snowden Ave. The admission-free program is sponsored by the Long Beach City College General Adult Division.

Seethaler founded the Long Beach Academy of Art in 1946 and has taught and lectured extensively in California. He has had one-man shows in Europe, Canada and the United States and more than 300 of his works are presently in public and private collections.

MAJOR & MINOR NOTES

Artist Constantly Seeks Perfection

By RACHEL MORTON
L. P-T Music Critic

What does it take to become a great artist? So many times I am asked this question. Of course, I can only answer by my own experience in knowing personally and working with many great artists.

This one thing I know. Without a doubt, one of the great qualities in greatness is humility — not timidity, not servility, not cowardice —but a humbleness that is never satisfied, never puffed up, always seeking, always striving. This humbleness of spirit comes from acute sensitivity and suffering.

The climb to the top is a hazardous one and fraught with discouragement most of the way. This is because a great artist has a fixed goal far beyond attainment. Rarely does an artist exclaim in glib satisfaction: "That was perfection." Rather does he seek his pillow in an anguish of "why didn't I do better?"

• • • •

THE MUSIC profession is such a highly specialized one that often actual privations are known along the way. Many of the great composers were frequently hungry. Many performing artists are lonely at heart and all live in a world not well understood by their fellow men.

So many beautiful voices have come to my notice, but what have they to say? Unless one has really suffered, how can one interpret sorrow? True, singers are only story tellers in song, but how reach the heart of an audience unless one's own heart has been reached?

• • • •

AN ARTIST'S LIFE is a strange mixture of high exaltation which comes from the music itself, and a low despair which comes from an inability to faithfully convey the message of that music.

To be musical and to love music is one thing; but to be an artist is to be great of heart and great in talent. That's why artists are so rare—but once before you, their inspiration of love and exaltation lifts you high above yourself. To the receptive one, it is a direct communication that is divinely noble.

'Grand Ole Opry' in L.B. Thursday

Grand Ole Opry, direct from Nashville, Tenn., will play a one-night stand at Municipal Auditorium Thursday.

The favorite country-Western music show, making its first appearance in this area in six years, will feature folk-singer Webb Pierce; Ray Price, whose hits include "Heartaches by the Number," "One More Time", and many others; George Jones, Western favorite; Minnie Pearl, country-style comedienne; Carl Smith, top recording artist; Claude King, Stonewall Jackson, Red Sovine, Billy Deaton and many others.

Grand Ole Opry will be presented at 7 and 9:30 p.m.

Advance tickets, at reduced prices, may be purchased at any Liberty Ticket Agency, Wallich's Music Center stores or at the box office.

Tickets also will be sold at the door on the evening of performance.

New Space Concepts in Falkenstein Work

By VIRGINIA LADDEY

The "point as a set" is the original point of departure for sculptor Claire Falkenstein, whose one man show at the Esther Robles Gallery, 665 N. La Cienaga Blvd., Los Angeles, continues through Feb. 2. An atmosphere of undisguised excitement filled the crowded rooms at Monday night's opening. Many prominent Long Beach people attended, for the internationally-acclaimed sculptor has executed two commissions in Long Beach.

• • • •

WHILE MANY of us have only faint glimmerings of understanding that the dimensions of the universe are far beyond earth, man, and heaven, Falkenstein has developed a poetic conception and expression for the terms used by advanced mathematicians and physicists. The 3-foot spherical sculpture entitled "The Point As a Set" is constructed of a hairpin curce of copper tubing woven in an infinity of relationships to describe mass, pace, and energy.

Falkenstein's "suns" and "moons," endless intricacies of soldered wire, sheet metal, and mysterious spaces, are begemmed with festoons of fused glass chunks. The "coronas," a more delicate use of the same materials, could grace the brows of yet-unknown goddesses.

• • • •

THE ENTIRE approach is organic; Falkenstein's works seem to breathe, move, grow. They are unlike anything else you've seen; yet, if you were to happen on one of them, unexpectedly, in a garden, on the beach or desert, you wouldn't be surprised to find it there at all. For this month, the Esther Robles Gallery is transformed into an arboretum-planetarium. Go wander through it; you will be delighted.

Steinhaus in Recital

First Congregational Church will present Phillip Steinhaus in an organ recital Tuesday at 8:15 p.m.

The public is invited; an offering will be received.

Organist, choirmaster and carillonneur to the Kirk-in-the-Hills at Bloomfield Hills, Mich., Steinhaus has appeared in concerts throughout the United States. He has performed as soloist with symphony orchestra, including the Detroit Symphony, as recitalist at national and regional conventions of the American Guild of Organists and has been featured on radio programs.

Anne Barrows to Sing on Idaho Civic Music Series

Anne Barrows, Long Beach contralto, will leave Tuesday by plane for Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, where she will sing a concert Wednesday for the Idaho Civic Music Series.

Concert arrangements have been made by the Alexander F. Haas Artist Management Bureau of Los Angeles.

Her program will include songs by Torelli, Haydn, Monro, Schubert, Brahms, Schumann, Medinkoff, Bantok, Rachmaninoff and Dvorak.

She will be accompanied by Donald K. Smith of Spokane.

Miss Barrow's regular accompanist, Vernon Overmeyer, is to go on a tour of the United States and Canada with the Roger Wagner Chorale.

Orchestra to Perform

Members of the Long Beach City College Chamber Orchestra will present their first concert of the season at 8 p.m. Friday in Studio D of the college music building, Clark Avenue and Harvey Way. There is no admission charge.

Under the direction of Akiro Endo, the 35-piece orchestra will perform Haydn's "London Symphony," Wagner's "Siegfried Idyll," Weber's "Bassoon Concerto in F Major" and "Rumanian Folk Dances" by Bartok.

With Dr. Gerald Daniel as guest conductor, Endo will be the violin soloist in the performance of Bach's "Brandenburg Concerto No. 104."

Spectacular L. B. Auto Show Opens Tuesday

Cars of 7 Nations Will Be on Display

The Long Beach Arena, Tuesday, Jan. 15th through Sunday, Jan. 20, will be the scene of the Harbor Area's most spectacular automotive display as cars of 7 nations, over 300 automobiles and exhibits will be presented to the public.

This will be the first International Auto Show in the new 8 million dollar Long Beach Arena. Newest automobiles from the smallest compacts to the most luxurious designs in the world will be exhibited from 1 p. m. to midnight daily.

The new automobile "faces for 1963" have been drawing a lot of attention, and this will be the opportunity for the public to view them all under one roof. Domestically, this means the Buick Riviera, Corvette Stingray fast back coupe and Studebaker's high performance Avanti, and hundreds of other displays.

• • • •

THE FOREIGN market is represented too, and it offers some new faces also. The Ford Cortina, the MG-B and Renault are a few for instance. Compact cars which were Detroit's major defense in the battle against imports are showing even greater variety this year as they blossomed out in flashy convertible models. Price tags are plainly visible on every model on the floor, from $1,000 to $25,000. Tilting steering wheels, amber directional lights, retractable headlights, and smashing new designs will all be on display.

But, new cars aren't the entire show. Amid beautiful girls and outstanding floral displays, the Auto Show will present three times daily, a spectacular stage show at 3:15—7:15—and 10:15 p.m.

• • • •

SOME OF THE greatest acts of show business are scheduled to appear. The fabulous Four Aces, outstanding quartet—a group which has consistently had top records and has won the coveted world's No. 1 Group Award for winning the U. S. Triple Crown of Cashbox, Billboard and United Press, plus the Musical Express Poll in England.

On the same bill, are the Jerry Murad's Harmonicats, the Columbia recording artists made famous by their harmonica rendition of "Peg O' My Heart" and their introduction of the new echo chamber sound, which is being used on so many recordings.

• • • •

ALSO APPEARING are the Sons of Morocco, known to be one of the fastest precision tumbling groups in the field of entertaining.

Music for the International Auto Show will be under the direction of Manny Harmon. Harmon's acclaim as a music maker has made him a favorite among the stars of Hollywood who have worked under his direction on the stage.

Master of Ceremonies for the entire stage production will be Mickey Levine. Performance hours are 3:15—7:15—and 10:15 p.m. 9,000 show seats are available to visitors of the Auto Show.

HEAD AUTO SHOW ENTERTAINMENT

Manny Harmon and his band will be featured in the stage shows at the Long Beach International Auto Show, opening Jan. 15, in the Arena. Four shows will be given daily.

Manny Harmon Band to Play for Show

There is a carnation on the lapel of his suit as he mounts the bandstand.

He lifts his baton, and the magic of music—lilting strains for romance or powerful chords to stir the imagination—fill the air.

His name is Manny Harmon, conductor and musical show director, whose 30-year rise in the entertainment business has established him as one of the top artists in his field. His band will entertain at the Long Beach Auto Show.

Harmon's acclaim as a music maker has made him a favorite among the stars of Hollywood who gather at social events or work under his direction on the stage.

His popularity is based on his spectacular ability to adapt the perfect type of musicianship to every audience and every individual performer.

• • • •

AMONG THE memorable events which Harmon's baton has favored over the years have been the annual Academy Awards and television Emmy presentations, the Miss International Beauty Pageant, Arthur Murray TV Presentations, the Photoplay Awards and Pasadena Tournament of Roses.

Such stars as Dinah Shore, Judy Garland, Tony Martin, Ethel Merman, Gordon MacRae and Patrice Munsel have sung under his guidance—and such personalities as Bob Hope, Danny Kaye, Jerry Lewis, Danny Thomas, Jimmy Durante and the Ritz Brothers have voiced praise for his showmanship and ability to conduct for them with outstanding exactness.

Harmon has played for the King and Queen of Greece, Emperor Selassie of Ethiopia, the President of Turkey, President Sukarno of Indonesia and the late President Roosevelt.

• • • •

HE SERVED as dance director at President Eisenhower's Inaugural Ball and provided the music for the American Pavillion Show at the World's Fair in Brussels.

Among Harmon's honors has been the privilege to record a stirring orchestra and choral arrangement of "I Love You, California," the official song of our Golden State which was written in 1913 and adopted in 1951.

Manny Harmon, a native of Philadelphia who possessed a keen interest in music as far back as he can remember, received his early training by playing the violin in the pit of the old Orpheum Theatre in Los Angeles under the direction of A. F. Frankenstein.

He soon moved on to play with the dance bands of Earl Burtnett and Art Hickman, and, after several years, formed his own orchestra.

He was associated for 17 years with RKO Studios during which he concentrated on new ideas for scoring, conducting the directing music for a succession of films.

Harmon, who often lends his voice to his music, has made many recordings, including "Manny Harmon Plays ChaChaCha," "To You, With Love," and "Music the Stars Dance To," a compilation of tunes most requested by Hollywood celebrities, with his own special arrangements.

Producer of Show Lauds L.B. Facility

Few persons have produced more spectacular type shows than Mickey Levine and, certainly, no one in the automotive show business.

Levine is currently producing the International Auto Show for the Long Beach Automobile Dealers Association and has acclaimed the new Long Beach Arena as the finest facility of its type in the nation. "It has everything any one could ask for," stated Mickey.

"Imagine, floor space for over 200 automobile exhibits under one roof, plus a large staging area for a full blown stage show and 9,000 of the plushiest seats in which show visitors can rest, watch talent perform on stage and, at the same time, look over the large array of exhibits on the floor."

TOP TALENT FOR SHOW

The Four Aces, one of the world's favorite quartets, will appear in person every day at the Auto Show in the Long Beach Arena Jan. 15 to 20. There will be three big stage shows daily.

JAGUAR

THE HIGH-PERFORMANCE CAR WITH THREE DISTINCT PERSONALITIES

To many, the name Jaguar means the epitome of a dashing sports car—rakish, low-slung, capable of record speeds. This impression is correct, evidenced by the unique Jaguar XK-E (at top).
But that is only one facet. Jaguar also manifests itself in the 3.8 sedan, a matchless family tourer (middle above) . . . and the new Mark X, a handsome luxury sedan (foreground). All three Jaguars are high-performance automobiles. Each has engineering advances, performance characteristics and luxurious appointments found only in a few of the world's other fine automobiles. Inspect and drive the Jaguar with the personality that matches yours, at your earliest convenience.
Should you be traveling abroad, inquire about Jaguar's Overseas Delivery Plan prior to your departure. Through this plan you may purchase any Jaguar model at substantial savings in this country for delivery in Europe.

"THE HOUSE OF PERSONAL SERVICE FOR YOUR OLDSMOBILE"

Better Interior for Valiants

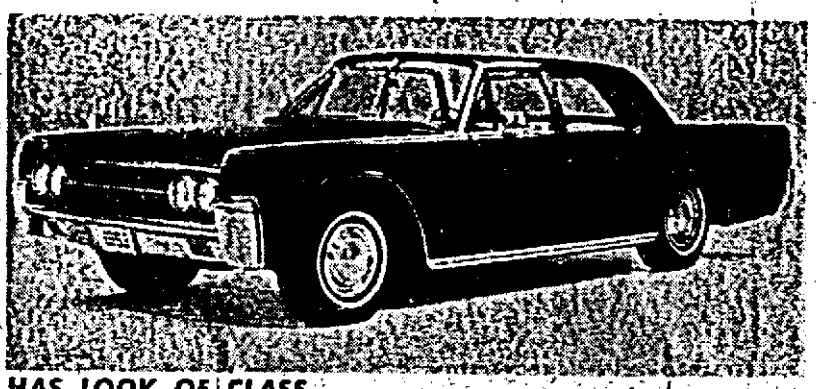

There are a number of significant quality improvements in 1963 Valiant interiors. Reinforced rubber mats with greater puncture resistance are being introduced. Loop carpeting of 80 per cent rayon and 20 per cent nylon gives better wear resistance and longer life. Molded carpets are polyethylene-backed for improved fit and durability. Body cloth wear resistance has been improved, improved vinyl headliners are used and front armrests on the Signet are four inches longer.

The 1963 Valiant retains its full-unitized construction in an improved structural design that is stronger and more durable and less susceptible to corrosion.

AMERICA'S BIGGEST CAR

Like all 1963 Chrysler Imperials, the top-of-the-line LeBaron has a new roof structure, new styling treatment in the rear, more interior room for passengers, more luxurious interiors and additional convenience features as standard equipment.

HAS LOOK OF CLASS

Lincoln Continental's classic styling continues into 1963 with minor refinements. Interiors are redesigned to give almost an inch more legroom for front seat passengers and more than an additional inch in the rear. A new engine with four-barrel carburetor gives higher performance for start-up acceleration and for passing at turnpike speeds.

CORMIER
CHEVROLET COMPANY

Provide Increased Roominess for '63 Lincoln Continental

The classic styling of the Lincoln Continental has undergone only subtle refinements in 1963. The car offers increased roominess, additional luggage space, and higher engine performance.

"The high reputation for reliability and durability earned by the Lincoln Continental is enhanced further by additional improvements in quality throughout all areas of design and manufacture," said Ben D. Mills, Ford Motor Co. vice president and general manager of the Lincoln-Mercury division. Mills pointed out that the Lincoln Continental continues to carry a 24,000-mile, two-year warranty.

Almost an inch more legroom is provided for front seat passengers and more than an inch additional legroom for rear seat passengers. Rear seat headroom also is increased slightly.

• • • •

LINCOLN Continental's elegant styling shows a slight modification resulting from a new and higher rear deck and three-dimensional ornamentation on the lower back panel.

A new grille and upper grille moulding feature the distinctive front-end. Amber lights for front turn signal and parking lights are a new safety feature.

Eighteen exterior solid colors are offered. The Lincoln Continental four-door convertible—the only one made in America — offers a new blue top in addition to a white and a black top.

Interior styling reaches new goals of luxury, with new upholstery fabrics and redesigned instrument panel.

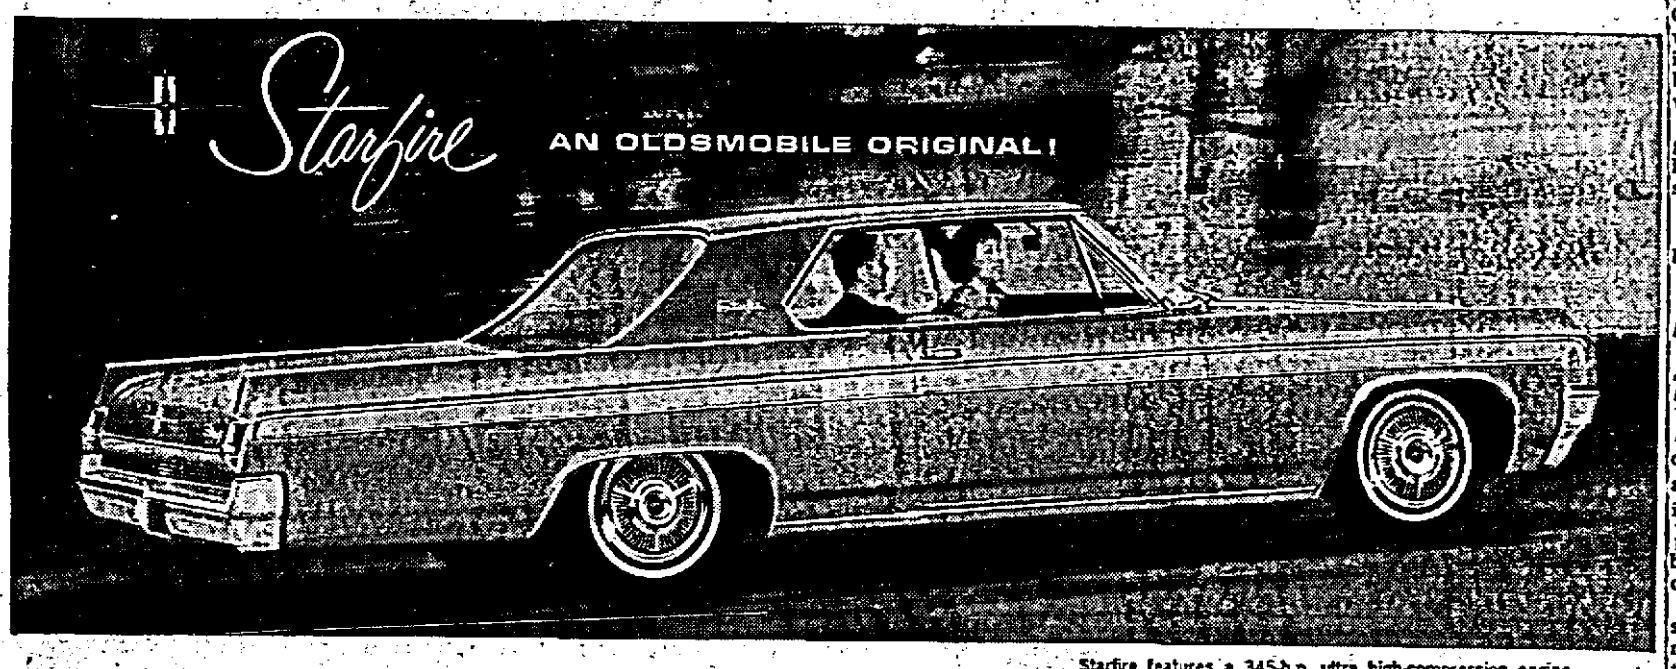

• • • •

THE 430-CUBIC-INCH displacement engine gives higher power output for acceleration at a start-up and for passing at turnpike speeds. A new 4-barrel carburetor replaces the former 2-barrel carburetor and plays a significant part in increasing the car's performance.

Ride and handling of the 1963 Lincoln Continental are improved by important chassis developments. The steering gear is isolated from the underbody with three laminated steel and rubber "pucks" to absorb high-frequency vibrations in the steering system.

New drive shaft universal joints require lubrication only after 30,000 miles, rather than 6,000 miles. Steering and front suspension continue on a 30,000-mile lubrication cycle, and oil filter and oil change continue on a 6,000-mile change cycle. Long-life anti-freeze is good normally for 36,000 miles or two years.

Six-way power seat and power operated radio antenna are made standard equipment in the 1963 Lincoln Continental.

Starfire features a 345-h.p. ultra high-compression engine, leather-appointed bucket seats, full-length console with T-stick Hydra-Matic Drive, power steering, power brakes, tachometer.

Finest Coach Work for 1963 Imperials

Styling continuity and exceptionally fine coach work are distinguishing characteristics of the 1963 Imperial.

Imperial continues to be the biggest of all American luxury cars.

For 1963 it has a new roof structure, new styling treatment in the rear, more interior room for passengers, more luxurious interiors and additional convenience features as standard equipment.

Like its predecessor, the 1963 version of Chrysler Corp.'s top luxury car has its own exclusive construction which it shares with no other car.

• • • •

IMPERIAL RETAINS many of the distinctive styling features of previous Imperials including the free standing head lamps. There is a new grille and a more elegant rear design treatment.

The appearance, quality and durability of interiors have been greatly improved on the 1963 Imperial.

Grain walnut door panel inserts have been added to LeBaron to import a new note of elegance.

Seats provide additional comfort and durability in the new models through use of heavier spring construction over the transmission tunnel.

The 413 cubic inch Imperial engine is basically unchanged. However, closed crankcase ventilation will be standard on all 1963 Imperials.

• • • •

POWER-OPERATED windows, remote control left side view mirrors and integral arm rests with useful storage compartments hidden in front door arm rests have become standard equipment in 1963 Imperials.

Higher braking performance is a significant new characteristic of the Imperial. Servo-contact, self-energizing brakes with 11x3 inch linings are introduced for 1963.

New Imperial parking brakes are on the rear wheels. The previous transmission output shaft brake is replaced by a parking system which operates the rear wheel service brakes through a cable and linkage mechanism.

Rubber Firm Must Carry Huge Stock

Life was reasonably simple for the tire manufacturer when Henry's "Tin Lizzy" was queen of the highways.

One size of tire fit practically every car on the road; there were only three sizes of truck tires and giant road equipment, and tractor tires were still in the future.

Things have changed drastically, however, and today there are more than 4,000 sizes and types of tires on the market. To make matters worse, most of the types are seldom requested.

So, when 20 per cent of the items stocked equal 90 per cent of the sales, it represents a rather unusual warehousing problem.

THIS IS ONE of the hurdles the world's largest rubber company had to clear when establishing a chain of warehouses that would serve the nation's tire-buying public.

The vast chain of retail outlets served by The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company numbers more than 65,000 and the inventory of different sizes and types alone is staggering. To this add an ample supply of car and home merchandise — everything from electric blankets to refrigerators—and you have a situation that would make even the heartiest department store manager shy away in disbelief.

To complicate things even more, the tires are produced in plants scattered all over the United States.

TO COMBAT the problem, the company erected five regional distribution centers in key spots across the nation. The centers, which are modern warehouse facilities with floor space ranging from 400,000 to 660,000 square feet, act as the hub for 52 smaller warehouses located in practically every major city in the country. These smaller, or district warehouses distribute tires and car and home merchandise to the scores of retail outlets in their area, making the final link in the factory-to-store cycle that serves Goodyear customers.

One of the first of the regional distribution centers to be constructed was the Los Angeles facility. It is also one of the largest—so big, in fact, it could hold enough tires for every automobile in the states of Wyoming or Vermont.

Imperial Is Road Tested

There is specially designed proving area reserved for road-testing every 1963 Imperial before it is shipped from the plant.

Hand-picked inspectors and mechanics test every Imperial and make necessary corrections before each car is worked through a 15-station okay line and a 13-station final Quality Assurance Acceptance line.

The test track has:

Two 45-degree ramps to check parking brake and parking sprag on an incline and decline.

A figure-eight area to check steering noise, accuracy of steering components, and operation of directional signal lights.

A section of corrugated pavement adjacent to a sounding wall to spot internal and external squeaks, rattles and noises.

A high-speed straightway to check upshift pattern and kickdown gear and to test brakes in a panic stop. The straightaway also enables inspectors to check for oil leaks immediately after oil pressure has been at its maximum.

List Prices Not Raised

Although Oldsmobile's factory-list prices for 1963 have not been increased, many design and mechanical improvements such as positive crankcase ventilation, the Delcotron generator, self-adjusting brakes and an aluminized exhaust system have been added as standard equipment. Furthermore, the 1963 Oldsmobile warranty has been increased to cover the product for 24 months or 24,000 miles.

Renault Adds Sedan to 1963 Import Line

Renault, largest French auto maker, has unveiled a new compact sedan—the R-8—designed especially for international markets.

The R-8 is a four-door, five-passenger car featuring disc brakes on all wheels and a rear-mounted 48 horsepower engine. It will sell for $1,795 (East Coast Port of Entry).

Renault will continue to sell the Dauphine, the small economy sedan that has kept the company in second place among imported autos, as well as the sporty Caravelle "S."

Dick Scatchard of Import Auto, Long Beach Renault dealership, said Renault hopes to sell 45,000 to 50,000 cars—Dauphines, R-8s and Caravelles—in 1963. This will be about 30 per cent above predicted sales for 1962. R-8s will make up most of this increase.

• • • •

"THE AMERICAN market was very much in their thoughts when they designed the R-8," said Scatchard. "We believe there is a good market for a comfortable four-door sedan selling for around $1,800, particularly now when the American compacts are getting larger and more expensive.

"The R-8 is for those people who now have an economy car, but wish to move up into something that is roomier and more comfortable, yet that still provides economical transportation."

The R-8 boasts several mechanical advances. It is the first production compact car to be sold in the U. S. with disc brakes on all four wheels and the first with a sealed cooling system that eliminates the risk of boiling over in the summer and the need for adding anti-freeze in the winter.

• • • •

THE CAR IS ALSO fitted with an "anti-smog" device which eliminates engine fumes, and a five-bearing crankshaft (instead of the normal three bearings) which greatly increases the life of the engine.

The four-cylinder 956 cc engine gives the R-8 37 miles to the gallon and a top speed of over 80 mph.

The car is equipped with a four-speed gearbox, floor-mounted stick shift and bucket seats in front. It is available in four colors—red, white, blue and black.

Improved Brakes on Cadillacs

The Cadillac braking system is one that receives constant engineering attention. The 1962 model introduced a three-way system for increased safety. The 1963 sintered iron pistons in the wheel cylinders are incorporated for added life through corrosion resistance, an improved power brake master cylinder piston seal is used and a backing plate has been added to improve sealing under wet driving conditions.

Additional safety features on the 1963 Cadillac include relocation of the windshield washer for maximum spray, improved safety door locks, relocation of dome lights to rear quarters in the 62 Series, redesigned attachments for front compartment visors and the relocation of seat belt anchorages eliminating interference with rear compartment passengers' foot room.

Tire Economy

Tests on the 1963 Dodge Dart disclose that two-ply tires can carry as much load, with greater economy, than the old-fashioned four-ply tires, Dodge Chief Engineer George Gibson reports.

Impact of U.S. Auto Industry on Nation's Economy Is Shown

By ART STEPHAN
Automotive Editor

Statistics relating to the automobile industry and its numerous facets forcibly reflect the tremendous impact the industry has on the nation's economy and living habits.

One business of every six in the United States is related to the automobile industry and one of every employed seven persons in the U.S. works in highway transportation.

Approximately 78 per cent of households in the U.S. have automobiles and recent figures show that 11.4 million households have two or more cars. Two out of every three adults in the U.S. have driver licenses.

• • • •

THOUSANDS of smaller industries stem from the automobile industry. One good example is reflected in figures showing that in a recent year 24 million packages of automobile wax, polish and cleanser were produced. Annual sale of anti-freeze exceeds 122 million gallons and brake fluid more than 10.5 million gallons.

Motorists carry a heavy burden of special motor vehicle taxes totaling more than $11 billion in 1962 with trucks responsible for $3.2 billion or 28 per cent. State gasoline taxes total over $3.5 billion annually.

Financial interest in the automobile industry also is shown in the fact that 1.7 million persons own auto company stock.

• • • •

OTHER statistics regarding the automobile industries are: 39 per cent of automobile drivers are women; 90 per cent of inter-city travel is by motor vehicle; 70 per cent of all rural roads are surfaced; about 40 per cent of new cars are sold on a cash basis.

More than 13 billion vehicle miles are traveled annually for hunting and fishing purposes; the average American family receives a total of 78 days of truck service each year; more than 61 billion gallons of gasoline are used annually by motorists; American motorists on the average drive their cars about 10,000 miles a year; automotive horsepower totals almost 11 billion or 95 per cent of all total energy of prime movers in the U.S.

About 64 per cent of all employed persons drive or ride automobiles to work, on the national average, although in some sections the figures exceeds 75 per cent; approximately five million cars and trucks are scrapped annually; the present average age of motor cars is about six years; the auto industry purchases about 20 per cent of all steel; the U.S. leads the nations of the world in automobile registrations with France second, United Kingdom third, West Germany fourth and Canada fifth.

Dodge Process Resists Rusting

A seven-stage, dip-and-spray process helps protect 1963 Dodge cars from rust.

This rust-proofing process, one of the most comprehensive in the auto industry, is composed of 24 separate operations.

In the Dodge process, the entire body of the car is immersed in a special primer to a minimum depth of 22 inches. Because of the entry and exit angles in the dipping stage, the front and rear of the body are coated to an even greater depth.

Nationally Famous Auto Critic designates

DODGE... the "Hottest" car for 1963

WORLD OF WHEELS

Expert Calls Dodge 'Sleeper of Year'

By ART STEPHAN
Auto Editor

Cars, generally, are like girls—you see them on the street and you either like them or you don't.

But, as with girls, when you meet them and get to know them you find there is a big difference.

With this premise in mind about cars—not girls—Stag Magazine called upon Dale Shaw, nationally known auto critic, to make an examination of the new models and come up with the best car for 1963.

Our specific request to Shaw was: "We don't care if it's a Cadillac or a jeep. Find the best car on the market for 1963 and write us a story."

A hard hitting writer, Shaw calls 'em as he sees 'em and in the January issue of Stag Magazine he calls the "Hottest Car for 1963 — The Dodge."

• • • •

"THAT OLD DODGE was reliable," Shaw observes. "However, through the years, Dodge somehow lost its grip on reliability.

"There was an explosive reaction among Dodge brass, and the emptiest heads were carted off in neat little baskets. A long, hard look was taken at design and, above all, quality control.

"It now appears that the results may rock the industry."

Shaw calls Dodge the "Sleeper of the year . . . this baby puts dependable back in big 'D' with a sensational offer no other manufacturer can match."

In his Stag party, Shaw pulls no punches. He covers in naked, graphic prose old Dodge grief and new Dodge glory. He dissects the new Dodge models from door posts and roof supports to engine exhaust, and the fine print on the new five-year 50,000-mile warranty in what we think is probably the most revealing and interesting automobile story of recent times.

DART SPORTS MODEL

The 1963 Dodge Dart's top-of-the-line GT series has two sports models: a two-door hardtop, shown here, and a convertible, both with bucket seats.

Dodge Offers Choice of 42 Models

HERE IS DELUXE DODGE POLARA

The 1963 Dodge line-up provides a choice of 24 standard-size, popular-price models. Sedans, hardtops and convertibles have a 119-inch wheelbase and an over-all length of 17 feet, 4 inches. Pictured above is the deluxe Dodge Polara four-door hardtop.

Dodge offers automobile buyers a choice of 42 models for 1963, ranging from low-price compacts to medium-price luxury cars.

There are three separate lines of Dodge passenger cars, each distinctly diffently in styling, size and price. All will be on display at the Long Beach Automobile Show.

The three lines are: The new, family-size compact Dart; the standard-size, popular-price Dodge; and the luxurious, medium-price Dodge 880 and Custom 880.

"Our 1963 line-up gives the American motorist the widest selection of Dodge cars in our company's 49-year history," Dodge General Manager Byron J. Nichols said.

• • • •

THE NEW DART is built on a 111-inch wheelbase and is seven inches longer than the 1962 Dodge compact. It's offered in nine attractive models, including two convertibles.

The newly styled Dodge, which has a wheelbase of 119 inches, is six inches longer than last year's standard-size models. The Dodge line has 24 models, including two special high-performance Polara 500 sports models with bucket seats.

The Dodge line-up also includes nine medium-price 880 and Custom 880 models. These big, new cars have a 122-inch wheelbase and an over-all length of 17 feet, 9 inches.

The nine Dart models are in three series: 170, 270 and GT. The Dodge also has three series: 330, 440 and Polara. The medium-price Dodge is offered in two series: the deluxe Custom 880 and the lower-priced 880 series.

Dart buyers have a choice of two six-cylinder engines, one with a 170-cubic-inch displacement, the other with 225.

• • • •

DODGE OFFERS a selection of six engines: a 225-cubic-inch six, a 318-cubic-inch V-8, two 383-cubic-inch V-8's and two 426-cubic-inch V-8's. The 426 engines are special maximum performance powerplants available to a limited number of car enthusiasts.

Buyers of Dodge 880's have a choice of two engines: the standard 361-cubic-inch V-8, with two-barrel carburetor, and an optional, high-performance, 383-cubic-inch V-8.

Nichols said the 1963 Dodge and Dart have been increased in size to provide substantially more roominess and comfort. The new sytling and engineering give the new cars "greater beauty, convenience and appeal," he said.

The new Dodges feature a host of engineering improvements which "simplify operational controls and provide a longer, trouble-free life expectancy for every model," Nichols said.

• • • •

NEW FEATURES include: A five year or 50,000-mile warranty on major power train components; newly developed aerodynamic windshield wipers that prevent "windlift" at high speeds; increased corrosion protection for body and exhaust systems; all-transistor radios.

Crankcase ventilation (anti-smog) system; increased seat fabric durability; improved starter for six-cylinder engines; amber-colored turn signal lens; more durable and easier operating hood latch.

Studebaker Avanti All-New Automobile

Restless, energetic Sherwood H. Egbert surrounded himself with every automotive publication he could find at Chicago's O'Hare Airport, fastened his seat belt, and began to read and think. Somewhere between Omaha and Denver on the jet taking him to California, he reached for some stationery and began to sketch the kind of car he would like Studebaker Corp. to build.

Egbert had been president of the then Studebaker-Packard Corp. just 37 days when, on March 9, 1961, he returned to South Bend, called in Raymond Loewy and handed the famed designer an assignment. Loewy was astounded at the clarity and advanced look of Egbert's designs. In his words: "I did not know the man, but I read him through the sketches he handed me. I knew then that Egbert had a natural flair for design. I knew I was working for a man whom I could respect for his good taste."

Within another 10 days Loewy had established designers John Ebstein and Robert Andrews in an isolated rented house in the Mojave Desert near his own home at Palm Springs. In one incredible week, the three designers created a ⅛ scale clay model.

• • • •

LOEWY CARRIED the model on his lap on a flight back to Egbert's office in snow-laden South Bend — headquarters of the 110-year-old Studebaker firm.

Thus began the countdown for the Avanti, the wedge-shaped, unmistakably modern, all-new automobile that is being introduced to the American motoring public this spring.

By April 27, a full-size clay model of the Avanti had been approved by the corporation's board of directors.

Loewy had this to say when the design for the Avanti was approved: "After Egbert had expressed his concept and given me the go-ahead signal, I briefed my design team to make certain that everyone visualized the definite design target we had in mind. We had no time to experiment. First, we looked for purity. We looked for something taut and lean, not frail, but with a wedgy look. Avanti's front is avid; its rear end is sudden . . . !" That was Loewy's comment on "fastback" styling — a characteristic of the Avanti.

"Then we considered the driver," Loewy said. "We wished to make sure that he could drive in both comfort and safety. This car is keen but not frantic. We also paid attention to acoustics on brisk acceleration, the exhaust music and the higher the revolutions the sweeter the engine melody. In traffic, the Avanti is docile.

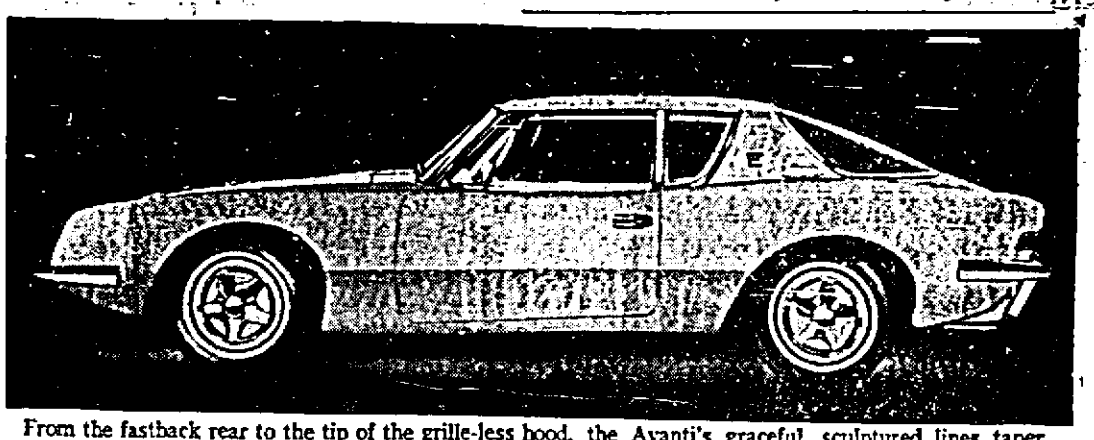

• • • •

"MECHANICALLY, Studebaker engineers also have done a first-class job on the Avanti," Loewy said. "But to appreciate it, you must get into the capsule, sit in the bucket, find yourself some asphalt and flat it out—you're in an automobile."

While designers and engineers were working at an unbelievable pace Egbert continued to breathe new life into the project by advocating special features on the Avanti — an aircraft cockpit design for the interior, caliper disc brakes, roll bar and safety padding protection for passengers, and other "details" which he says mark the difference between similar products of different manufacturers.

Egbert also was busy lining up Paxton Corp. as an acquisition for Studebaker. The new Paxton Division headed by Anthony (Andy) Granatelli, noted race driver and developer of the famous Novi racing engine, gives Studebaker supercharger that will produce more horsepower than the driver of the Avanti will ever need.

The Avanti reached showroom floors last May and is expected to attract considerable attention at the Long Beach Auto Show.

From the fastback rear to the tip of the grille-less hood, the Avanti's graceful, sculptured lines taper forward in a flying wedge.

New Type of Paints for Autos

One of the new developments in the automobile industry for 1963 cars is the use of a buffing-type acrylic enamel paint which increases durability, permits a wider color range and the use of lighter color metallic paints.

The new process makes it possible to oil sand body surfaces after the application of three color coats. The body surfaces are then hand polished at the factory to produce a surface of exceptional brilliance, luster and eye appeal.

In addition to improving new car appearance, buffing permits restoration of the original gloss after long periods in service, assuring maximum resale value.

New Release on Parking Brake

A new, vacuum-actuated parking brake release unit is featured on the Imperial. This device is operated by engine vacuum, and automatically releases the parking brake when the engine is started and the transmission placed in gear. A manual emergency override is also provided.

A parking sprag control is introduced for the Imperial's automatic transmission. The sprag mechanism is incorporated in the transmission extension and is used to lock the output shaft to the extension housing. It provides a positive and convenient method of holding the car immovable when parked. The sprag is actuated by a cable connected to a slide lever mounted on the instrument panel.

Plymouth Seats Are Improved

Plymouth seats have improvements which provide additional comfort and durability. Heavier gauge spring wire, coil-type end jacks, and wire-reinforced foam pads help extend seat life, provide firmer support and reduce wrinkling. Thicker (2¼-inch) foam pads are used in front seats of Fury and Belvedere models.

Tachometer on Mercury

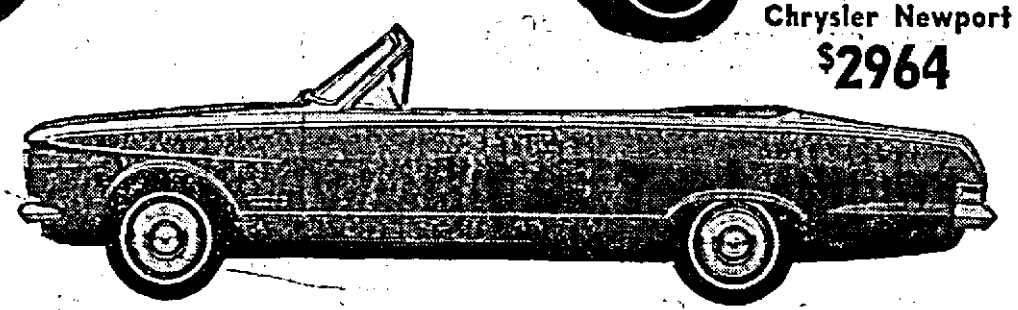

A tachometer, to aid in measuring engine performance, and a swing-away steering wheel, which pivots out of the way of the driver, are options on the 1963 Monterey. options and accessories for the Monterey include: a new push button, fully transistorized, combination AM-FM radio; power brakes; power steering; power windows; six-way power seat, and an improved deluxe air conditioner that is separate from the heater.

The Mercury Monterey for 1963 is offered in four series: the Monterey series, the Monterey Custom, the S-55 series, featuring bucket seats, and one station wagon—the Monterey Colony Park.

PLYMOUTH FOUR-DOOR HARDTOP

New styling, brisk performance and recognized fuel economy leadership are the qualities of the 1963 Plymouth, which this year offers a five-year or 50,000-mile warranty on major power components. Above, the sleek four-door Plymouth Fury hardtop.

Plymouth to Make Big Bid

New styling, exceptional performance and fuel economy—plus a 50,000-mile or five-year warranty on major power train components—are making the 1963 Plymouth a strong entry in the low-price field this year.

The new Plymouth models have a wider, longer look to go with their widely acclaimed liveliness.

They are three inches longer and an inch wider than in 1962. A stylish new roof line with upright rear window, a longer rear deck with roomier trunk and smart new front-end styling give the 1963 Plymouth a distinctively new appeal.

All 1963 Plymouth automobiles sold in the United States and Canada carry a new warranty for five years or 50,000 miles, whichever comes first, on major power train components. Plymouth is the first of the low-priced standard-sized cars to offer such extended owner protection.

• • • •

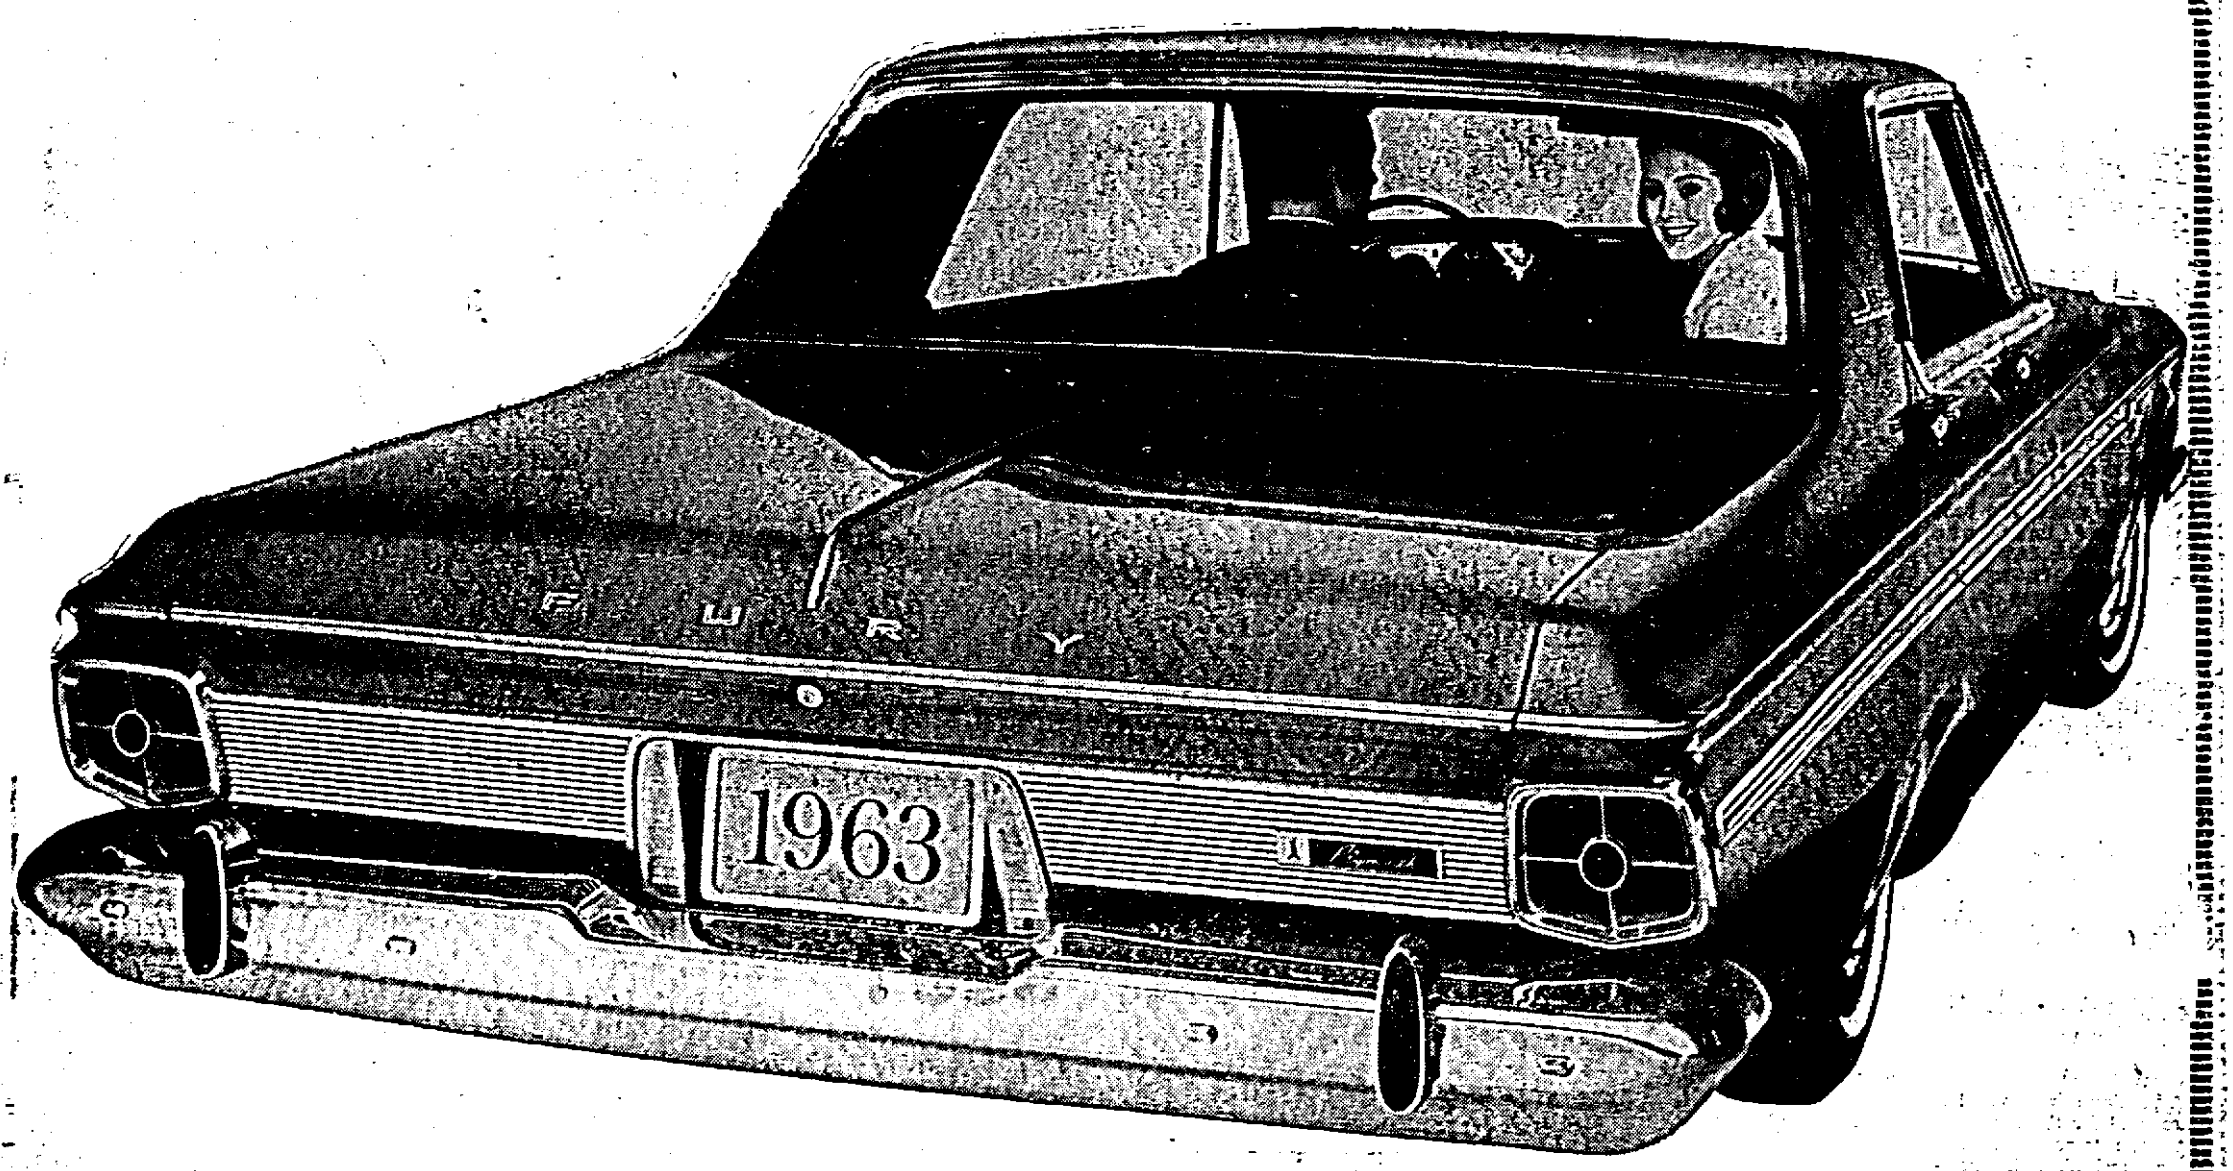

THE LENGTH of all 1963 Plymouth sedans, hardtops and convertibles is the same—205 inches. There are no intermediate, in-between models, short wheelbase or small engine cars in the line.

Standard power plants are the 225-cubic-inch inclined six and the 318-cubic-inch Fury V-8. Both engines retain the economy features which have won for Plymouth victories in its class in the Mobil Economy Run the past six years in a row.

• • • •

PLYMOUTH offers 26 different models for 1963 in four series. In the Savoy series there is a 2 and 4-door sedan and a 6 and 9-passenger station wagon, both 6 and 8-cylinder; Belvedere offers 2 and 4-door sedans and a 2-door hardtop in both 6 and 8-cylinder models, and 6 and 9-passenger wagons with V-8 only; Fury with 4-door sedan and 2-door hardtop in both 6 and 8-cylinder models, and the 4-door hardtop, convertible coupe, 6 and 9-passenger wagons with V-8 only.

COMET CONVERTIBLE

Two new convertibles are added to the Mercury Comet line for 1963. The power operated soft tops are available in the Custom series and in the sporty S-22 series with bucket seats. Pictured is the Comet S-22 convertible.

Convertibles Now in Line of Comets

Convertibles become part of the Mercury Comet line for the first time with introduction of two sporty models in the Comet custom and Comet S-22 series for 1963.

Both convertibles have power operated tops as standard equipment. The S-22 model has bucket seats with dividing center console and individually adjustable front seats.

Engineering advances developed originally for the big car field have been incorporated into the 1963 Comet line and substantially reduce the time and cost of auto maintenance.

The 1963 Comet will not require its initial servicing until six months or 6,000 miles have elapsed. A new high detergent engine oil, factory installed oil filter and adjustments to the transmission, engine and electrical system have eliminated the need for the 1,000 mile check-up.

• • • •

"WITH THESE new models, the Comet should attract even greater acceptance among continuing to improve on low cost, dependable transportation," Ben D. Mills, Ford Motor Co. vice president and general manager of the Lincoln-Mercury Division, said "The Comet consistently has ranked among the leaders in the industry in low dollar depreciation. We expect the new models and the engineering refinements on the 1963 line to strengthen this position."

Improvements in the Comet's two six-cylinder engines include hydraulic valve lifters and a newly designed carburetor.

Comet's sporty trend is supported by the addition of an optional new four-speed floor-mounted manual transmission which gives greater performance and fuel economy.

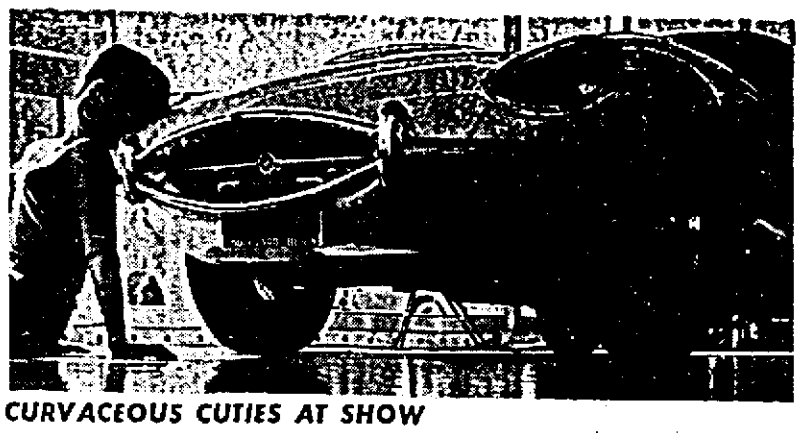

The Comet also comes in two and four-door sedans and station wagons in both standard and custom series. S-22 two-door sedan and the Villager station wagon. The Villager four-door wagon features simulated wood-grain paneling and rails, and bucket seats are optional.

Dodge Improves Wiper Blades

A new kind of windshield wiper on 1963 Dodge cars ensures effective wiping action even when the car is traveling at high speed.

At turnpike speeds, the wind tends to lift the conventional wiper from the glass. But the central bridge of the new Dodge wiper assembly has an airfoil design which prevents such windlift.

Air flowing over its curved surface actually increases the pressure of the blade on the windshield, Dodge Chief Engineer George W. Gibson reports. The result: greater visibility on the highway when traveling in rainy weather.

7.9 Million Homes With Over One Car

More than three and one-half million U.S. families moved into the two-or-more car ranks during the past eight years.

A recent national survey showed that the number of multicar households in the country increased from 4.1 million in 1954 to 7.9 million in 1962—a rise of 90 per cent.

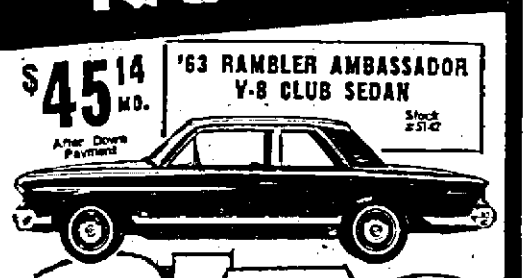

The eight-year period saw a 23 per cent gain in the number of single-car households in the nation.

HOUSEHOLDS WITH THREE or more cars rose from 411,000 in 1954 to 750,000 in 1962.

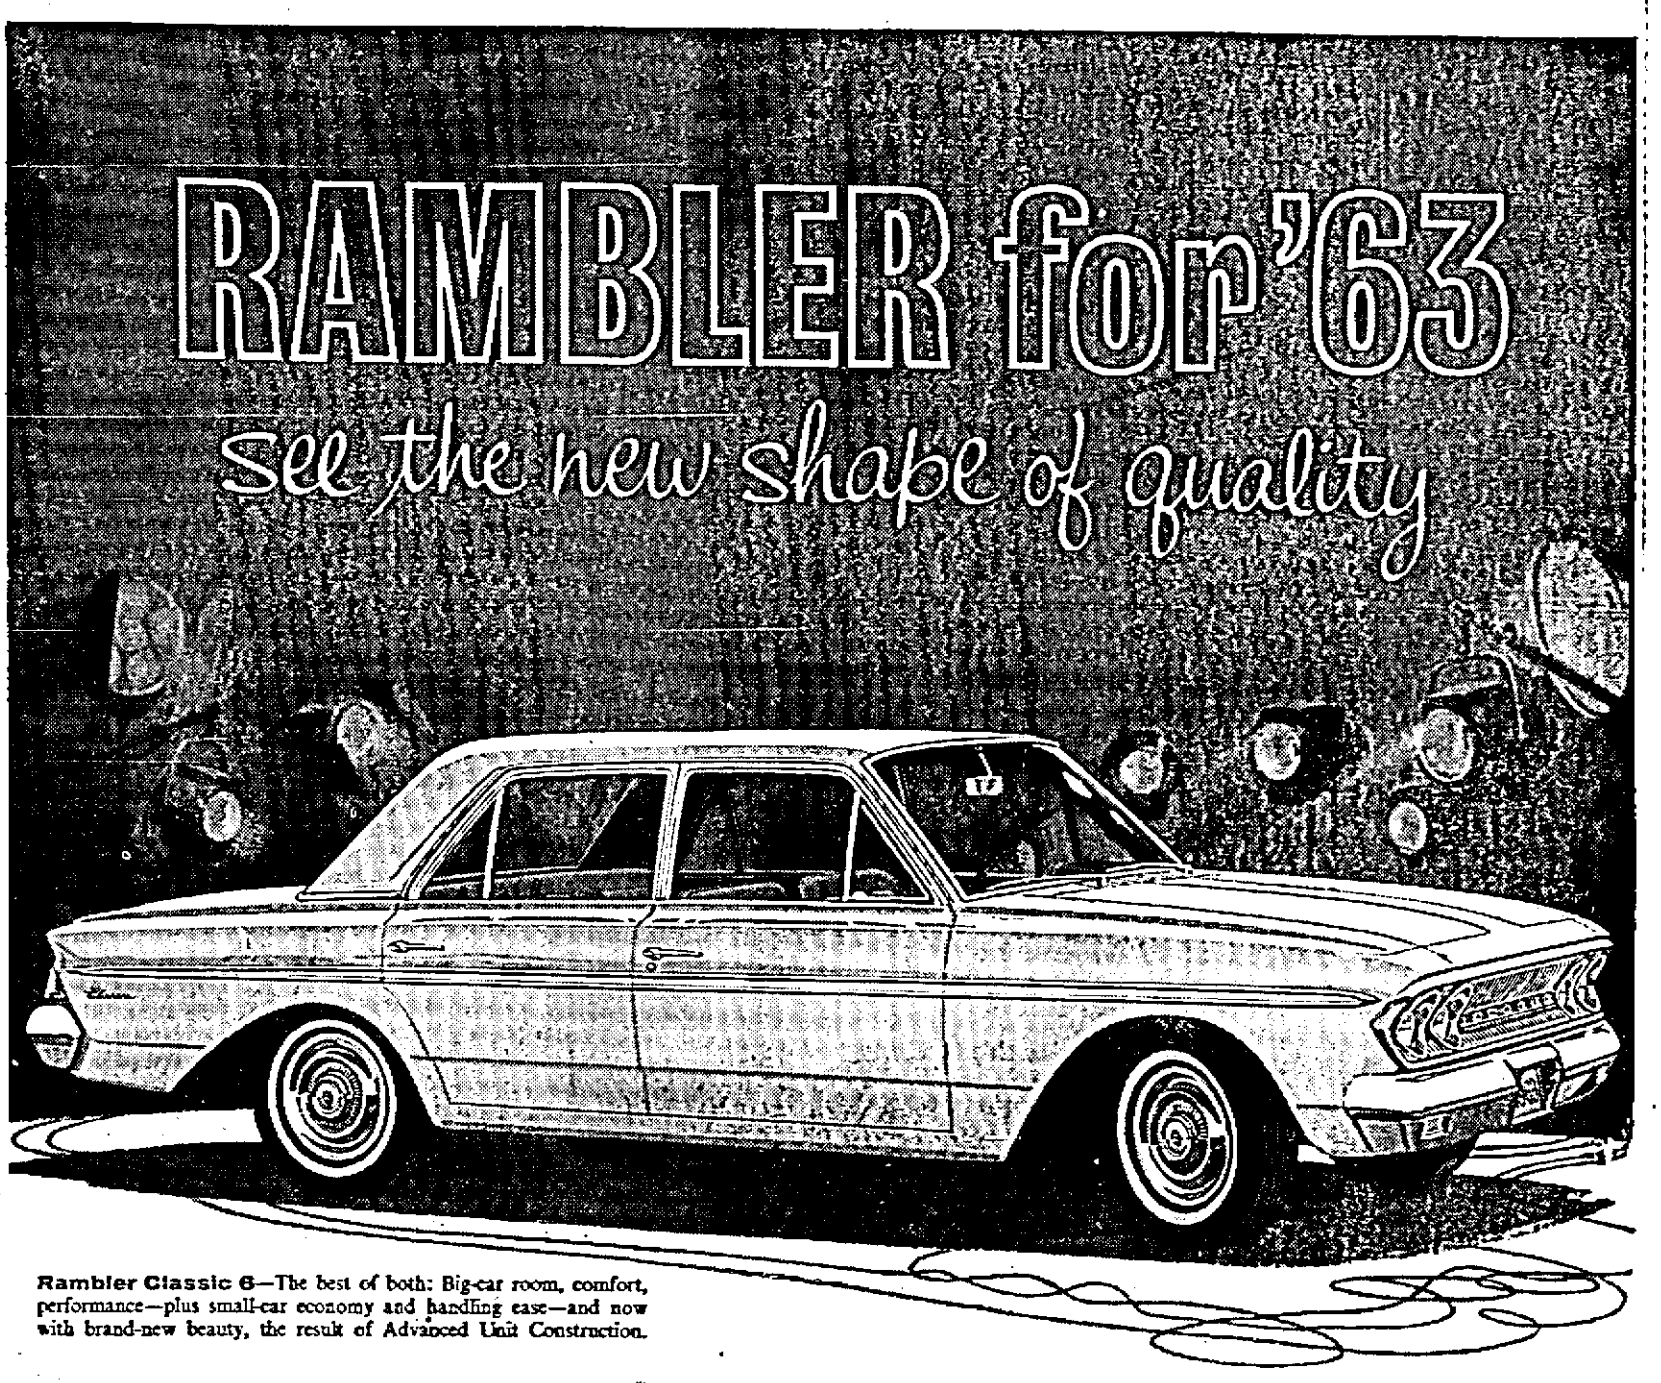

Passenger cars are now owned by 42 million households, or 77 per cent of all families. This is a rise from the 34.3 million households owning cars in 1954 which totaled 72.9 per cent of all households.

Pontiac's Grand Prix Is Most Distinctive

The custom-built 1963 Grand Prix sports coupe, the most distinctive series ever produced by Pontiac, is an idyllic combination of sports car appeal and superior performance.

The Grand Prix is a distinctively-styled luxury car which offers many exclusive extras not found on other models.

E. M. Estes, General Motors vice president and general manager of Pontiac Motor Division, describes the new model's appearance as suggestive of "quiet elegance" with simplicity as the keynote to its overall styling.

This theme is predominant in the sweeping grille with twin vertical head lamps flanked by impressive parking and turn signal lamps; crisply sculptured side panels and a concave rear window—an industry first.

* * * *

THESE FEATURES are accented by the clean-flowing lines of the rear styling that enhances the lower, wider longer look.

The Grand Prix sports coupe will be on display in the Long Beach Auto Show.

An immediate success when it made its debut last year, the new Grand Prix for 1963 follows the same trend of unadorned exterior styling to provide its own special personality. The Pontiac plaque with the letters "GP" is centered between the two deep and narrow air scoops that form the grille. The Grand Prix name appears in block letters on the front fenders and the traditional GP emblem is positioned far back on the rear fenders. Wheel house openings are outlined in bright metal trim and a generous rocker panel molding gives balance to tastefully executed moldings framing all glass areas.

The upper portion of the car is unique and exciting, with attention centered on a large, expansive concave rear window and an exceptionally thin roof profile, both exclusively Grand Prix.

* * * *

THE GRAND PRIX "going away look is just as refreshingly different as the front end view and is in strict keeping with the car's image. The rear end styling is strikingly simple and elegant with chrome trim used sparingly.

Unlike other Pontiac models, tail lamps are integrated into the rear end panel rather than being located in the fender and are not visible except when in use. The Pontiac plaque with the letters GP appears on the rear deck lid at top center near the rear and a GP emblem is placed at the lower right hand corner of the deck lid, both for unmistakable identity.

Fifteen different solid colors are offered in crylic lacquer exterior finishes. Pontiac's "fire leveled" paint assures an ore luxurious and durable finish.

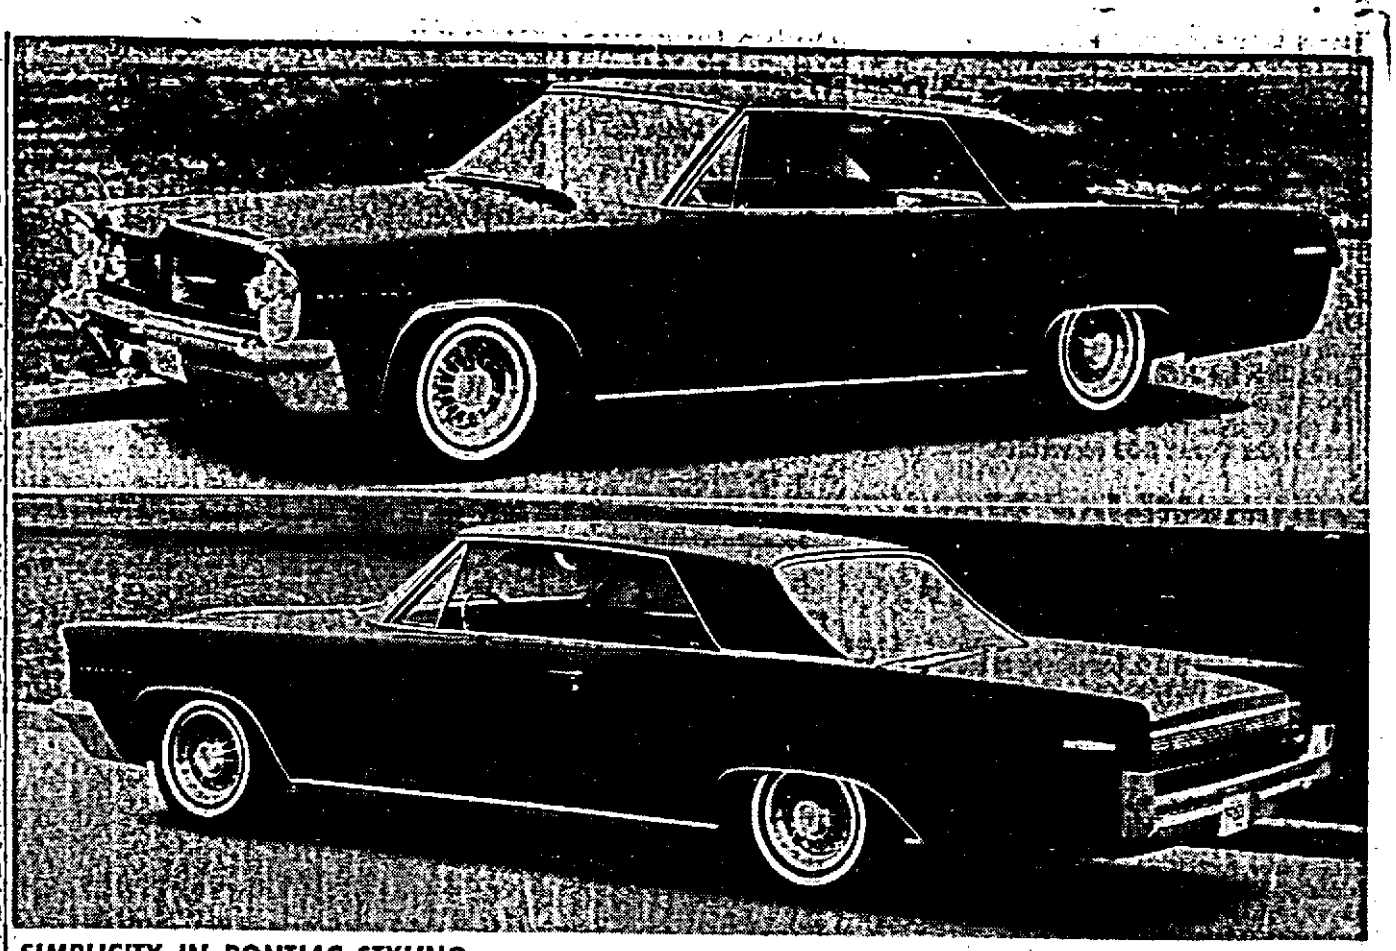

Grand Prix interiors are offered in solid colors and bucket seats are standard. Luxuriant expanded Morrokide is used for the interiors and the color selections have been increased to seven for better coordination with the large exterior color selection. The interior colors are black, red, dark aqua, dark blue and parchment with black, saddle or red components.

* * * *

OTHER FEATURES found in the Grand Prix include door emblems, generous nylon blend carpeting on lower door areas, decorative safety reflectors on door panels, a floor console with shift lever, rear courtesy lamp, tachometer or vacuum gauge and locker compartment; star pattern headlining and carpet covered cowl panels. Silver headlining combined with black interiors is new for 1963.

The Grand Prix's exclusiveness is far from being limited to styling alone. The standard power plant will be a premium fuel engine that mates top performance with sports car design. A wide range of engine options are also available and customers may select either automatic, four-speed synchromesh, or standard three-speed synchromesh transmission.

The Grand Prix offers other bonus items found on all Pontiac cars, including a long list of accessories and the many engineering improvements that have contributed so much to a smoother ride, easier handling and greater dependability.

SIMPLICITY IN PONTIAC STYLING

The custom-built 1963 Grand Prix is regarded as the most distinctive series ever produced by Pontiac. The styling theme of simplicity is predominant in the sweeping grille, with vertically arranged headlamps flanked by impressive parking and turn signal lamps; crisply sculptured side panels and a concave rear window—an industry first. These features are accented by the clean-flowing lines of the rear styling that enhances the lower, wider, longer look.

INTERIOR RESTYLED

The interior of the 1963 Rambler is dramatically restyled to match the new exterior. The instrument panel is designed with legibility, convenience of operation and safety in mind. Plushness extends from seat fabrics to floor coverings. Shown is the optional "Twin-Stick" floor shift model with console and bucket seats. Reclining seats, Lounge-Tilt seats and headrests are available as added comfort features.

New Ventilation System Offered

The 1963 Valiant offers an entirely new heater and fresh air ventilation system for all-weather comfort. For warm weather driving the ventilation system has approximately 40 per cent higher fresh air capacity than the previous system and distributes the air more effectively for passenger cooling.

AMONG NEW CADILLACS OFFERED
This is Cadillac's Eldorado Biarritz Convertible for 1963. Beneath its new look of greater size, the Biarritz includes Cadillac's new V-8 engine and silky smooth drive line.

Cadillac for '63 Has New Engine With Improved Type Drive Line

The Cadillac story for 1963 is one of increased size, significant engineering accomplishment with a new engine and drive line and still greater emphasis on comfort and convenience.

"Designed to leave no question as to its identity, the 1963 models say Cadillac from every angle," says Harold G. Warner, general manager of Cadillac and vice president of General Motors.

The 12 Cadillac models, one less than last year, will be well represented in the Long Beach Auto Show.

"Cadillac's 1963 look of greater size is a blending of clean unbroken side metal with bold and definite individual components such as the hood, front fenders, grille, head lamps and roofs," Warner explains.

Eleven models are one inch longer with nine of these 223 inches in over-all length. One, the single short deck sedan remaining in the line, is 15 inches and the two Series 75 models are 243.3 inches. Wheel base is unchanged on all models.

• • • •

TRADITIONALLY the top of the Cadillac line is the Fleetwood Sixty Special sedan and 1963 is no exception. Its distinguishing characteristics are its stately roof, stainless rocker moldings along the lower edge of the body, the grille treatment above the rear bumper and the specially styled interior.

Sharing the spotlight with the Sixty Special are the two-door models, the Coupe de Ville and the Series Sixty-Two coupe. Their new appearance is accomplished by a shortened roof line. The rear deck becomes seven inches longer, contributing to the long and low silhouette.

In the area of comfort and convenience an elegant new instrument panel is featured on all models, seating comfort is further improved with contoured and raised seat backs. Options such as an adjustable steering wheel, AM-FM radio and combined air conditioning and heater controls appear for the first time on a Cadillac.

The new instrument panel has even more padding and a functional grouping of instruments for greater convenience.

• • • •

COMPETING with exciting new interior and exterior innovations are the mechanical accomplishments in the 1963 Cadillac.

Heading this list in 1963 is a new engine. Lighter, more durable and more efficient, it features the use of the latest in metals for lightness and structure. Also featured is the grouping of accessories in one area for maximum ease of servicing in the field. The water pump, oil pump, distributor and oil filter are mounted in one neat package on the die cast aluminum front cover. Horsepower remains the same at 325, displacement at 390 and compression ration at 10.5 to 1, while the engine weight is reduced.

Another major engineering development for 1963 is the new drive line. A first in the industry, it features a double constant velocity joint assembly at the center, a similar joint at the rear axle and a U-joint at the transmission. This combination of constant velocity joints is insensitive to load or road variations and provides much greater durability.

Fiat's 1100 Special Good Value

Sondra Jones went shopping for a Fiat 1100 Special at Palmer Motors at 3300 Atlantic Ave. in Long Beach just as our photographer was focusing for a picture of the 1963 Italian import. Nice combination, don't you agree?

The new price of $1,498, p.o.e. New York, for the Fiat 1100 Special sets exceptional standards of value in the whole field, according to local dealer Van Palmer.

The Turin body styling of the 1100 Special features sleek lines and an all-round visibility through full windows on all sides.

The four-cylinder 1100 engine has a compression ratio of 7.85. It is notable not only for operating economy, but also for fast acceleration and a top speed of more than 80 miles per hour, says Palmer of Palmer Motors here.

The 1100 was first introduced in Italy by Fiat in 1938 and the current 1100 Special is the result of continuous improvements on a basically excellent economy car.

"Smart" car buyers vs. Wise car buyers

"Smart" car buyers will bargain long and hard to obtain their so-called "rock bottom" purchase price—then ignore "incidentals" like that interest rate on the balance.

Wise car buyers—with an eye to overall cost as well as "price"—also calculate their interest charges and wind up buying "cheaper"—without a hassle—with a low cost auto loan from F&M.*

Wise car buyers also like our one-stop, same-day service—requires only a purchase agreement from the auto agency giving data on the car of your choice, plus your completed loan application. The entire transaction usually takes about 30 minutes and you walk out with a purchase draft for your new or used car. No hidden charges . . . no red tape . . . insure with the agent of your choice.

Award Winning Rambler Will Be in Show

The 1963 Rambler, to be seen at the Long Beach Auto Show, has been named "Car of the Year" by the editors of Motor Trend, automobile magazine which annually tests and rates all U. S. cars. Rambler dealers were informed in a message from Thomas A. Coupe, American Motors' automotive sales vice president.

Motor Trend's award, recognized throughout the industry as the top honor which can be bestowed on a new car model, cites American Motors for "outstanding design achievement and engineering in the 1963 Rambler."

Charles E. Nerpel, Motor Trend editor, presented the "Car of the Year" trophy to Abernethy, president of American Motors, at a banquet held in Detroit.

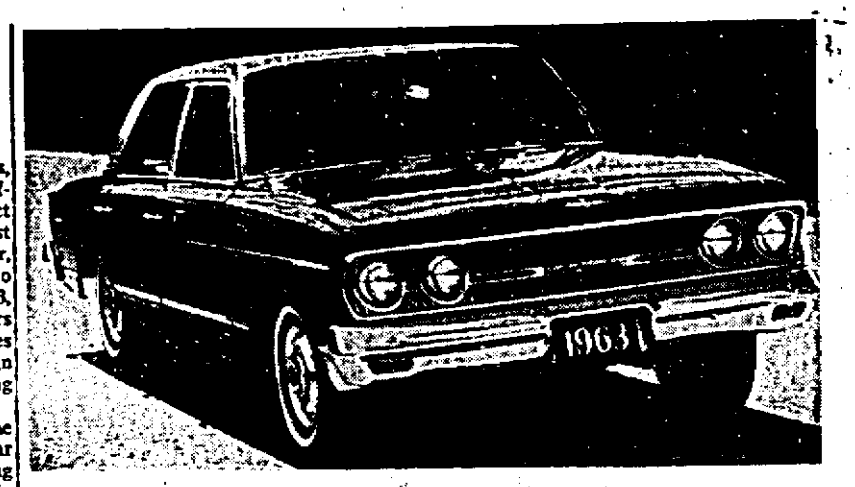

• • • •

IN MAKING the award Nerpel said: "Each year sees more and more engineering and styling advances from more auto makers and through more model lines, and each year it is more difficult to select the product that best shows the most progress in design. However, based on a close scrutiny to all features offered for 1963, American Motors' Ramblers are this year's best examples of outstanding design achievement and engineering leadership."

Abernethy termed the award to Rambler a "singular honor" and "most gratifying because it represents the objective viewpoint of qualified technical experts after comparative evaluation of all 1963 cars."

He pointed out that the selection as "Car of the Year" substantiates the opinion of American Motors executives and Rambler dealers that the 1963 Classic, Ambassador and American are outstanding in the vital consumer areas of performance, dependability, and value. "Motor Trend's recognition of these merits," he concluded, "will make the public more fully aware of the many benefits inherent in Rambler design."

The February issue of Motor Trend devotes 26 pages to the 1963 Rambler lines, with complete results of road tests on which the "Car of the Year" award is based. The report gives special praise to the advanced method of single-unit construction developed for the 1963 Rambler.

HEELS WON'T CATCH
The sharp edges of women's heels will not catch in or damage the floor mats in the 1963 Fords.

GALS ARE BUYERS, TOO

Ford Designs Cars to Please Women

Perfumed notes about broken finger nails, snagged high heels and "being a lady in waiting while my car is serviced every month" have found their way into the blueprints for 1963 cars.

"The ladies are polite, but firm in letting us know their special needs in an automobile," said Robert J. Eggert, manager of Ford Division's market research department, "and their voice gains importance in the car market every year."

"One out of every five car-owning households today is headed by a woman," said Eggert, "and in the millions of two- and three-car families, women are choosing their own personal automobiles. We believe that any automobile not designed with women in mind as well as men will miss more than 25 per cent of its potential customers."

• • • •

WOMEN'S SHOES are one special need cited by Eggert. The ladies pointed out that their high heels caught in the the accelerator pedal and that their spike heels marked the carpeting.

"This year, floor mats in the front of the car have been made in one piece to eliminate heel snagging," said Eggert, "and carpets in all Ford cars are strengthened with 20 per cent nylon to withstand greater wear."

"The problem of delicate fingernails and bouffant sleeves played a major part in the development of new paddle-type door handles," Eggert pointed out, "and the strain on ladies' fingers and nails was taken into consideration when we added cranks to operate vent windows on our 1963 Galaxies."

• • • •

WOMEN have an important voice in actual car models, too. In a Ford survey on convertibles taken 18 months ago, 6,000 women (many of them career girls) revealed a distinct liking for a "personal-sized car with bucket seats, offering good gas mileage" and "easy to drive."

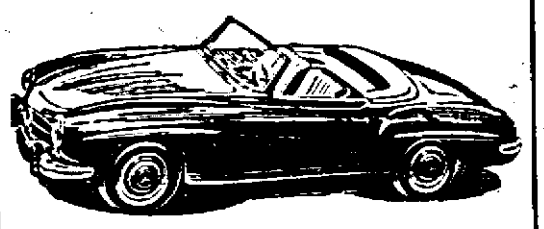

"There is no question," Eggert said, "that this survey influenced our decision to produce a compact convertible which we are offering in the Falcon line for 1963. And we are offering power steering on the entire Falcon line this year to give the ladies a 'car that is easy to drive'."

• • • •

WOMEN might not guess that they have also had an influence on the mechanical side of car design as well

Crisp, Elegant Look Given Chrysler Cars

The 1963 Chrysler cars at the Long Beach Auto Show will have an entirely new and crisp look of elegance described by design authorities in other fields as embodying the best in contemporary design.

They have a new body structure, new brakes, new engine options, new economy features, new interiors and new improved passenger roominess, safety and comfort.

They retain the traditional size of previous Chryler cars. There are no compact versions in the line.

Also new for 1963 is a warranty, for five years or 50,000 miles, whichever comes first, to cover the major power train components on all 1963 Chrysler automobiles.

• • • •

THE PLANNING of the 1963 Chryslers began in 1959. Before starting initial styling work that year, the firm's designers and product planners decided upon a new method of achieving good taste, elegance and comfort in automotive design. They sought the opinions of contemporaries in other fields of design, including fashion, architecture and furniture. Two panels of experts presented their views to Chrysler officials in the summer and fall of 1959.

Three years later the finished product, the 1963 Chrysler, was shown to the same group of design authorities.

"We found a high degree of approval of what we had accomplished," says R. M. Rodger, director of product for the Chrysler line. "The fashion and design people feel that is a clear relationship between our styling and contemporary styling in high fashion and other areas of design."

• • • •

CHRYSLER RETAINS its model line-up which proved so successful in 1962. The Newport, a full-sized, lower priced car, is offered as a 4-door sedan, 2 and 4-door hardtop, convertible coupe and 6 and 9-passenger station wagon. The 300 series, a popular entry in the growing performance sports car market, is available in three body styles: 2 and 4-door hardtops and a convertible coupe.

The New Yorker, built for the motorist who wants the ultimate in medium price car luxury, is available as a 4-door sedan, a 4-door hardtop and 6 and 9-passenger station wagons.

There is also a 300J, an unique combination of top performance and smart styling.

Uncluttered, sharp lines impart a crisp, custom tasteful richness to the 1963 Chrysler. The car has a new distinctive single roof panel for both sedans and hardtop models. Another styling feature of the Chrysler is the wide C-pillars and limousine-type rear window.

• • • •

EACH OF THE THREE Chrysler models has its own individualized grille. The Newport features an aluminum stamping with vertical lattice work; the 300 has an impressive crossed bar design with the "300" medallion in the center, and the New Yorker is a die-cast frame with a vertical centerpiece from which aluminum insert bars extend on either side. Horizontally arranged headlamps replace the canted headlamps of the past three years.

Chrysler interiors are significantly new for 1963. There is a totally new instrument panel, new high-quality, appearance-improved seat materials and designs, and roomier interiors on two-door body models.

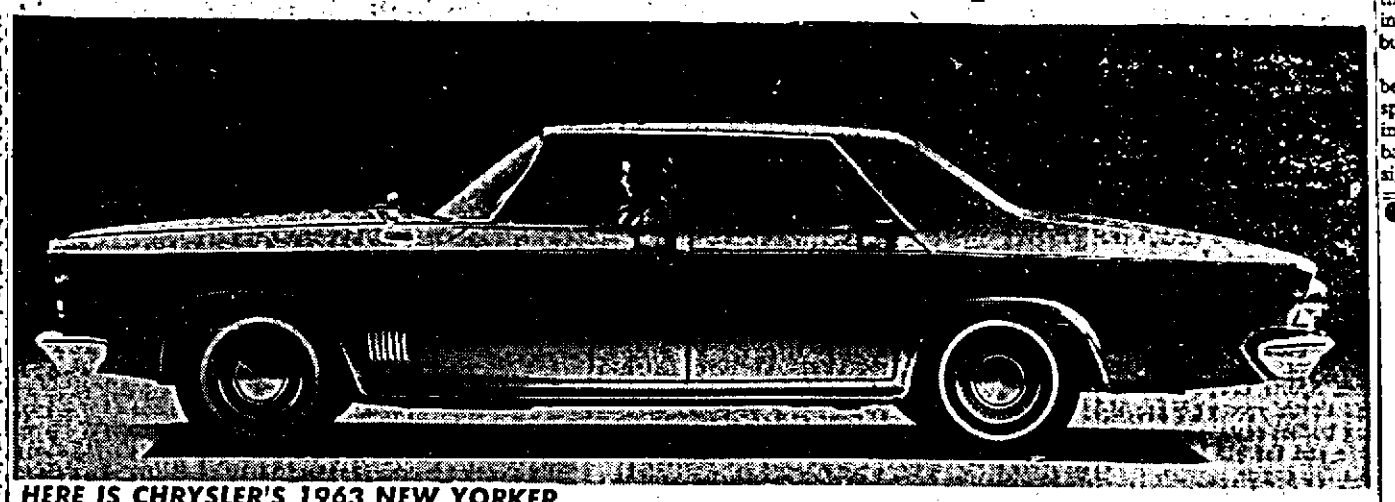

The simplicity of the new instrument panel styling complements the graceful exterior styling. Instruments have been grouped for maximum ease of reading by the driver. Two new features are introduced on the instrument panel for 1963—a trip odometer and passenger assist handle. Both are standard equipment.

Seat and door panel designs are new, and fabric colors and patterns are enhanced for 1963. The luxury of soft garnish is the feature of all door panels this year. Individually adjustable bucket seats with a fixed center section and folding arm rest are standard on 300 convertibles and two-door hardtops and on New Yorker station wagons.

• • • •

THE POWERPLANT FOR the Newport is the 361-cubic-inch V-8 with two-barrel carburetor.

A new optional engine is being offered for the 300 sports series. It is a 413 cubic inch V-8 with a single four-barrel carburetor. It is designed for outstanding performance plus smooth and economical operation. The new powerplant provides more power at high speeds and greater agility at low speeds. It has a high performance camshaft, special valve springs and dampers and large dual exhausts.

HERE IS CHRYSLER'S 1963 NEW YORKER

Crisp, elegant styling with emphasis on clean, flowing lines gives the 1963 Chrysler a completely new appearance. Along with its fashionable new look, the Chrysler has new body structure, new brakes, new engine options, new economy features, new interiors and new, improved passenger roominess, comfort and safety. Here is the 1963 New Yorker four-door hardtop, one of 14 models in six body styles in four series: the New Yorker, 300, Newport and 300J.

Better Humidity Control in Car

The popularity of the air conditioning option continues to grow and in 1962 reached a record high. For 1963 Cadillac has adopted a combined type of heating and air conditioning system which employs air volume modulation for closer regulation of temperature. It responds faster and does an even better job of humidity control.

Another important Cadillac comfort feature offered for the first time in the 1963 models as an option is a steering wheel adjustable to six different positions.

DODGE CUSTOM 880

Dodge's medium-price Custom 880 for 1963 combines big-car luxury and performance with economical operation and moderate initial cost. The Custom 880, built on a 122-inch wheelbase, offers six hardtop, sedan, convertible and station wagon models. Three lower-priced 880 models are also available.

BUILT-IN LUXURY

The luxurious fabrics and interior appointments in 1963 motor cars this year are outstanding. For example this Oldsmobile 98 luxury sedan has satin-finish fabric, built-in door armrests housing the power window controls, center arm rests and assist grips mounted on the back of the front seat to aid entry and exit.

2 New Models Among 26 Shown by Oldsmobile

Oldsmobile's dazzling display at the Long Beach Auto Show highlights its 1963 line of 26 exciting new models, designed to meet the varied wants and needs of the California family.

Ranging from the longer-looking F-85 to the elegant new 98 Luxury Sedan, the 1963 Oldsmobile introduces a fresh, youthful styling approach, a greater distinctiveness between each series, and many important advances for the safety, comfort and convenience of driver and passengers.

At the top of the line, Olds has added two totally new models to the 98 series, the Luxury Sedan and the Custom Sports Coupe. Designed for the "carriage trade," the richly-appointed Luxury Sedan features a custom interior trim with front and rear seat center arm rests and built-in assist grips on the back of the front seats. The 98 Custom Sports Coupe is a sophisticated sports car providing bucket seats, power console and the 345 horsepower Starfire engine.

• • • •

OLDS ALSO offers a wide selection of other models for the sports car-minded Californian, including the new Starfire Coupe and Convertible, the F-85 Cutlass Coupe and Convertible and the turbo-charged Jetfire.

Powered by the 345 horsepower Starfire engine, the Starfire is a full-size sports car with Hydra-Matic, power brakes, power steering, bucket seats, power console and tachometer as standard equipment. F-85 Cutlass convertibles and Coupes are powered by the 195 hp Cutlass engine and include bucket seats as standard.

• • • •

OLDSMOBILE'S Rocket engine, rated at 250 horsepower with two-barrel carburetor and 10.25 to 1 compression ratio, is standard on the Dynamic 88. The Super 88 and most 98 models are equipped with the Skyrocket engine, developing 330 horsepower with the Rockette aluminum V-8 155 horsepower engine with a compression ratio of 8.75 to 1.

West Coast drivers will be especially interested in two new Oldsmobile features for 1963, an adjustable tilt-type steering wheel and an exclusive positive crankcase ventilation system.

Optional on all full-size Oldsmobiles equipped with power steering, "Tilt-Away" permits the driver to position the steering wheel at whatever angle best suits him. He may select any one of seven positions, while the car is in motion, and also tilt it to its most vertical angle for easier entry and exit.

• • • •

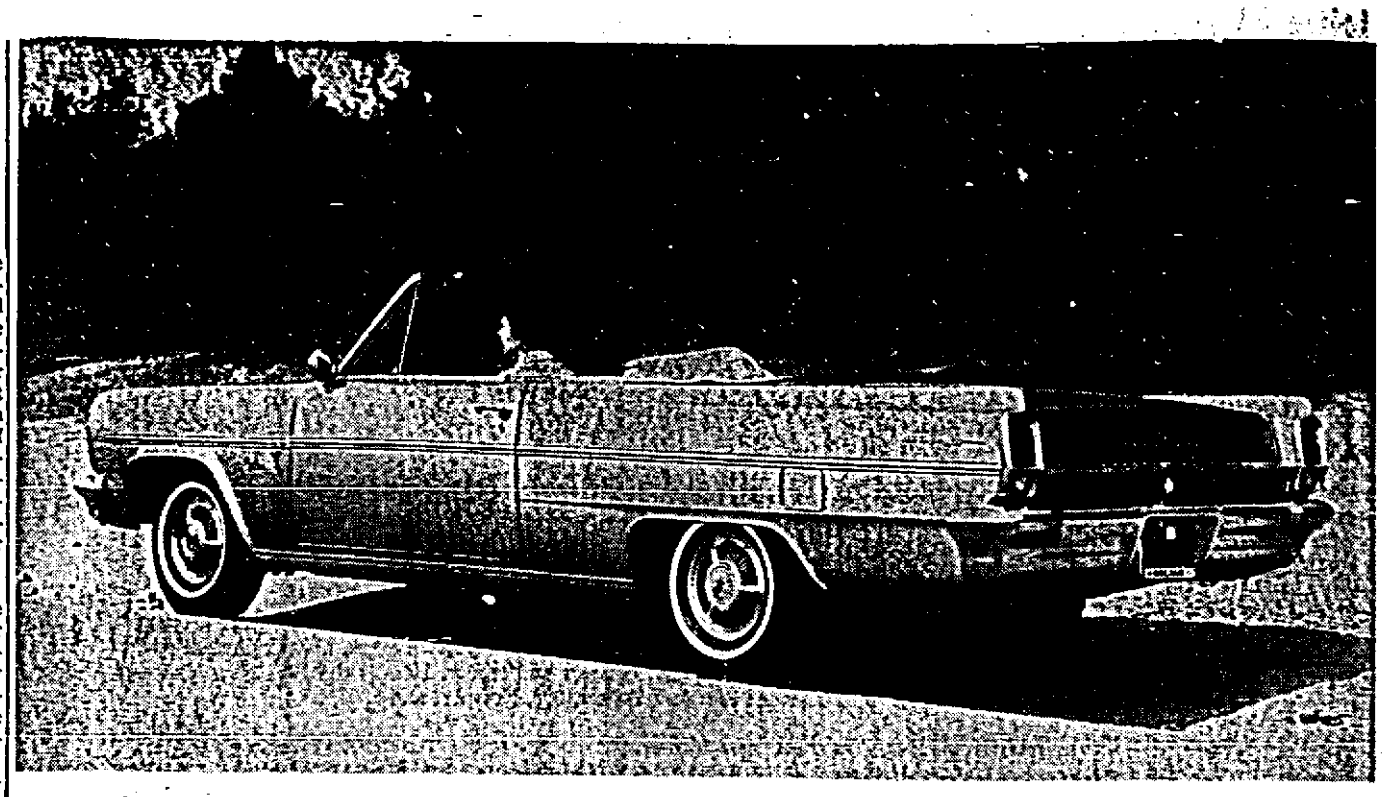

STANDARD on all '63 models, Oldsmobile's exclusive crankcase ventilation system controls crankcase fumes from the engine by a dual-action valve. At idle and at low speeds, the valve remains closed and all the mixture is routed directly into the carburetor throttle body. At higher speeds, the valve opens, and the fumes are divided, part through the throttle body, with the major portion routed directly into the air cleaner intake snorkel, where it is refiltered and mixed with the outside air entering the carburetor.

Among other new features standard on all 1963 Oldsmobiles are self-adjusting brakes a Delcotron generator to increase charging at idle speeds, a door interlock system and a "positive pilot" turn signal system.

Inside, there are many other improvements, including a single control unit for the heating, ventilating and air conditioning systems. All 1963 radios are transistorized and an AM-FM radio is also optional this year.

Contributing further to passenger safety, a new custom deluxe steering wheel has soft padding added to the spokes while control knobs are recessed in the new padded instrument panel.

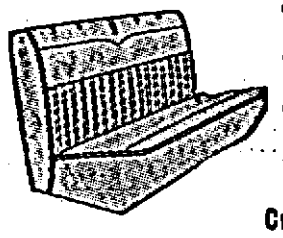

In addition to cornering better, due to improvements in sway control, the 1963 Olds provides greater maneuverability because the turning diameter has been reduced approximately three feet.

OLDSMOBILE'S NEW CUTLASS CONVERTIBLE

One of many sports-type models in Oldsmobile's 1963 line, the F-85 Cutlass convertible is powered by the 195-hp. Cutlass V-8 engine and equipped with bucket seats. A center console is an extra-cost option. Overall length of the F-85 has been increased four inches this year.

VALIANT HAS NEW STYLING

Simplicity in styling of the 1963 Valiant is evident in this rear three-quarter view of the V-200 four-door sedan which reveals smooth and uncluttered lines. The large back window extends down to the beltline to provide superior driver rearward vision. Two new convertibles have been added to line in 1963 to fill out a complete range of nine body styles in three series.

Valiant for 1963 Is Offering Many Advances in Engineering

Valiant, the low priced compact of Chrysler Corp., has completely new styling for 1963.

It is 2.2 inches longer and is sleeker in appearance than previous models. For the first time this year Valiant offers a convertible with either a power or manually operated top.

"The 1963 Valiant re-emphasizes its reputation as the value leader in the low-price compact field," says C. E. Briggs, vice president of Chrysler Motors Corp. and general manager of the Chrysler-Plymouth Division. "We are convinced that the 1963 Valiant is the best all-around compact anybody has come up with yet."

• • • •

VALIANT FOR 1963 has a new warranty for five years or 50,000 miles, whichever comes first, on the major power train components including engine, transmission, propeller shaft and universal joint and rear axle. This makes Valiant first in the compact car class to offer such extended owner protection.

To bring about the many significant engineering advances in the 1963 Valiant, the car was subjected to one of the most comprehensive testing programs in the history of the automobile industry. During its development, the Valiant was put through more than a half million miles of engineering road testing to establish its high degree of durability and reliability.

As in 1962, the new Valiant offers two engines. Its 170-cu. in. inclined six is the biggest standard engine in its field. The peppy Super 225-cu. in. six is optional.

• • • •

OVERALL LENGTH has been increased 2.2 inches, while width at the rear bumper is reduced 1.6 inches.

The new Valiant look is highlighted by a broad front-end treatment featuring, for the first time since 1957 on Chrysler cars, single headlights.

Front bumpers are mounted higher on the car and supported well away from the sheet metal to provide maximum impact protection. Circular parking lights located below the bumper have the new amber lenses.

• • • •

THE SIDE PROFILE of the 1963 Valiant has distinctive, clean lines. The new Valiant has a broad flat hood with an identifying medallion in the center of the hood brow.

From the rear, Valiant has an all-new look characterized by a lower belt line beneath the rear window and a sloping deck, flanked by sharp-ridged quarter panels.

Inside, Valiant introduces a new keystone shaped instrument cluster which affords better visibility.

The inner door panels have a clean look of neatness and are styled to complement the door trim panels which are painted to match the instrument panels.

For maximum wear and appearance quality, exterior gloss enamel is used on all interior painted surfaces.

Variety of British Cars Seen in Show

More than half of all the sports cars sold in the United States bear the British Motor Corp. label. BMC cars are imported into this country by Hambro Automotive Corp and sold through more than 650 dealers throughout the country.

The leading manufacturer of automobiles in Great Britain, BMC is aiming at an annual production rate of 1,000,000 vehicles. It is one of the largest industrial firms outside the United States and is one of the world's major automobile manufacturers.

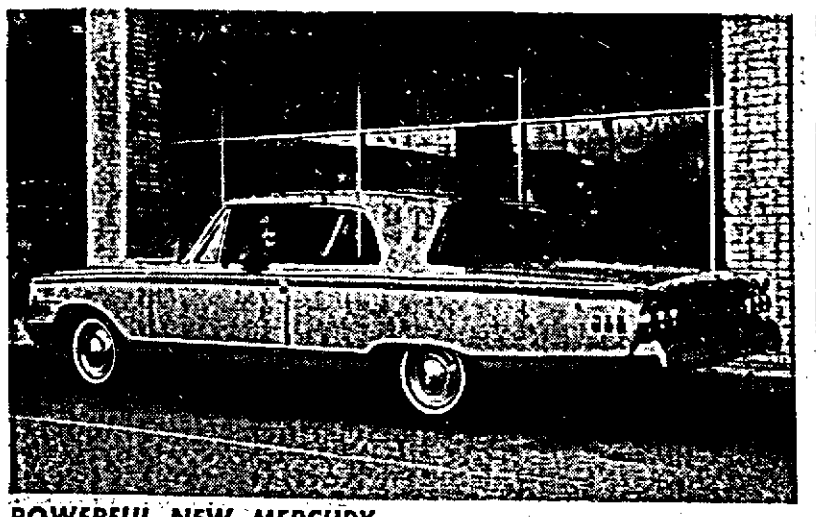

It was formed in 1952 by the merger of the Austin Motor Co. and Morris Motors, Ltd., both of whose roots were deep in the pioneering days of the British auto industry.

Hambro, sole U.S. importer for BMC's cars, had its beginnings as Hambro Trading Co. in 1948. It brought in and sold a wide range of British goods—from food products to motorcycles. It also dealt in Morris and MG cars.

Because it was handling such a wide range of unrelated items, Hambro Trading Co. found it was spreading its sales efforts too thin. It was decided to concentrate all its efforts in one area, and, in 1955, Hambro Automotive Corp. was formed. A. E. Birt is the founding president of Hambro Automotive Corp.

BMC has gone from a production of 276,758 cars annually to the current rate of about 750,000. It has 80,000 employes, 15 factories in Britain and 30 assembly plants throughout the world. POWERFUL NEW MERCURY

With more power and higher performance and styling changes, here is the Mercury Monterey for 1963. A unique, reverse-slope rear window which goes up and down, virtually eliminates visibility problems caused by ice, snow, rain or frost. The 390 Marauder V-8 engine now becomes standard. The completely restyled Monterey also has a new concave grille, new quarter panels and triple taillights. Pictured is the Monterey Custom.

Increased Power for Mercury's Monterey

Increased power and performance and dramatic new styling highlight the Mercury Monterey for 1963.

Mercury's big car entry, the Monterey, features a unique reverse-sloped rear window and roof line that sets it apart from all other American cars.

The new rear window has important functional advantages as well as styling appeal. It slants inward and virtually eliminates visibility problems caused by rain, snow, frost or ice. The window is power operated, and provides excellent ventilation when opened. The new roof allows more than half an inch of additional rear seat headroom.

In addition to the new roof line, the exterior of the Monterey is completely restyled. All major sheet metal and ornamentation is new. The front features a new bumper and concave grille. Quarter panels, rear bumper and triple tail lights are new. Canted blade-type fenders extend the length of the car, and add crispness to the styling.

• • • •

TO GIVE MORE POWER and performance, the 390-Maurauder V-8 is now the standard engine on the Monterey. Six-clinder and smaller V-8 engines are no longer available on Monterey. The standard 390 cubic-inch engine with two-barrel carburetor is rated at 250 horsepower and uses regular fuel. With fourbarrel option, the enginee is rated at 300 horsepower. Both 390-engines may be equipped with dual range Merc-O-Matic transmission and the fully synchronized four-speed floor-mounted manual transmission. A newly designed fully synchonized three-speed manual transmission is available on the standard 390-engine.

For those desiring even higher performance, a Mercury Marauder 406 V-8 engine is available as an option. The 406-cubic-inch engine is rated at 385 horsepower with a four-barrel carburetor and at 405 horsepower with a six-barrel carburetor. The 406 engines are available only with the four-speed, floor-mounted manual transmission.

THE DECISION to make the 390-Marauder engine standard on the 1963 Monterey was prompted by the large percentage of V-8 engines ordered on the 1962 models, according to Ben D. Mills, Ford Motor Co. vice president and general manager of Lincoln-Mercury Division.

"The desire to more lively performance is not for speed alone," Mr. Mills said. "More and more drivers are seeking an added margin of power for high speed passing, emergencies and more efficient operation under turnpike driving conditions. These engines are designed to give added performance for these driving situations."

An alternator is standard equipment in place of the conventional DC generator.

• • • •

MANY ENGINEERING advances reduce the cost of car maintenance. In addition to the many service-saving features which have been introduced on the Monterey in the past two years, such as 6,000-mile oil change and minor lubrication, 30,000-mile major lubrication, 30,000-mile fuel filter and two-year or 36,000-mile radiator coolant, the 1963 Monterey will offer:

—Elimination of the 1,000-mile inspection.

—Extension of the major chassis lubrication interval from 30,000 miles to 36,000 miles.

—Longer-life battery.

"Cushion-Link suspension, which has earned the Monterey a reputation for a soft, plush ride, is improved for 1963. The suspension permits the wheels to move rearward as well as upward to isolate the passengers from road harshness.

All Montereys are equipped with an anti-smog crankcase emission reduction system.

Dodge Offers Model Variety

The 119-inch-wheelbase Dodge for 1963 is offered in 24 different six- and eight-cylinder models.

Here is the Dodge model lineup: six 4-door sedans, five 2-door hardtops, four 2-door sedans, three 6-passenger station wagons, three 9-passenger wagons, one 4-door hardtop and two convertible models.

Amber Turn Lights on 1963 Model Cars

Amber colored front turn signals will be one of the features on 1963 U.S. motor vehicles.

The change from the white lights in present usage results from an industry-wide project started in 1958 to re-evaluate all motor vehicle lighting and signaling components.

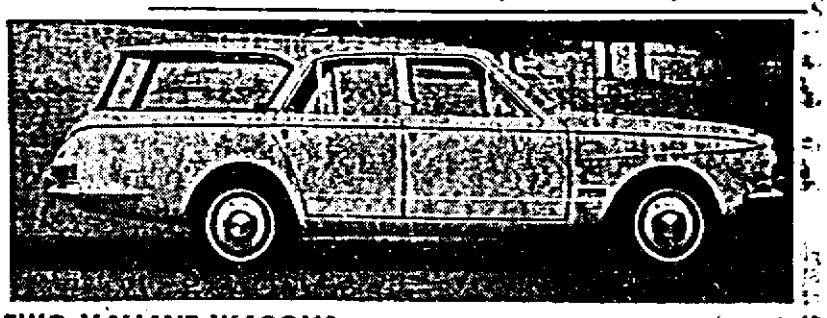

• • • •

ENGINEERS from lamp and vehicle manufacturers taking part in the project found that amber turn signals were more easily seen than white against glaring reflections and provided greater contrast against headlamps at night. Tests were conducted in different parts of the country under a variety of light and weather conditions.

Findings were reported to state motor vehicle officials in 1959 with the suggestion that laws in 25 states restricting the use of amber front turn signals be amended. The necessary action was taken by the state legislature during the past three sessions making the change possible on 1963 models.

V-8 Power Unit in Plymouth

The high performance engine for the 1963 Plymouth is a 383-cubic-inch Golden Commando—V-8 power plant with 4-barrel carburetor, dual exhausts, high-performance camshaft, dual breaker distributor and other special features. Increased displacement provides higher output through the whole speed range than last year's 361-cubic-inch engine with 4-barrel carburetor. Through-gear acceleration from zero to 60 m.p.h. is improved a good 9 per cent.

TWO VALIANT WAGONS

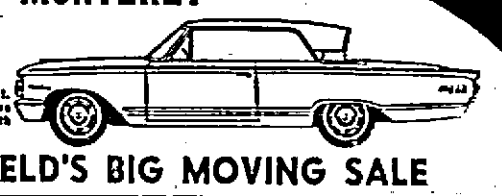

Everything about the 1963 Valiant station wagon seems to say "let's go." The station wagon, offered in both the V-100 and V-200 series, has many new styling features, some of them exclusive to this body style.

Thunderbird Is Big Medicine in Famous Mexican Resort

4,000 B. C. SUN BATHS
Sun-air-water baths in three-inch deep form-fitting depressions are copied from ancient Sumarian civilization 4,000 B. C. Circulation and metabolism are increased by the stimulus.

A LEVEL RIDE
Mexican servientas demonstrate Thunderbird's level ride by carrying heavily loaded trays perfectly balanced on their heads. They even do the twist with tray in balance.

By BILL EMERY

THUNDERBIRD noun: An enormous bird believed to produce thunder by flapping its wings, lightning by opening and closing its eyes and rain by allowing a huge lake to run off its back: common to the folklore of the North American Indians of the Plains.

Thunderbird — Gallant personal car of many moods.

Names convey images and the T-Bird, or "Bird" as it is affectionately known in all circles, seems to have a universal image of esteem. It is luxury married to campatability.

We found the beautiful new Thunderbird motorlog car most compatable on an interesting week-end trip to Rancho La Puerta, the famous health resort near Tecate, Mexico.

Ralph Brown, general manager for Mel Burns Ford at 2000 Long Beach Blvd., gave us the keys to a cheerful red "Bird" with its tank full and we were off to Rancho La Puerta from our Westminster home by 6 p.m. Friday.

After a delicious seafood dinner at San Diego's famed Harbor House, we crossed the Mexican border at Tijuana and followed Hiway 2 past the race track and on toward Tecate.

Some thirty miles east of Tijuana and three miles short of Tecate, America's largest health vacation resort sprawls over 50 acres at an altitude of 2,000 feet in a sun-lit clear and beautiful near-perfect climate.

Rancho La Puerta accommodates 180 guests with a staff of over 100 to see that you are well taken care of. The accommodations are delightfully spacious and remote. Our cottage, Casa Mazail, with three walls of picture windows and corner fireplace was as relaxing as an individual ranch home.

Professor Edmond Bordeaux Szekely, a French archeologist, found himself stranded from his publisher's resources in 1940 following the German invasion of France while he was in Mexico writing books on the Toltex and other ancient civilizations.

From the sale of a few mimeographed lectures, the Professor and his wife Deborah parlayed his knowledge of the most beneficial ways of life of the world's ancient civilizations into America's largest health and vacation resort.

Their motto: "It costs so little to feel so good" is the key to the resort's success. Jessica Simmons, personable and pretty recreational director, scheduled our activities for Saturday and Sunday.

For the early arisers, there are early morning hikes, yoga breathing and wake-up exercises followed by a vegetarians' breakfast of the most wholesome and healthful foods. Next, there are other exercises in walking, stretching, etc. We had a one hour facial massage.

Following a gourmet vegetarian lunch (which curbed our appetites quite sufficiently until the evening meal) we went horseback riding on highly spirited mounts that made our ensuing massage a blessing to look forward to.

After the evening meal, we were ready to retire by the fireplace and relax, although "fun with dancing" was on the agenda.

Sunday, we had another facial and this timee I also tried the herbal hydrotherapy packs wrapped an hour in linen blankets dipped in oils.

Since most people come and stay four days to several months, the activities planned are endless and varied, and way too numerous to cover in their entirety.

One thing we did notice upon our arrival, the ranch's general manager — Deborah Szekely was also driving a Thunderbird. This was her third Bird, she informed us. She preferred the Landau model hardtop . . . fully equipped.

The Thunderbird was one of the best riding, easiest driving cars we've had the pleasure of driving.

The '63 models incorporates more than 2,500 engineering and design changes readied over the last 18 months according to Mel Burns who also notes that the Thunderbird is the most changed car he has to offer for 1963.

Mel, who just returned from a Thunderbird meeting in Detroit hosted by Ford Motor Co. for the top 100 of the nation's 6,800 dealers, opened his Ford line dealership in 1947 with a total of six personnel. Today, he employs 100 with five times the facilities offering 44 models in the Ford line.

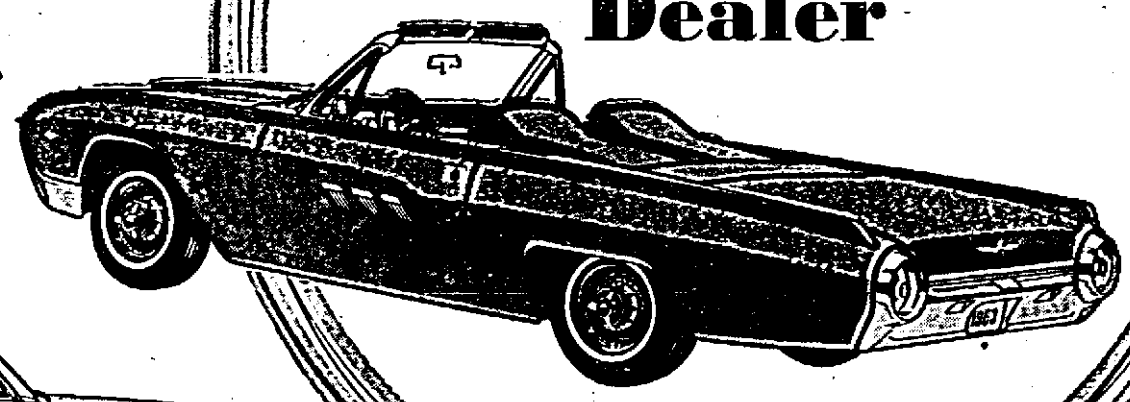

From an annual sales volume of $200,000 in 1947, Mel Burns Ford mushroomed to record $6 million in 1962.

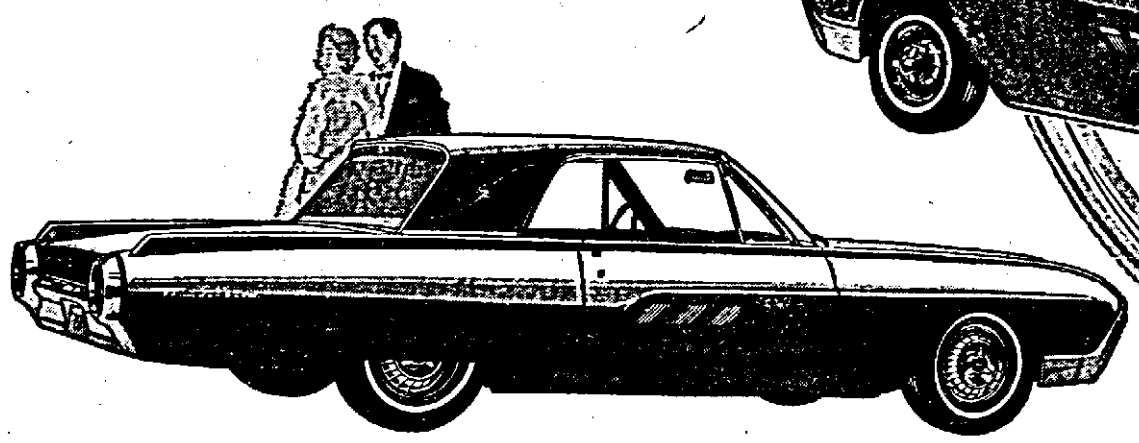

A ten minute test drive of this car in particular would demonstrate the affection that is so contagious among T-Bird owners and admirers. Thunderbird is today's folklore for tomorrow's dictionary.

BUICK SPECIAL FOR 1963

The Buick Special, top selling car in its class, has been completely restyled for 1963 with long, flowing lines and more massive bumpers both front and rear to give it a big-car look. Nearly four inches have been added to the rear fenders to give the car a more tailored appearance. Self-adjusting brakes and the new Delcotron alternator generator are among the engineering refinements in the new Specials.

SKYLARK INCREASED IN SIZE

Luxury and maneuverability are combined in the Buick Skylark for 1963 with its neatly tailored lines and the more massive front end styling. The Skylark, one of the finest cars in the medium-size class, comes in two body styles, a two-door hardtop and a two-door convertible. Powered by an aluminum V-8 engine with a four-barrel carburetor, the Skylark has been increased in size by adding nearly four inches to the rear fenders, giving it a big-car look. Smart interiors come in either all vinyl or a combination of vinyl and cloth. Also optional is a vinyl overlay on the roof which gives it the appearance of a convertible. A three-speed synchromesh transmission is standard on the Skylark and a four-speed floor-mounted transmission or the dual-path automatic are offered as options.

Buick's '63 Models Appeal to Buyers

Buick closed out 1962 with retail deliveries totaling approximately 415,000 cars, it's most successful year since 1956, Edward D. Rollert, general manager of Buick and vice president of General Motors, reported.

Retail sales for the last quarter of the year were the best since 1955, Buick's all-time record year, he stated.

Deliveries for the second 10 days of December amounted to 13,540 cars, an increase of 17 per cent over the same period last year. This pushed Buick's deliveries for the year to 401,518 cars as of Dec. 20, up 41 per cent over 1961.

* * * *

THIS MARKS the first time in six years that Buick sales have exceeded the 400,000 mark.

"Our retail deliveries for the last quarter of 1962 — since our new models were about 128,000 cars, the second most successful fourth quarter Buick has ever recorded," Rollert said.

"This is indicative of the tremendous public acceptance of our new models and provides a sound base upon which to start the new year. Sold orders from our dealers continue to pour in at a rapid rate and as yet we have not been able to build up a normal new car inventory," he continued.

* * * *

"WITH THE EXCEPTION of downtime for the 1963 model changover, all 18,000 of Buick's employes—a record high employment for the past five years — have worked steadily throughout 1962," Rollert said.

Southern California Buick dealers reported a total of 858 cars sold during the second ten days of December, according to Charles A. Speight, Los Angeles Zone Manager. Of these, 483 were regular-size Buicks and 375 were Specials. This represents an increase of 33.4% over the same period in 1961. Los Angeles zone sales to date represent an increase of 67.3% for 1962 over 1961. Speight added.

Models of the 1963 Buick will be displayed at the Long Beach auto show.

At this location bank customers may complete their banking transactions without leaving their cars. Metal trays extend from the teller units to the customers car window. Individual customers as well as owners and operators of business firms enjoy the time-saving advantages of this system, as well as its safety feature. Users of this service eliminate the potential hazards to be found in parking, then walking some distance to a bank.

* * * *

ALSO AT 235 Locust Ave., for customers who have business at the main office located nearby, protected-parking is available in the bank's enclosed parking garage. The bank parking attendant parks each car and it is quickly available to the customer upon his return.

Currently, many people are using these parking facilities while they go to the main office to take advantage of exceptionally good new-car auto loans now being made by this bank. First National City Bank of Long Beach is financing purchases of 1963 cars at 4½ per cent (4½ per cent is also referred to as $4.50/$100 year). Auto loans applications receive prompt attention and loans may be received for period up to 36 months. Used cars are financed, too, at attractive rates.

* * * *

ALL THE BANKS customers (Savings, Commercial, Safe Deposit, Escrow, Loan Department, etc.) receive the careful, personal attention of a capable staff of Home Town Bankers.

Directing the affairs of First National City Bank of Long Beach are the following members of its Board of Directors:

These men, all long time residents of Long Beach and active in its civic affairs, direct the bank' policy of providing friendly personal service in the finest tradition of a home-town bank.

Safety Door Lock

Rear door lock buttons in the 1963 Dodge Dart must be pulled up before the door can be opened. This feature assures maximum protection for children riding in the back seat.

Chevrolet Has 33 Models in Four Different Lines

Chevrolet—with an all-time industry sales record for 1962—believes its 1963 models will win a similar customer vote of confidence.

It offers for 1963 a total of 33 new models in four distinctive lines of cars—each aimed at a specific segment of the market. While the new models have a variety of improvements, there is no advance in Chevrolet prices.

A significant advance is the extension of the warranty to 24 months or 24,000 miles. This doubles the time and mileage of the previous warranty.

For 1963, significant styling changes have been made in the regular Chevrolets while the Chevy II and the Corvair have continued their unique automotive personalities. The Corvette sports car has two entirely new bodies and a new chassis.

* * * *

ALL 1963 MODELS have a positive crankcase ventilation system. Taking the four families of Chevrolet passenger cars one at a time, here are their styling and engineering features:

REGULAR CHEVROLETS—The traditional big-car emphasis upon luxurious transportation is continued in the 1963 regular Chevrolets, offered in 13 models in the Impala, Bel Air and Biscayne series.

There is a sleek, longer look with all-new styling. Straight windshield pillars improve access for drivers and passengers.

Smooth, straight-line styling gives the side of the new Chevrolets a flowing look of motion.

The Impala sport sedan has a fleet, new roofline and an optional vinyl top is available for the Impala sport coupe. Fifteen solid colors and 11 two-tone combinations are available in the regular Chevrolets.

* * * *

MECHANICALLY, there are the following new features:

—A new six-cylinder 140-horsepower engine, higher in horsepower and yet 23 per cent lighter than its 1962 counterpart, teams with a revised 283-cubic-inch V-8 and five other V-8 engines to offer engines ranging from 140 to 425 horsepower.

—Brakes are self-adjusting, mufflers will have longer life, and the lightweight Powerglide transmission is extended to all models.

—Delcotron generators are standard on all models.

—All radios are transistorized for 1963.

* * * *

CHEVY II—In its second year on the market, continues the basic styling of the previous model with new exterior and interior appointments. There are 10 models in three series.

There is a new grille and wide hood and deck lid emblems to give a more massive look to the car. There are new body side moldings for the 300 and Nova 400 series.

For 1963, Chevy II offers Super Sport options on its Nova 400 sport coupe and convertible, featuring bucket seats and all-vinyl interiors.

Mechanically, the Chevy II has self-adjusting brakes and Delcotron generators. Four and six-cylinder engines again are offered, with minor improvements.

* * * *

CORVAIR—Chevrolt's distinctive small car enters its fourth year on the market with an ever-growing following among those who want a sports car feel in a less expensive car.

Styling changes are confined to ornamentation and molding details. Otherwise, America's first rear-engine car continues its unique personality.

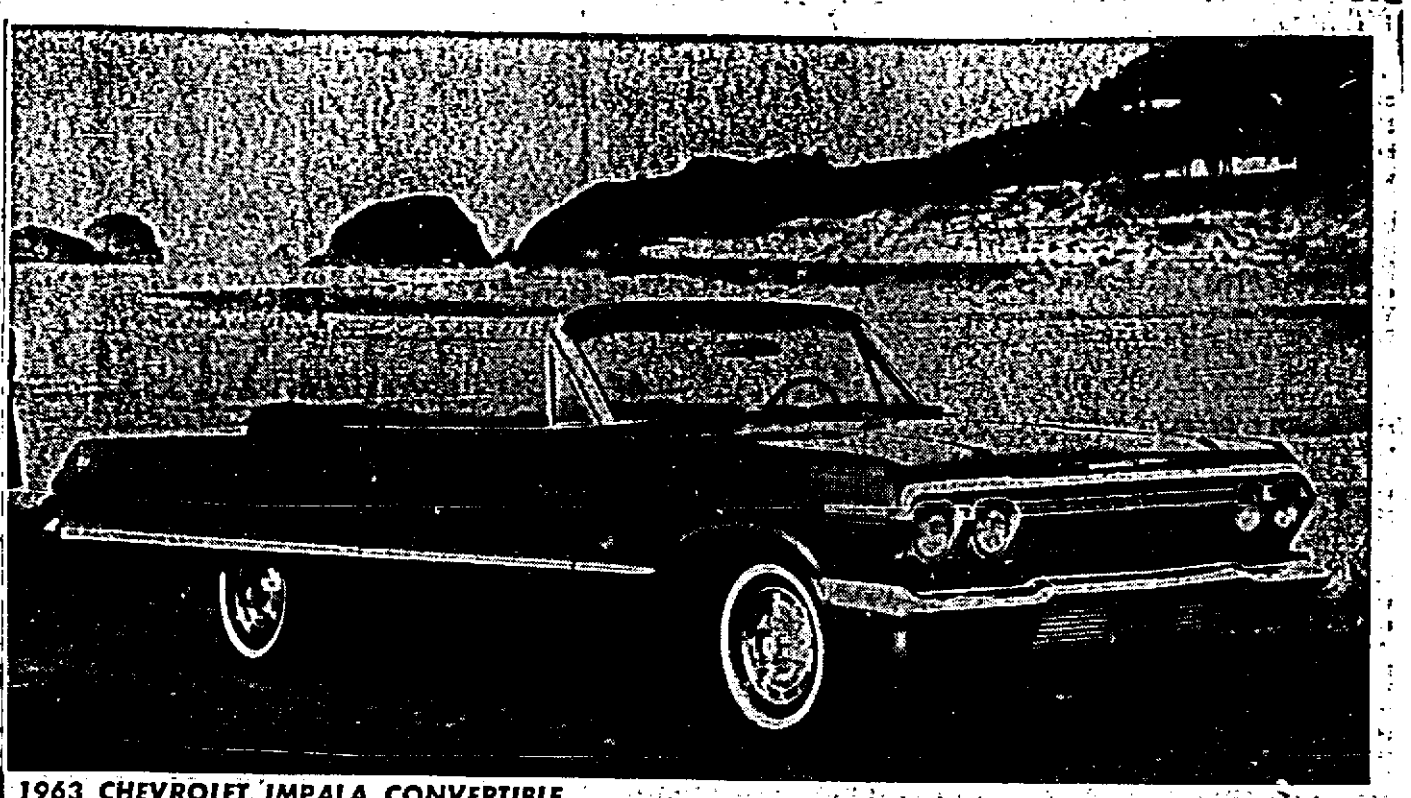

There are eight models of Corvair, ranging in variety from the Monza Spider convertible to two models of the popular Corvair Greenbrier sports wagon.

CORVETTE—In its 10th year on the market, America's only production sports car is redesigned and re-engineered for the first time. In addition to the convertible (with optional hardtop) model offered in the past, there is a new "fast-back" sport coupe.

For the first time, Corvette offers optional power steering, power brakes and air-conditioning for the custom-er who wants a sports car but also wishes to retain the driving conveniences to which he has become accustomed.

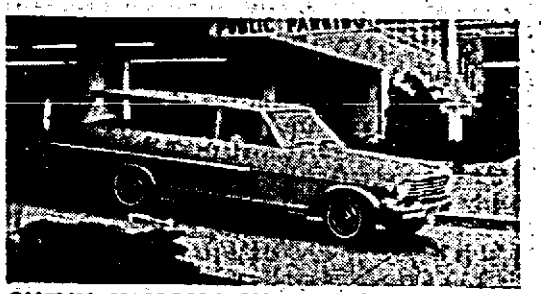

Mechanically, there are a host of improvements, including a completely new chassis, four-wheel Independent suspension, self-adjusting brakes, improved steering and Delcotron generators.

Corvettes for 1963 are two inches lower and four inches shorter in wheelbase than 1962 models.

1963 CHEVROLET IMPALA CONVERTIBLE

Traditional big-car emphasis on luxurious transportation is displayed in the Impala convertible, one of 13 models in the lineup of regular 1963 Chevrolets. Fresh, straight-line styling and significant engineering advances to enhance performance and convenience are introduced in the regular Chevrolets.

CHEVY II NOVA WAGON

Refinements and new appointments to the basic styling introduced last year mark the lineup of Chevy IIs for 1963. The Nova station wagon is one of 10 models in three series offered in the line. Complementing styling advances in the Chevy II, mechanical improvements include self-adjusting brakes, Delcotron generators and longer-life mufflers.

'Road' in Lab Tests Dodges

A machine used to test the 1963 Dodge Dart duplicates road testing in the laboratory but does it faster than on the road.

Forces applied through the rear axle of the car reproduce the effects of actual driving. In 90 hours, this equipment subjects the structure of the car to the same stress and fatigue it would receive in 50,000 miles of road testing.

L.B. Firm's Car Wax Used Widely

A Long Beach auto wax and polish manufacturer, Surluster Sales, 651 W. 14th St., now ships its products all over the nation. The firm has been in operation 10 years and now produces over 40 items, for which they use the slogan, "Everything to Clean Up Any Car Outside and Inside."

Surluster is marketed only through distributors who are in contact with all new car dealers from coast to coast. From Maine to Hawaii auto dealers are constantly using the complete line of Surluster products.

Oscar Maier, president of Surluster, heads up 14 distributors in California alone.

The "brow" over the instrument cluster on the 1963 Dodge Dart keeps the instrument lights from reflecting in the windshield at night.

Full Line of Mercury Meteor Is Offered

The Mercury Meteor is expanded to a full car line for 1963. Five new models—two hardtops and three station wagons—were added.

"The Meteor's sales success in its first year proved there is a solid place in the market for a quality car of the Meteor size," said Ben D. Mills, Ford Motor Co. vice president and Division general manager.

Refined styling with more luxurious interior appointments, reduced maintenance, new or improved options and accessories, and better engine-transmission characteristics are featured by the 1963 Meteor.

• • • • •

THE NEW HARDTOPS are two-door models with a fleet-appearing low silhouette and a long rear deck. Both hardtops provide even more trunk space than the Meteor sedans. They are in the Meteor Custom series and in the S-33 series with bucket seats and center console.

The three new station wagons are four-door six passenger models. They are in the Meteor and Meteor Custom series, plus a top-of-the-line Meteor Custom Cruiser which features simulated mahogany side paneling.

Styling refinements of the 1963 Meteor include: a new grille which gives a wider, lower appearance; double side moulding sweeping the full length of the body; swept back taillamps contributing to the over-all fleet appearance; and luxurious new styling, colors and materials for the interiors.

HERE'S SPORTY METEOR MODEL

The addition of hardtop and station wagon models extends the Mercury Meteor line for 1963 to nine models. Pictured is the sporty S-33 two-door hardtop with bucket seats and a full length console. The two-door hardtop is offered also in the Meteor Custom series.

Big Fuel Tank on New Valiant

A new, spring-staged choke and an improved starter give Valiant surer starting at low temperatures. The fuel tank on the 1963 Valiant has been increased in size from 14 to 15 gallons, increasing non-stop cruising by more than 25 per cent.

Closed crankcase ventilation is standard on all Valiants. This system reduces the amount of unburned hydrocarbons released to the atmosphere. It also ensures a cleaner engine.

Nine Models

The compact Dodge Dart for 1963 has nine models, including two convertible styles.

Complete New MG Displayed

The first completely new MG in seven years will share the spotlight at the auto show. Representing the first major all-out change since the MGA was introduced some 100,000 cars ago, the 1963 MG—known as the MGB—has a brand new look and boasts more power and comfort.

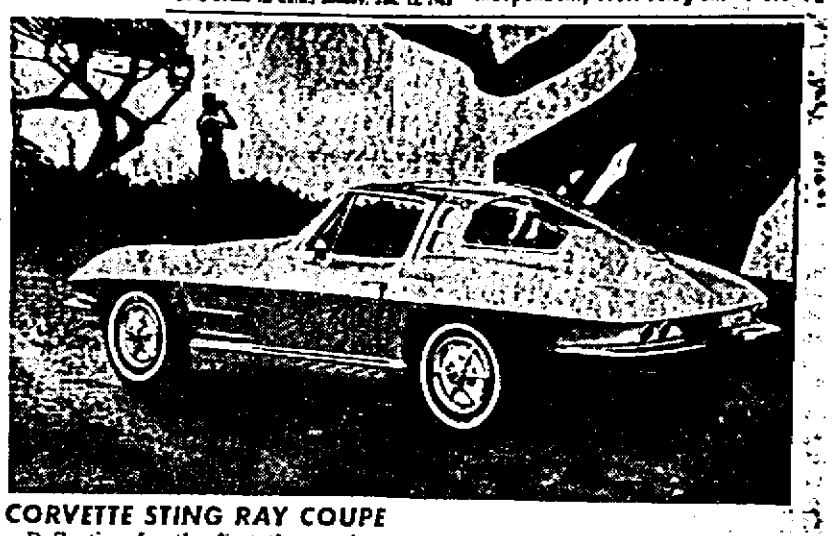

The most striking change in the latest model of the world's most popular sports car manufactured by the British Motor Corp. is a new silhouette with a sleek body. It has, for the first time, roll-up windows, hinged side vents and a wrap-around windshield.

• • • •

THERE IS ADDED power. The MGB has upped its engine capacity to 1798 c.c. from 1622 c.c. in the MGA and develops 94 brake horsepower at 5,500 r.p.m. The MGB is fitted with 11-inch disc brakes on the front wheels to give the car as much stop as it has go. A tachometer is standard equipment on all models.

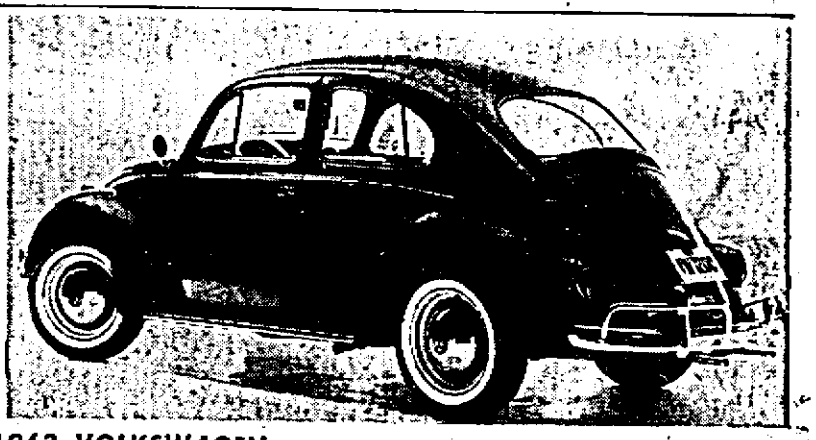

Roadability and ease of handling are assured in the new MGB due to the independent front wheel suspension, lower center of gravity, wide track and long wheelbase. Direct rack and pinion steering insures instant response and finger-tip control. Oil cooler is standard.

The first MG was made in 1923 by Sir William Morris. The letters MG are the initials of Sir William's original company, Morris Garages.

CORVETTE STING RAY COUPE

Reflecting for the first time major styling and enginering changes, the 1963 Corvette's dramatic "fast back" coupe design is one of two models introduced this year. The 1963 Corvette features new frame, new fiberglass body and a new suspension system to improve handling, ride and performance. Retractable headlamps and doors which wrap into the roof (on the sport coupe model) are other refinements.

1963 VOLKSWAGEN

This year's VW sedan incorporates a new heating system which not only warms up faster but also increases the amount of warm air entering the passenger compartment. Other improvements include additional insulation and a washable plastic headliner which makes the car's interior fully washable. Usually only a damp sponge is needed to clean up inside.

NEW MG-B AT JAMESTOWN

The sales staff at Jamestown, British Motor Corp. dealership in Long Beach, looks over the company's newest import, the smart MG-B roadster which has just arrived from England. From left are Jack Hoare, Don Robasek, Harry Scovel, Roman Lash, Stan Norgard and sales manager Bill Young. The MG-B will be displayed at the Auto Show Jan. 15-20.

Deflector Aids Driver Visibility

A combination wind deflector and assist handle helps keep the back window clean on 1963 Dodge station wagons.

The handle acts like a scoop, deflecting the air which flows along the sides of the body. It creates a wash of air across the rear window which helps keep the window free of dust and mud.

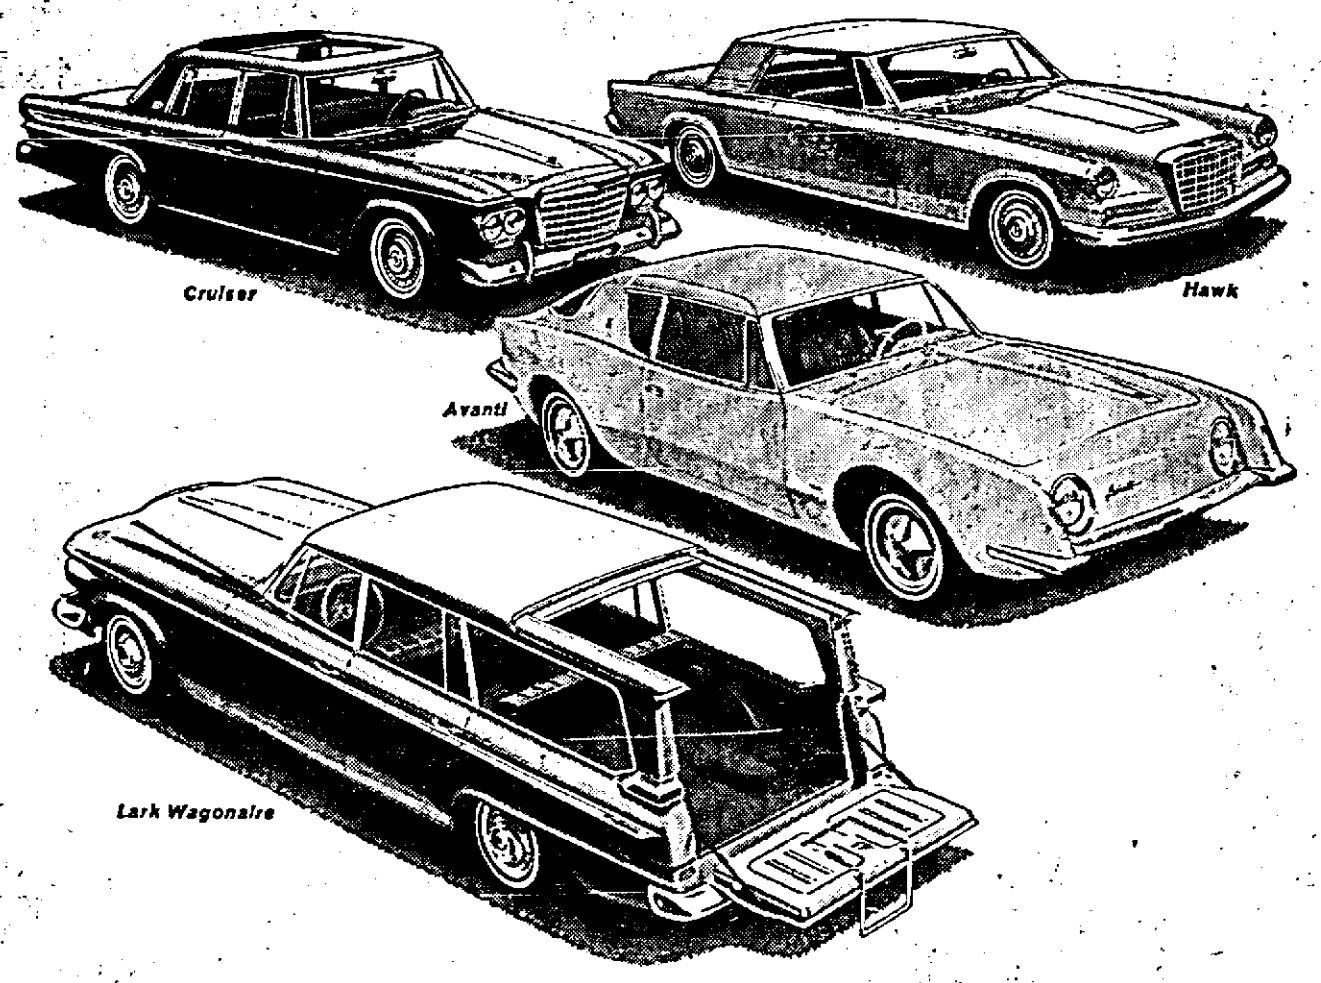

Heater Blends Air in '63 Dart

The heating system on the compact 1963 Dodge Dart provides custom-blending of hot and cold air.

The system achieves the desired temperatures by varying the percentage of air flowing through the heating core.

This mixing of hot and cold air allows more precise control of temperatures and provides instant response to adjustments of the control lever.

OPERATION AT SEA
Rising from 47 feet of water, this platform arrangement is being built by the Signal Oil Co. for pumping operations more than a mile off Huntington Beach. Thirty wells are to be drilled from this tower. Daily production will be about 3,000 barrels, to be piped ashore. Heliport platform is at upper left. Photo was taken from helicopter used to move men, materials.

Oil Drilling Platforms Nearing Completion Off Huntington Beach

By KEN KNIGHT

HUNTINGTON BEACH—Oil drilling operations, following the completion of huge tower supported platforms, will mark the birth here of a new oil field located more than a mile offshore.

Costing $3 million, the tower is expected to be finished within a month and oil well drilling will begin immediately, according to Signal Oil Co. officials.

It will be the first tower constructed off of the California coast by Signal Oil.

KNOWN AS "Platform Emmy," the project takes its name from initials used by the U. S. Coast Guard to designate the water zone in which it is located.

The platform, exceeding a quarter of an acre in area, will have two decks where both oil well drilling and oil production activities will be carried on simultaneously.

Present plans by the oil company call for the drilling of 30 wells, with a new well to be brought in about every three weeks.

"THE WELLS will be from 2,000 to 3,000 feet deep, and each will produce about 100 barrels a day," according to Harold Nissen, district superintendent for Signal at Huntington Beach.

Construction of the platform 7,200 feet offshore was necessary because of the shallowness of the oil deposit, explained Nissen.

Drilling on-shore out to the undersea deposits created such a low angle recovery line that the pressure was inadequate to bring the oil to the surface.

"THIS IS about the only way that we can get the oil out of the ground and unless we do it this way, the oil never will be recovered," Nissen said.

Building of the 55,000-square-foot platform was began in March when two towers, each weighing 200 tons, were constructed in San Diego, floated up to the spot and then sunk by filling them with water.

The tower section, rising 83 feet above water, was built on subsequently constructed legs driven in the ocean floor and is located in 47 feet of water.

DRILLING CREWS will operate from the upper deck, 62 feet above the water line. Heavy loads will be handled by a 30-ton pedestal-mounted revolving crane.

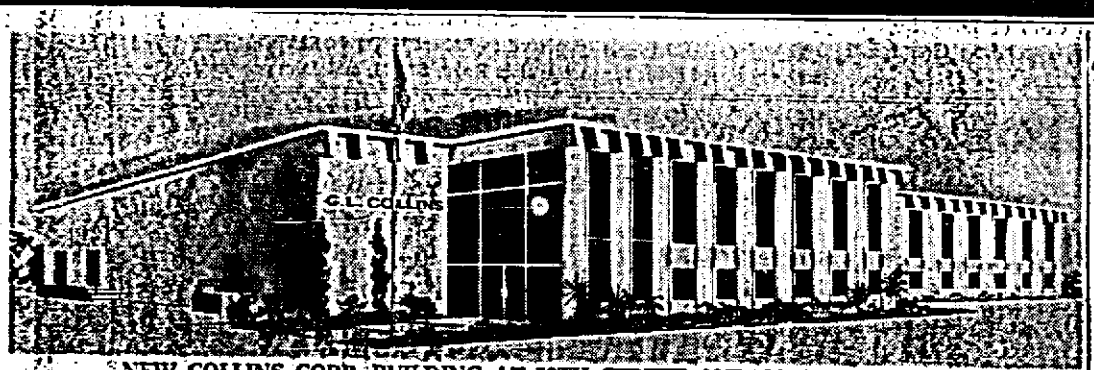

An office-change room and kitchen, cantilevered off the upper deck level, serves as a heliport for helicopters carrying personnel and light cargo.

Thirty-five feet above the water will be the production deck, with separate areas for wells, equipment and pumps.

FIRE WALLS will separate the well area from other sections. A power house, chemical and warehouse areas are located on a mezzanine floor.

Fresh water, oil and gas are carried to the platform by three submarine pipelines. Oil that is pumped will be piped to a storage terminal north of Pacific Coast Highway so as not to interfere with beach recreational activities.

NEW COLLINS CORP. BUILDING AT 59TH STREET AND OBISPO AVENUE

Collins Corporation Expands With New Building Finished

The G. L. Collins Corporation has announced completion of a quarter-million-dollar facility at Obispo Avenue and 59th Street in Long Beach.

The new structure is three times as large as the present business location at 2820 E. Hullett St., according to Gary L. Collins, corporation president. It contains 27,000 square feet of operational space.

• • • •

THE PRESENT LOCATION will house the engineering, sales department and publications department; the research department; and the environmental laboratories.

The new facility will house product operations, and will triple the engineering research area while adding such highly desirable features as a "clean room," a concrete security vault and all service utilities placed underground.

• • • •

THE NEW BUILDING was constructed by Millie and Severson, Inc., Long Beach, and features the longest precast free span concrete beams in the world. The beams weigh 43 tons and were precast off-site.

The company, founded in 1954, is prominent in the development and manufacturing of precision linear position transducers and electronic components for "space age" vehicles.

Wilson succeeded Charles H. Brown of Pasadena in the top office of the association.

• • • •

TAKING OFFICE at the same time were 31 regional vice presidents of the state association and several hundred state directors representing the 170 real estate boards of CREA.

Regional vice presidents installed included: Russell Dymock Smith, Palos Verdes Estates; Robert C. Allred, South Gate; and Jack Mullan, Newport Beach.

• • • •

The new association president said that realtors want to maintain their reputation for integrity and hope to live a year in 1963 in which "Others will deal with us as we would ex-

Orange County Labor Force Grows Rapidly

COSTA MESA—Burgeoning business in Orange County means that business problems also are increasing. There's a bigger problem of management, because employment in the county's manufacturing industries has jumped 17,000 in one year.

Major part of the Orange County labor force, manufacturing now gives employment to 75,301 persons in Orange County. A year ago, the payrolls for manufacturing totaled 58,341 persons. The 1961 total was in turn 12,000 higher than the year before.

• • • •

THE LABOR force in Orange County stands at 187,000 employed in fields covered by Social Security.

That's up 30,000 in one year, and the gain in employment has been so spectacular that it increased 10,000 in two summer months this year.

All these facets of the county's broadening industrial life will be considered at the upcoming Orange County Management Conference, scheduled to open at 8:15 a.m. Saturday at Orange Coast College, Costa Mesa.

Autonetics Move One of Industry's Biggest

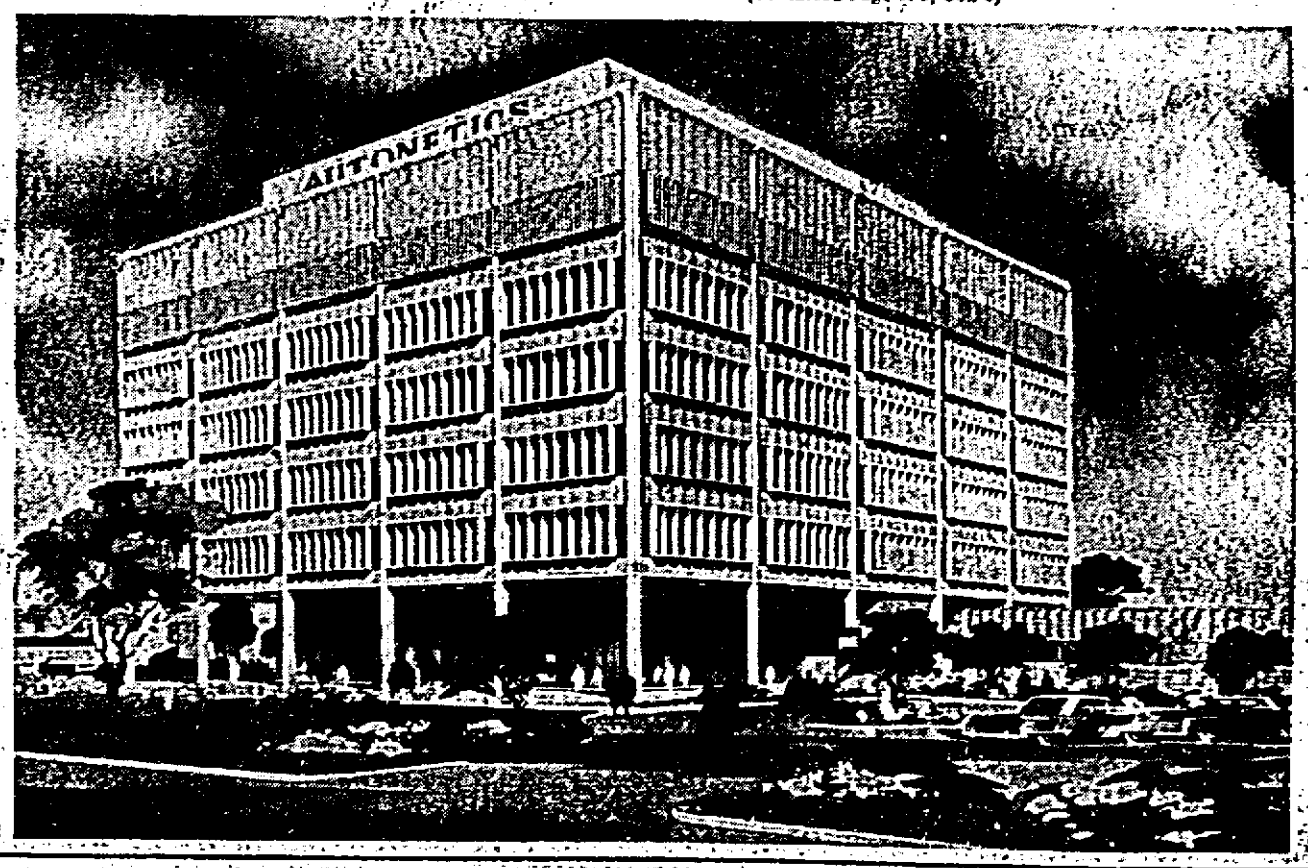

By VERN ANTHONY
Southland Progress Editor

One of the largest mass industrial moves in history—and the largest ever undertaken by North American Aviation — will be completed later this year for the new Autonetics complex at Anaheim.

By midsummer, about 25,000 of Autonetics' total of 34,000 employes will be working in Anaheim and Fullerton. This will make Autonetics the biggest employer in Orange County.

A six-story administration headquarters now under construction will be the centerpiece for the Anaheim plant layout on a 12 acre site at Anaheim Avenue and Miller Street. When finished, it will bring to 3,060,000 the total square footage in use by Autonetics in Orange County.

Ownership Change Made at Gardena

GARDENA — Royal Industries, Inc., Pasadena, has acquired Thomsen Supply, Inc., of Gardena, manufacturer of the Tommy Gun line of cement and plaster handling equipment.

The company will continue operations under the name of the Thomsen Equipment Division of Royal Industries.

The purchase was consummated for an undisclosed amount of cash according to J. R. Johnson, president of Royal Industries. Sales of the company are running at a current annual rate of approximately $2 million.

A privately owned corporation founded in 1955, Thomsen Supply is located in a new 50,000-square-foot plant on a 2½-acre site in Gardena.

The company will continue under its present operating management. Thomas Thomsen, founder and president, will continue with the company as a consultant.

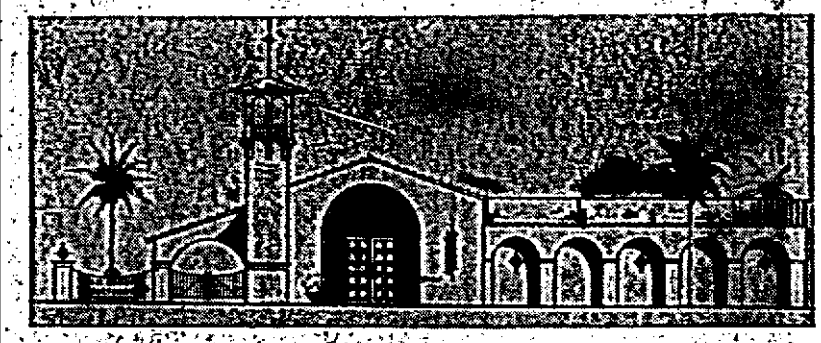

Mortgage Funds Seen as Plentiful

Ample mortgage funds for acceptable business property, little problems of financing for good credit risks, and stable interest rates are expected to continue into the foreseeable future, according to the Department of Research of the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

The report, based on a survey of 109 realtors throughout the country, was issued by Donald T. Pomeroy, Syracuse, N.Y., chairman of the Committee on Real Estate Economics and Research.

The report said insurance company money is plentiful and is "aggressively seeking prime commercial loans while some lenders are paying finders' fees."

"There have been reports that savings and loan associations are now entering the commercial property market in larger numbers, a fact that should be beneficial to everyone concerned," the NAREB report said.

Hughes Helicopters to Sell on Credit

By KEN CHILCOTE

Now you can buy a helicopter on terms, similar to the purchasing of an automobile. And, under this new financing program a big increase in sales of the helicopters is expected.

Hughes Tool Co. Aircraft Division, Culver City, manufacturer of the 269A helicopter, announced the first comprehensive helicopter financing program, especially developed for Hughes' expanding dealer network and their customers.

An agreement providing for a five-part financing program by Commercial Credit of Maryland, Inc. (a subsidiary of Commercial Credit Co.) was detailed by J. W. Bayer, vice president of the Hughes Tool Co.

The Hughes 269A, a two-place helicopter which sells for $22,500 (one-half of previous helicopter costs), is now available to retail customers on time purchase or lease basis through Hughes' dealers, Bayer said.

• • • •

CARL J. ZINK, industrial financing and leasing director of Commercial Credit, said the program is the first comprehensive financing arrangement ever created for marketing of helicopters. Previously, dealers and customers have had to seek local bank financing on an individual basis, he said.

Zink compared the Hughes program to the first installment buying arrangements that permitted the mass production and mass marketing of the automobile.

Sea Air, Inc. of Long Beach is the local Hughes 269A dealer.

William H. McGinnis of Long Beach has been promoted by Bank of America to manager of its soon-to-open Chapman-Valley View branch in Garden Grove.

W. H. McGINNIS

Before his promotion, McGinnis was operations officer of the Paramount branch. Most of his 27-year career with the bank has been spent in the Long Beach area, where he moved from his native Illinois as a youngster. Joining the bank in 1935 as a messenger at the First and Pine branch, he moved up to officer rank 12 years later at the Cherry-Anaheim branch. He later held an officer post at Westchester.

McGinnis, a graduate of Woodrow Wilson High School in Long Beach, also has studied at the American Institute of Banking, educational wing of the American Bankers Association.

His many civic activities have included service as a director and secretary of the Paramount Chamber of Commerce and as president of the Paramount Kiwanis Club. He also has been a Cub Scout leader in Long Beach.

McGinnis and his wife and two sons live at 3722 Gardenia Ave.

RANCHO SAN PEDRO

New Industrial Park Plan Reduces Delays

Carson Estate Co., one of the three owners in the Rancho San Pedro industrial area, paralleling the Long Beach Harbor Freeway immediately south of Artesia Street, has instituted a policy of constructing on a controlled basis industrial facilities for long-term lease to qualified tenants, it has been announced by Thomas Caldwell Cooper, president.

The company has just started construction of the first of these facilities on Santa Fe Avenue. It will be a 30,000-square-foot concrete tilt-up structure located on a two-acre site, which will provide adequate parking as well as space for future expansion. The interior is to be designed to the lessee's requirements following signing of a lease agreement.

The new policy provides that as quickly as one building is leased a new facility will be put into construction.

• • • •

THE POLICY was evolved to take the delay out of the "build-to-suit" method, which is providing a good proportion of new facilities for industrials firms moving into or expanding in the Los Angeles area, Cooper stated.

Instead of going on long tours of site selection and then undergoing the long delays required for arrangement of financing and building of the basic structure, a tenant will need only to indicate his requirements in partitioning and for power, lighting and air-conditioning, and in 30 days he can be installed in his new facility.

As an investment firm, the Carson Estate Co. finances all improvements on its property.

Company Shows Gain in Net Income

For the year ended Dec. 31, 1962, The Morris Plan Company of California reported net income of $952,885 or $3.07 per share, compared to $782,054 or $2.68 per share on a lesser number of shares for 1961, according to an announcement by Ralph N. Larson, president.

Location of Sun Ray Estates in Harbor Area Is Appealing

Recent surveys of home buying habits have shown that one of the major determining factors in selecting a new home is its location and its proximity to jobs and recreational activities.

These facts are being proven every day with the tremendous buyer response being exhibited at the new Sun Ray Harbor Estates in Wilmington, according to Sales Director Reed Clark.

"Centrally located in the 'heartland' of the Southern Los Angeles County area, these prestige three bedroom-two bath homes are fast becoming the last of the 'GI terms' homes available in the entire County," Clark says.

• • • •

REASONABLY priced from $18,900, Harbor Estates boasts of an unsurpassed location only two miles to the beaches, 20 freeway miles from downtown Los Angeles and just minutes from schools, shopping and churches.

Ready for immediate occupancy, these Ray Watt constructed residences feature all of the famous Sun Ray attractions including complete carpeting, choice of Hotpoint Electric or O'Keefe & Merritt built-ins, fully planted and landscaped front yards and separate family room with oak parquet floor.

Furnished models, easily reached from either the Long Beach, Harbor or San Diego Freeways, are located at Q St. and Eubank in Wilmington.

Historic Acreage in Capistrano Is Sold

Two hundred sixty-five acres of land in San Juan Capistrano, having a history dating back to 1776, were sold recently by Everett Davis & Sons and Associates, Corona Del Mar, according to Everett Davis, Jr. The price was in excess of one million dollars.

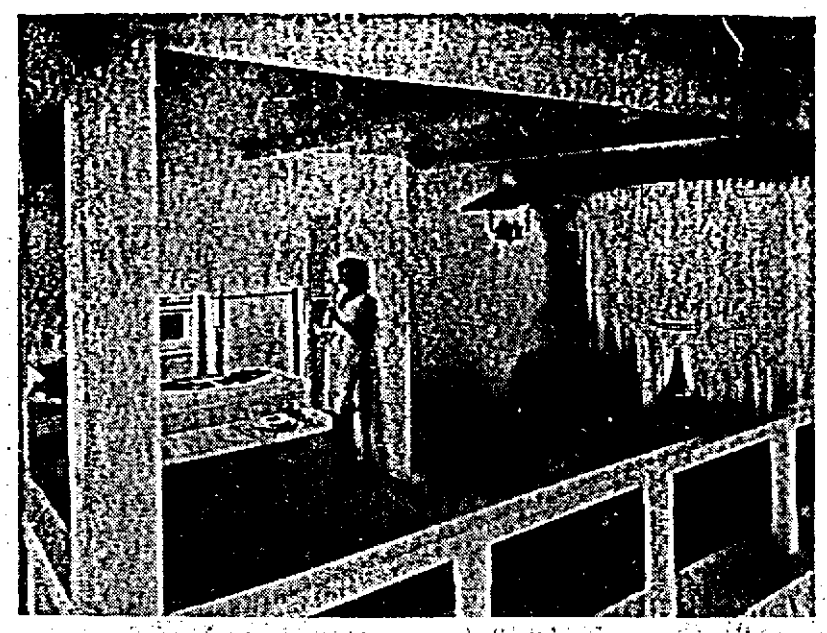

The property is situated on the north side of Ortega Highway, less than a mile east of the old mission and three-quarters of a mile from the San Diego Freeway, making it accessible to all Southern California metropolitan areas.

• • • •

FORMER OWNERS of the land represent names linked with the early history of California. Juan Forester purchased the land where the old mission stands for $710 and in 1853 presented it to Archbishop Joseph Sodar Alemany. San Juan Capistrano Mission was the seventh of the 21 missions established by the Franciscan Fathers.

The acreage just sold was part of the Juan Forester holdings. Everett Davis & Sons and Associates acquired the 265 acres as an investment several years ago from Juan Forester's great-great granddaughter, Mrs. Alice Leck, a native of San Juan Capistrano.

Wally Freeman of Anaheim, and Russ Ford, Newport Beach, represented the purchasers in the transaction. The future disposition of the acreage has not been disclosed.

MANY CUSTOM FEATURES

Setting the Fashion trend in home interiors are Fashion Homes, available in Huntington Beach, Garden Grove and Westminster. Builder Mervin Johnson incorporates many custom features in each home.

Fashion Homes in Huntington Beach Ideal for Family Life

Fashion Homes in Huntington Beach are ideally located for the family wanting the finest homes, and the finest in recreational facilities "at their doorstep."

Just 10 minutes away from Fashion Homes are the finest beaches in Southern California, as well as the newest small boat harbors and marinas. There's fishing, surfing, sunbathing, scuba diving, swimming—figuratively right at a Fashion Home front door. There are several golf courses within fifteen minutes drive.

The superb location of Fashion Homes goes hand-in-glove with the beautifully styled three and four bedroom, two bath, family room homes.

Mervin Johnson, builder and developer, was formerly a custom-home builder. He has incorporated many features of specially-built homes into Fashion Homes in Huntington Beach. Such as: Garages with a genuine workshop area, full length mirrors in the Pullman baths, decorative block wall fences and no bedroom smaller than 12'x12'.

• • • •

TO PLEASE the discriminating housewife, kitchens have built-in range and oven, dishwasher and disposal with ample counter and cabinet space; living rooms with raised hearth fireplaces; forced air heat with thermostat control and a host of other features that make the housewife's life so much easier.

Fashion Homes are priced from $18,600 in Huntington Beach with no down to veterans and low FHA terms.

From the Long Beach area, take Seventh Street to Beach Blvd., (Hwy. 39). Turn south to Sugar, right a short distance to the furnished model homes.

Fashion Homes are also available in Garden Grove (from $18,300) and in Westminster from $21,500). Each development is different than the others.

Five-Bedroom Home in Low Price Range

A few five-bedroom homes are still available as La Linda Estates begins to close out its second successful unit. The big five-bedroom homes for active families sold so fast in the first unit of La Linda Estates that all were gone just three weeks after opening. More of these homes have enjoyed the same reception from homebuyers as the second unit of the development has shown consistant sales weekly.

Located on Sugar Ave. between Verano and Brookhurst in Santa Ana, La Linda Estates has three, four and five-bedroom homes all with two baths, priced from $18,150.

For $595 down, a non-veteran can live in one of the most convenient luxury areas in Orange County. Veterans can move in with no down payment. There are no second trust deeds and no balloon payments.

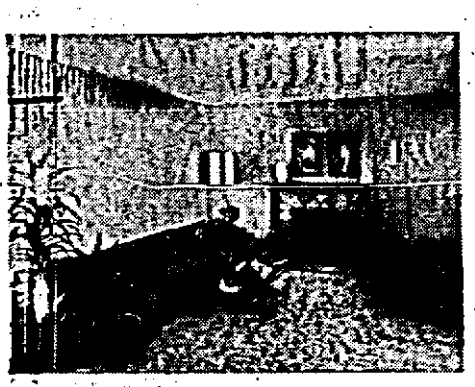

"Big homes in our price range, near shopping areas, schools, beaches are a big factor in our consistant sales record," said Dick Murray of Farrow Realty.

• • • •

LA LINDA ESTATES has a wealth of extra living enjoyment usually found only in much more expensive homes; kitchens with electric built-in ranges, ovens, dishwashers and disposals, massive fireplaces of rock or brick, ceramic tile double and single pullman tops in baths, lifetime copper plumbing.

this is a Fashion Home in HUNTINGTON BEACH*

From the first time you drive up to one of Fashion Homes' superb model homes, you know that these homes have been built with the home owner in mind. Fashion Homes' three and four bedroom, two bath homes are oversized because builder Mervin Johnson was, at one time, a custom-home builder and can't refrain from incorporating into smaller homes those features that make large homes. For instance; the bathrooms are oversized, and you can see yourself in a full length mirror to prove it... the garages are big enough for two cars and an honest-to-goodness workshop area... the bedrooms are 12' x 12' or more. And... construction-wise... Mr. Johnson oversees every facet of building and is more demanding than even the building inspectors.

FASHIONABLE, FUN-FILLED, CONVENIENT LIVING IN YOUR FASHION HOME.

Access to and from the San Diego Freeway is no more than two blocks away... saving time and money every working day. Schools are springing up, figuratively, every other block. And just five minutes away is the fabulous coastline of Orange County: 7 miles of the finest beaches in Southern California; several small boat harbors; golf courses no more than ten minutes distant. Employment opportunities everywhere you look, many large shopping centers and every city convenience (sewers, street lights, and sidewalks are in and paid for!)

Fashion Homes set the fashion trend. Big all-electric kitchens & family rooms: dishwasher, range & oven, fan & hood, disposer. Formica breakfast bar, "Marbelene" pullman tops, ample ash cabinets, ceramic tile. Raised Fireplaces, forced air heat with thermostat, two Pullman baths with full mirrors, service porches... the list of fashionable features is almost without end. Come and see them all for yourself... this weekend!

The inaugural luncheon followed three days of meetings of the association's 30 committees and board of directors. More than 1,200 realtors from every area in the state attended the meetings.

• • • •

PRINCIPAL SUBJECT of discussion was proposed legislation affecting real estate and property ownership now before the State Legislature.

Reg F. Dupuy of Long Beach, chairman of the association's Legislative Committee, said that CREA again will represent the home owners of the state in opposing legislation that would take away from many property owners their valued ownership rights which they have enjoyed ever since this country was founded.

• • • •

HE NOTED that new attempts are being made to replace many property owners under the jurisdiction of a powerful new state police power, the Fair Employment Practices Commission, taking away their right to freely rent or sell their properties as they see fit.

A greatly expanded real estate education program for 1963 was announced by Burt E. Smith of Bellflower, chairman of the CREA Education Committee. He reports that the association will conduct educational and sales conferences in 19 locations throughout the state.

• • • •

THESE CONFERENCES will take place in March and April under the direction of E. Tennyson Moore of Long Beach.

Another conference on the subject of real estate office administration will be held in July on the campuses of the University of California, Berkeley, and at the University of Southern California. This program is being planned by a committee headed by Robert C. Westmyer of Long Beach.

A contract for $1,478,000 has been awarded to Acoustica Associates, Inc., of Los Angeles by the Air Force for propellant utilization systems engineering on the Atlas Missile Program, according to an announcement by Rollin M. Russell, Acoustica president.

Autonetics Move One of Industry's Biggest

(Accompanying photographs show Administration Building under construction and how it will look when completed.)

• • • • •

WHEN THIS STRUCTURE is completed, probably in July, Autonetics Division of North American will move its administrative headquarters from Downey as final chapter to one of industry's major relocation efforts.

And it's not a case of good news for Anaheim and bad news for Downey. For as Autonetics leaves facilities it has used at Downey, other phases of North American are occupying the buildings at Downey. So it is not an industrial loss for Downey, plant officials have emphasized.

No pronounced housing move by Autonetics employes has been reported; but it is noted that newcomers among workers are finding homes in the Anaheim area.

• • • • •

PRESIDENT JOHN R. Moore of Autonetics says the big move is being made without interruption of production.

The switch from Downey started some three years ago and has continued as facilities were readied. The Orange County locations provide for a consolidation of all but one of Autonetics' divisions in Anaheim and Fullerton sites.

The Industrial Products Division in Long Beach and the Compton manufacturing facilities are not involved in the move.

THE LA PALMA (Anaheim) site has 21 buildings completed or under construction, including the administration building.

Other facilities are centered at Ball Road in Anaheim, and at two sites in Fullerton.

Besides the major product division facilities of the La Palma complex, the area includes the Advanced Research Center, where more than 200 scientists and engineers are working in 47 specialized laboratories.

Next "door" to the Research Center is the 20-acre Recreation Park for Autonetics employes and their families. This facility includes an Olympic-type swimming pool, complete gymnasium facilities, steam baths, nine-hole golf course, picnic and play ground areas, and rooms equipped for the company's various hobby clubs.

• • • •

CURRENT MAJOR programs at Autonetics include

Minuteman and Improved Minuteman — guidance, flight control and ground support equipment in production and under development.

NASARR — compact system for all-weather radar search and range, terrain avoidance, ground and contour mapping, and control for a versatile choice of armament. In production for NATO countries F-104 Super Starfighters and USAF F-105 Thunderchiefs.

Ships Inertial Navigation Systems (SINS) — In production for Polaris and attack submarines, and for missile range tracking ships. New improved versions (Mk-II, Mod-2) in production for larger Lafayette class of Polaris submarines.

• • • •

AUTOMATIC CHECKOUT Equipment — In production for Minuteman, Hound Dog, Atlas missiles; also for A5 Vigilante, W2F and A2F aircraft.

ABLE and MABLE (Autonetics Base Line Equipment and Miniaturized ABLE) — Portable gyroscopic orientors for rapid direction finding; alining Army artillery missiles, missile launchers. ABLE is in volume production for the U.S. Army.

Digital Computers — More than 75 per cent of all airborne digital computers in use today were developed and produced by Autonetics.

Promotion Chief to Talk Tuesday

L. V. Baker Jr., manager of Long Beach Promotion, Inc., will be speaker at the Tuesday breakfast meeting of the Long Beach District Board of Realtors, Hilbert Adema, program chairman, has announced.

L. V. BAKER

Baker, a native Californian, is a graduate of San Jose State College of Journalism. He has had a variety of experience in promotion, advertising and the news fields, and was with United Press International nearly seven years.

He was employed last May to organize a department for promoting Long Beach around the nation and abroad.

Value Conscious Buyers Spur Sales

Homebuyers are becoming increasingly value-conscious, a marketing condition best exemplified by the phenomenal home sales now being experienced at Dutch Haven's new Huntington Beach communities, Unit 21 on Beach Boulevard and Unit 22 on Edinger Avenue near Bolsa Chica.

Dutch Haven communities—constructed and developed by Luxury Homes, Inc., builders of thousands of Southern California homes—have always rated among the swiftest selling homes in the west. But the overwhelming success of units 21 and 22 has amazed even William Lyon, president of Luxury Homes and imaginative young builder who has earned national recognition for his dramatic record of continued successes and development of quality communities for better family living.

• • • •

A SPOKESMAN for Luxury Homes, Inc., said that a large measure of Dutch Haven's swift success at Huntington Beach is attributable to the fact that the new developments fulfill a popular demand for near-the-beach property, offer homes that include extra features seldom available at comparable costs and are priced and financed to accomodate average family budgets.

The spokesman added that another appealing advantage of the new communities is that purchase of a Dutch Haven home includes title to land, with property rights fully protected by the Title Insurance and Trust Co. In contrast, many new homes in the beach area are being constructed upon leased land.

Huntington Beach, long renowned as a popular resort city, has now become the Southland's fastest-growing community. Climate is ideal, beaches are but a few minutes away from the new Dutch Haven units and there are excellent facilities for boating, surfing and picnicking.

"American Home Series" residences are being shown exclusively at Units 21 and 22. There are 16 exterior elevations available.

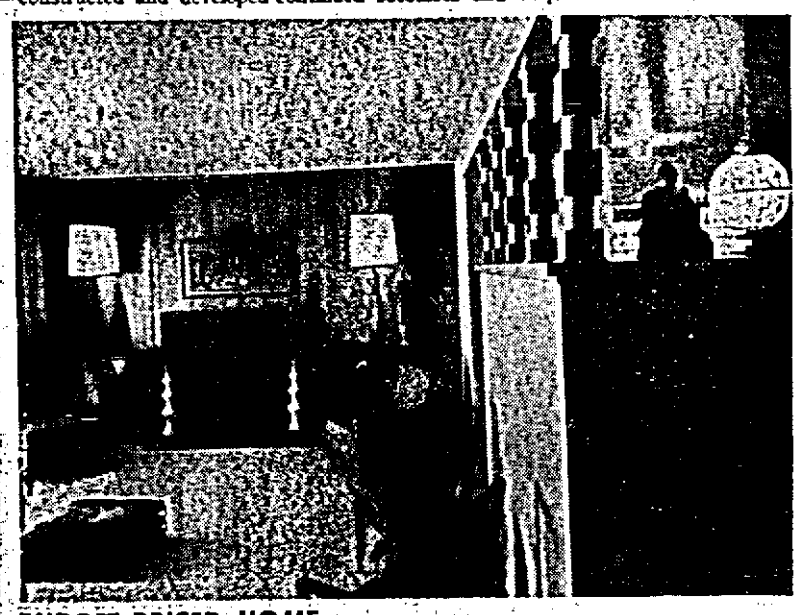

• • • •

DUTCH HAVEN homes are three to four bedrooms with family room and up to two full baths. Prices start at $14,950, with $95 move-in cost to veterans on VA terms. Cal-Vet terms and FHA loans at a 5¼% interest rate are also available. Monthly payments, which are among the lowest in the beach area, begin at $79.63, including principal and interest.

Custom features include complete front yard landscaping, built-in oven and counter-top gas range, colored range hood with fan and light, custom ash cabinets, decorator wallpaper, acoustical ceilings, custom-styled fireplaces, copper plumbing service and marble pullmans in bathrooms.

To visit the furnished model homes at Unit 21 from Long Beach go east on Seventh St. to Beach Blvd., right on Beach Blvd. to models.

To visit the furnished model homes at Unit 22 from Long Beach go east on Seventh St. to Bolsa Chica, right on Bolsa Chica to models.

BUDGET-PRICED HOME
Here is an interior view of one of Dutch Haven's Huntington Beach homes. Two developments are under way, featuring homes priced from 14,950 on terms as low as $79.63 per month.

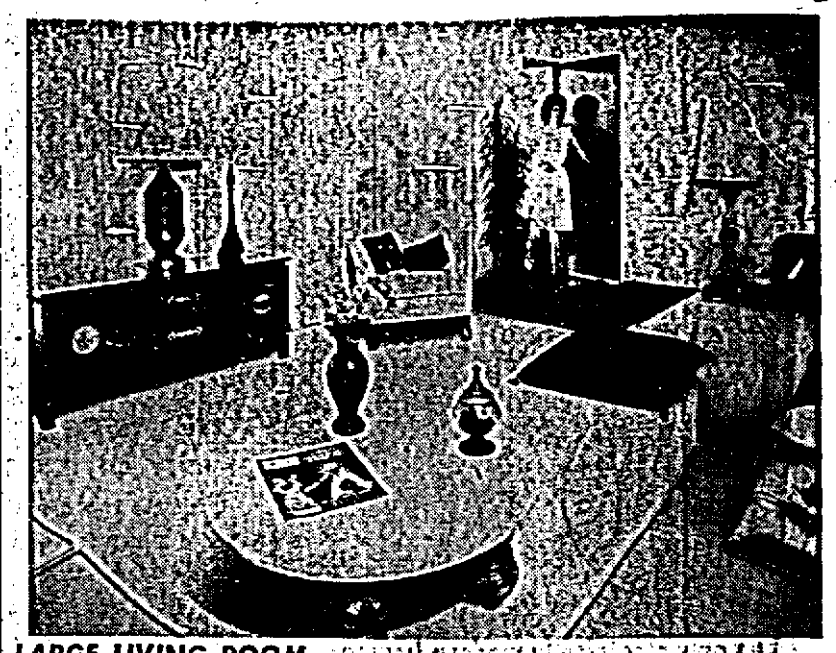

HB to Get New Bank

HUNTINGTON BEACH—Citizens National Bank has completed lease arrangements for a branch office in the North Huntington Beach area, it has been disclosed by Roy A. Britt, Citizens president.

The new office will be in a shopping center at the intersection of Edinger Avenue and Sher Lane, just west of Beach Boulevard.

Owner and developer of the shopping center is the Rutherford Company, Sydney Sher, president; and construction work will be done by Jackson Bros.

Remodeling of the existing building will begin immediately, with opening of the Citizens office planned in April.

LARGE LIVING ROOM
Almost 1,000 families already enjoy living rooms like this in Huntington Village. The three and four-bedroom, two-bath, family room homes are priced from $17,925.

Huntington Village Now Virtual City of Its Own

During 1962, almost 400 families began enjoying life in a Huntington Village home, according to Dan Mytinger, sales manager for the Village's builder and developer, Doyle & Shields Development Co.

The 400 families who purchased homes in Huntington Village in 1962 joined approximately 600 other families, bringing the estimated population of the Village to 3,800.

• • • •

THE DISTINCTIVE features of Huntington Village's three and four-bedroom, two-bath, family-room homes have found widespread acceptance upon the part of the home-buying public. Some of the more popular include: Built-in RCA Whirlpool range and oven, RCA Whirlpool dishwasher.

The current series of Sea Breeze homes, unit 10, are priced from $17,925. Terms for non-vets are as low as $495 down, plus costs, including deed and title insurance for home and land. There are no due dates and no balloon payments. Cal-Vet financing is also available.

Model homes are open daily. From the Long Beach area, drive east on Seventh Street (Garden Grove Blvd.) to Golden West St. Right on Golden West to Edinger, the right on Edinger to Springdale, left a short distance to the big parking lot and the model homes of Huntington Village.

Santa Ana Sol Vista Homes Sell Rapidly

DINING AREA OF HOME
This bright dining area adjacent to the deluxe kitchen is in a Sol Vista Home in Santa Ana. The homes are priced from $16,950.

Alco-Pacific Construction Co.'s Sol Vista homes in Santa Ana are now selling in their final unit, it was announced by Al Solomon, president of Alco-Pacific. Solomon said the homes are now two-thirds sold.

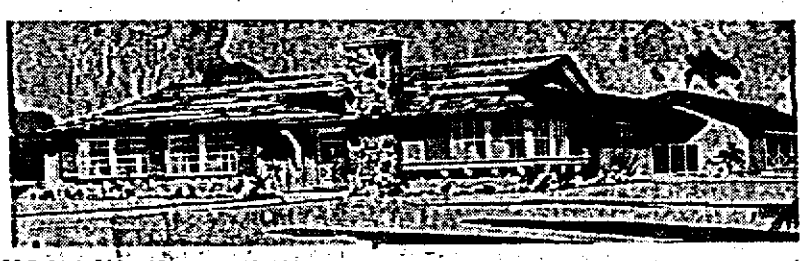

A popular group of Sol Vista homes is the Sportsman's Series with three and four bedrooms. The garage is detached and faces on an alley making it convenient for boat, trailer and camper owners to store and work on their equipment.

• • • •

OFFERING A FULL measure of value, Sol Vista homes in Santa Ana sell for $16,950 to $18,100. Most of the homes may be bought on generous FHA terms with up to 35 years to pay. In some veterans may move in for nothing down except costs and impounds.

Each of these homes has two bathrooms, Frigidaire oven and range, color coordinated range hood, light and exhaust fan unit. Ideal for families, the homes have family rooms and brick fireplaces. The bathroom suite in the master bedroom suite has a stall shower with safety glass door.

Sales information may be obtained on Sugar Avenue, just east of Brookhurst in Santa Ana.

HOME WITH BREEZEWAY
New breezeway plan with large family room, front living room, stone fireplace, and other luxuries is among new homes being introduced in the newest unit of Westmont this week. Prices start at $19,995 with the "Bonus Room" one of the features. Models are on Hwy. 39 about three miles south of the Westminster Boulevard signal.

Westmont Offering Flexible Terms on 'Bonus Room' Homes

A preview showing of the newest unit of George M. Holstein and Sons' Westmont community in the Huntington Beach area offers a wide selection of plans and the most flexible terms, the developers reported.

Although a limited number of homes are now available for quick occupancy in the current unit, the offering of the new group means buyers may select lots, color, plan and exterior and move in in late spring, the pioneer builders explained. All plans are available once again with the popular "Bonus Room," the big 440 square foot room that is just right for play room rumpus area, or extra bedroom, the Westmont builders assured.

• • • •

ALONG WITH the Bonus Room, the homes offer wood roofs, fireplaces, extra large deeded lots, and many other features. Prices start at $19,995 with no down payments for veterans and low down payments for FHA buyers.

In stressing early selection the builders pointed out that the new unit and its time schedule made an ideal opportunity for buyers who were selling their current home. Buyers in the new unit will be protected as to price and plan choice and still have almost three months to make arrangements to move, the Holstein firm declared.

To reach the Westmont "bonus room" homes, from the Long Beach area, stay east on Garden Grove Boulevard to Hwy. 39 and turn right. Drive south three miles past the Westminster Blvd. signal. The models are on the left of the highway behind the new discount department store and are open daily.

BERT'S EYE VIEW

Pulsating Pin-Ups Greet Fleet

By BERT RESNIK
TV and Radio Editor

The girls on the dock gaily waved as the Navy ships pulled in to Long Beach Naval Shipyard and tied up.

The sailors, like good, healthy sailors should, waved back.

The girls were gorgeous.

For a sailor who had never before been in California, this truly was Hollywood-on-the-docks.

This truly was a land where pin-ups—gorgeous, gorgeous, gorgeous — were made with pulsating life instead of being slick-paper, fan-magazine pictures for shipboard locker adornment.

As they waved, the sailors envied.

They envied the shipmates for whom the pin-ups were waiting.

But the truth is that it was a rare sailor for whom the gorgeous girls were personally waiting.

The Navy boys disembarked and, suddenly, envy evaporated.

* * * *

FOR WHERE there stood a lonely sailor — and there were plenty standing lonely — there hurtled a beautiful girl into his arms to hug and kiss him.

For some of the younger salts, this back-to-earth reception was just a little too sweet.

They ran from the girls like a school of fish fleeing sharks.

But most of the sailors, like good healthy sailors should, readily cooperated. And as they, obligingly returned the hugs and kisses, the Navy men thanked the good fortune that had brought them into a port where pin-ups were made with pulsating life — and all for them.

All for them, that is, until a megaphonic voice shouted, "Cut!"

* * * *

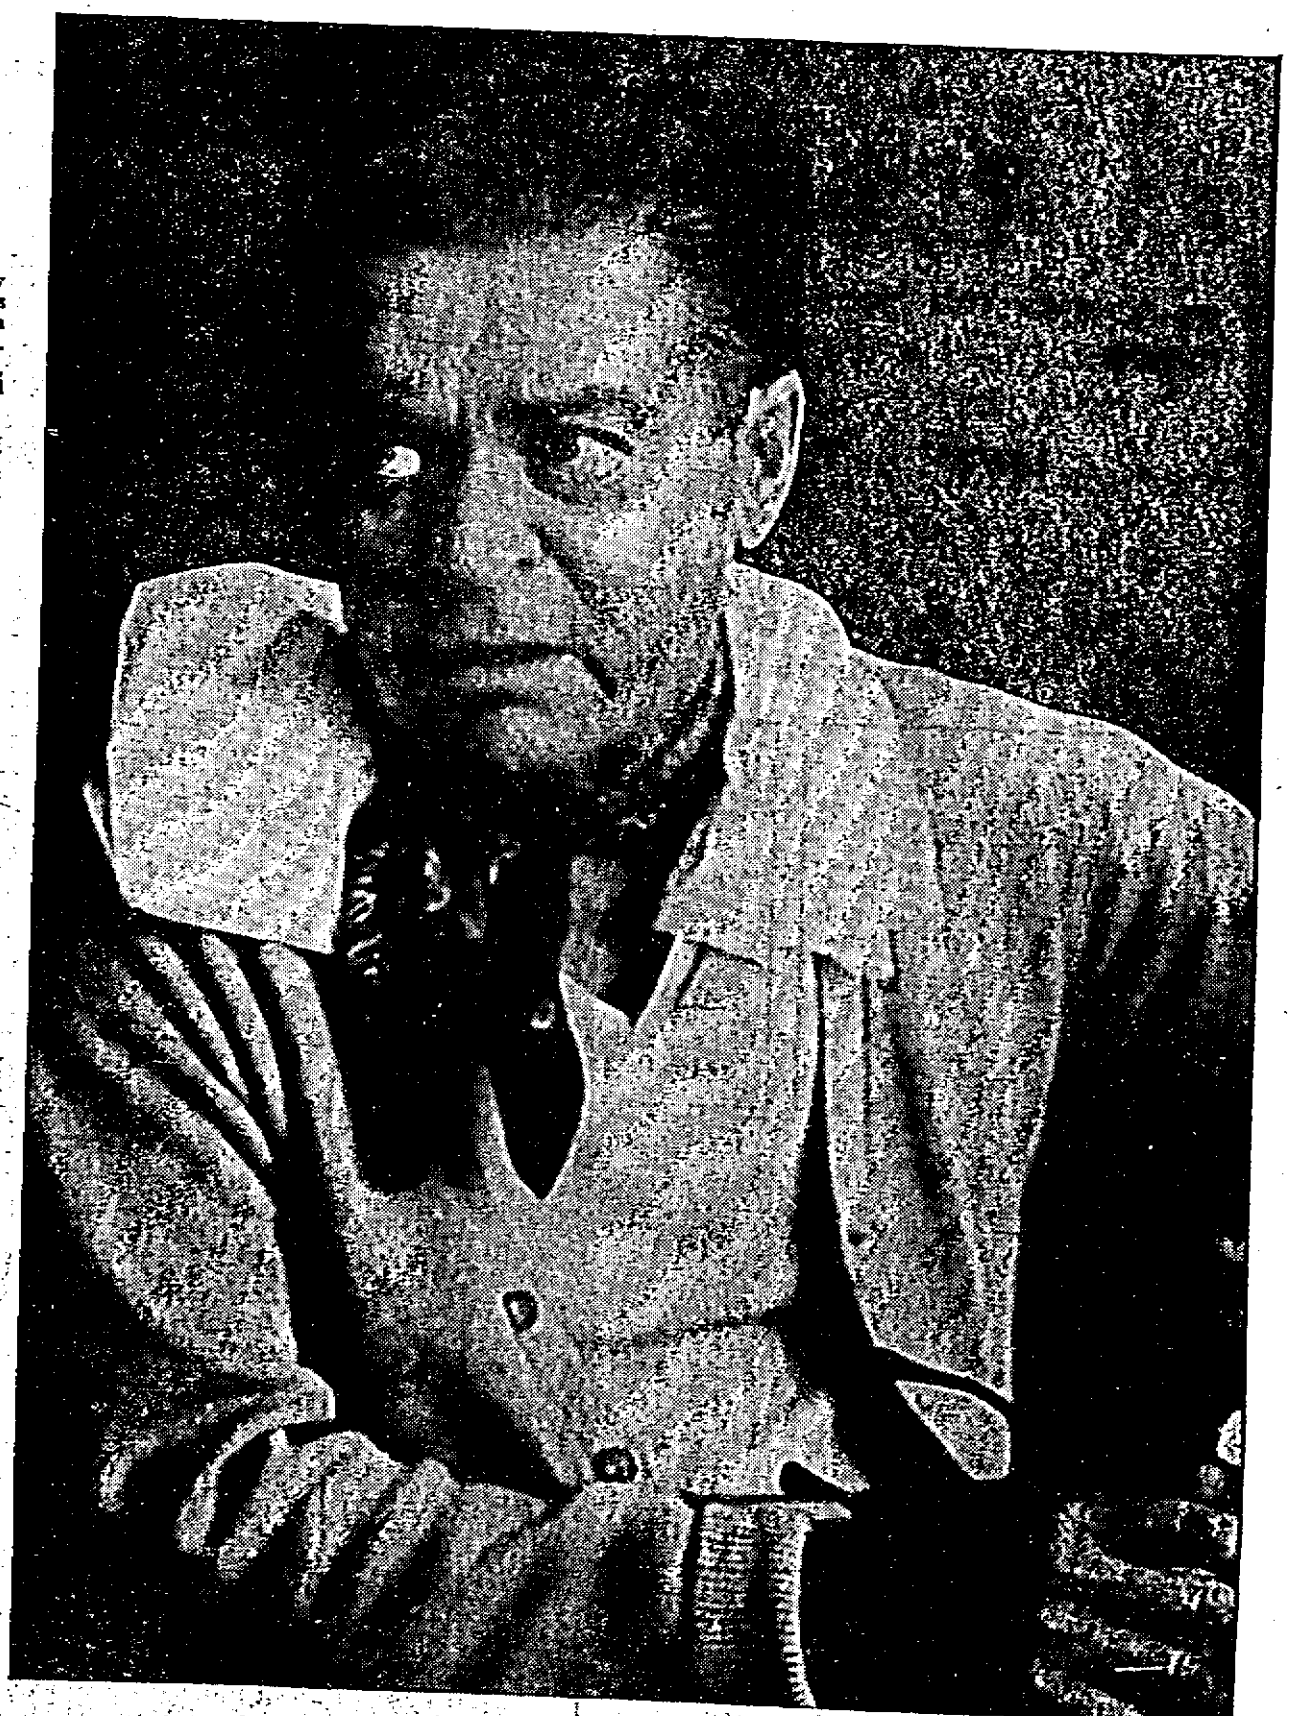

CHESTER MORRIS leaned back in his chair and laughed.

"The girls pulled away from the sailors like the five o'clock whistle had just blown," he said.

"Some of the sailors—poor kids—almost fell flat on their faces. They never did understand."

What was to understand was that a movie, "The

Morris Recalls Pin-Ups Fleet Salute

Devil's Playground," was being made. It was a movie that required a scene where the returning fleet was greeted by an abundance of pulchritude.

To acquire that abundance, the movie's producers hired about 100 of Hollywood's most beautiful starlets and models, then convoyed them down to Long Beach for the scene-shooting.

"That was in 1948," said Morris, "the first time I was in Long Beach. I was with Richard Dix and Dolores Del Rio. We stayed here a couple of weeks."

* * * *

THIS TIME Morris was in Long Beach for a television drama, the "Alcoa Premiere" play airing 10 p.m. Thursday on channel 7.

It features Morris as the manager of an arena and the Long Beach Arena was used for the filming.

Morris much prefers filmed or taped television to live TV.

"Let me tell you how it used to be with live television," he said.

"Take, for example, 'Studio One.'

"On dress rehearsal night, we had a half-hour before airtime in which to supposedly relax.

"Well, at 25 minutes to 10, the public address system would come on and a mournful voice would say:

"'Twenty-five minutes to airtime.'

"The same voice would give you the count-down every five minutes. Then, at a quarter of 10, the voice commanded:

"'Cough. Cough now.'

"At 10 minutes to 10 the voice said:

"'All visitors will please leave.'

* * * *

"AT 5 MINUTES to 10 you were hoping the warden and chaplain would come in, walk you down the last mile and throw the switch so you wouldn't have to go on.

"Just about that time along comes the cameraman and solemnly wishes you, 'Good luck.'

"I tell you that once you were on it took 10 minutes to get the cotton out of your mouth you were so scared."

DENNIS JUNIOR ASTRONAUT

Jay North 'Very Warm in Spacesuit'

By WILLIAM D. LAFFLER

NEW YORK (UPI)—Young Jay North, television's "Dennis the Menace," knows exactly how Astronauts Scott Carpenter and Wally Schirra must have felt when their spacesuits became overheated.

Jay spent three uncomfortable hours in a real Mercury capsule while Screen Gems was filming sequences of a "Dennis" show which CBS will televise Sunday (today, 7:30 p.m., Channel 2). In this episode, Dennis dreams he is orbiting the earth.

"It was very warm in the spacesuit," Jay said. With great pride, Jay noted that his spacesuit is identical, except for size and electric wiring, with that of the seven astronauts.

This orbit episode was filmed after Jay had been designated "Junior Astronaut" by the U. S. Treasury Department in a drive to get school children to buy savings stamps.

JAY NORTH
Orbits Tonight

Jay is enthusiastic about his role as young ambassador for the Treasury Department.

* * * *

"OTHER school children can become junior astronauts by buying savings stamps," Jay said. "And they will be doing something for their country, too."

On television, Jay is a curious child who innocently creates problems for his blustery neighbor, "Mr. Wilson."

While Dennis the television character is somewhat of a menace, real-life Jay North is a well-behaved, good-mannered young lad.

Jay was just beginning his grammar schooling when he was selected to portray Dennis.

Once Jay became a Sunday night television fixture, he no longer was able to attend school. Now he receives his education from a tutor on the studio set.

"I have to study at least three hours a day because California's education laws are tough," Jay said. "I'll do a scene and then study with my teacher and then go back and do another scene. But I must complete three hours of study every day."

This rigid law applies even when Jay is traveling. A tutor accompanies him.

'Perry Mason'

Raymond Burr is on-camera an estimated average 90 per cent of each "Perry Mason" show on the CBS Television Network.

WIGS

Throughout this month you may buy your wig directly from me at wholesale and save from $60.00 to $90.00.

Every January I make my wholesale prices available to the public for the one month and permit each individual woman to have a wig at exactly the same wholesale price that beauty salons and wig salons pay me during the rest of the year when they buy a dozen or more at a time.

My wigs are all one hundred percent pure European human hair of virgin cutting and are made by the proudest and most experienced wig makers in France and Germany. There are no better wigs anywhere at any price. They come uncut and unstyled ready to be fashioned to your own good taste by your own hair stylist.

Shop around first and then compare these prices: German or French in dark ash, strawberry, copper, auburn, mink brown, dark brown, sable and black $38.90. (The average retail price for these wigs is $150.00. You save $61.10)

Light platinum, regal platinum, silver beige and platinum beige $93.85. (The average retail price for these wigs is $165.00. You save $71.15.)

Champagne beige, salt & pepper and light ash $99.95. (The average retail price for these wigs is $190.00. You save $91.05.) All prices plus 4% California sales tax.

By definite appointment made by telephone you may select your wig in the privacy of my home in Bellflower, purchase the wig on the spot and take it right with you at the time. No waiting. Appointments available from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. 7 days a week during this special offering.

January is the only month of the year during which you can get a wig at wholesale so it is suggested that you not delay too long. $38.90 — $93.85 — $99.95.

RELAX

Whirl away the excitement and cares of everyday living in billows of warm, turbulent water with a

JACUZZI WHIRLPOOL BATH

Many common headaches and sleepless nights are the result of everyday tension. The stress and strain of modern living frequently cause back and neck muscles to tighten...causing pain and edginess.

Hydromassage usually provides the relaxation needed to ease pain caused by tension. The forceful, moving water filled with bursting air bubbles is the kind of pleasant massage most people enjoy after a busy day. Whirlpool warm water massage relaxes muscle spasm and stimulates local blood circulation where applied.

If you suffer tension headaches...can't sleep at night—Relax. You should try a Jacuzzi Whirlpool Bath in your own home bathtub. This pleasure can be yours immediately—perhaps tonight.

On the Cover

On today's cover, lovely Marilyn Crooker of Long Beach chats with Bud Parr, operator of the Hotel Cabo San Lucas, which — despite its remoteness on the tip of Baja California—has become a favorite vacation spot for Southlanders. Marilyn and her husband, Jim, Long Beach auto dealer, are among many Southern California aviation enthusiasts who make the scenic flight down the Mexican peninsula's rugged coastline to the new resort. There, waters of the Pacific and the Gulf of California combine to produce the finest marlin, sailfish and dolphin fishing in the world. More about this Mexican playground on Page 9.

This Week

One of the most unique trailer clubs in the country is the Uga Shonton, which traipses off to some Southland rendezvous once each month for an outing. Reaching campsite, members emerge in full Indian regalia, plant their ceremonial flag and flank it with tall totem poles identifying not only tribe, but individual members. Next week, Southland tells you all about these interesting gadabouts.

The Visit of the Merry Monarch

By Anna Lemley

WHEN THE SHIP Benicia sailed into San Francisco Harbor in 1874 another first was charted up for California—the honor of greeting the first reigning monarch of another country ever to visit the United States. The visitor was King Kalakaua, ruler of the island kingdom of Hawaii, then known as the Sandwich Islands.

David Kalakaua, who was sometimes called the Merry Monarch, was an expert at combining pleasure with business. Pleasure began with band music and cheering crowds of California. The king's journey across the continent was a social triumph, for everyone who met him liked him. In Washington, President Grant took Kalakaua and his companions, Gov. Dominis of Oahu and Gov. Kapéua of Maui on a tour of America's historical spots. Gala dinners and entertainment made the royal visitor welcome. But when Kalakaua addressed a joint session of Congress (another first) offering a trade treaty, the jovial guest was all business man and responsible ruler.

The king told our lawmakers that Russia, England and several other world powers had approached him, seeking the use of the Pearl River lagoon, one of the world's finest natural harbors. He pointed out the value to us of a naval and coaling station on the shipping lanes between the Orient and America, and offered what he had refused to others, a trade treaty encompassing the use of Pearl Harbor in return for a tariff-free market for Hawaiian sugar.

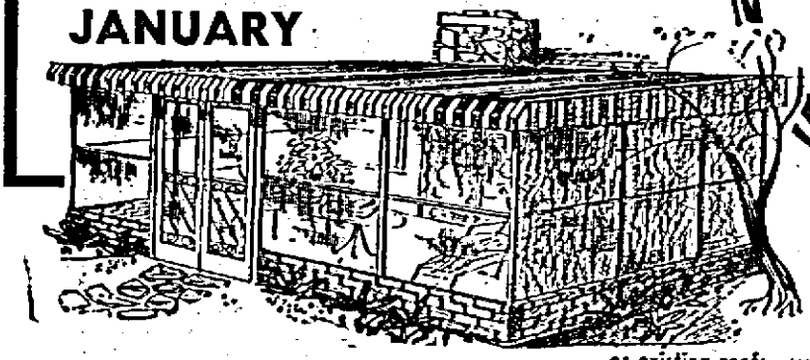

CONGRESS was divided on the proposal; some thought the sugar tariff meant more but Grant and many others were for it. The deadlock ended with a temporary treaty going into effect, to be ratified two years later after much struggle. Thirteen years after the United States was given exclusive rights to the harbor. Through the decision and work of Kalakaua strong ties of friendship and trade were forged between Hawaii and this country. A different decision on his part and the 50th state might be part of Russia today!

Historians say Kalakaua was a ruler who made mistakes but never made an enemy. He was intensely ambitious for his country, determined that it should become economically strong. At one time he placed his sister Liliuokalani in power as acting regent and went on a nine-month tour of the world. He recruited laborers for the sugar plantations and brought to Hawaii four of the five main racial groups that make up its population today: Japanese, Chinese, Portugese and Filipinos. American settlers needed no recruiting.

True to his happy way of life the King had a wonderful time on his trip. He was entertained by the Emperor of Japan, given a royal welcome in Egypt, Siam and Italy, and

Doodling Under Glass

By Muriel Mercer

RECIPE for a custom-made picture: Take one old-fashioned oval-framed picture with a good convex glass, to provide the necessary room for this operation. Remove the back and withdraw the picture of the gentleman with the handlebar mustache, or the photo of the lady with the 15-inch waistline.

Now, cut a new cardboard back from heavy cardboard. Measure inside of back area for doodling space on reverse side. Later you will cover this cardboard with another of larger size to give support to doodling board.

Using an old-fashioned oval picture frame with raised glass, hobbyists may develop interesting doodle art.

At this point check frame to see what condition it is in if you have not done so before. If it is wood and in good condition it may only need hand waxing. If a metal covered frame on a wood base, like that in the accompanying illustration, plan now what color it will be, not only to harmonize with room in which it is to hang, but also plan to blend with colors of the picture you are going to create.

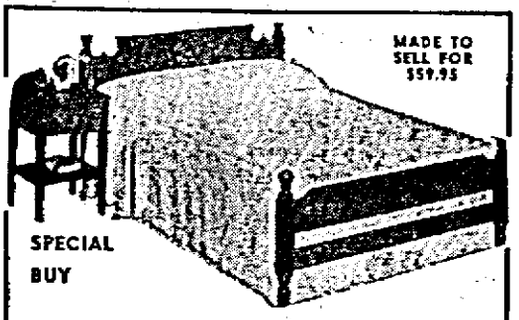

NOW CLOSE your eyes and concentrate. Remember the purpose of using the picture with a convex glass. It is to provide space to build a many-leveled scene. This gives actual rather than a painted depth. You may plan a thick mass near the center, if a hard material such as the ceramic fish shown, is used. You may be inspired to re-

One of nature's most remarkable rituals studied

Science Tracks Great Whales to Calving Lagoons

Zoologist Dr. Kenneth Norris tries to open mouth of newly born gray whale in study of the mammals with marine biologist Robert Eberhardt.

By Lou Jobst

EACH WINTER and spring Southern California is a witness to one of nature's most remarkable rituals, the 12,000-mile migration of the great gray whales.

Among the largest animals on earth, the 40-ton "devil fish" travels from the Bering Sea to the warm water lagoons of Baja California to breed and give birth to their young.

Plowing through the seas at up to 10 knots, the huge herds—numbering some 5,000 whales in peak years—pass within a few miles of the Southland shore and are visible from such vantage points as Point Vicente, the Palos Verdes Hills, La Jolla and Point Loma.

Thousands of Southern Californians, armed with binoculars and telescopes, gather on the bluffs December through February to view this phenomena while the more intrepid of the whale-watching fraternity board fast boats to chase the herds in the open sea.

PIERPOINT LANDING in the Port of Long Beach operates a whale excursion service which in six weeks last year carried more than 5,000 passengers.

The migration southward also is followed by the scientist and each year researchers descend on Scammon's Lagoon, a favorite nesting spot 500 miles south of San Diego, to conduct experiments and study the great mammals.

In the past, the scientists have jabbed the whales with electronic needles to study their heartbeats, tagged them with sonar transmitters to learn how deep they dive, chased them with airplanes, miniature submarines and self-propelled boats.

But none of the hundreds of experiments matches the efforts this year of two researchers, Lockheed marine biologist Robert L. Eberhardt, 3720 Leland St., San Pedro, and UCLA zoology professor Dr. Kenneth S. Norris, 5 Fruit St. Rd., Portuguese Bend.

NORRIS AND Eberhardt are studying the maternity habits of the 45-foot mothers and have succeeded in measuring a half-dozen newborn calves.

How big is a baby whale? Whopping.

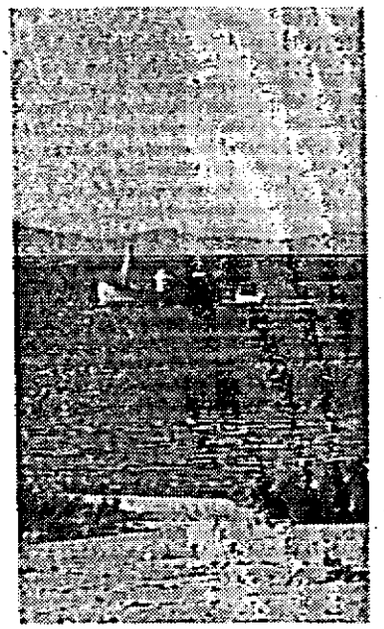

The pair found one 17 feet, 8 inches long. It was too heavy to weigh.

Unable to separate the babies from their fiercely protective mothers, Norris and Eberhardt, who sailed to Scammon's in December aboard the Lockheed oceanic research boat, Sea Quest, had to wait until a newly-born whale was separated from its mother or stranded in shallow water.

Then they waded into the surf and with a steel tape measure took down the vital statistics on the threshing baby whale. They recorded the dimensions of the baleen (whalebone) plates inside the mouth, throat grooves, fetal folds, flippers, water spout blowholes, eyes and blubber thickness.

MOST OF THE stranded young died, but Norris and Eberhardt rescued a live 15-foot bull calf they found floundering in shallow water.

Tugging and pulling, they managed to get the calf into 10 feet of water while its anxious mother, blowing and sounding, waited nearby.

Research boat Quest plies lagoon in search of whales.

Before freeing the beast, Dr. Norris put his arm into the whale's mouth and felt inside. He reported the whale, otherwise lethargic, gave a vigorous sucking movement.

The scientist spent seven days in the lagoon and counted some 700 whales. The voyage is a part of a continuing study of whales by Lockheed-California Company's antisubmarine and oceanic research division.

THE PAIR plan to prepare a paper for publication on the natal habits of the gray whale which is also known as the California gray whale, mussel digger, rip-sace and devil fish.

One thing researchers have ascertained in recent years is that the gray whale—once thought extinct—is growing in numbers.

At one time the herds numbered more than 25,000, but uncontrolled whaling decimated the species and at its ebb point there were probably only 500 left.

Twenty years ago the gray whale was put on the protected list and the herds began to grow. An estimated 3,000 were counted in 1959 and 5,500 last year.

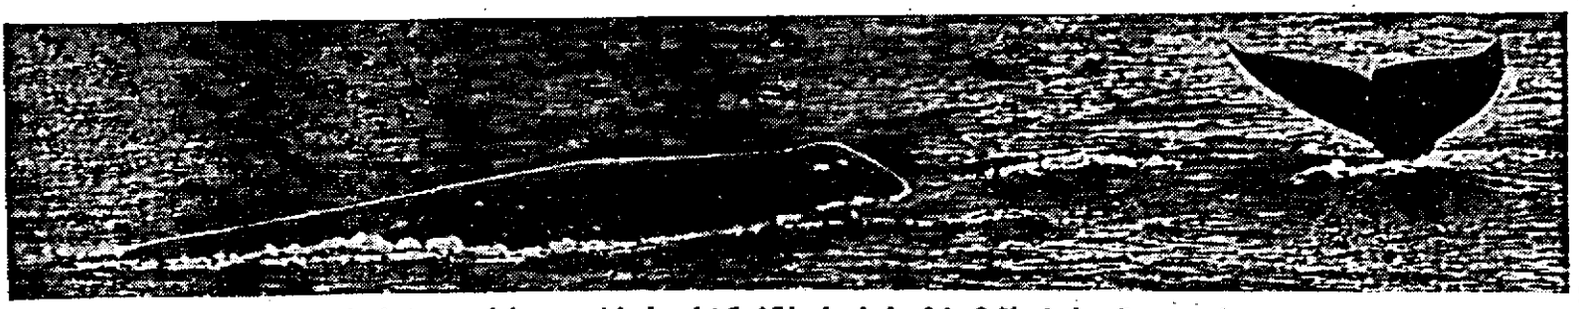

The herd this year may number more than 7,000.

THE GRAY WHALE is smaller than most of its brethren which includes the blue which may reach 100 feet in length and 100 tons, the 70-foot fin whale, the 60-foot sperm whale and the 70-ton bowhead.

Their color is gray with pale mottling on the underside and head region. They have a short dorsal fin and a series of small humps leading from it to the tail.

After mating and birthing in the south, the gray whales turn north to the Bering Sea to feed.

The gray whale gives birth every two years.

A giant gray whale, scarred back and tail visible, heads for Baja California breeding grounds.

Successful Long Beach contestant tells how to win prizes in

The Boxtop Bonanza

Having won the keys to a Cadillac (but not the car) for a day, Mrs. D. E. Reaney of Long Beach, frequent winner in "Why I Like . . ." contests, starts on tour of Hollywood with daughter-in-law, Mrs. Mike Reaney, Signal Hill.

By Renee B. Simon

IN 25 WORDS or less you can now win a buffalo, a fully furnished house, or a snug little island. As an attention-getting device, no Madison Avenue gimmick has yet gripped the imagination of the purchasing public as powerfully as the consumer merchandising contests. Every ad that offers free trips to Hawaii or the chance to pluck $50 bills from a money tree shouts "Stop, Look, and Listen!"

Who could resist the temptation to vie for an oil well or a glamorous sports car? American housewives, with a hopeful, anything-is-possible attitude, conscientiously snip boxtops and write jingles, waiting to stumble over the rainbow's pot of gold.

Despite occasional outcries from skeptics, the tide of entries and boxtops continues to rise. If the doubters ask, "Where are the winners?" the sponsoring companies counter with long lists of them from every state in the Union. Who are they then, these winners of trips to Hawaii, private islands, hideaway mountain cabins—and how do they do it?

"IT'S NOT EASY, but anyone can win," says Mrs. D. E. Reaney, a Long Beach resident and frequent winner on the boxtop circuit. Her own experiences and successes provide a sound basis for that view. A past president of a local contest club, she is a youthful grandmother who has turned her skills as a free lance writer to the difficult task of finding the winning combination of 25 words or less.

"To win the buckets of dollars and merchandise," Mrs. Reaney expains, "takes more than good fortune. In those 25 words you must inject sincerity, originality, and aptness of thought—the judges' usual guidelines. Condensing an idea into a few words is harder than you might imagine," she adds. "I never just dash off a few lines."

Those who enter contests regularly know that only the carefully-thought-out entry survives the keen competition. A nationally advertised contest attracted at least 500,000 entries and frequently double that many. It is not unusual for a first-place winner to have competed against one-in-a-million odds. A major milk company competition a few years ago drew an unprecedented 2.9 million prize seekers. Advertisers concede that, against such odds, even a nation ready for any gamble needs added incentive to keep trying. For that reason, they have baited their advertising hook with one more lure—the hundreds of subsidiary prizes for those who can't come in first.

THESE COMPRISE the bulk of Mrs. Reaney's winnings. She does not claim to feed her family on contest prizes. In fact, she discourages anything but the hobby approach. What she wins are the extras that add up to a little luxury in the home. Her contest gleanings read off like a trading stamp catalogue and the variety pleases everyone in the family.

Her husband particularly enjoys his share of the prizes although he himself has no interest in contesting as a hobby. He has acquired various power tools to enrich his hobby of carpentry. The fishing rods and accessories Mrs. Reaney has won for him would please the most discriminating angler. The most thrilling prize, however, was the 16-foot boat she won as fourth prize in a national contest. That is the closest she has come to a top award, but secondary prizes are often less troublesome. "Taxes alone on the more glamorous prizes make them more a burden than a gift," she claims.

Aside from the challenge and excitement of contesting, surprise endings can add another pleasant touch. A local radio station contest offered the winner modest, but free, supplies of fruit and vegetables. Mrs. Reaney won, but the supplies were anything but modest. Instead, often throughout the year she could pick up huge 50-pound baskets of food—enough not only for her own household but plenty to share with neighbors and the families of her two married sons!

CHRISTMAS GIFT giving sags most charge accounts long into the New Year but stocking the tree creates new financial problems for the frequent contest winner. In fact, Mrs. Reaney's gift list created a reverse-twist situation. What to do when your supply of electric razors exceeds your supply of brothers, uncles, and nephews?

Winning small prizes doesn't leave her disappointed about the bigger ones that got away. The world cruise may have gone to someone with a better slogan, but she is still proud and satisfied to have won a trip to Las Vegas. She greets the phonograph records she wins with as much enthusiasm as she would any larger prize. "I can hear the postman coming half a block away," she says. "Never knowing what he may bring next is what makes contesting such an exciting hobby."

Mrs. Reaney accepts watch for entry in "Why I like Swiss-made watches" contest.

Her interest in contests developed quite by accident during an ordinary shopping trip to the supermarket. "Are you buying that brand of coffee for the label, too?" a stranger asked her. The woman, she learned, was an avid contest entrant. The unusual question led to a discussion of the consumer contest market and when they parted, Mrs. Reaney had accepted an invitation to attend a meeting that evening of a Los Angeles contesters' club. Neither woman won the coffee company prize but the chance meeting led Mrs. Reaney to many other successful entries and to the presidency of that club.

Contests which once were relegated to the side panel of a cereal box, today enjoy a deep respect as retail sales boosters for anything from aluminum shingles to never-fail rat killers. Heralded as a comparatively inexpensive form of advertising, the give-away contest and, incidentally, its associated product, always receive top priority display space in markets and store windows. Major corporations have found that profits in additional sales easily compensate for the nearly $60 million a year spent on consumer contests. Relying on the public's hunger for something for nothing, national contests lure millions to produce 25 words or less of sincere, original praise for soaps, dog biscuits, and breakfast cereals.

CONSUMER CONTESTS began as an advertising agency brainchild. Today they have become a business in themselves. Six national magazines devote their pages solely to contest information and self-help articles for the serious participants. Hundreds of clubs meet monthly to analyze contests, share helpful hints, and discuss mutual problems. Two correspondence schools have nationwide enrollment. For a tuition of three dollars a month the eager student may enroll for a 12-month course. The curriculum provides the winning techniques for every variety of contest giving each a thorough and comprehensive analysis. However, the schools offer no money-back guarantees.

While Mrs. Reaney has never gone to a school to learn the game, she has found her own successful approach to this national pastime. Read her advice before you accept the challenge to beat the odds:

"1. Don't get discouraged. Anyone with average intelligence, perseverance, and a product label can win.

"2. Contests are absolutely fair but each is judged by different standards. Find out on what basis your entry will be judged.

"3. Read the rules. Too many people skip over these. Thousands of entries are thrown away because contestants neglect to follow the rules.

"4. Take a sensible approach. Remember contesting is a hobby, not a livelihood."

Much like a good whodunit, the best part of the contester's hobby is the suspense of never knowing the ending. Will your jingle tickle the judges' fancy and if so, to the tune of how much?

Mrs. Reaney agrees that everyone loves to be a winner—even if only of a buffalo.

Mexican Mecca for Sportsmen

By Lee Craig

SWIFTLY GAINING STATUS as a favored vacation mecca for Southlanders is a magnificent, imaginatively designed resort hotel on the tip of Baja California, nearly 1,000 miles from Long Beach.

Part of the appeal to its Southern California visitors is the remoteness of the Hotel Cabo San Lucas, which is financially backed by a half-hundred of America's wealthiest men.

The hotel's soaring columns rise from the rocky slopes at the edge of the sea, where waters of the Pacific mix with those of the Gulf of California.

Lushly landscaped, the resort stands alone—except for a few permanent dwellings where its Mexican employes live—surrounded by desolate, cactus-studded hills. The nearest village, San Jose del Cabo, is 12 miles away.

MAIN MEANS of access to the hotel is by air, although an occasional yacht rides at anchor in protected Chileno Bay, which the resort overlooks.

A quarter-mile away is the hotel's 3,600-foot airstrip. Most frequent users are Southern Californians who fly their own aircraft down the long, desolate—yet picturesque—coastline from Tijuana. Others take airline flights to La Paz, then charter similar planes for the final 90 miles to Cabo San Lucas.

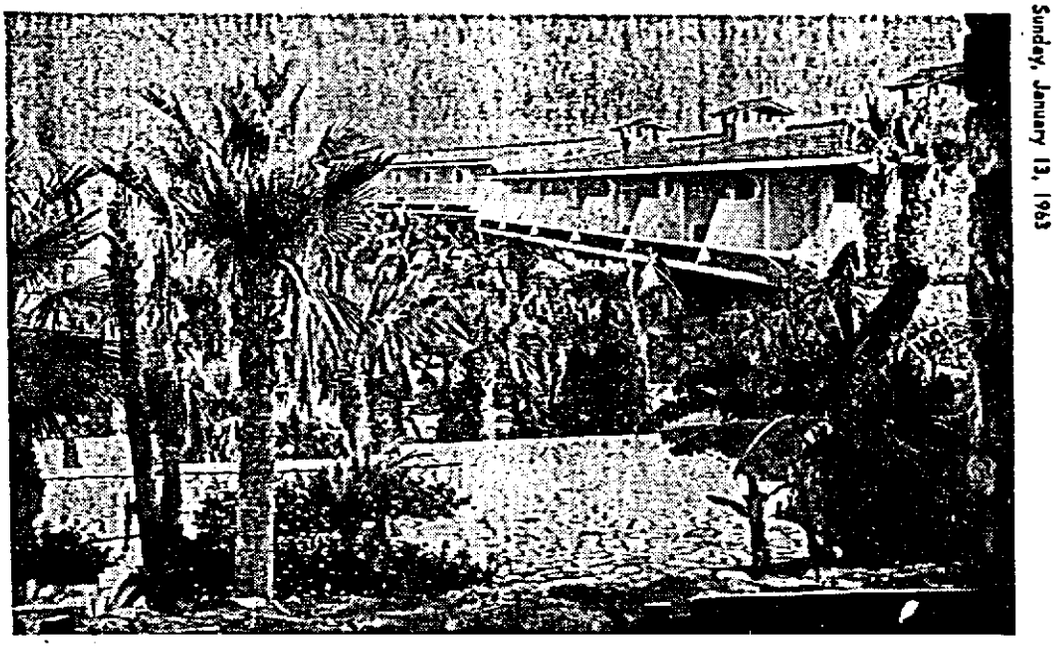

The resort recently bought a Cessna 182 from Larry Hunt, Long Beach Cessna dealer, to use in frequent pick-ups of guests at La Paz.

Since the hotel opened in April, its popularity has been assured. In several months, construction will be completed on a 30-room addition to the present accommodations for 36.

YET THE HOTEL exists only because of a half-serious remark at a party several years ago at the fashionable Los Angeles suburban home of attorney John Myers.

During the party, discussion got around to the lack of luxury resort hotels in Baja California, one of the most sensational fishing and swimming areas in the world.

Someone among the group—which included many of the Southland's wealthiest and most influential men—had an idea.

Hotel Cabo San Lucas is a remote fishing village and hunting resort situated on tip of Baja California, born of chance remark at meeting of influential Southland men. Above, view of living quarters, only top floor showing.

Why not build their own resort?

The suggestion met quick approval and Bud Parr, a retired Los Angeles investment broker, was elected to head the project.

Parr finally managed to obtain a lease on a four-mile strip of coastline, a mile deep, at the end of Baja California.

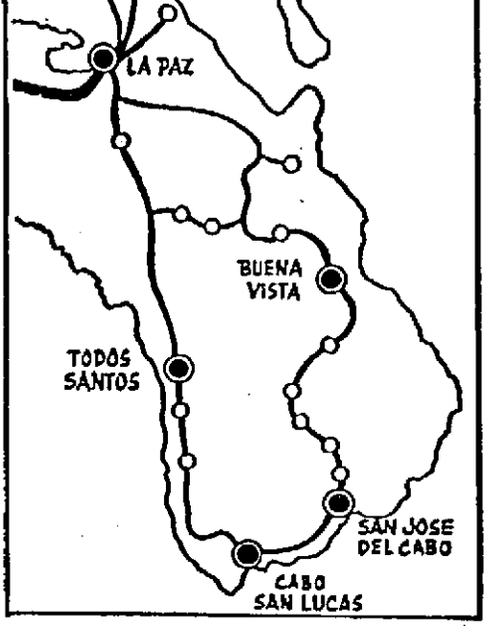

ONLY RUDIMENTARY roads served the area. Parr recruited workers at San Jose del Cabo and began building. Carpenters were imported from Manzanilla, sculptors from Guadalajara. Rock, cement and other supplies came from Ensenada by boat. A water well was dug and construction of the air strip was given high priority.

Dale Jeffries, retired Newport Beach naval architect, came down to supervise building of the hotel's fleet of fast, 31-foot fishing boats. Parr added to the resort's self-sufficiency by bringing in equipment to enable them to make their own gravel, cement pipe, tile, furniture and other products.

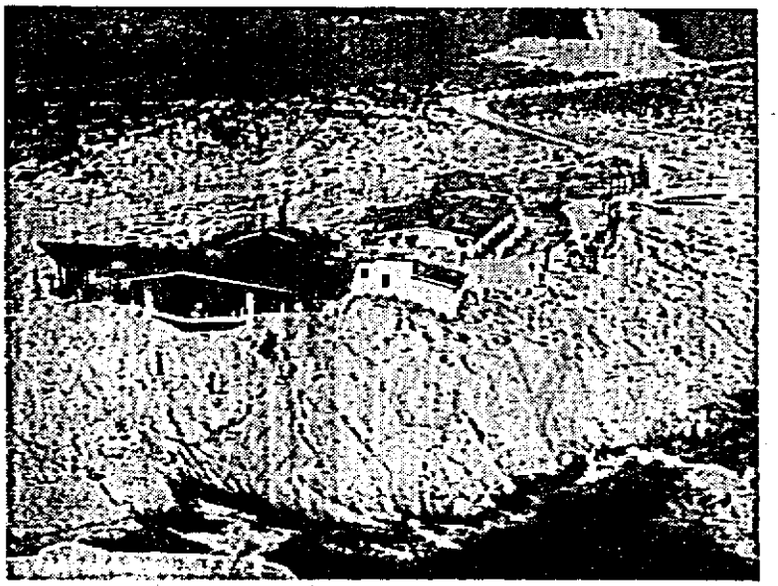

The construction went on for two years but when it was completed, Parr's backers were so impressed that several want him to build homes for them nearby. Among these are hotelman Baron Hilton and actor Kirk Douglas.

Fishing in the warm blue Pacific is unsurpassed. Marlin strikes have been made in less than five minutes from the bay. Dolphin, wahoo, lobster, shrimp and tuna are caught daily. For skindivers, the many varieties of colorful fish give the impression of swimming in a huge tropical aquarium.

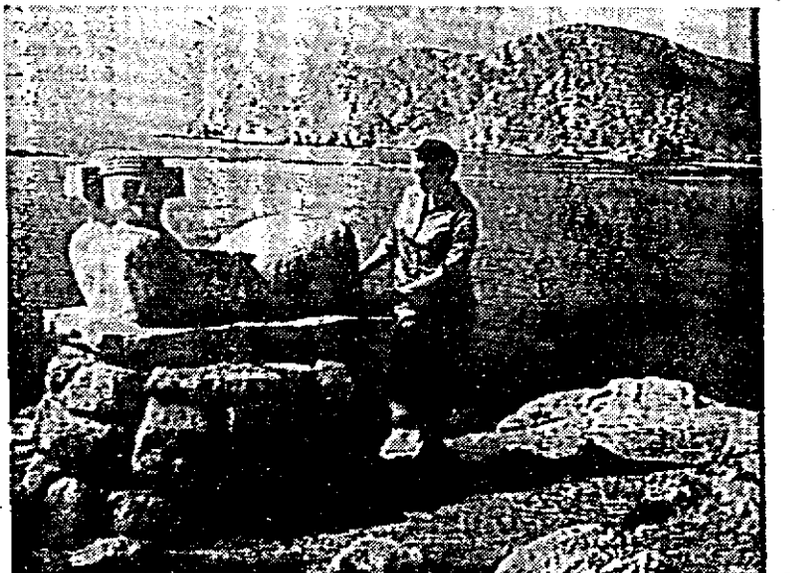

Other sports available include hunting safaris for mountain lions, deer and big horn sheep and shooting expeditions for doves, geese, quail, ducks and pigeons.

Map spots Cabo San Lucas, at tip of Baja California, where wealthy Americans have built resort hotel.

Chief access to the hotel is by airplane and a landing strip has been provided nearby. View northward is from plane flying over Chileno Bay.

You Ask, We Answer

By Heslip

Q. In making a sundial, what is the best metal to use? J. T.

A. Bronze or gunmetal is generally used. Copper, aluminum, brass, silver, German silver, and most of the other common metals are subject to tarnish or oxidation, and in a short time the lines become indistinct. Iron rusts too easily to make a good sundial material. To avoid any possibility of electrolysis, the gnomon (straight-edged indicator) and any screws making contact with the dial should be of the same material as the dial.

Q. Is an angel named Abbadona mentioned in the Bible? S. Y.

A. No. Abbadona, a fallen angel who regretted his share in Satan's rebellion and reproved him for blasphemy, is found in Der Messias (The Messiah), an epic poem by the German poet Friedrich Klopstock (1724-1803). This poem, written over a period of 25 years from 1748 to 1773, does not reveal the ultimate fate of Abbadona, but implies that he was redeemed.

Q. Please give the "One I love" rhyme that children use in "counting out." F. S.

A. One version is: "One, I love, Two, I love, Three I love, I say; Four, I love with all my heart, and five, I cast away; Six, he loves, Seven, she loves, Eight, they both love; Nine, he comes, Ten, he tarries, Eleven, he courts, Twelve, he marries; Thirteen wishes, Fourteen kisses, All the rest little witches."

Q. How many calories are there in coconut? T. L.

A. A piece of fresh coconut 2" x 2" x ½" contains about 160 calories; a cupful of fresh coconut meat, shredded, has about 350 calories. A 4-oz. package of dried, shredded, sweetened coconut has 629 calories; one cupful of this has 344 calories. One cupful of coconut milk contains 60 calories.

Q. What was the capital city of the Queen of Sheba's kingdom? C. D.

A. Ruins of alabaster palaces at Marib, in Yemen, have led to the belief that this city may have been the Queen of Sheba's ancient capital. Yemen is the southwestern part of the Arabian peninsula.

Q. What parts of the body are susceptible to sunburn? E.P.

A. The face, the skin in front of the elbows, and the legs are more sensitive to burning than other parts of the body and need extra protection.

Remodeling has added value to this home nestled behind its pleasant landscaping.

Bar separates kitchen from family room, a new addition. Kitchen underwent changes.

SOUTHLAND HOMES

Remodeling Made It That Much Better

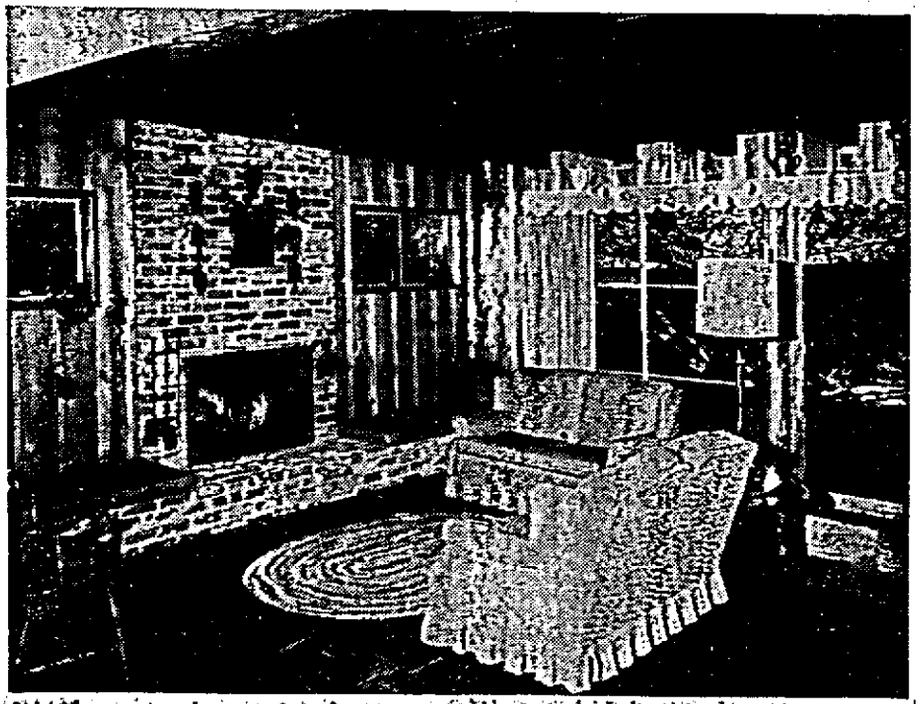

Good furnishings carefully placed give the living room of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Bronn a sense of spaciousness. The home has been extensively remodeled.

By Stella George

LIKE MANY knowledgeable home owners nowadays, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Bronn, 2794 Vuelta Grande Ave., liked their attractive tract home and its location and have customized it to their needs. Even before the remodeling, the home had many excellent features not always found in tract homes.

An entry hall leads directly ahead to the living room, to a bedroom at the right, and offers direct access to the kitchen. Major changes in the home consist of a complete remodeling of the kitchen and the addition of a large family room. The dining end of the kitchen has been remodeled into a desk area leaving the kitchen uncrowded and spacious. New built-in units lend a custom look to the room, and bright yellow tile makes it gay and sunny. The service porch area at the far end now opens into the kitchen and adds even more space.

THE FAMILY ROOM was added so expertly that it seeems like an integral part of the home, such as is found in an expensive, custom residence. Furnishings were chosen with excellent taste. A cozy corner has couches placed at right angles to each other before the used

Cozy fireside in the new family room is conducive to rest, relaxation and enjoyment of home life's pleasant informality— where guests may be made welcome, too.

An expanse of glass at the dining end of the family room looks out on the nicely arranged rear garden.

brick fireplace. The raised hearth provides seating area on either side of the fireplace itself. Knotty pine walls lend a homey feeling to the room, which is large, and there is an ample dining area with maple table and chairs placed near the kitchen. The open space above the sink, facing the family room, blends the two together. Items include a portable TV.

BLUE IS the color accent in the living room. Here the fireplace is more formal—of red brick, with a floor-to-ceiling bookcase at one side and draped window at the other. A handsome painting hangs above the couch. Furniture placement adds space to the room.

Interior decorating in the bedrooms was skillfully executed. Once again, blue is the color accent. In one bedroom the single bed is placed against the wall to double as a couch. A three-piece unit in one corner provides space for dressing table, chests of drawers, and work area. In another bedroom pale blue walls blend with the white carpeting. A white, wrought iron bed and white furniture add a feminine touch. The spacious master bedroom faces the garden in the rear.

Proof Lacking in Diet Claim

By Ben Zinser
Southland Magazine Medical-Science Writer

USE OF pregnancy hormone—HCG—in the treatment of obesity is questioned by the Department of Drugs of the American Medical Association.

A recent article in a popular magazine suggests that daily injections of HCG (human chorionic gonadotropin) can be beneficial in a weight-reduction program.

There is no scientific evidence to justify use of HCG in the treatment of obesity, the AMA asserts.

A TINY radio device that keeps a failing heart beating in normal rhythm is reported by three Florence, Italy, doctors in the Journal Surgery.

A receiver coil is surgically attached to the heart muscle. A transmitting device, also miniaturized, is worn outside the body.

Most "pacemakers" now in use involve wires between power sources and electrodes implanted in the heart muscle. The wire connections sometimes result in failure of the device. One advantage of the radio pacemaker: the frequency of the pulse can easily be regulated.

AN AUSTRALIAN scientist questions the claim that the drug phenacetin, found in APC headache preparations, can cause dangerous side effects such as kidney damage.

In a news report in Medical Tribune, F. H. Shaw, professor of pharmacology at the University of Melbourne, comments: If the drug were dangerous, there would be widespread illness because of its wide use during the past 50 years.

In earlier reports, some Australian doctors contended that excess use of phenacetin resulted in 50 deaths from kidney damage.

The drug is now under intensive investigation both here and aboard.

AIRLINES have adopted uniform standards for carrying handicapped and ill persons.

Barred by all airlines: Persons with malodorous conditions, gross disfiguration, contagious diseases. Also denied transportation: Unattended persons unable to care for their own needs and individuals whose behavior might be hazardous to others.

AN OIL-IN-WATER emulsion, when added to bath water, often gives relief to patients with skin ailments, reports Dr. Alexander Borota of New York City.

The preparation, called Sardo, benefited 122 of 135 patients afflicted with various skin disorders.

Skin became softer, itch diminished and inflammation decreased, Dr. Borota says in the Journal of the American Geriatric Society.

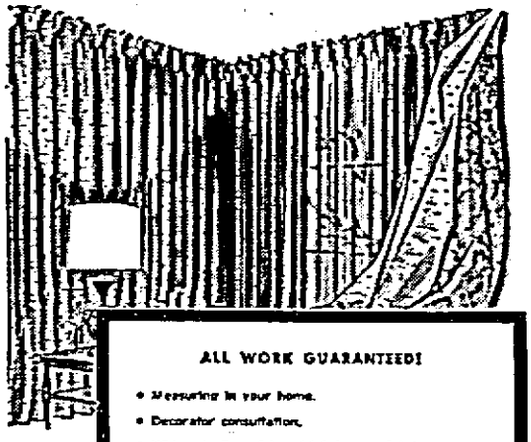

The effect of one bath lasted several hours, he says.

CONNECTIVE tissue fibers of beef tendon have been used to fashion a yarn for the reinforcement of hernia repairs.

Buffalo University researchers say the substance is stronger than synthetic Dacron mesh and that it is absorbed in 80 to 120 days, leaving no foreign body imbedded in tissue.

THE BRITISH Ministry of Health now recommends, for safety's sake, that initial smallpox vaccinations be given during the second year of life—not the first.

CAPSULES: Two live-virus mumps vaccines are scheduled for testing among humans next year. . . . There's no evidence that drinking tea or coffee can cause stomach cancer or kidney tumors, the British Medical Journal says. . . . Fewer than one out of seven hospitalized psychiatric patients can pronounce all the consonants correctly, an Indiana researcher has found. Investigators are seeking the significance of the finding.

Luscious King crab meat may be enjoyed all year long in a variety of dishes--from appetizer to soup, through main dish to salad. Low in calories and high in energy-giving protein, the tender pink and white chunks of pure meat are ready to use as soon as they're thawed, and ask only for subtle seasonings and congenial liquid accompaniment.

You can plan superb menus around the King crab and sparkling beer and ale, beginning with an appetizer of thawed crab meat chunks served with a beer- or ale-flavored dip of mayonnaise seasoned with Tabasco, the zesty liquid red pepper. King Crab on the Menu rooms, onion and celery in a sauce subtly tanged with beer or ale and spiced with Tabasco.

Crab Valerie presents the Alaska King crab blanketed with a savory Port Salut or Cheddar cheese sauce. A light, fresh salad mingling the flavors of crab, orange and grapefruit sections, sprinkled with a simple Tabasco French dressing. Simplest supper of all is broiled crab legs basted with a mixture of melted butter and Tabasco.

The giant Alaska King crab is found in the cold watery depths of 300 feet around the Aleutians, Bristol Bay, Kodiak and Sand Point, Alaska, and the Bering Sea. The body of the crab contains little edible material, but the claws and legs produce on the average 4 pounds of meat with excellent flavor and delicate texture. Only the prime male crabs are used, and the legs and claws are washed, trimmed, chilled, packed and frozen right on the fishing boats. Wakefield Fisheries' facilities, in full operation, can handle from 18,000 to 20,000 crabs a day, processing 60,000 pounds of meat. From the live tanks to deep freeze, the entire procedure takes less than 60 minutes, preserving the moist tenderness and delicate fresh flavor characteristic of Alaska King crab. The crab is packed for consumer use in 6-ounce solidly frozen blocks of meat and 12-ounce packages of split legs.

Light, refreshing beer and ale are the perfect beverages to serve with crab dishes so the delicate flavor of the fish may be fully savored.

Crab Valerie

2 packages (12 ounces each) frozen Alaska King crab legs
2 tblsps. butter
2 tblsps. flour
½ tsp. Tabasco
1 cup milk
1 cup crab liquid
½ cup grated French Port Salut*

Defrost crab legs and drain thoroughly, saving the liquid for sauce. Remove crab from shells, slipping meat gently off the membrane strip. Clip membrane from shell with scissors. Cut crab meat into chunks, replace in shells, and arrange in shallow baking dish. Melt butter; gradually add flour. Stir in Tabasco, milk and crab liquid. Cook to a smooth sauce. Add grated Port Salut, stirring over low heat until cheese is dissolved and sauce is creamy and smooth. Remove from fire and spoon over the crab legs generously. Place crab legs under preheated broiler and broil until crab meat is hot and sauce is nicely browned (about 8 minutes.) YIELD: 3-4 servings.

*—If desired, ½ cup grated Cheddar or other cheese may be substituted for Port Salut.

Special Crab Bisque

3 cups skim milk (or liquified nonfat dry milk)
1 stalk celery, cut up
1 small onion
2 cloves
1 bay leaf
1 tblsp. butter or margarine
1 tblsps. flour
½ tsp. salt
½ tsp. Tabasco
1 package (6 ounces) Wakefield's frozen Alaska King crab meat
Minced parsley

Heat milk with celery, onion stuck with 2 cloves, and bay leaf; strain after simmering about 15 minutes. Melt butter, stir in flour; add seasoned milk, salt and Tabasco. Stir smooth and add frozen crab meat. Simmer over low heat until crab thaws and separates, stirring frequently. Sprinkle with minced parsley as served. YIELD: 4 servings.

Memory's 'Secret'

By Harry Karns

Education Research Associates

QUESTION: What is the secret of a good memory?

ANSWER: William James, the psychologist and philosopher, wrote a brilliant answer to that question in his "Principles of Psychology."

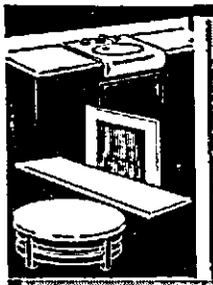

The "secret," he said, is to think about a fact as much as possible.

A football player who can't remember his class work may perform astonishing feats of memory on the gridiron, memorizing intricate plays and signals to perfection. He goes over these things in his mind, thinks about them, weaves them into a system. They are not just so many odd facts, but a concept that means something to him.

"In a system," James points out, "every fact is connected with every other by some thought-relation. The consequence is that every fact is retained by the combined suggestive power of all the other facts in the system, and forgetfulness is well-nigh impossible."

He adds then a paragraph which I find valuable enough to quote almost word for word and which every parent should read and explain to his school-age children:

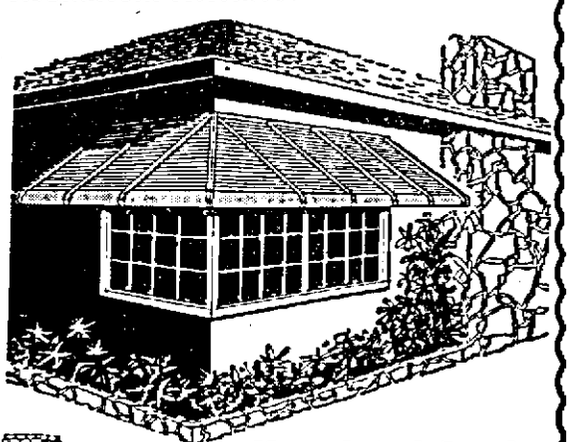

"THE REASON why cramming is such a bad mode of study is now made clear. I mean by cramming that way of preparing for examinations by committing 'points' to memory during a few hours or days of intense application immediately preceding the final ordeal, little or no work having been performed during the previous occasion, for one purpose, cannot possibly have formed many associations with other things in mind. . . . Speedy oblivion is the almost inevitable fate of all that is committed to memory in this simple way. Whereas, on the contrary, the same materials taken in gradually, day after day, recurring in different contexts, considered in various relations, associated with other external incidents, and repeatedly reflected on, grow into such a system, form such connections with the rest of the mind's fabric, lie open to so many paths of approach, that they remain permanent possessions. . . . Of course there is no moral turpitude in cramming. If it led to the desired end of secure learning it would be infinitely the best method of study. But it does not; and students themselves should understand the reason why."

Cottoning-up to a couple of canines was easy for Cozy, a kitten, ready for a cat nap here with Samoyed, Blizzard.

Cozy Takes a Lickin'

By Eleanor Avery Price

EVERY ONCE in a while someone will quip, "Don't you ever get tired writing about animals and how to take care of them?" Frankly, I never do. But I also like the funny, sunny side of pet life. So when I heard about Blizzard and young son, Rogue, two snowy white Samoyeds, being disturbed over the family's new snowy white Persian kitty, Cozy, because, although it was properly white, it meowed and did not smell properly doggy, I hurried to see their owner, Mrs Verla Davis, 8514 E. Compton Blvd., Paramount.

I was just in time to witness the two dogs giving Cozy a little assistance in making her more worth while. And Cozy was learning the lesson that now and then a cat must content itself with pleasing the dogs and that there are times when the better part of valor is abject surrender. Besides, a sandpaper-tongue lickin' was all that Cozy needed to make her one of the gang. A dog can overlook meowing, but an un-dog-like smell, never!

SANTA ANA Valley Kennel Club will have a sanctioned match Jan. 20 at the fairgrounds in Costa Mesa.

One thing, though, Cozy had to get used to a dog-licking, as is demonstrated here by Blizzard's son, Rogue.

ENTRIES close Wednesday for the Cal Coast Cat Club show in Long Beach Municipal Auditorium Feb. 16 and 17. Entries may be registered and reservations made for a luau planned by the club by telephoning Mary Niemi at HA 5-6990.

LA REINA RULE

WHAT YOUR NAME MEANS

Send your name to La Reina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif., for origin, meaning and brief genealogy, for reply only in this column.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please explain O'HARA.—Mrs. E. M., Long Beach.

E.M.: — O'HARA is from the Gaelic Irish clan O'Heaghra, translated as "sons of the precise, methodical one." The ancester was Eaghra, a famous leader of Luighne in County Sligo, Ireland, who died in A.D. 926. Since the 1300s the Clan O'Hara has been divided into two branches, O'Hara Buidhe (Yellow O'Hara) and O'Hara Riabhach (Brindled O'Hara). Both family lineages were dispossessed of their land by the English in the 1600s. The ancient O'Hara shield is green, decorated with a black rampant lion standing on a vertical gold stripe with serrated edges.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give data on TEAGUE.—Mrs. B.T., South Gate; D.T., Lakewood.

B.T., D.T.: TEAGUE is an Irish surname. The uniquely talented ancestor was Taidgh whose name meant "the poet." His descendants, the Clan O'Taidgh, lived in Derry, Thomond, Wicklow and Connaught in the Emerald Isle. Tadhg O'Taidgh was Bishop of Killaloe in the 11th century. The old Gaelic name was modernized in the 1500s to O'Teige, Tigue, Teague and Tighe. The family shield has a diagonal blue stripe between three blue crescents on a silver background.

DEAR MISS RULE: What is the origin of BUSTAMANTE. — Mrs. J.S., Lakewood.

J.S.: BUSTAMANTE, a Spanish name, has an unusual significance, meaning "large-chested man with a cloak." This described a forefather who wore a short cloak of striking colors. The family shield is gold, emblazoned with thirteen blue circular spots. Anastasio Bustamante of Spanish ancestry was an early 19th century president of Mexico.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give genealogy on SORRELL. —O.S., Torrance.

O.S.: SORRELL was taken from the old English word "Sorel" a nickname meaning "redhaired man." Ancestors include John Sorel of Oxfordshire in 1273. The Sorrell coat-of-arms has two ermine-covered lions on a red shield.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give genealogy on FALKENBURG or VALKENBURG. — E.S., Long Beach.

E.S.: FALKENBURG and VALKENBURG are Dutch names commemorating the famed, impregnable fortress once owned by this old family. The original name Van Valkenburg, translates as "from Falcon Castle." This family's coat-of-arms was granted at Haarlem near Amsterdam, Holland. Their shield is gold, emblazoned with three red castle towers, each with a symbolic black falcon above it. In the center of the shield between the towers is a large red castle.

Will Japan Turn Her Back on America?

By Vera Williams
Southland Magazine Book Editor

ON THE NIGHT of May 19, 1960, Japan's parliament, the Diet, was besieged by a mob of more than 150,000 rioters. Within, a parliamentary battle raged, in which jeers and heckling gave way to a physical struggle for control of the speaker's chair.

The origin and future significance of this explosion form the core of James Cary's "JAPAN TODAY: RELUCTANT ALLY" (Praeger, $4.95). Cary, for six years an Associated Press correspondent in Japan, witnessed the night of violence and the month-long struggle that followed.

The governmental chaos, triggered by the scheduled ratification of the U.S.-Japanese Security Treaty, cast grave doubt not only on the solidity of our mutual ties but, more important, on the effectiveness of Japan's role as a link in our Cold War defenses in Southeast Asia.

If Japan, the most industrialized of our allies in the Pacific, again should be paralyzed by conflicts between right and left, labor, militant students, pacifists, might she then turn her back on the United States and make common cause with her ancient neighbor Communist China?

To this sobering question, Cary provides informed answers, illuminated with sketches of Japan's leaders in politics, universities, labor unions and industry. He reaches far into Japan's past for the roots of conflict, as well as analyzing the effects of the war and the American occupation on the social, economic and intellectual life of Japan. Thus he draws a portrait of 94 million people "rushing down a road whose direction no one can foresee."

Cary, who since October 1960, has been assigned to the Washington, D.C., bureau of the Associated Press, is a son of Mrs. Ruth F. Cary, and brother of Miss Ruth Lee Cary, both of 161-B Corona Ave., and brother of Clinton B. Cary, 6503 Belen St. His son, James Christopher, was born in Long Beach in 1949. For years the writer and his family have vacationed in Long Beach.

CARL SANDBURG

"Honey and Salt" is the title of a new volume of poems by Carl Sandburg, published on his 85th birthday by Harcourt, Brace & World ($4.95).

FRANK BUCHMAN, founder of Moral Re-Armament, was a 20th Century revolutionary with a message as old as human nature. He drew his conception of Moral Re-Armament from his American heritage — and it grew with a force which has healed hostilities, settled bitter disputes and successfully challenged communism on many fronts in Asia, Africa and Latin America.

In "FRANK BUCHMAN'S SECRET" (Doubleday, $2.75), Peter Howard, British author-journalist who worked closely with Buchman for nearly 20 years, reveals with insight and humor the secret that made Buchman's life significant.

MAX LERNER means his "THE AGE OF OVERKILL" (Simon and Schuster, $5.95) to be a preface to the politics of today's world. He polemicizes that world politices, in the classical sense, is kaputt, fini. Wars, he says, are no longer waged, nor is peace made, to bring about a balance of power. World politics must now transcend the power principle.

Lerner considers power clusters and power centers, calls communism a political religion, and gives the emerging "undeveloped nations" a thorough examination. Thought-provoking, if not always convincing.

King Kalakaua, merry monarch of the Hawaiian Islands, laid foundation for the 50th state.

Merry King

was a companion of the Prince of Wales in London.

AS KALAKAUA watched folk dances in many lands he realized that Hawaiian customs should be preserved. Hula dancing, forbidden since the early days of the missionaries, was made legal and revived by his edict.

Like so many of his countrymen, the king was a good musician. Many of the beautiful songs he composed reveal his love of nature and of country. When Kamehameha V was ruler he asked young David and Lilio Kalakaua to write a national anthem for Hawaii. A week later "Hawaii Ponoi" was in the hands of the leader of the Royal Hawaiian Band, ready for arrangement.

Music was one bond between the pale thin poet, Robert Louis Stevenson, and the sturdy brown ruler. A love of fun was another. Unfortunately few pictures were taken of the King. One of him and his poet friend sitting under a hau tree in Stevenson's yard would be a treasure. The King played a guitar and the poet a flageolet. They also sang together in this favorite spot, and no doubt planned the antics that amused the King's subjects.

KALAKAUA also liked splendor. The only palace standing on American soil was built for him. At the first gala social event, a dinner given for 100 of his fellow lodge members (he was a 33-degree Mason), he christened the palace Iolani, a sacred Hawaiian word meaning Bird of Heaven. Today Iolani Palace is the State House.

There is a saying that all visitors either return to California or long to. Two years after Kalakaua's historical first visit the king returned hoping to regain his health which had failed alarmingly. The jolly man who loved travel, people, music and the country he ruled for 17 years died Feb. 12, 1874, in the land that 85 years later would welcome his country as its 50th State.

Glassmaking History in Goblets

By Helen Gillum

FINE OLD GLASS goblets owned by Mr. and Mrs. Joe H. Scott, 1710 McKenzie St., portray an important period in glassmaking. Numbering about 135 in all, the old drinking vessels display a wealth of favorite patterns and designs from American glass houses from the 1830s through the 1870s and later.

Since the Scotts are partial to goblets made of flint glass, their 65 items of this category are particularly outstanding. A typical example is a flint glass goblet from the 1830s in the Giant Sawtooth pattern. Although it could easily qualify for the title of the "unprettiest" item in the entire collection, it is noteworthy because it is revelatory of America's earliest attempts at both flint (lead-content) and pattern-pressed glassmaking. Thick-stemmed and very heavy, the series of faceted diamond forms projecting from it are huge and crudely shaped. Small bubbles and imperfections are visible in the body, but it is a good illustration of some of the wares that emerged from Enoch Robinson's newly patented "pressing machine" in 1827.

Beauty and antiquity are represented in this selection from the glass collection of Mr. and Mrs. Joe H. Scott.

JUST AS interesting is a frosted Thumbprint, a flint glass goblet from the 1830s, of which there are believed to be only four in existence. The bowl, stem and pedestal are made in three separate pieces in the "pressed on" manner, a term which describes the method of pressing handles and other forms separately and attaching them to the pressed bodies while hot. The object of the "frosted" effect in much early glass was twofold—to add beauty to the piece, and to cover any imperfections.

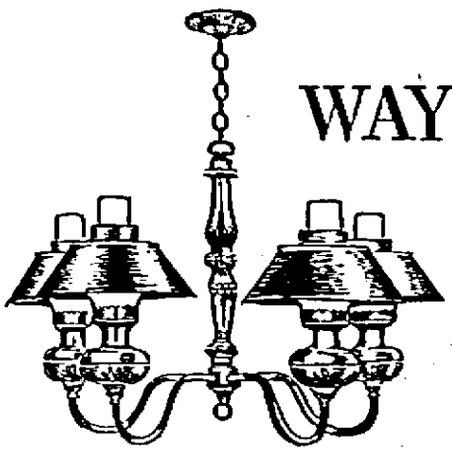

The rarest flint glass goblet in the collection is one of 1860 with Morning-Glory pattern, from the Sandwich factory. Other rare ones include two "Chilsons" from the 1860s, this pattern being named after a Mrs. Chilson, glass fancier and collector of that time. Additional patterns in the flint glass are Bull's-Eye with Wishbone, three Bull's Eye with Diamond Point, and two Horn of Plenty.

MAGNET and Grape with Frosted American Shield, and Magnet and Grape with Frosted Leaf are good examples of the frosted technique. Many of the goblets are exceptionally beautiful in their crystal clearness and smoothness of texture, the result of the "fire-polishing" technique developed in the late 1800s. All the goblets "ring" with varying bell-like tones in the manner of good flint glass.

Pretty and unique is a pair of 1860 "Mercury Glass" pieces. Many of such elegances (also known as "Boston silver glass) were made in the 1850s and the 1870s. The interior of thin, double walls of flint glass were coated with mercury in a chemical process similar to that used in silvering mirrors. The glass object was then sealed so that the mercury could not tarnish.

A beautiful, gold, iridescent Aurene goblet by Steuben and an overlay are art glass pieces. Three non-flint pattern-glass goblets of the 1880s in a rare blue color are in the Wildflower, Diamond Point, and Fine Cut and Block designs. The Scotts also have representative pieces of purple slag, custard, carnival, milk glass and French Bristol.

LOVELY GEISHAS wrapped appropriately in silken kimona, stroll along a portion of the famed Silk Road, the ancient route extending from Europe through the Middle East to the Orient—once traversed by Marco Polo. This road, which leads to the most exotic trading ports in the world, reopened recently when Japan Air Lines extended its present Japan-Bangkok service on to Calcutta, Karachu, the sheikdom of Kuwait, Cairo, Rome, Frankfort and London. Further service connects London with Tokyo by way of the North Pole.

Doodling

produce your own garden, or your house and grounds, or a ship at sea, in which you might build up waves, using plaster of Paris as a base. A photograph of yourself, your husband or child, using actual jewelry, real cloth for clothing, a simulated book (or racing form) for your husband's picture, with a real tie pin, real beard—this is accomplished by throwing sand in his face (only on the picture of course).

THE PICTURE shown is a marine scene. The person for

Beautiful effects, using dried or artificial flowers on velvet backgrounds, have been created by the author. One of the exhibitors at the Festival of Arts at Laguna Beach this year had similar plaque. He used great bunches of flowers, making use of lace paper doilies with delicate effect. However his decorations did not have a glass cover and most of us would shudder in horror at the prospect of these dust covered gems, come mother-in-law visiting day.

THE PICTURE shown is a marine scene. The person for whom it was made has many colors in the room in which this picture is to be hung. Tiny bits of color will reflect the room decor, but the background of real beach sand has a soft harmonizing movement. Now to the method.

Take several layers of newspaper. Lay on flat surface. Picture shown was created by this step-by-step procedure: The cut cardboard was covered with a paste made of flower and water, with an addition of about a teaspoon of glue. Sand was tossed into this mixture. A bronze spray can was held in the right hand, while the left rotated the sand strewn cardboard, to give a wavy look to the background. At this point the author also sprayed the picture frame with bronze.

Next, the dried weeds were glued on. The ceramic fish was centered at highest point of glass where there was the maximum amount of room for clearance. Household cement was used to affix the soft plastic fish and the mermaid. A few wooden curls made by planing a piece of wood were cemented for air bubble illusion. Raw rice and bits of washed, inner peeled egg shells were stuck about on the lower quarter. A green glass bottle was broken and crushed. The medium sized pieces were also applied with glue. On the left side a long stem of artificial vine, with small shell-like artificial flowers, was sewn on in three places, through the cardboard back.

SPARKLE IN three colors was placed at interesting spots with a light spread of cement. Cotton was thinned to a weblike thickness and arranged sparsely. A piece of white net, scalloped at top, was placed over the lower quarter of the picture, by stapling in four places. A few flat shells and bits of pearl stones completed the plaque. Cutting a thinner piece of cardboard to cover the entire back, gave it an added support and it was ready for delivery.

One last word: Keep placing glass over surface as you add odds and ends, before gluing. You will find that the curved glass will accommodate only so much bulk. Be careful to not push any material against glass from underneath, as any movement against the glass from outside could scratch or break it.

Happy doodling under glass!

The Adjustabed is an adjustable bedboard providing comfort in sickness and in health.

In sickness, it offers patients many of the advantages of a multi-positioned hospital bed as well as certain psychological benefits. The sickroom atmosphere, often present when using a hospital bed, is avoided. The Adjustabed, because it operates with a standard bed, does not disturb the home setting. The patient is comfortable in his bed and in his surroundings.

In health, the Adjustabed is ideal for just watching television, reading, or relaxing in bed.

By placing the Adjustabed between a standard mattress (innerspring, hair, felt or rubber) and spring, the Adjustabed makes your bed into a many-positioned bed. The Adjustabed, 35 x 74 inches, will fit any single or three-quarter size bed and will function with a double bed when occupied by only one person. It folds compactly to 35 x 27 inches; it weighs 35 pounds.

Coming Up: A Fair in the Desert!

By Fred Taylor Kraft
Travel Editor

IF YOU PLAN a trip to the desert in the next few weeks, as thousands will, jot down the dates of Feb. 15-24 on your calendar.

That is the time of Riverside County's National Date Festival — one of California's most unique fairs — at Indio.

This event stems from exactly what its name implies —dates. Ninety-five per cent of the country's dates are grown in the Indio locality. The annual output is more than 40 million pounds.

But there is much to see in addition to the exotic date (and citrus) displays on the 84-acre fairgrounds.

First, of course, will be the greeting of Queen Scheherazade and her court of 10 fetching Arabian princesses. And each night for the duration of the fair will be a free attraction, the Arabian Nights Pageant, a drama combining music, dance and mystery and set on an authentic Arabian stage. The cast of 150 will wear costumes valued at more than $35,000.

BUT THAT'S only a starter. Another free attraction will be a gem and mineral show, advertised as the largest in the West.

Also scheduled is a national horse show each afternoon, with camel and ostrich races as intermission events.

A Palm Springs Antique Car Club exhibit will include 18 cars of 1903-26 vintage, and sand dunes buggies.

A trailer show will encompass 11,000 square feet, complete with professional patio landscaping.

In addition, of course, will be a midway and thousands of exhibits in a complete Arabian setting — Far Eastern architecture, brightly striped tents, swaying date palms, costumed fair personnel, and elephants, camels and Arabian horses.

ALL OF THIS, of course, poses a field day for photographers, and fair officials have arranged for the costumed girls appearing in the various shows to pose at 2:30 p.m. each day around the big Arabian Nights stage where the setting is exotic.

The surrounding date gardens and picturesque desert canyons also offer pleasing possibilities for shutterbugs.

Indio is located 25 miles east of Palm Springs and 30 miles north of the Salton Sea.

OTHER LATE January and February events in the desert include:

The 22nd annual Palm Springs Rodeo, Jan. 26-27. The movie colony is always well represented in the audience.

Palm Springs' fourth annual Golf Classic — Jan. 30-Feb. 3 — with its $50,000 added purse and a $50,000 cash prize for any pro who makes a hole-in-one. Participants usually include such stars as Arnold Palmer, Gary Player and Jay Hebert, and such celebrities as Kirk Douglas and Jerry Lewis.

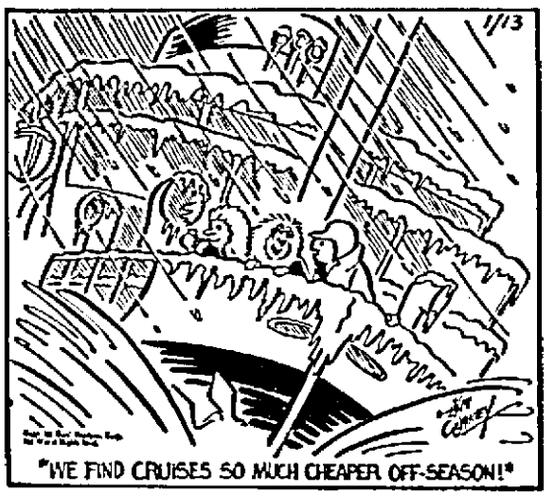

YOSEMITE National Park had its greatest year in 1962. The visitors numbered 1,505,496, surpassing the previous record, set in 1961, by 278,386. One of these visitors was President John F. Kennedy.

Factors contributing to the increase were the heavy snowfall last winter, the warm April-May weather which caused the famed waterfalls to run much fuller than normally, and an influx of easterners bound for the Seattle World's Fair.

M. K. GUERTIN, 4217 E. Ocean Blvd., for years secretary of the nationwide Best Western Motels chain, pretty nearly takes over the current issue of Tourist Court Journal. His picture appears on the montage cover and inside is a five-page interview with him by Doug Cochran, editorial director of the magazine.

If you travel by family car, and want to know all about this highly successful motel chain, write for your copy (35 cents) of the January number of Tourist Court Journal (306 E. Adams Ave., Temple Tex.).

TRAVELING LIGHT by the Sloanes

No Hotel Worry

Late-arriving travelers to the cathedral city of Reims, capital of the Champagne country, no longer need to worry about hotel hunting. From 7 p.m. throughout the night, a new electronic push-button board at the Reims railroad station does the job instead.

By merely pushing the button next to the name of any Reims hotel, the board lights up the number of available rooms at that moment. A quick call to the hotel then confirms the reservation.

Girls in Oriental costumes will pose for photographers at Indio's National Date Festival, February 15-24.

Around the World With

DELAPLANE

"Could you give us approximate costs on going to Hawaii? Any ways to keep expenses within reason?

THE ROUND TRIP jet from the West Coast is $250. But if you're willing to do nine hours by piston plane (instead of four-and-a-half by jet), you can get it down to $200.

"For a family, I'd get a price on the Matson Navigation Co. (San Francisco) cruise ships. More than air fares, of course, since you eat and sleep four days, five nights. But it's a most pleasant, relaxing run to the islands.

There's a combination fare so you can fly home.

Highest hotel prices are those right on the beach. Stay a couple of blocks away and you'll cut it in half. The outer islands are cheaper than Waikiki. Air fares won't bother you much. The longest run is one hour.

The small costs that mount up: Room service has an extra charge most places and a 75-cent minimum. (The children order a Coke. Bingo, 75 cents. Send them across the street.) Exotic tropical cocktails are full of pineapple sticks and have romantic names. However, they come at $1.50 a smash.

Leis from the lei seller stands OFF the main Kalakaua Boulevard are half or a third what they are in the hotel flower shops.

There are a number of small restaurants a block off the boulevard. Same price differences as on the leis.

". . . what place you like best in the islands outside Honolulu?"

MY personal preference is Kauai, a half hour flying time from Honolulu. I've been going out to Hanalei Bay, almost to the end of the island. The new Hanalei Plantation House is on a hill overlooking the white sand beach and bay where they made the picture "South Pacific."

People living in the islands think the island of Maui is the coming country. Sheraton should have their new big hotel open there this year.

". . . can you get to the South Pacific islands easily from Hawaii?"

Easily, but until air fares are lower (by increased traffic), expensively. The 2,500 miles from the mainland to Hawaii is $250 round-trip. But the same distance to Tahiti is $500 round trip.

Well worthwhile if you can afford it. Or if you can stay long enough to prorate the travel cost over a number of days. The route is flown by South Pacific Air Lines of San Francisco and the French line TAI.

"Where do we go to learn the hula when we go to Hawaii. . . ?"

Free lessons in the hotels. Mornings for guests at Hilton Hawaiian Village. Afternoons for guests of all Sheraton hotels in the banyan court at the Moana.

". . . what the good buys are?"

The Waikiki beach area is full of all sorts of things from all over the Pacific. Not all inexpensive. But the best overall shopping selections.

Some of them are: Woven planters' hats with seashell bands from Tahiti. Kimonos, dolls and zori sandals from Japan. Life-size toy koala bears from Australia. Cream grassy hula skirts from Bora Bora. Carved ivory from Hong Kong.

The BEST buys are probably island-designed and island-made casual clothing — sport shirts, slacks, bathing suits, muumuus, sport dresses. Great selection and very reasonable prices.

". . . resent your story that you cannot get shirts back from London laundries."

Sorry you resent it. Sorry I couldn't get the shirts.

". . . we found prices were fixed, one-price in Hong Kong. So why do you etc."

They're fixed if you only ask once.

Going Places

By SHIRLEY and BOB SLOANE

AMERICA is a remarkable country, what with journeying more than 5,000 miles over land and water, and never getting out of it. And it was a remarkable journey for us to Hawaii, seeing that we scarcely heard a word of American all the way.

"Good awfternoon," spake the captain, an airman named Bird, as we left New York. "We'll be floying at thuhty-foive thaousand feet, pawsing over Chicagao, Ioawa, Oamaha and Coloradao to San Franciscao."

It was a familiar pitch but we felt as if we were hearing it for the first time, like being in the right church but the wrong pew. The reason was that we were making this trip —ultimately to take us to the South Pacific and Australia— on Qantas, the airline with the misspelled name that is one of only two (neither American) permitted to fly across the United States on its way around the world.

QANTAS stands for Queensland and Northern Territory Air Service. If you didn't know those places are in Australia, you would have known whose international airline this was from Captain Bird's accent. Or else the pictures of Sweet Scented Wattle, Narrow-leaf Bottlebrush and other unlikely flora decorating the cabin walls of the 707 jet.

This unlikely airline befits the unlikely land of kangaroos, boomerangs and wattles, a place which needed air service long before we did. As a result, the airline reputedly was the world's first. It was also the first non-American line to operate the big jets, and the first of any flag to run them across the Pacific. That's a pretty progressive record for a country with only 10,000,000 inhabitants to push things along.

THE TRIP was a gratifying lesson in the wonder of America, and not just in terms of its size. The Australians aboard clucked wonderingly at the sights we are dangerously close to taking for granted—the towers of Chicago rimming the oceanic expanse of Lake Michigan, the endless farms of the plains, the rock formations of the desert and the majesty of the Rockies. The stewards lectured patiently and knowingly about the charms of San "Franciscao" while serving kangaroo tail soup and Australian burgundy seven miles above Des Moines.

By the time we were having lunch on the terrace of the Royal Hawaiian next afternoon, the plane and its passengers were in Sydney — wines, wattles, kangaroo tails and all. And we mused on how time and space are becoming even closer relatives in this ever smaller world.

Paris at Gayest

All over Paris, the house lights are dimming and the curtain is going up on the City of Light's new — and, many say, greatest — theatre season. Among the plays scheduled this year are Robert Dhery's hit "Branquignol," starring Colette Brosset, Louis de Funes, and Christian Duvaloix.

"Branquignol" will play at the Varietes Theatre, while Robert Soulat's "Baby Foot" will be at the Theatre de Poche. "Mic-Mac," at the Palais Royal, "La Maison d'Os," at the Theatre de Lutece, and "Turlututu," at the Theatre Antoine are among the nine other comedies and musicals opening in Paris this fall.

Tips on Gardening

Garden tips for this week: Plant perennials now for bloom in spring and summer. Delphinium, primroses, coral bells, candytuft, columbine and Shasta daisy are but a few of the many available.

Plant bareroot roses this month and start pruning old roses.

Be sure to keep Christmas gift plants watered. An occasional airing on the back porch or by an open window will benefit most of them also.

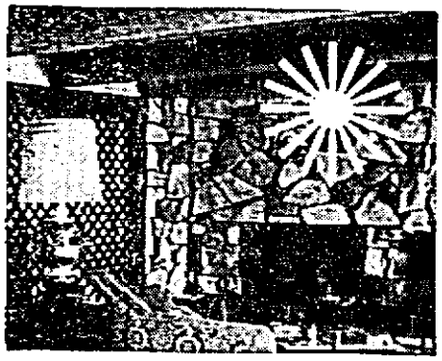

Plant artichokes, asparagus and several other vegetables from seedling flats this month.

Make your first planting of gladiolus as soon as they show up in nurseries. Some are already on the market.

Move 'Em Now

Winter is the best time to move most shrubs and trees. If you have any that are in the wrong spot, take shovel in hand and start digging around the roots. Most shrubs will stand bare rooting this time of year, but they are really better when you can take a sizeable root ball with them.

New Vegetables for the Garden

All-America Selections for 1963 go to Greyzini summer squash (top left), Buttercrunch lettuce and Hercules squash; below, Executive snapbeans and Emerald Cross cabbage.

ALL-AMERICA Selections for 1963 offer five new home garden and local market vegetables as the best of their kind to date.

These are high quality, prolific home garden varieties. They are good to eat and, except for the winter squash Hercules, should be picked at tender stage of growth, just in time to serve or to prepare for dinner.

Buttercrunch lettuce, Emerald Cross cabbage, Hercules squash, Greyzini summer squash and Executive snapbeans are the All-America winners.

Only one other vegetable introduction has merited award in the past three years, Just Right turnip. It is the first hybrid turnip, excellent for its uniform white bulbous roots of fine-grained quality and its abundant foliage for succulent turnip greens.

BUTTERCRUNCH lettuce, developed by Dr. G. J. Raleigh of Cornell University, is of highest eating quality, much larger heading and more heat tolerant than Kentucky Bibb, and a couple of weeks slower to bolt to seed. Leaves are thick, crisp and juicy, deep rich green in color except as blanched inside to creamy yellow or white.

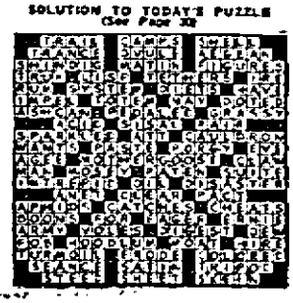

Emerald Cross cabbage is a true hybrid, developed in Japan. With exceptional hybrid vigor and uniformity, it is also extra early to mature its medium small heads, firm, round and perfect in appearance.

Hercules is of the most popular Butternut type of late or winter squash. But, it is much larger, thicker fleshed and with a straight solid neck. The vine is more vigorous. The seed cavity is very small in the blossom end. Hercules is highly productive, almost all solid flesh of fine texture and top flavor. It needs about 82 days for maturity.

GREYZINI summer squash is a grey Zucchini type, a true or F1 hybrid, generally earlier, slenderer and with a longer cylindrical or cucumber shape. It is more uniform and a heavier bearer on more vigorous bushy plants. Both skin and flesh are tender and of fine texture in its eating stage. It must be used three to eight days from the time its blossom drops.

Executive bush snapbeans brings further improvement and productivity to the Tendergreen type bean, most popular of all. Tendergreen won the AAS gold medal in 1933. Executive has darker green, full round pods of good length, slightly curved with rather long points. For home gardens, pods should be picked when young and tender. Also, small successive plantings should be made twice a month to keep up the supply for the full season.

Cassias Deserve a Place in Sun

Lush foliage and bright yellow flowers assure cassias of being noticed where the sun shines in the garden.

By Joe Littlefield

WHAT'S happened particularly to the so-called Hawaiian Candle bush? A few years ago they were highly advertised, now its hard to find them at many nurseries.

This cassia alata shrub provides a tropical effect, a rather coarse growth that eventually reaches 12 feet. The shrubs deserve spots in sunny garden areas because the upright heads of showy blossoms of vivid yellow, almost cylindrical in form, give the impression of candles—hence the common name candle bush. The flowering season is long.

Cassia artemisiodes, called feathery or wormwood cassia, grows to about five feet, stands cold down to about 30, even 20 degrees above zero. The gray-green, short, needle-like foliage presents a graceful effect. The yellow, cup-shaped blossoms in winter are quite fragrant. The shrub needs a sunny location and doesn't like wet feet.

HERE'S an easy way to have orphan areas of sunny back yard colorful and showy for late winter into spring: Soak the soil well and a day or so later, scratch it up as if to sow grass seed. Instead, sow baby blue eyes, or Virginia stock, or dimorphotheca the annual African daisy mixed colors of yellow, white, orange, salmon, nemesia, or linaret, the miniature snapdragons.

The best way to spread the seeds evenly is to mix the seeds with some manure in a water bucket or some similar container. In sowing the manure tends to separate the seed so you don't have it too thick in one spot, bare or thin in other areas.

Rake lightly after sowing the flower seeds. Keep moist till young plants are up about an inch. Water as needed thereafter.

Rose Field Day

How to plant roses correctly will be an added feature of the annual rose pruning demonstration field day at 1:30 p.m. next Saturday at Los Angeles County's Descanso Gardens, 1418 Descanso Drive, La Canada. The public is invited. Ample free off-street parking is available and 1,500 bundles of cuttings of old-fashioned roses will be distributed free to visitors after the demonstration.

"Scotty" Raitt, Descanso rosarian, will plant bare-root roses in the All America Rose Garden and will answer questions by visitors. A panel of rose growers, including Joe Littlefield, Independent, Press-Telegram garden writer, also will be on hand to answer inquiries. C. E. Jones, president of the Pacific Rose Society, will demonstrate his new method of mist propagation of rose cuttings, and society members will man 12 pruning stations.

1 out of 2 women suffer from P.M.T.

but don't know what's wrong

*Pre-Menstrual Tension may be an unfamiliar term to many women, but its symptoms are very familiar. In the week before periods, the body accumulates excessive water, then bloating, pressure on nerves and organs result, causing tension and discomfort. Now, in Pamprin Tablets, medical science offers an effective, yet simple relief. Pamprin safely removes the excess water from the body, thus easing tension. Irritability, emotional upsets, "nerves" are wonderfully calmed. Pamprin will not disturb the normal period—contains no hormones, narcotics or harmful sedatives. Get Pamprin at your druggist ... before your next period.

To every woman who uses vinegar for that certain "intimate" problem...

For the fastidious woman, science offers a special formula for personal feminine hygiene. Instead of vinegar (acetic acid) or harsh germicides, modern women suggest a new powder expressly for douching. It's called V.A. Powder—gentle, effective, pleasantly scented...and wonderful to use.

When mixed with water, each V.A. Packette makes exactly the right strength of a soothing, refreshing douche. It gently soothes, cleanses delicate tissues—can leave you poised, confident, sure.

Instead of old-fashioned vinegar or germicides, try new pleasantly-scented V.A. Powder. Available at all drug counters in convenient "packettes"—each one pre-measured to take the doubt out of feminine hygiene.

Windows With a View

WAYNE SHARP

BY DAY, the winter air is clear as crystal, lacking the haze and smog of summer. By night, the view through windows overlooking the ocean is a spectacular heaping of color, with the lights of Palos Verdes looming like a gorgeous Christmas tree.

Sit by those windows at the excellent Pierpoint Restaurant on Pierpoint Landing and whether it's night or day you'll see an endless stream of sights. Boats of all descriptions—tankers, cruisers, fishing vessels and yachts—go slowly past, their masts tall against the sky.

THE VIEW itself should be enough to delight anyone. But Wayne Sharp, proprietor of the Pierpoint Restaurant, gives his patrons much more. Each morning he visits the fishing boats docking near by and purchases fish as fresh as tomorrow. Among the delicacies currently in season (and priced remarkably low) are fresh albacore, caught off Mexico; fresh lobster from Catalina and San Clemente Island waters; Catalina sea bass; oysters, fresh from Maine; large shrimp and Alaskan king crab. The latter is offered cracked on ice, in a salad or as crab Newburg.

The prices for those beauties range from $1.60 for the rich albacore, baked, grilled or broiled, to $1.80 (that's no misprint) for the lobster. The oysters, giant tender shrimp and crab are $2.25. All include soup of the day, salad, fine baked potato, French roll or Italian twist roll.

The restaurant's International Room cocktail lounge gets its name from the interesting personalities who gather there, including French, Belgian, British, Canadian and Italian officers and men from ship in port.

'I turned against Red China'

by JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON, D.C.

LATE LAST YEAR, a frightened, exhausted Chinese Communist security officer named Chao Fu knocked at the door of the American Consulate in Frankfurt, West Germany, and asked for political asylum. He told an astonishing story of growing disillusion and despair over Red tyranny, a daring escape by night in a car stolen from the Chinese Embassy in Stockholm and an agonizing decision to abandon his wife and child, who remained in China as hostages.

At first, intelligence officers could scarcely believe him. But a careful cross-check confirmed that not only was Chao Fu telling the truth—he was also the most important Chinese defector ever to fall into American hands. Now under the wing of Chinese Refugee Relief here, he declares through an interpreter: "I am alone in a strange country whose language I do not speak. I have cut myself off, perhaps forever, from my wife, my child, my native land. I made my choice after six months of painful soul-searching. Yet I know in my heart that my decision was the right one." Here is Chao's story as told exclusively to PARADE.

Chao Fu was born February 3, 1935, the third son of Chao Lien-sheng, a peasant who didn't even own the land he worked. They lived in a remote mountain village, a cluster of weathered adobe huts, in eastern Manchuria. Their home had windows of greased paper, a raftered roof for a ceiling, no floor except the hard ground. Every inch of usable land was cultivated, every wisp of grass saved. The inedible straw was woven into baskets and sandals. Even the family sewage was hoarded, to fertilize the soil. Just to survive was a triumph.

New Father for Chao

Many failed to survive; an epidemic left Chao fatherless when he was 11. The following year (1947), Communism took over Manchuria and became his foster father. Chao had shown unusual intelligence and was selected for a special education at a military academy in Changchun.

After a three-year course, Chao was commissioned a second lieutenant in the Public Security Force, which is responsible for internal security. In 1959 he became a platoon commander at Chia Mu-szu detention house, not far from the Siberian border. Here, seeing the degradation of the political prisoners, he began to have his first doubts about Communism.

Back in his village, his widowed mother, following the age-old custom of her people, began to look around for a wife for her successful son. She sought a healthy girl who would bear her strong grandchildren, and finally settled on Chia Su-hua, the daughter of a neighboring family.

By Western standards, it was a strange romance. Chao had never set eyes upon his bride when he applied for wedding leave, and the courtship was to last only 17 days. But first he had to secure the Communist Party's consent to his marriage. Party officials were not enthusiastic. They saw nothing in the girl's background that would make Chao Fu a better Communist, and it was with some reluctance that they finally gave their approval.

Chao tingled with excitement as he went to his first blind date with Chia Su-hua. At first blush, she didn't strike him as beautiful. But there was something in her shyness and gentleness that attracted Chao Fu. For the next 17 days, they walked and talked a great deal. Once they hiked 12 miles to the movies in Shuang-Yang, the nearest town.

Then they were married. By the standards of old China, it was a bleak wedding: no palanquins for bride and bridegroom, no streamers, no gongs, no feast. Conditions in the commune, to which the little village belonged, were too austere for a celebration.

Chao Fu and Chia Su-hua simply appeared before a local Communist official, bowed three times to a photograph of Mao Tse-tung, then fixed their "chops," or seals, to the marriage papers. Afterwards there was a better-than-usual family dinner. Bride and groom had time for a week's honeymoon before Chao had to return to his post on the Siberian border. Three months later Chia Su-hua joined him, and in May 1960 a daughter was born. They named her Mai-hwai (Plum Blossom).

Chao now speaks with hurt in his eyes of the love and happiness they shared. They were cut short in June 1960, when he was summoned to attend the Advanced People's Police Cadre training school in Peking. There were no accommodations at the school for his wife and baby, who returned to their village.

The following October, Chao was assigned as security officer to Red China's embassy in Stockholm. He was granted a 10-day farewell leave with his family, who were forbidden to accompany him. Not even the Security Police are trusted outside of China by the Communist authorities unless their families remain behind as hostages.

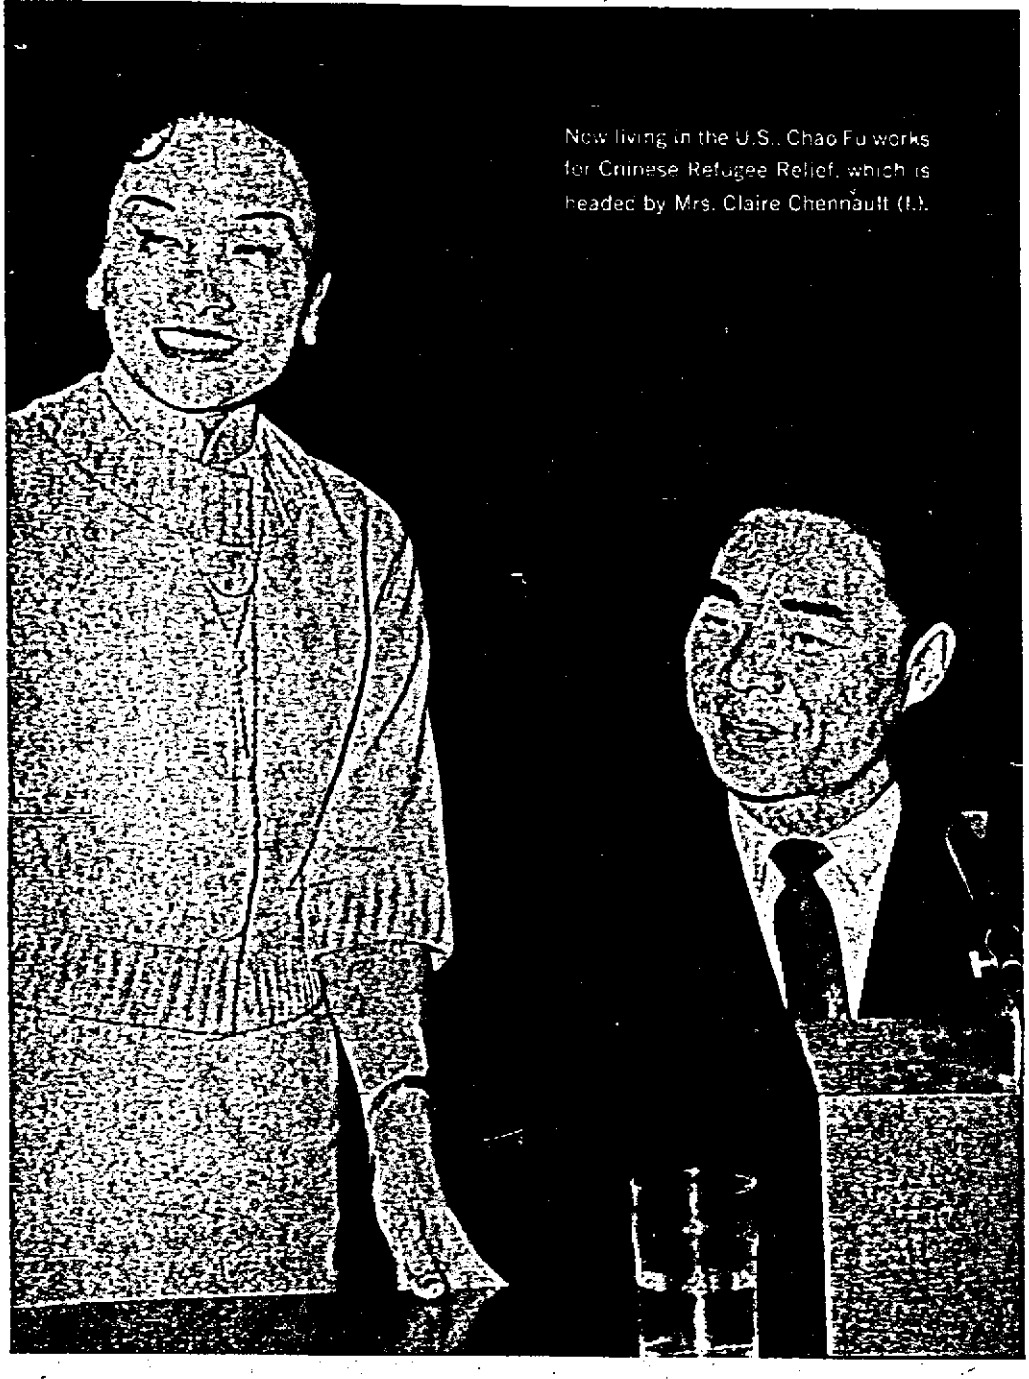

Chao Fu caught a rickety bus to Shuang-Yang; his wife, carrying the baby, trudged the 12 miles from the village to meet him. "The sight of them," Chao recalls, "caused my heart to burn." They did not kiss or embrace—in China, it is bad form to display emotion. But as they walked home through the mountains, Chao broke the rules by insisting on carrying his daughter. In China, women haul the burdens.

A Chance to Compare

For the next eight days the young couple enjoyed a second honeymoon. They knew they would be parted for three years, but their sadness was mixed with a sense of adventure. Chao was going to see the great outside world and contrast the achievements of Communism with the decadence of capitalism. The days passed in a dream of excitement. Gentle Chia Su-hua was unable to conceal her pride in her husband.

When they trudged the 12 miles back to the bus station, Chao Fu once again carried his little daughter. His wife's parting gift was a package of handkerchiefs, especially treasured in China because they are used close to the face. Through the bus window Chao watched his wife approach and lift the child to the window. It was a gesture he understood, a gesture which said: "We belong to you; come back to us." He could see the tears welling in his wife's eyes; indeed, he had to fight back his own tears. They turned away from each other, and the bus rumbled down the dusty road. Neither of them knew it, but the journey to heartbreak had begun.

Chao Fu had not been in Sweden long before he began to doubt. He had been told to expect gangsterism and poverty, infinitely worse than the hardships at home. But what he was able to observe belied the education of a lifetime. "I could see the Western workers enjoyed luxuries beyond the rosiest Communist promises," he reports. "They also had something

Now living in the U.S., Chao Fu works for Chinese Refugee Relief, which is headed by Mrs. Claire Chennault (r.).

I began to realize was more important: Freedom."

The reality of what he saw sent his thoughts reeling. He would lie awake at night comparing life in Sweden to life in China. "We were not free to speak, to travel, to change jobs—not even to have our own thoughts," he declares. "Suddenly I was struck with the realization that Communist leaders suppressed all freedom because they didn't trust the Chinese people."

The idea of defecting began to flicker like a flame in his mind. At first he refused to admit the thought was there. Then he began to grapple with it, to weigh the terrible cost, all the while not daring to speak a word that would betray the turmoil in his soul.

As officer in charge of internal security, he kept watch on all employees except the ambassador and a few senior officers. Except for them, no one could leave the embassy without signing in and out, reporting where they were going and when they would be back. They could only go out in pairs. They were forbidden to associate with the Swedish except in the line of duty, forbidden to attend plays and movies.

Mail from home came once a month, carefully censored, in a diplomatic pouch. Chia Su-hua wrote mostly about the growing up of their little daughter, how one of her first words was "Papa," which means the same in Chinese as it does in English. The letters hinted of hardships and hunger at home. Other employees received outright appeals for food. The embassy chef, Hsiung Chang-shui, received a letter from his wife in Nanchang, telling of the hunger of his five children. "Poor Hsiung burst into tears in front of us all," recalls Chao. "But there was nothing we could do for him."

Such incidents added to the dissatisfaction that was wrenching his soul. "I found my anger rising against the falsehoods of Communism," he says. "But I knew the dangers to myself and my family. I wanted freedom, but I kept wavering."

A sudden development made him realize that he must act at once or forever forfeit the chance to escape. The ambassador announced that because of the tense international situation, a new "convoy system" would be put into effect. Employees would have to stay in groups, and surveillance would be tightened. Even Chao would lose his privilege of solitude.

The night of decision came last August 29. It was Chao's last chance to slip out of the embassy, and he planned his moves carefully. He would wait until everyone was asleep, seize one of the embassy cars, then drive as far and as fast as he could.

The car pool had Swedish, German and American cars; he decided an American model would be the most dependable. Unobserved, he sneaked into the storage room where the car keys were kept and stole the keys to a black Chrysler.

That night in the room he shared with another comrade Chao Fu tried to appear casual. He slipped his savings, a pitifully small amount, into his pants pocket. Then he carefully arranged his clothes on a chair. He crept into bed and lay rigid and tense until long after his roommate had dozed off.

Shortly after 3 A.M., he decided it was time to go. He put on his pants and shirt, struggled into a coat, grabbed a tie and thrust it into a pocket. Then, in stocking feet, shoes in hand, he stole down the stairs and into the garage. "I felt as if eyes were watching me from the dark," he recalls. "I imagined that the night noises were people following me."

As he slipped behind the wheel of the black Chrysler, his heart thumped with panic. What if it didn't start? But he turned the key; the motor purred smoothly. Chao Fu drove off into the night. It was not until he had put several miles between him and Red tyranny that he realized he had left behind one of his most treasured possessions: a picture of his wife and child.

On Foot and by Rail

Out in the country Chao abandoned the Chrysler and walked miles through the woods. Then he took to the railways, traveling here and there, sleeping in waiting rooms. He was afraid to ask for asylum in Sweden or Denmark in case the authorities handed him over to the Chinese Communist embassies in those countries.

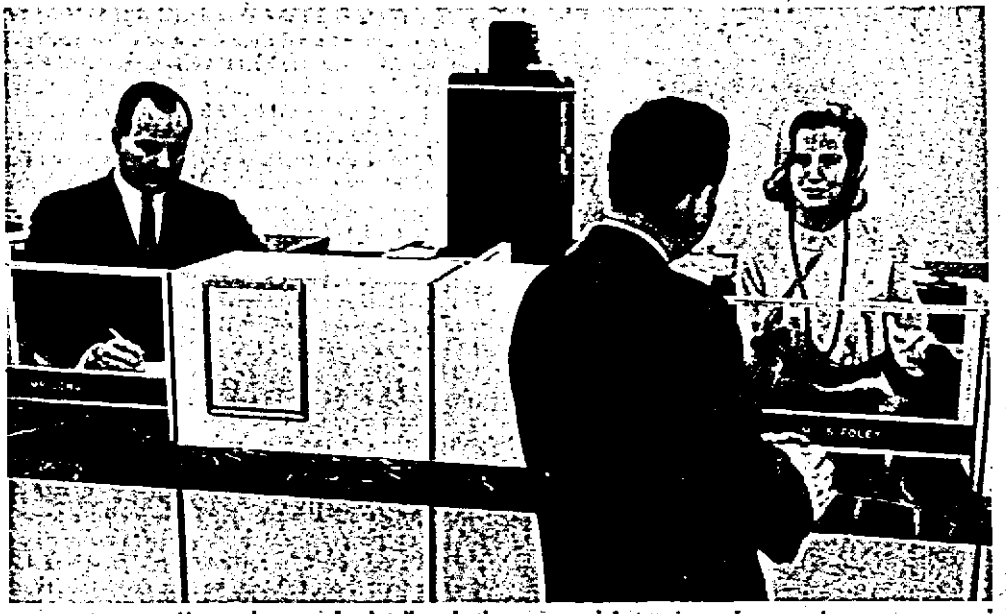

Says Chao Fu: "Not until I reached West Germany did I feel safe. I got to Frankfurt and headed straight for the American Consulate." Flown to the United States, he now lives here incognito. He is an editorial consultant to a newsletter published by Chinese Refugee Relief, reporting what is going on behind the Bamboo Curtain. (A year's subscription is given to all who donate $10 or more to Chinese Refugee Relief, care of the Postmaster, Washington 13, D.C.)

"I haven't made up my mind about the future, but I want to do something meaningful and don't want to be a soldier or a spy again," says Chao.

He had last heard from his wife in July. She wrote that little Mai-hwai had just learned to walk. The letter ended with a tender line reminding him that "it will be only one year before we will be together again." He knew this would never come true, and the thought so agonized him that he didn't trust himself to write a good-by letter. He feared he would betray his feelings or tip off his plan to defect. Instead, he sent her all the money he had saved, except the few bills he needed to get out of the country.

Chao doesn't dare write to his wife now. "It would only bring her harm," he says. "Yet I hope to find some way to get a message to her. I would like to urge her to forget me, to consider me dead, to remarry. Of course, it would be wonderful to get her out of China, but this is as impossible as it is impossible for me to go back. But some day, when China is free, I will go back and find my daughter.

"What I did was not easy," he adds. "Many might say the price I paid was appalling. Yet I would do it again." For the air of freedom is a heady wine, especially for one who had never tasted it.

Man and woman bank tellers do the same work but their pay is unequal.

OPEN TO DISCUSSION

Why are women paid less?

by LLOYD SHEARER

FOR YEARS THE LEGEND has persisted that women run America.

Countless statistics have been offered to prove that they buy most of the goods, own most of the stock, inherit most of the wealth, dominate most of the husbands, control most of the vote.

That's the propaganda line, anyway.

The truth is that economically, politically and legally the American woman is far from emancipated.

True, she has the vote, but in many of the most important fields she is subject to strong discrimination. This is particularly true in the area of employment.

Since the early 1830s for example, the little woman has been trying to secure federal legislation assuring her the same pay as men for equal work. To date, she's been unable to get it.

Last year, even with the solid support of the Kennedy administration, women failed to get an "equal-pay" bill through Congress. The House passed one version of such a bill and bucked it along to the Senate Labor Committee, but there it stayed in limbo until Congress adjourned.

That bill would have prohibited an employer from discriminating on the basis of sex in paying wages to men and women who perform equal work.

Although equal-pay laws are in effect in 22 states, employers discriminate against women in almost every business, industry and profession you can think of.

In Dallas a male bank teller gets $91 a week, a female bank teller is paid $63. In Chicago a male clerk-typist gets $60 a week, a female clerk-typist $55. In Kansas City a male hotel clerk is paid 40 cents an hour more than his female counterpart. In Buffalo a male physical therapist gets $91 per week. For the same work, his female counterpart gets $81.50. In St. Paul a male X-ray technician is paid $71 per week, a female $66.

In a recent survey of more than 1,900 employers, the National Office Management Association reported the following question and answers:

"Do you have a double standard pay scale for male and female office workers?"

YES	33 per cent
NO	66 per cent
NO ANSWER	1 per cent

Not only do banks, insurance companies and large mercantile houses discriminate against the woman employee, she is also discriminated against in the professions. According to the Bureau of the Census, the average earnings of men professional workers in 1960 was $6,848; for women professional workers it was $4,384.

Among women the most popular profession is teaching. In October 1961 there were 1,258,000 women and 533,000 men teachers in elementary and secondary schools. Yet a National Education Association study of salary schedules showed higher rates for men than for women in 16 out of 761 reporting school districts.

Why are many employers reluctant to pay women the same wages as men?

A mail questionnaire survey conducted by two university professors, Lola Dawkins of Arizona State University and E. Lanham of the University of Texas, indicates that the factor of permanency is involved. Several personnel executives contend that women aren't worth as much as men in the same job because they don't stay on as long. They leave because of marriage, pregnancy or other personal reasons. Replacements then have to be brought in and trained at new expense.

Other employers believe women are marginal workers who labor for pin or luxury money and just don't take their work as seriously as men. This allegation raises to boiling point the blood pressure of Mrs. Esther Peterson, director of the Women's Bureau of the Department of Labor.

"I sure get irritated," Mrs. Peterson declares, "when I hear such nonsense as that women are marginal workers, or too emotional, or working for pin money. There are 4,600,000 women working in this country who are the sole support of their families. There are another 7,500,000 married women working because their husbands earn less than $3,000 a year. These women aren't working for pin money. They're working because they have to."

At the moment there are more than 24,000,000 women in the U.S. work force, one-third of the total. The largest occupational group, comprising 6,400,000, do clerical work. Those who are in the professions are concentrated in the following six fields: teaching, social work, nursing, music, library work and accounting. In most professions they play second fiddle to men.

Closed-door Policy

American women are bothered not only by unequal pay for equal work but by the wholesale denial of opportunity in such varied fields as religion, banking, insurance, architecture, hotel management and many others.

The majority of churches decline to place any woman in the pulpit. A woman hotel manager is a rarity. Four out of every five hospital employees are women, yet how many hospitals boast a woman superintendent? There are no top echelon female executives in the automotive field, and what insurance company has a top-rung female officer?

American women also play a disproportionate role in politics. They may control 52 per cent of the national vote, but there are only 2 distaff members in the Senate and 17 in the House of Representatives.

The girls are the first to admit that John F. Kennedy is "one of the best-looking Presidents we have ever had." They are happy that he established a commission on the status of women to make a study of discrimination. "But how come," one asks, "he's the first President since Herbert Hoover not to have a woman in his cabinet?"

The women are also quick to point out that while the U.S. Constitution does not discriminate against them in legal rights, several of the individual states do. In Alabama, Mississippi and South Carolina, women may not serve on juries. Other states declare that no married woman can start a business without the written consent of her husband. There are further inequities which combine to transform today's "emancipated" woman into a second-class citizen.

It is against these inequities that modern woman is currently rebelling. To her the oft-repeated allegation that American women rule the roost is so much hogwash. She is convinced that a double standard exists for salary, legal rights and job opportunities and she's determined to legislate it out of existence.

At the next session of Congress, an "equal pay for women" bill may pass and become the law of the land.

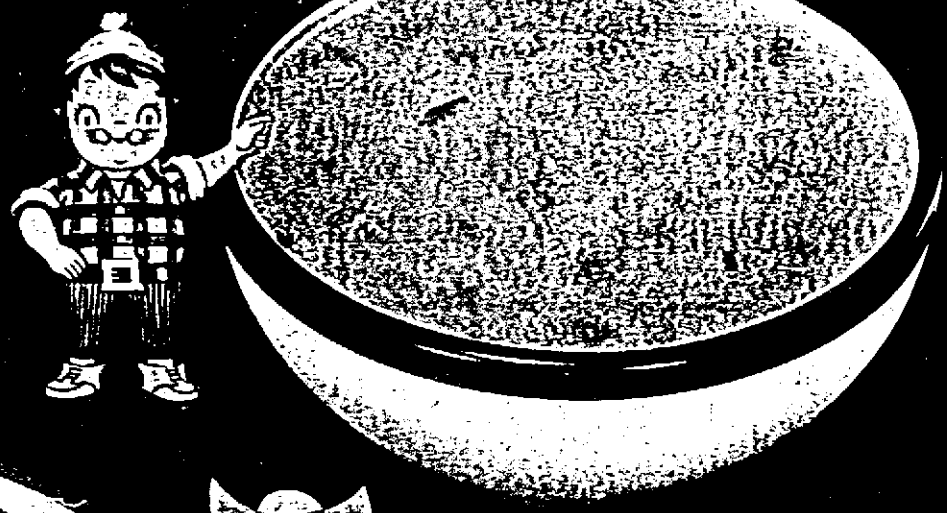

It may well be that 43 years after the 19th Amendment gave them the right to vote, American women will stride forward on the road to true emancipation.

MEDICAL MIRACLE— A PAPER BAG

BY DR. HERBERT L. HERSCHENSOHN

A HOUSEWIFE who had been taking medicines for a heart condition for seven years was rushed to a hospital because of severe chest pain. She was given an ordinary small paper bag and told to hold it tightly around her nose and mouth and to breathe into it, rebreathing her own breath over and over again. Within a few minutes the chest pain was gone.

A bride of just three weeks was giving an outdoor barbecue party for some of her friends. She observed her husband having an animated conversation with one of the girls. Jealous and infuriated, she ran into the house. A few minutes later her mother called to the husband to get a doctor quickly. His wife was having a heart attack.

One of the girls at the party was a nurse. She took an empty potato-chip bag and held it over her friend's nose and mouth. In only 30 seconds the chest pain was completely relieved.

Too Much Oxygen

These and similar cases were reported at an Annual Assembly of the Interstate Postgraduate Medical Association at Cleveland. Although none of them resembled each other exactly, they have one thing in common—a condition known as hyperventilation.

This is what happens. For some reason, usually emotional tension or excitement, a person breathes too fast. Normally a person inhales oxygen and exhales carbon dioxide. But when he breathes too rapidly he gets rid of carbon dioxide faster than he can absorb oxygen. Consequently, the red blood cells retain the oxygen. To make matters worse, the blood supply to the brain is reduced up to 50 per cent.

Fainting Helps

The person becomes lightheaded. Fainting is nature's way of curing the attack, since an unconscious person breathes at a slower rate. Also the prone position permits more blood to reach the brain.

However, if a person does not faint or lie down, lack of oxygen in the brain, together with certain chemical changes in the blood, can cause symptoms so bizarre and frightening that even a physician may, at first glance, think the person is having a heart attack, a stroke, a seizure or a gallbladder attack. [NOTE: A person with these symptoms should, in any case, immediately consult his doctor.]

As a rule the symptoms are not extreme. There is difficulty in concentrating, shortness of breath, tingling of the fingers and toes, a peculiar feeling around the mouth and profuse perspiration—all effects of hyperventilation on the nervous system.

When the nervous system becomes affected, so does the muscular system which it controls. The muscles twitch or become cramped. If this happens at the same time that a person faints, the symptoms can be mistaken for those of an epileptic seizure. Also, twitching can cause pain in the muscles around the joints of the body and lead one to believe he is suffering from arthritis or rheumatism.

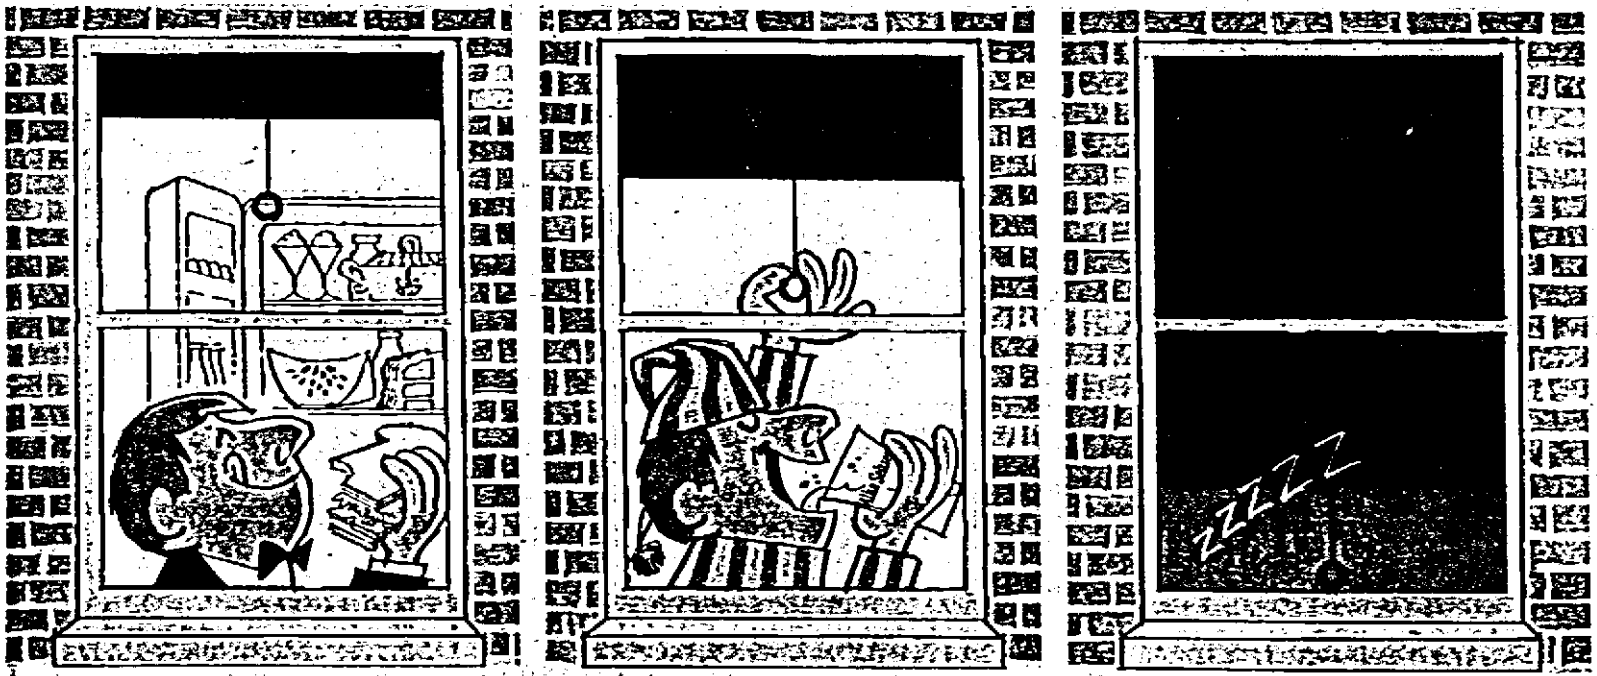

Or, in the case of the diaphragm, twitching of this muscle and of the short, tight muscles between the ribs can result in a severe pain which in every way mimics a heart attack.

What happens when a person who really does have heart trouble also becomes hyperventilated? Anyone with coronary trouble wonders when the next heart attack will occur. He is nervous, which makes him a particularly good candidate for an attack of hyperventilation. Eventually something happens to upset him. He starts breathing too fast. After a while he gets exactly what he fears most—severe chest pain.

While waiting for medical attention he should breathe in and out of a paper bag. Symptoms due to hyperventilation will be quickly relieved, although pain due to heart trouble will persist.

A young receptionist in a broker's office had what she thought was chronic asthma. She had a habit of yawning and sighing, sometimes breathing hard in an effort to catch her breath. One day a doctor, a client of the firm, was sitting in the waiting room observing her. He suggested she hold her breath as long as possible. He also told her to try to stop yawning and sighing.

With this unorthodox treatment, her so-called asthma disappeared. She used a paper bag, recommended by the doctor, when she could do so in private.

According to a Mayo Clinic report, hyperventilation occurs in 5 to 10 per cent of patients seen by doctors in general practice, especially among young women. Chronic hyperventilators are usually irritable, restless, emotional and worrisome. They try to hide their feelings by pretending to be calm. Their fatigue is out of proportion to the amount of work they perform. They are often "exhausted."

Because they are tense and nervous they hyperventilate. The hyperventilation in turn makes them more nervous. A cycle is set in motion which sometimes spins out of control until a person has a "nervous breakdown" or thinks he is losing his mind.

An attack of hyperventilation always comes on after an emotional disturbance, not during it. Similarly, athletes do not become hyperventilated while they are performing. Attacks occur only after the physical and emotional strain is over.

Underwater Breath

Swimmers should be especially careful to avoid hyperventilation. At Avalon, Santa Catalina Island, Calif., a young man on a boat boasted he could stay under water longer than anyone else. Before diving into the ocean he did prolonged breathing exercises. He was right. He stayed under water for a long time—too long. He had hyperventilated himself, and while under water he lost consciousness and instinctively took a deep breath. Fortunately, he was rescued.

Space pilots are no exception. It is possible to determine if an astronaut in his capsule is breathing normally or excessively. While he is in flight those on land who are monitoring his flight may hear his reassuring voice say, "I feel fine. Everything under control." However, the doctors know at that moment his heart is pounding furiously and his breathing is so fast that any moment he may have an attack of hyperventilation.

Anyone who drives an automobile may have the same trouble as an astronaut. A college girl was driving when a little boy ran into the path of her car. Fortunately it was a near-miss, and the child was not hurt. The girl continued driving even though she felt a bit giddy. As she approached the next major intersection she thought she stepped on the brake pedal in time to stop at the red signal, but half-way across the intersection she was struck broadside by another car.

She was driving only 35 miles per hour, but hyperventilation delayed her reaction time one-fifth of a second. It made her travel an extra 10 feet, bringing her into the center of the intersection.

After any exciting experience while driving it is a good idea to stop until completely composed. If a lunchroom is close by, one should go in for a relaxing cup of coffee until the jitters are gone.

One of the cruelest impersonations hyperventilation can perform is to mimic alcoholic intoxication perfectly.

Staggering to Work

In a missile factory in California a young woman who had just reported to work attracted the attention of others in her office by staggering down the aisle to her desk and greeting co-workers boisterously. The supervisor escorted the woman to the medical department, because she was obviously drunk.

Between gasps the woman told the doctor that she was delayed in traffic on the way to work, that she had been late twice the previous week and was afraid this time she would be fired. When she got to her assigned stall in the parking lot someone else had parked there. It had taken her an additional 10 minutes to find a space.

As she ran the two blocks to the factory entrance her anger mounted. While hastening to her desk she felt giddy. She knew she was talking to the other girls in a loud, incoherent way, but she couldn't control herself. Her heart pounded and she was literally dripping with perspiration.

The doctor suspected hyperventilation. He gave the young lady a mixture of oxygen with 5 per cent carbon dioxide to inhale. In seconds she was her usual calm self and able to return to work.

As might be expected, a person subject to repeated attacks of hyperventilation can quickly hyperventilate himself at will. He is conditioned to do so just as a person who is repeatedly hypnotized becomes more readily responsive to the suggestions of the hypnotist.

Such a person needs psychotherapy to learn how to control his emotions and avoid these involuntary spells of rapid breathing. In other words he has to learn a sense of values so he does not become overly upset about circumstances of no real importance.

Table tennis is only one of many activities available to teenage members of the Cape Coral key club, opened as a new way to combat juvenile delinquency.

Bill Joe Humphreys gets back his club key from adult manager William Thew. Loss of key is a member's penalty for misbehavior, inside the club and out.

key club for kids

by OPAL GINN

CAPE CORAL, FLA.

THE KEY CLUB has always been regarded as the exclusive playground of wealthy businessmen and big expense-account spenders. But this go-ahead little Florida township has given the idea new meaning. It is pioneering the nation's first key club for teenagers, which may open up a whole new front in the campaign against juvenile delinquency.

When Cape Coral's sunny peace was marred by the first shadows of delinquency, a search was started for ways to combat it. A number of incidents had dramatized the need to give the township's 500 youngsters some place to let off steam. A group of boys had commandeered a bulldozer, crashed it through a house under construction and caused thousands of dollars' worth of damage. Street lights were being shot out; drag racing was keeping people awake into the early morning hours.

But Cape Coral wanted more than just another youth center that might end up invaded and taken over by out-of-town hoodlums. It wanted a club that could be reserved for its own young people, a club which would teach them through pride of membership the elements of civic responsibility.

So, early last November, the Cape Coral key club opened its doors by closing them to all but key-carrying members between the ages of 8 and 19. With the exception of a full-time supervisor and local officials, no adults are permitted except as guests. Club hours: after school until 9 P.M. weekdays, all day until 11:30 P.M. Saturdays and Sundays, closed on Mondays.

The club is managed by an eight-member board of directors, four of them youngsters elected by their fellow key holders. The penalty for breaking club rules is withdrawal of the offender's key for a period depending on the seriousness of the offense. While suspended he cannot visit the club even as a guest.

So Far So Good

So far, few of the club's nearly 300 members have had their keys lifted for misbehavior, although recently the club was closed for a week because of vandalism. As yet the offenders have not been caught.

PARADE was present when Bobby Weinmeister, 13, first member to lose his key, was given it back after a 2-week suspension. He had been caught throwing decorative rocks from the club's driveway into the river. Bobby admitted he should have had some punishment, but: "Two weeks. It was awful. I learned not to do that stuff again."

Bill Joe Humphreys, another youngster who lost his key for two weeks for rock throwing, explained: "I don't think my punishment was too rough. I really appreciate the club, and I'm going to try hard not to lose my key again."

The club got off to a flying start through the generosity of the Gulf American Land Corporation, which donated the land, a $73,000 modernistic, glass and concrete building and equipment costing more than $8,000. Less fortunate communities may have to build more modest quarters.

Outside view of modernistic $73,000 clubhouse.

The Cape Coral club provides a variety of activities: archery, badminton, baseball, basketball, billiards, cards, checkers, chess, croquet, dancing, football, golf, gun club, horseshoes, juke box, ping-pong, pram racing (a pram is a small sailboat for beginners), scuba diving, shuffleboard, swimming, water skiing —and, of course, telephones (a must for teenagers).

There are no membership fees, but profits from the snack bar and soda fountain help meet the cost of maintenance. Without exception club members are proud of their keys and the privileges that go with them. They are incensed by the recent vandalism and would like the rules to be tougher, administered completely by a court of teenagers, who, they believe, would be more strict than adults.

Typical is Wanda Bauman, 16, who has been a member since the club started. Says Wanda: "Before the club, the kids just used to hang around. There was little to do. Now we have our own place, and we mean to do our best to see there is no more vandalism."

The club's teenage officers—Dick Helgeson, president; John Holmes, vice-president; Sandy Ellison, secretary; Cathy Rasso, treasurer—all want to see the club rules more strictly enforced. Says Ellison: "We had nothing like this in Detroit, where I came from. But we've got to be much tougher with offenders. I believe we should make our laws really work."

And how do the parents feel about the key club for kids?

They are as enthusiastic as the members, but have some criticisms—centering principally around supervision. Says Mrs. Ann R. Smith, mother of four: "The club is fabulous. But the time hasn't come when children can take care of themselves without supervision. I believe there should be a man and woman on the premises the entire time."

A mother of five, a business woman in Cape Coral, is concerned about the age spread. Says she: "The club keeps the children off the streets and out of cars at night. But I think the age span is too great. I wouldn't want my 13-year-old daughter to dance with a lot of 19-year-old boys."

Jack Pockrass, a clinical psychologist, father of two daughters, takes a somewhat different view.

He states: "I am all for the club, both as a parent and as a psychologist. Anything that will give a young person interest and a sense of responsibility is valuable. As for the dances, in some places a girl must have a date to go to a dance. My wife and I don't approve of our daughters dating at their age. Without the club, the girls would have to stay home from dances."

William Thew, adult manager of the club, admits: "This is an experiment, and we may do a lot of things wrong in the beginning." But he insists that most of the members have shown a sense of responsibility.

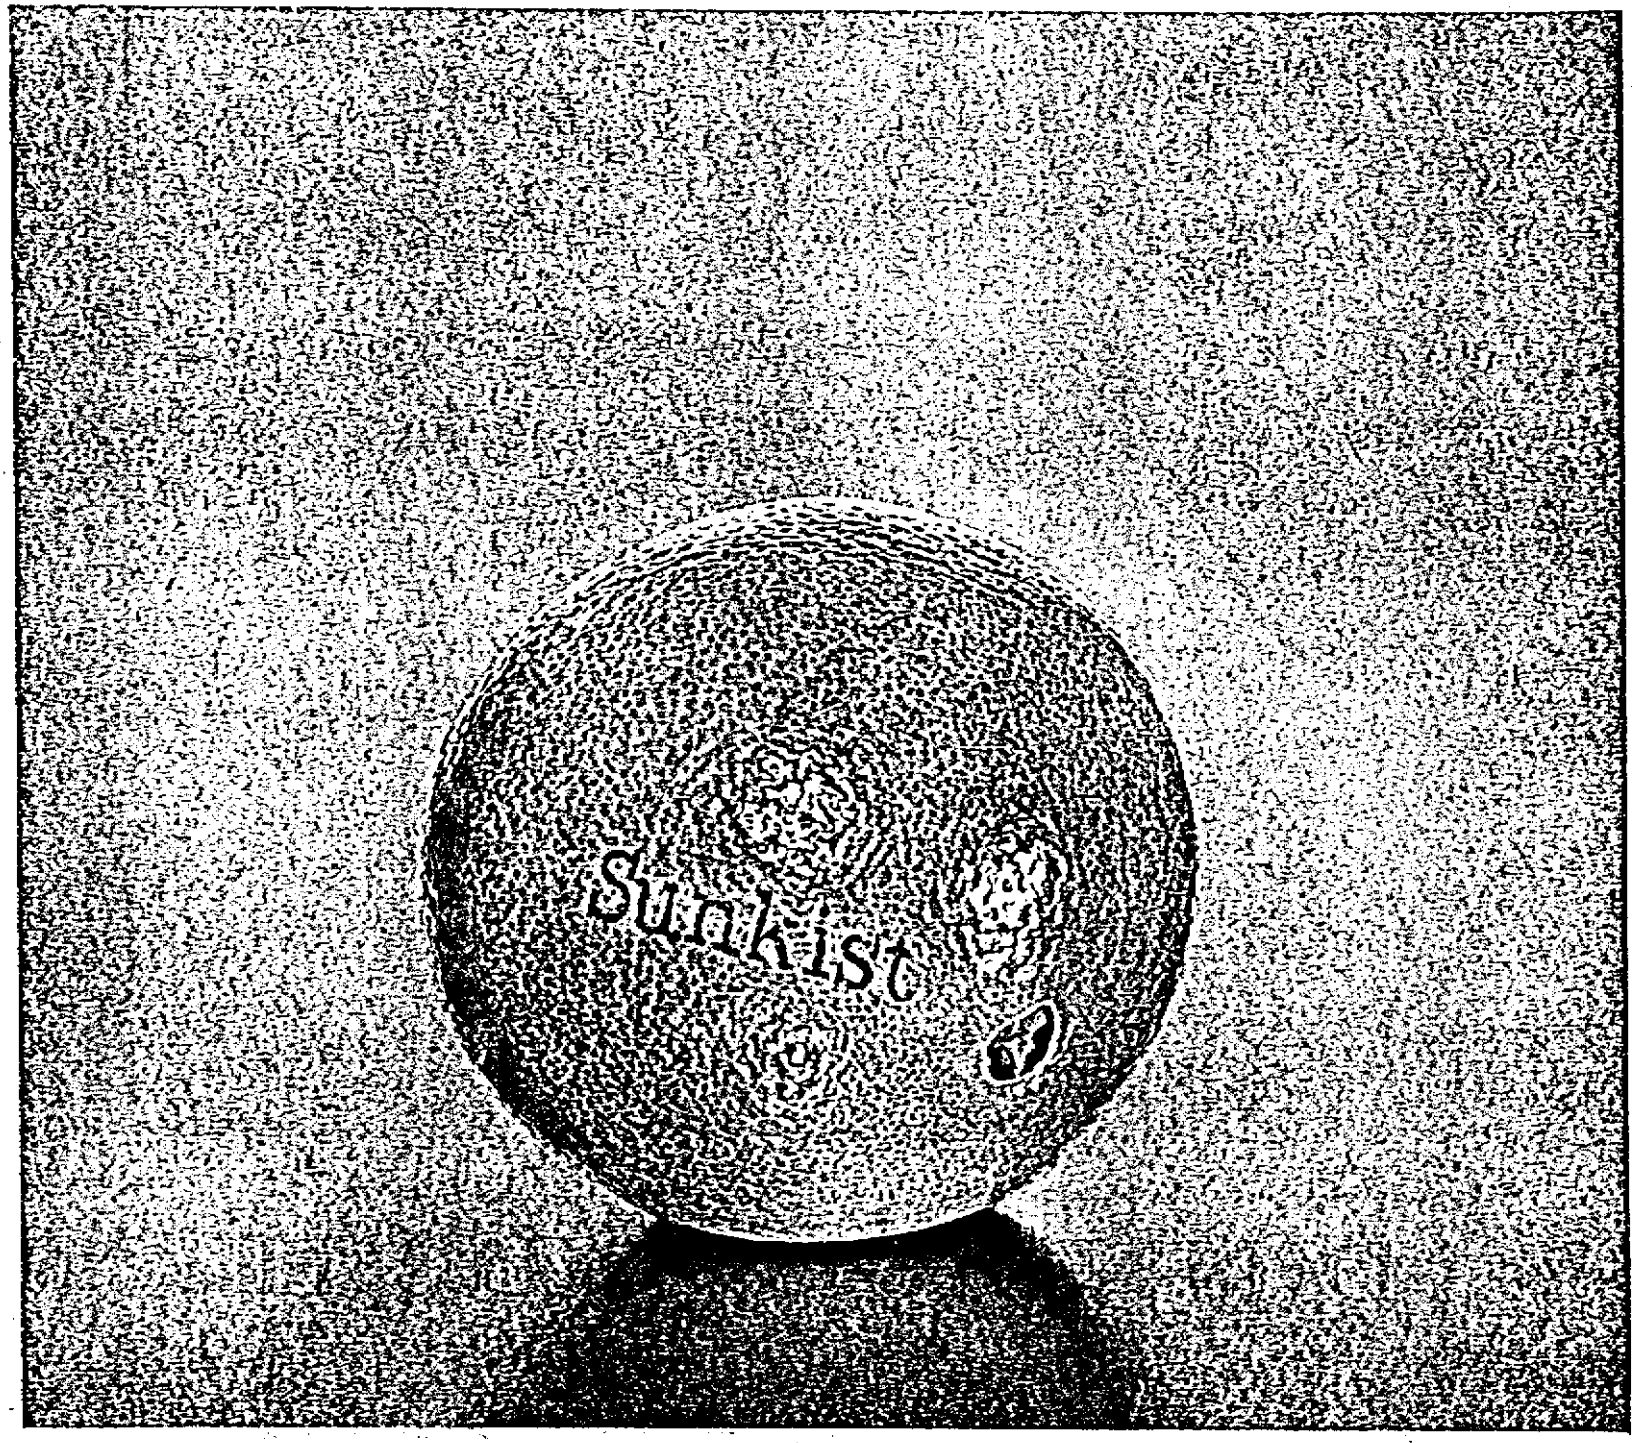

He points out that bad behavior outside the club can also cost a member his key. He says: "Young people don't like to tell tales on each other, and I don't encourage them to do so. But I have been glad to discover that members have been taking offenders aside and urging them to stick to the rules."

Since the kids' key club opened, there has been little or no delinquency in Cape Coral, a consequence other communities might study with interest.

A KEY CLUB FOR YOUR TOWN

Would you like to start a kid's key club in your community? Here are some pointers:

- ► You don't need much money—just a clubroom, simple equipment, space for dancing, a set of rules and numbered keys.
- ► Parents can take turns doing supervisory duty. Children might be encouraged to pay nominal dues from their own pocket money to give them a greater sense of membership.
- ► Rules should be simple but firmly enforced —by the members themselves.
- ► To overcome the age span problem there might be junior and senior memberships, with later club hours for seniors.

Hollywood's happiest married couple

by ARNO JOHANSON

HOLLYWOOD, CALIF.

LECTURERS WHO TOUR the country verbalizing on Hollywood are always asked this question: "Are there any really happily married movie couples in Hollywood?"

A few years ago one female columnist on the lecture circuit—she gushes like a severed artery—used to say, "Of course, of course, dozens of them," and then she would quickly rattle off: "Debbie Reynolds and Eddie Fisher, Janet Leigh and Tony Curtis, Natalie Wood and Robert Wagner, Marlon Brando and Anna Kashfi."

Since all these marriages have gone south, she now, when confronted with this same question, says quickly, "Well, there's Shirley Jones and Jack Cassidy. They're terribly happy." And then she rattles on explaining how difficult it is for a young movie couple to achieve a successful marriage in the film colony.

"Difficult" is not the right word. It's almost impossible.

When a husband and wife are both in films, a career rivalry develops, wittingly or unwittingly. If the wife is more successful than the husband—which is what happened in the Natalie Wood-Robert Wagner entente—the masculine ego is bruised. The husband resents the fact that he is not the family breadwinner. He presses and becomes grumpy. Should his streak of bad luck continue, and he eventually become known as "Natalie Wood's husband," or so-and-so's husband, his outrage develops into a formidable divorce cause.

Living the Part

In addition to career rivalry, young movie couples are beset by temptation. Casting throws them into the company of exciting, handsome, frequently irresistible players. Sometimes there's a carry-over. The love scene doesn't end when the director calls, "Cut." The late Gary Cooper, a man of strong will power, could rarely shake a movie love scene. He made films with Lupe Velez, Clara Bow, Ingrid Bergman and Pat Neal, and fell in love with all four of them. Tony Curtis, filming Taras Bulba in the Argentine, succumbed to his leading lady, Christine Kaufmann, eventually divorced his wife. Examples of this are endless.

Hollywood is also jammed with stooges who thrive on dividing husband and wife. They come to each carrying false tales, currying favor, wrecking one home after another.

Despite this deleterious environment, the marriage of Shirley Jones and Jack Cassidy is currently referred to by movieland defenders as "the most blissful, happy young marriage in Hollywood."

Shirley Jones at 27 is a small-town (Smithton, Pa.—pop. 900), sweet-as-sugar blonde who was brought out to Hollywood a few years ago to star in Oklahoma.

She proved so talented and photogenic in that one that she was signed for two others, Carousel and April Love. "Then I got my big break," she recalls. "Burt Lancaster was casting Elmer Gantry. He was looking for someone to play a prostitute who didn't look like a prostitute. He chose me. It was my first chance to go dramatic—that's why actresses love to play wicked women; the role usually has some dimension, some depth; you're a woman with a past, with a knowledge of men. I won an Academy Award for my work in Elmer Gantry, and honestly, everything's turned up roses for me. I've been working steadily ever since and you couldn't find a happier, more fulfilled woman anywhere in the world.

'Love Won Out'

"I have a simply marvelous husband, Jack Cassidy. He's a singer and actor. He's a sensible and mature man, seven years older than I am. We toured in Oklahoma together, and for a while he was reluctant to marry a girl in show business—you know, two careers in the same family and all of that. But love won out, and we've been married since 1956. We have two delightful boys, Shaun who's 4 and Patrick who's 1, and all we need now is a little girl.

"Marriages may be breaking up all around us," Shirley continues, "but not ours, even though I guess it's subject to all the pressures and dangers of most Hollywood marriages.

"It's true that I'm better known in the business than Jack, that I make more money than he does—but as I've said before, he's a mature man. He realizes the nature of the business. One day I'm on top. Maybe in a few years I'll have faded, and he'll be on top. The thing is not to let it make any difference, to pool all our assets, to look on everything as a joint venture, never to let jealousy give birth.

"The only thing that bugs Jack is if he's not working. He can't stand inactivity or hanging around the house doing nothing but waiting. He's got to work, got to contribute. So long as he does that, everything is fine. No actor likes not to work. But Jack doesn't have any complexes about being called "Mr. Shirley Jones" or anything like that.

"I think the secret of a successful marriage, here or any place, lies in marrying a mature man. When I was working on Broadway—I made my debut in the chorus of South Pacific as one of Ensign Nellie Forbush's fellow nurses—I used to date a lot of fellows, mostly businessmen. After all, my father's a businessman. He owns the brewery in Smithton. And frankly, many of them were dull and immature and so unimaginative. They couldn't understand what I was doing in show business. Some of them could understand it as 'a lark' but not really a career you want to give your life to.'

Exceptions to the rule, Shirley Jones and husband Jack Cassidy.

"It wasn't until I met Jack that I found someone who understood me and the problems and inequities of the business. He didn't object to my working. He was anxious for my happiness and realized that my personal achievement was part of it. You can't take a girl like me who's been singing since she was a child, who's been in show business since she was a teenager, who has the business coursing in her blood—you can't take a girl like that and use marriage as a substitute. Businessmen don't understand that. They'll marry a girl providing she gives up her career. But Jack, no matter what his success, would never make that demand.

"He's a man who loves me and, loving me, is prepared to share me with my career, our children, our homelife. It sounds awfully stuffy, and I know we've only been married 6½ years, but I honestly think that on all scores we've got it made." ■

For the cocktail hour, at the Maria Isabel Hotel, Mexico City, Carol Hoffman wears a tonic dress of ribbed white cotton. By Hannah Troy, $80. Her hat by Henri de Chatillon. Her escort, Manuel Patiño.

BEACH SIRENS are springing a surprise this resort season—they're going under cover. The rush to cover has nothing to do with modesty—it's the new style. At all popular winter resorts girls will hide their curves in shifts, snappy beach dresses, belted jackets of terry or sports shirts. Don't be dismayed, men, there's plenty of pulchritude in the cover-ups.

The attractive new fashion will also be seen at play in cabanas or clubs. The new long-skirt-for-evening dress has its counterpart on the beach—they are the fabulously full beach pajamas (see cover).

There's something too for the girl who likes her midriff bare. It's a suit with a top which barely covers the floating ribs and shorts which begin just below the waist. In the cover-up camp there's a one-piece swim suit with a "sweater" top, generally in two-color effect.

In these days of rapid air travel, the lady vacationer may stop off in a major city before proceeding to her resort. Our model here hopped off the plane in Mexico City in a costume that permits sightseeing or shopping. For luncheon or cocktails she whips off the jacket to uncover a pretty dress. A sleeveless dress does the trick for evenings.

How To Use Water To END YOUR CONSTIPATION WORRIES

Here's how to get to the basic root of your constipation problem. Bring enough moisture to your lower colon every day. As soon as food wastes are normally moistened, you will enjoy daily elimination.

So do this to end your constipation worries. Take SERUTAN, the all vegetable laxative aid, every day with plenty of water. SERUTAN is a pure vegetable gel which carries twenty times its weight in water to your lower digestive tract where it is needed to promote more normal regularity.

SERUTAN provides the proper moisture, bulk and peristaltic action to help keep you regular. This is utterly different from forcing your system with chemical laxatives. SERUTAN contains no harsh roughage, no oils or salts which may be irritating to your system.

Get SERUTAN at your drugstore today. Use it faithfully as directed for at least one week. You must enjoy daily regularity or your money back from the maker.

DO YOU TAKE VITAMINS AND STILL FEEL TIRED?

If you take vitamins yet still feel tired—you may need more than vitamins to restore your normal strength and energy. Your worn-out feeling may be due to iron-poor, Tired Blood.

Vitamins alone can't build up iron-poor blood. But GERITOL can! Because GERITOL contains 7 important vitamins and, in addition, supplies the therapeutic amount of iron needed to build iron-rich red blood. Just 2 GERITOL tablets, or 2 tablespoons of GERITOL liquid, contain twice the iron in a pound of calves' liver! In only one day, GERITOL-iron is working in your bloodstream, carrying strength and energy to every part of your body!

Proved By Medical Tests: Patients diagnosed with iron-deficiency anemia, frequently were pale, nervous, irritable and easily tired. After patients took GERITOL daily, doctors reported definite clinical improvement.

So when you feel tired, check with your doctor, and if this is your problem, take fast-acting GERITOL every day. You must feel a noticeable difference in the first seven days ... or money back from the maker.

WALKIE-TALKIE KIT

PARADE OF PROGRESS

Here are new ideas for your home and family — by PETER DRYDEN

Walkie-talkie from a kit: Here's a 2-way transistorized radio (above) you can put together from a kit in a few hours. Powered by a miniature 9-volt battery, it provides on-the-move communication at ranges up to ¼ mile (more over open country or water), has many applications—from calling Junior home to across-the-street talks with neighbors, and use in boating, fishing, on the golf course. 5½" x 2⅞" x 1¾". $9.95. Allied Radio, Dept. PP, 100 N. Western, Chicago 80, Ill.

Cake container: Here's a new one designed to keep cakes fresh longer—and conveniently portable as well. It has a cover that locks tightly onto the base plate—sealing in moisture and aroma—when you give it a 1½" clockwise twist. The 14" diameter plate comes in copper or beige; the 7½" high white cover has a plate-matching handle. $3.49. Republic Molding Corp., Dept. PP, 6467 N. Avondale Ave., Chicago, Ill.

Folding house: Now comes a factory prebuilt house that is easily transported anywhere you wish. The 720-sq.-ft., 3-bedroom unit measures only 10' x 40' when transported on wheels—and unfolds to 18' x 40' size in just a few hours while being set in place on site. For complete details: Palace Corp., Dept. PP, Williamston, Mich.

Slip-proofer: Spray a new liquid on your car's fan belt—or on the belts of mowers, washing machines, vacuum sweepers, many other appliances—and it stops slipping, reduces friction heat and avoids waste of power. You can also use it to give added "grip" to tool handles, golf clubs, canvas and rubber gloves, etc. $1.13. Wisconsin Laboratories, Dept. PP, Donsman, Wis.

my favorite jokes

EDITOR'S NOTE: Woody Woodbury of Plantation, Fla., is a Marine pilot turned comic. Originally from St. Paul, where he attended grade and high schools, Woody in his 20s was a jet fighter pilot in Korea with 106 missions to his credit. After the war Woodbury turned to show business in Jacksonville, Fla., then signed for a two-week engagement at the Clover Club in Miami, where he remained three years. Last September, Woody succeeded Johnny Carson as permanent host of the TV program: Who Do You Trust? Woodbury has a wife and two youngsters.

by WOODY WOODBURY

I was trying to get a hotel room in Miami Beach over a very busy weekend. I overheard the hotel clerk telling the man in line just ahead of me that there were no rooms available.

"If the President came in," the man persisted, "you'd have a room for him, wouldn't you?"

"Of course," replied the clerk indignantly. "Then let me have his room," came the retort. "He's not coming."

A recent guest on Who Do You Trust? told me that during her 40 years working in a clock factory, she had wound 80 million watches.

"The work never became monotonous?" I asked.

"No," she said thoughtfully, "I was always meeting new faces."

It was a magical, moonlit night and they were very much in love. And after many tender words were exchanged, she asked: "Will you love me when I'm old and gray?"

"Love you?" he asked, and then in rapturous, dulcet tones went on: "I shall always worship the very ground under your dainty feet—I shall always and forever adore you—I shall never cease wanting to gaze upon your lovely face—I shall—say, you aren't going to look like your mother, are you?"

My neighbor's little boy was watching quietly while the repairman was trying to fix our television set. It was a long session which seemed to be getting no results. Finally the youngster volunteered: "I bet it would work if you'd clean out all those dead cowboys in the bottom!"

Have you ever noticed that lots of lovers kiss with their eyes closed? Sometimes, unfortunately, they marry the same way.

One wife I know said irritably to her husband: "You don't love me any more now that my hair is gray."

"Don't be silly," he replied. "I loved you when it was every other color!"

But I guess the honeymoon is really over when there are more bills than coos.

A wealthy industrialist was taken to the hospital. Because of a room shortage, they had to put him temporarily in a private room in the maternity ward. Being in some pain, he asked the nurse if he could have a drug that might induce sleep.

"No," said the nurse, "that drug is only for labor."

"What!" he exclaimed angrily. "Don't you have anything for management?"

I understand that it's become a lot tougher to recruit showgirls for Las Vegas this year. They've run out of Crosbys.

Talk about an exciting weekend. Yesterday my wife and I were standing in front of a wishing well—and she suddenly fell in. I didn't realize those things worked!

Jack Benny

ANECDOTE of the WEEK

HERKIE STILES, the comedian, was lunching with Edgar Bergen at a Hollywood restaurant when fellow comedian Jack Benny sauntered in. Benny sat down at the table, had lunch with his two friends, then asked for the check. On the way out, Herkie said to Benny, "For years now I've heard you're a tightwad. How come, Jack, you picked up the check?" Said Benny, "All I can tell you is that this is the last time I'll ever have lunch with a ventriloquist."

PARADE'S SPECIAL INTELLIGENCE REPORT

CLERGYMEN WANTED. The Labor Department forecasts an increasing shortage of clergymen to administer to the nation's spiritual needs. The present force: 215,000 Protestant ministers, 53,000 Catholic priests, 4,300 Jewish rabbis. Yet many rural congregations have no full-time ministers; some large congregations can't find assistant pastors. Theological seminaries simply aren't graduating enough clergymen to meet the need.

BETTER SCHOOLS. Are children learning more in school today than a generation ago? The answer, according to a federal survey, is an emphatic Yes.

INSURED COLLECTORS. The British Civil Service Clerical Association has taken out a special insurance policy for those of its members employed as tax collectors. These men are now insured against physical attack by angry citizens.

BEGGARS CAN BE CHOOSERS. Carefully organized by syndicate operators, Italy's beggars are now being driven to their posts and paid a regular weekly wage. In Padua, for example, "Big Bruno," top organizer, has 15 cars in which he transports his beggars from one location to another. The beggars are paid a fixed wage of $10 a day, pretend on duty to be blind or crippled or both. Three years ago Rome police discovered a "beggars' preparatory school" conducted by a slick Neapolitan operator, Pasquale Pugliese. He recruited apprentices from impoverished Sicily, trained them in Rome for a month, then assigned them to strategic tourist spots. When police closed in on Pugliese, he was clearing $1,200 a day.

TV TAXIS. Taxis in Tokyo come equipped with TV sets these days. Passengers seem to like them, and cab drivers say they help kill spare time while waiting for fares. Several TV set distributors are trying to talk American taxi chains into trying the miniature TVs.

When anyone in your family has a cold or flu...

DOCTORS SAY:

1. Keep him in bed
2. Have him drink plenty of fluids
3. Give him aspirin to reduce fever and relieve pain

Bayer Aspirin (regular 5-grain tablets) and new Orange Flavored Bayer Aspirin for Children (in the 1¼-grain dosage doctors recommend) bring the fastest and the gentlest relief you can get from the aches, pains and fever of a cold or the flu.

Nothing you see advertised is more effective. Ask your doctor.
